Council Hears Protest On Parking Arrests By Police Here

Merchants Make Protest Against Parking Crusade

De Lace Cole Speaks At Council For Merchants Division Of Chamber Of Commerce

MAYOR SAYS COUNCIL IS NOT CONCERNED

Police Crusade Is Aired At Meeting Of Council This Morning

Having been delegated by the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce to confer with council relative to the parking angle of the police crusade against erring autoists, De Lace Cole was told by Mayor Chas. B. Mayne, during council session that council has nothing to do with the campaign whereupon Mr. Cole replied: "Pardon me for coming in here. We should have gone to you".

Cole addressed councilmen stating that members of the Merchants Division had discussed the campaign yesterday and he had been appointed to carry their views to the city council.

He declared one merchant had complained of losing a $100.00 sale, which went to Youngstown, because a woman from the rural district had been arrested and fined here.

This woman, according to Cole, told of her arrest to a neighbor who intended to make a $100.00 purchase in a New Castle store. Cole said the informant declared the latter woman satisfied her needs by buying in Youngstown.

Warning Suggested

Mr. Cole interred that a timely warning, rather than an arrest, to out-of-town persons would suffice. He said he realized that perhaps a patrolman had exercised too much zealousness.

He added that, as the representative of the body who delegated him to confer with council that, he be-

Mine Rescuers Fail To Locate Entombed Men

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Mystery today tinged the dramatic battle to reach two miners entombed 1,600 feet underground last Monday when rescuers, after digging away 350 tons of coal, found the mine cars at which the victims were working when the slide occurred, but no trace of the men.

The victims were Carl Gerlach, 37, and John Phillips, 25.

They were trapped in a new gangway recently driven in the Marcy vein of the Troy Coal Company at West Wyoming last Monday, and rescue workers have been battling in relays to reach them since.

Finding of the mine cars and the shovels indicated the missing men made some attempt to run to safety when the slide occurred, according to rescue workers.

Whether they were trapped further back in the gangway by the fall, or managed to reach safety beyond could not be determined.

Mob Seizes Negro Youth Charged With Assault And Murder Of White Girl

(International News Service)

BREWTON, Ala., Oct. 26.—A mob shouting for his life early today stormed the jail here, dragged Claude Neal, 20-year-old negro, charged with assaulting and murdering a white girl from the protection of his cell, and carried him away.

"We're going to take him back to Jackson county and string him up," the mob leader shouted.

The mob, heavily armed and transported in 15 automobiles, broke into the jail where Neal had been brought for safe-keeping at 2 a. m.

They boldly announced they were from Jackson county where Lola Canady, white farm girl, was attacked and slain as she fed the hogs on her father's farm.

Lisbon Prison Well Guarded

Armed Deputies And Police Officers Surround Columbiana County Jail

EXPECT RICHETTI TO BE TAKEN TO MISSOURI

(International News Service)

LISBON, O., Oct. 26.—Columbiana county was virtually an armed camp today as police and deputies stood guard against a feared invasion by hoodlum-henchmen of Adam Richetti and the slain Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

Repeating rifles in the hands of ten marksmen covered every approach to the ramshackle prison in which Richetti is incarcerated pending the arirval of Maj. L. M. Means of the Missouri state highway patrol or grand jury action. Richetti is held on a charge of shooting with intent to kill at Chief of Police John H. Fultz of Wellsville.

Reports persisted that machine gun-armed followers of "Pretty Boy" and his pal were still in the county. There was considerable excitement here also when it was revealed at least two federal operatives were still in East Livrpool.

Coroner E. R. Sturgis late yesterday returned the expected verdict in Floyd's death of justifiable homicide.

Missouri Officer Arrives

Lisbon, O., Oct. 26.—Awaiting only completion of extradition arrangements, Adam Richetti, gangster pal of slain Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, was expected to begin a journey to Missouri before nightfall.

Shackled and under heavy guard, the gunman was to be returned to Columbia, Mo., by Major L. M. Means, of the Missouri State Highway Patrol and Sheriff Thomas Leigh, of Columbia, who arrived here today. There Richetti will face murder charges in the death of two Missouri police officers.

To forestall possible liberation attempts by the underworld, absolute secrecy will veil Richetti's departure from the state which proved the last hiding place for "Pretty Boy" and his gun-toting lieutenant.

Waier Says Daughter Victim Of Mistaken Indentity In Abduction

MARY ELSIE WAIER

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—Miss Mary Elsie Waier, 21-year-old co-ed of Wayne University, Detroit, Mich., who told police she was kidnaped in Detroit last Monday and held prisoner for several days, was a victim of mistaken identity, her father, Vincent Waier, declared today after a dramatic meeting with his daughter.

Arriving here by plane this morning, Waier, a Detroit architect, immediately went to police headquarters and was ushered into the matron's room where his daughter has been cared for since last night.

Both embraced and burst into tears.

Miss Waier sat on her father's knee and told him the details of her abduction.

Emerging from the matron's room, Waier made a statement declaring his daughter was a victim of mistaken identity.

School Children Approve Safety Campaign Here

Chief of Police J. F. Haven today announced that children over eight years old in the public schools yesterday cast votes relative to the campaign against speeding and reckless operation of automobiles here. The result shows 6,651 in favor of the police campaign and 1,633 opposed.

The chief plans to have the children in the parochial schools also vote their opinions, he stated today.

Local R.W.D. Program Is Gaining Impetus; Projects Under Way

Gathering impetus as the weeks go by the RWD program in New Castle is beginning to show some results. While it is expected that the present employed personnel will be materially increased in the next few weeks, the work already done stands out and projects are being completed that might ordinarily wait for years to be done.

At the Taggart stadium the addition to the stadium is rising fast. The team room which is the northeast corner extension is up to the windows now and will be ready for roof within a week or ten days. The toilet rooms on the north end are nearly as far along and in a few days the arch over the running track will be put into place. The brick being used on the job come from the old Martin Gantz school and it is surprising how good they look. When the job is entirely completed the walls will be given a bath of liquid concrete to bring them to approximately the same color as the concrete stadium.

Decorating Auditorium

In the Benjamin Franklin junior high auditorium the work of redecorating the walls and ceiling are well under way and part of the ceiling has been finished in a blue and gold paneled effect. The interior of the auditorium is filled with false work to permit the decorators to get around and when it is com-

Pittsburgh Man Killed In Crash

Several Others Recovering From Injuries Suffered In Series Of Accidents

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—One man was dead and a city policeman and physician were recovering from injuries here today as the result of a series of accidents last night during a heavy rain.

W. C. Lang, 50, Mt. Lebanon, was killed when his car plunged through a rail on the Liberty bridge ramp and dropped 25 feet to the ground. Lang lost control of his car as he rounded a curve on the ramp.

Patrolman Raymond Adams, 35, driver of a police emergency car was in Mercy hospital with a possible fractured pelvis. Dr. W. H. Evans, 35, was released after being treated for bruises. Both were injured when the police car and another automobile collided on the Northside.

Complete Work On Harlansburg Road

Road Is Now Open To Traffic Entire Distance Where Improvements Were Made

Work has been completed on the widening and re-surfacing of the Harlansburg road, east of the city, and the road is now open to traffic its entire distance.

The macadam surface of the road has been widened and the berm fixed up, making the road safer for traffic. In spots, the road had been fairly narrow and presented a traffic menace wih the deep ditches on either side.

Motorists can now use the highway in its entirety without the detour, which had been established from the East Brook road.

EXPECT STORK AGAIN

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 26.—Reports that the stork is again hovering over the home of Mrs. Ernest Dionne, mother of the internationally famous quintuplets, were confirmed by authoritative sources today.

Fifth Ingathering Of Food Donations Opens This Morning

Gifts of food supplies began pouring into the Jameson Memorial hospital lobby from all points of the city and county this morning, and if they continue to come this afternoon and Saturday, the success of the fifth annual ingathering sponsored by the Hospital Aide Society is assured.

Donations are being received at both the hospital and Atkinson's store on North Mill street.

When the last sack of potatoes is placed, Saturday night, the last onion is counted, the last glass of jam is displayed in all its glory and the cabbages are stacked, the apples are arrayed, the turnips displayed and the sugar is corded up—then it is believed the sight will make most county fairs hang their heads in humiliation.

Looking down on the practical expression of human interest and appreciation will be the portrait of the late David Jameson—the great benefactor who gave the hospital to the community he served and loved. David Jameson would prize most of all that single glass of jelly brought in by that thoughtful little woman who took the trouble, who really cared to pay her kindly respects to the sick in the Memorial he provided.

PREFERS AUNT

GLORIA VANDERBILT

Appearing in New York supreme court where her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, sought to regain custody of her, 10-year-old Gloria Vanderbilt, above, heiress to $2,800,000, is reported to have said she preferred living with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, to life with her mother. Gloria was brought to court by Mrs. Whitney, who has been caring for the girl at her Long Island estate.

Truck Hits Pole; Driver Injured

Accident Occurs At Stevenson's Bend On New Bedford Road

H. C. Elsasser, Lewistown Heights, Lewistown, Pa., sustained a fracture of his leg at 7 p. m. last night when a truck and trailer, which contained tires, enroute from Akron to an eastern city, skidded and crashed into a telephone pole, which was broken, on the Stevenson bend, New Castle-New Bedford highway.

Elsasser was wedged in the cab and it was necessary to call physicians to administer an anaesthetic before state highway patrolmen could release him from his position. He was hurried in an ambulance to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Sentence To Workhouse Is Given To Roxie

Mrs. Long Is Placed On Probation For Period Of Two Years

LONG HAS FEDERAL SENTENCE TO SERVE

Aides In Local Cases Are Placed On Probation—Other Sentences

Roxie Long and his wife, Virginia Long, whose sensational trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud wholesale merchants occupied a week in the local courts, were sentenced at court this morning by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers.

Judge Hildebrand, before whom the Long cases were heard, passed sentence. Roxie Long was given from 2 to 4 years in the Allegheny county workhouse. His wife was placed on probation for two years. In passing sentence Judge Hildebrand took into consideration the fact that Long was on parole from the Federal court at Pittsburgh, when arrested for conspiracy here, and as a result of his conviction here will have to serve out his sentence of five years in Federal prison, at the expiration of his workhouse sentence.

Comes In Smiling

Long was brought into court by Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor. He wore the same cynical smile that characterized his demeanor during the trial. Attorney Samuel Clark, who was at first employed, and who was later dismissed when Roxie was unable to provide funds, spoke in his behalf. Clark said that after Long had been convicted on one charge, he had induced him to enter pleas on six others, thus saving the time of the court and considerable expense.

He also drew attention to the fact that there was a 5 year Federal

NOTICE

Reports have been heard about the city that there are persons going from house to house in some parts of the city soliciting donations for the Jameson Memorial hospital.

All donations for the hospital are to be left at the places designated in the notices from time to time and should any one call at the homes, the housewife should ask by what authority the solicitation is made, and find out the name of the person soliciting, as this is without sanction of the hospital board or any one in authority.

Legion Concludes Annual Convention

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 26.—The 16th annual convention of the American Legion passed into history today after laying down an important 12-point program, featured by a plea for an immediate $2,200,000,000 cash settlement of the adjusted service (bonus) certificates for 2,500,000 world war veterans.

War On Communists.

The Legion adopted a resolution declaring its political neutrality between the two major parties, but sandwiched this in between the demand for cashing the bonus in opposition to President Roosevelt's wishes and a declaration in support of the administrations' social development program. Then, it declared war on communists, seeking to ban their literature from the mails and their party label from all ballots.

In spite of its neutrality declaration, the Legion appeared heading toward a political war in congress next winter. It instructed its legislative representatives to seek cash settlement of bonus certificates at their present face value, although Democratic legionnaires fought the proposal as inimical to the Roosevelt administration. It injected itself into national politics too by brandishing the Roosevelt administration with being "definitely com-

Fifth Ingathering Of Food Donations Opens This Morning

Gifts of food supplies began pouring into the Jameson Memorial hospital lobby from all points of the city and county this morning, and if they continue to come this afternoon and Saturday, the success of the fifth annual ingathering sponsored by the Hospital Aide Society is assured.

Donations are being received at both the hospital and Atkinson's store on North Mill street.

When the last sack of potatoes is placed, Saturday night, the last onion is counted, the last glass of jam is displayed in all its glory and the cabbages are stacked, the apples are arrayed, the turnips displayed and the sugar is corded up—then it is believed the sight will make most county fairs hang their heads in humiliation.

Looking down on the practical expression of human interest and appreciation will be the portrait of the late David Jameson—the great benefactor who gave the hospital to the community he served and loved. David Jameson would prize most of all that single glass of jelly brought in by that thoughtful little woman who took the trouble, who really cared to pay her kindly respects to the sick in the Memorial he provided.

Accident Occurs At Stevenson's Bend On New Bedford Road

H. C. Elsasser, Lewistown Heights, Lewistown, Pa., sustained a fracture of his leg at 7 p. m. last night when a truck and trailer, which contained tires, enroute from Akron to an eastern city, skidded and crashed into a telephone pole, which was broken, on the Stevenson bend, New Castle-New Bedford highway.

Elsasser was wedged in the cab and it was necessary to call physicians to administer an anaesthetic before state highway patrolmen could release him from his position. He was hurried in an ambulance to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Sentence To Workhouse Is Given To Roxie

Mrs. Long Is Placed On Probation For Period Of Two Years

LONG HAS FEDERAL SENTENCE TO SERVE

Aides In Local Cases Are Placed On Probation—Other Sentences

Roxie Long and his wife, Virginia Long, whose sensational trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud wholesale merchants occupied a week in the local courts, were sentenced at court this morning by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers.

Judge Hildebrand, before whom the Long cases were heard, passed sentence. Roxie Long was given from 2 to 4 years in the Allegheny county workhouse. His wife was placed on probation for two years. In passing sentence Judge Hildebrand took into consideration the fact that Long was on parole from the Federal court at Pittsburgh, when arrested for conspiracy here, and as a result of his conviction here will have to serve out his sentence of five years in Federal prison, at the expiration of his workhouse sentence.

Comes In Smiling

Long was brought into court by Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor. He wore the same cynical smile that characterized his demeanor during the trial. Attorney Samuel Clark, who was at first employed, and who was later dismissed when Roxie was unable to provide funds, spoke in his behalf. Clark said that after Long had been convicted on one charge, he had induced him to enter pleas on six others, thus saving the time of the court and considerable expense.

He also drew attention to the fact that there was a 5 year Federal

Legion Concludes Annual Convention

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 26.—The 16th annual convention of the American Legion passed into history today after laying down an important 12-point program, featured by a plea for an immediate $2,200,000,000 cash settlement of the adjusted service (bonus) certificates for 2,500,000 world war veterans.

War On Communists.

The Legion adopted a resolution declaring its political neutrality between the two major parties, but sandwiched this in between the demand for cashing the bonus in opposition to President Roosevelt's wishes and a declaration in support of the administrations' social development program. Then, it declared war on communists, seeking to ban their literature from the mails and their party label from all ballots.

In spite of its neutrality declaration, the Legion appeared heading toward a political war in congress next winter. It instructed its legislative representatives to seek cash settlement of bonus certificates at their present face value, although Democratic legionnaires fought the proposal as inimical to the Roosevelt administration. It injected itself into national politics too by brandishing the Roosevelt administration with being "definitely com-

Council Hears Protest On Parking Arrests By Police Here

Merchants Make Protest Against Parking Crusade

MAYOR SAYS COUNCIL IS NOT CONCERNED

Police Crusade Is Aired At Meeting Of Council This Morning

Having been delegated by the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce to confer with council relative to the parking angle of the police crusade against erring autoists, De Lace Cole was told by Mayor Chas. B. Mayne, during council session that council has nothing to do with the campaign whereupon Mr. Cole replied: "Pardon me for coming in here. We should have gone to you".

Cole addressed councilmen stating that members of the Merchants Division had discussed the campaign yesterday and he had been appointed to carry their views to the city council.

He declared one merchant had complained of losing a $100.00 sale, which went to Youngstown, because a woman from the rural district had been arrested and fined here.

This woman, according to Cole, told of her arrest to a neighbor who intended to make a $100.00 purchase in a New Castle store. Cole said the informant declared the latter woman satisfied her needs by buying in Youngstown.

Warning Suggested

Mr. Cole inferred that a timely warning, rather than an arrest, to out-of-town persons would suffice. He said he realized that perhaps a patrolman had exercised too much zealousness.

He added that, as the representative of the body who delegated him to confer with council that, he be-

Mine Rescuers Fail To Locate Entombed Men

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Mystery today tinged the dramatic battle to reach two miners entombed 1,600 feet underground last Monday when rescuers, after digging away 350 tons of coal, found the mine cars at which the victims were working when the slide occurred, but no trace of the men.

The victims were Carl Gerlach, 37, and John Phillips, 25.

They were trapped in a new gangway recently driven in the Marcy vein of the Troy Coal Company at West Wyoming last Monday, and rescue workers have been battling in relays to reach them since.

Finding of the mine cars and the shovels indicated the missing men made some attempt to run to safety when the slide occurred, according to rescue workers.

Whether they were trapped further back in the gangway by the fall, or managed to reach safety beyond could not be determined.

Mob Seizes Negro Youth Charged With Assault And Murder Of White Girl

(International News Service)

BREWTON, Ala., Oct. 26.—A mob shouting for his life early today stormed the jail here, dragged Claude Neal, 20-year-old negro, charged with assaulting and murdering a white girl from the protection of his cell, and carried him away.

"We're going to take him back to Jackson county and string him up," the mob leader shouted.

The mob, heavily armed and transported in 15 automobiles, broke into the jail where Neal had been brought for safe-keeping at 2 a. m.

They boldly announced they were from Jackson county where Lola Canady, white farm girl, was attacked and slain as she fed the hogs on her father's farm.

Lisbon Prison Well Guarded

Armed Deputies And Police Officers Surround Columbiana County Jail

EXPECT RICHETTI TO BE TAKEN TO MISSOURI

(International News Service)

LISBON, O., Oct. 26.—Columbiana county was virtually an armed camp today as police and deputies stood guard against a feared invasion by hoodlum-henchmen of Adam Richetti and the slain Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

Repeating rifles in the hands of ten marksmen covered every approach to the ramshackle prison in which Richetti is incarcerated pending the arirval of Maj. L. M. Means of the Missouri state highway patrol or grand jury action. Richetti is held on a charge of shooting with intent to kill at Chief of Police John H. Fultz of Wellsville.

Reports persisted that machine gun-armed followers of "Pretty Boy" and his pal were still in the county. There was considerable excitement here also when it was revealed at least two federal operatives were still in East Livrpool.

Coroner E. R. Sturgis late yesterday returned the expected verdict in Floyd's death of justifiable homicide.

Missouri Officer Arrives

Lisbon, O., Oct. 26.—Awaiting only completion of extradition arrangements, Adam Richetti, gangster pal of slain Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, was expected to begin a journey to Missouri before nightfall.

Shackled and under heavy guard, the gunman was to be returned to Columbia, Mo., by Major L. M. Means, of the Missouri State Highway Patrol and Sheriff Thomas Leigh, of Columbia, who arrived here today. There Richetti will face murder charges in the death of two Missouri police officers.

To forestall possible liberation attempts by the underworld, absolute secrecy will veil Richetti's departure from the state which proved the last hiding place for "Pretty Boy" and his gun-toting lieutenant.

Waier Says Daughter Victim Of Mistaken Indentity In Abduction

MARY ELSIE WAIER

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.—Miss Mary Elsie Waier, 21-year-old co-ed of Wayne University, Detroit, Mich., who told police she was kidnaped in Detroit last Monday and held prisoner for several days, was a victim of mistaken identity, her father, Vincent Waier, declared today after a dramatic meeting with his daughter.

Arriving here by plane this morning, Waier, a Detroit architect, immediately went to police headquarters and was ushered into the matron's room where his daughter has been cared for since last night.

Both embraced and burst into tears.

Emerging from the matron's room, Waier made a statement declaring his daughter was a victim of mistaken identity.

Chief of Police John J. McCarthy, of St. Louis, agreed with Waier.

Gathering impetus as the weeks go by the RWD program in New Castle is beginning to show some results. While it is expected that the present employed personnel will be materially increased in the next few weeks, the work already done stands out and projects are being completed that might ordinarily wait for years to be done.

At the Taggart stadium the addition to the stadium is rising fast. The team room which is the northeast corner extension is up to the windows now and will be ready for roof within a week or ten days. Pittsburgh Man Killed In Crash

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—One man was dead and a city policeman and physician were recovering from injuries here today as the result of a series of accidents last night during a heavy rain.

W. C. Lang, 50, Mt. Lebanon, was killed when his car plunged through a rail on the Liberty bridge ramp and dropped 25 feet to the ground. Lang lost control of his car as he rounded a curve on the ramp.

Patrolman Raymond Adams, 35, driver of a police emergency car was in Mercy hospital with a possible fractured pelvis. Dr. W. H. Evans, 35, was released after being treated for bruises. Both were injured when the police car and another automobile collided on the Northside.

Complete Work On Harlansburg Road

Road Is Now Open To Traffic Entire Distance Where Improvements Were Made

Work has been completed on the widening and re-surfacing of the Harlansburg road, east of the city, and the road is now open to traffic its entire distance.

The macadam surface of the road has been widened and the berm fixed up, making the road safer for traffic. In spots, the road had been fairly narrow and presented a traffic menace, wih the deep ditches on either side.

Motorists can now use the highway in its entirety without the detour, which had been established from the East Brook road.

Walter Mika, Convicted Of Shooting Philadelphia Officer Tries Suicide

SECOND ATTEMPT TO END OWN LIFE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—To guard the life which Walter Mika, condemned cop-killer, is scheduled to forfeit to the commonwealth extreme measures were being taken today following a suicide attempt by the prisoner.

Mika, the 24 year old "tough guy" who fainted at the opening session of the trial which culminated in a jury condemning him to the electric chair, attempted to hang himself in his cell at Moyamensing prison early yesterday morning, it was revealed today.

Attempt Frustrated

Standing on a table in his cell, Mika fastened a towel to the top cell bars, wound it tightly about his neck and stepped off into space. Vigilance of a guard frustrated the attempted suicide. He was unconscious when cut down but was soon revived by the prison physician.

The suicide was Mike's second unsuccessful effort to cheat the law of its penalty—death. On the eve of his trial, he jumped the wall of Moyamensing prison and gained 15 hours of liberty. His escape was the first from "Old Moko" in 12 years.

Since his recapture Mika has been tried and found guilty of participating with four other hoodlums in the cold-blooded slaughter of policeman William C. Wilson, who was killed in defense of a motion picture theatre's night's receipts on September 3.

One of his accomplices, Willie Talarico, 21, head of the mob has also been condemned to die in the electric chair for the same crime.

Ancient Tree Found Under Volcanic Mud

(International News Service)

CRATER LAKE, NATIONAL PARK, Ore.—A tree possibly 10,000 years old and still containing some of its natural wood, has been found along the Union Cree-Diamond lake highway not far from here.

The carbonized logs found in this district up until now have all been in a flat position. This log was upright, buried under 60 feet of volcanic overburden. A small portion visible from the highway led to the discovery. An investigation by Warren D. Smith, range-naturalist and University of Oregon doctor of geology, leads to belief that the tree was buried by explosive material from old Mount Mazama, the ancestral mountain of Crater lake.

Approve Social Betterment.

After clashing with the administration on the bonus issue, the Legion turned around and literally endorsed President Roosevelt's social betterment program. It ordered an immediate inquiry into the benefits of an old age pension law, unemployment insurance and a law to reduce working hours without decreasing wages. Mr. Roosevelt probably will recommend this legislation to the next congress, as he favored a 30-hour week in the last congress.

The Legion also was on record as demanding enactment by congress of a universal draft law, which would conscript capital, industry, labor and manpower in time of war.

Then, it reiterated its frequently expressed opposition to the world court and to any reduction or revision of foreign debt settlements. Indeed, it came close to withdrawing from the Fidac, the international war veterans' organization, when a woman delegate denounced "international entangling alliances." Only the astute maneuvering of the presiding officer and a plea from the Legion chaplain blocked the withdrawal, as the veterans were violently opposed to showing any more favors to Europe.

Demand Preference Over Aliens.

Three widely differing items completed the major program. These were demands for preference of Americans over aliens on federal jobs and in HOLC loans, a denunciation of mercy pleas for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious draft dodger, and a plea to congress to set aside Armistice Day as a national holiday.

This was the program given Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., of San Francisco, the new national commander. He was pledged the united support of the Legion in carrying it to a successful conclusion in the coming year.

Sinclair Refuses To Quit Race For Governor's Post

Suggestion Made By Progressive - Commonwealth Candidate In California

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—California's red hot gubernatorial race will continue as a colorful three-way political battle, it appeared today.

Upton Sinclair, epic standard bearer and Democratic nominee today declared the suggestion of Raymond L. Haight, progressive-commonwealth candidate, that he retire in the latter's favor.

Day Of Denials

Following a day of denials, Sinclair and Haight admitted a fusion of forces against Gov. Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee, had been discussed at a secret meeting in Sacramento.

Sinclair in Berkeley insisted the meeting was at the request of Haight. At first he declared the purpose of the meeting was to enable Haight to apprise him of a "Republican coup".

"This statement is to confirm Mr. Sinclair's recollection of our conversation," said the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate.

"Mr. Sinclair and I met in the Sacramento Valley yesterday. He frankly, full and voluntarily discussed with me the difficulties of winning the election and the advantages which the Progressive cause would secure through the withdrawal. Naturally his withdrawal and his obligations toward the Progressive movement are a matter of his own conscience."

Amplifies Statement

Thus prodded, Sinclair amplified an earlier statement, in which he had characterized the report he was thinking of withdrawing as "one more campaign tale, without any basis whatever," by announcing Haight had asked him to withdraw, but he was declining.

Haight and Sinclair were agreed, Sinclair said, that Governor Meriam ought to withdraw.

"I may be out of order in coming here but I was instructed to come before council. In this particular case . . . " said Cole. He was interrupted by the mayor who inquired as to the reason for the woman's arrest.

"She did not say" Cole replied.

"There has not been a farmer fined for exceeding the parking limit for two years. I have taken wonderful care of them. No one has been arrested for speeding who did not exceed the limit 100 percent" he declared then charged:

Fined In Youngstown

"An East Side boy, employed at Warren, Ohio, came to me with a receipt for $58.00, which he paid for speeding in Youngstown. He also produced a copy of a Youngstown newspaper which said three others had been fined amounts ranging from $5.00 to $8.00.

"They were residents of Youngstown. The police judge told the East Side boy he was fining him $50.00, because he was from New Castle," the mayor declared the boy told him.

The mayor added that, practically all of the persons arrested here by police "are our own people" then declared in reply to the assertion that New Castle merchants would lose business through the campaign charged "that's politics. I know who is circulating the story. It is circulated against me."

"If the committee believes it to be a pleasure for me to listen to people who have been arrested plead poverty, let them fill the job. Not one person is going to get off. All are going to pay or no one will pay" he said heatedly.

"No one wants anything like that" said Cole.

"We will take down the signs and traffic lights if you want it" the mayor remarked.

"I did not come here to quarrel with you" Cole informed the mayor.

"I'm quarreling with you" replied the mayor.

"I believe that statement you made about fining everybody, a little 'hard-boiled' "remarked Safety Director Davies." "Isn't it possible that a policeman may make a mistake?"

"Emergencies are different" replied the mayor, stating that he had taken care of doctors and other persons who had to used speed or violated other angles of the laws pertaining to automobiles.

"Bring a list of those farmers to me" said Mayor Mayne to Cole, apparently referring to any arrested and whom the merchants believed would trade elsewhere.

"Pardon me for coming in here. We should have gone to you" said Cole as he left the council room where the discussion occurred.

pleted the auditorium will be the prettiest of its kind in the city.

Taylor street from Pearson on down across Mill street is torn up just now, with dirt piled high on either side of the ditch. The storm sewer is being laid and the street looks like a trench area in France during the World War. This sewer has been needed for years and will soon be an actuality.

At the George Washington junior high school RWD workers are extending and developing the athletic grounds. A rise in the ground is being leveled and the earth used to fill a depression. When it is finished the athletic field will be much larger and the cinder track will be put down without infringing on the football field.

In Cunningham Park the workers are engaged in building athletic fields for use in the coming summers. Later on the roads will receive attention, but at the present time they are grading and filling baseball diamonds, tennis courts and football fields. When this project is completed there will be a series of athletic fields in service that will accomodate various teams at one time.

The Locust street ravine sewer job was started a little ahead of the others, but the results show some speedy work. The ditch which will be riprapped later, is now dug from the Wilmington avenue fill down below Canyon street, with another ditch leading into the main ditch from the north.

Much of this sewer was completed under the old CWA plan, but the present project will finish it from Wilmington avenue to the Shenango river. When it is finished it will drain the entire area, prevent flooded cellars and yards in the spring and give the residents of this district a water course that has been needed for more years than the oldest resident can remember.

The stone for the riprapping comes from the Ray street quarry and in a week or so the workers will begin the work of laying the riprap. This job is one that is saving the city thousands of dollars and at the same time providing the citizens with a worth while project.

sentence hanging over Long for breaking his parole, and no matter what the sentence of the court here might be he would have to serve the additional five years. "We know his record," said Clark, "but is not to be sentenced on his record, but only on the crime committed in this county."

District Attorney Mont L. Alley, presented the position of the commonwealth, saying that the court was thoroughly familiar with the case.

Obeyed Husband

As to Mrs. Long, Clark contended that she was under the domination of her husband in assisting him in carrying out his plans. "In fact" said he "she has been under the domination of her husband for years. In view of this fact, I think that leniency should be extended to her."

In passing sentence Judge Hildebrand said that he was taking into consideration the fact that Long had entered pleas in the other cases against him, also that he had the Federal charge hanging over him and would have to serve 5 years on it when he got out.

With regard to Mrs. Long the court was satisfied that she was under the domination of her husband, but nevertheless helped him in carrying out his plans. He placed her on probation for two years upon the condition that she pay the costs in one case.

Roxie smiled and thanked the court when sentence was passed. He also expressed appreciation of the leniency shown to his wife.

Tried Own Cases

Roxie Long acted as his own attorney at the trial of the cases. The charges were brought by wholesale merchants, who had sold him goods ostensibly to open a store in Mahoningtown. Worthless checks were given in payment for the goods.

In connection with his scheme to open a store and defraud wholesalers, Roxie had employed four young men, Anthony Adisey, 17; Jake Exler, 29; Louis Cardone, 20, and Abraham J. Coury, 22.

They were also charged with conspiracy, but when they found that they were in wrong, they showed a willingness to help the commonwealth. Attorney Orville Brown, who represented them, called attention to the fact that they had waived hearings and later had entered pleas. They appeared here before the grand jury in the Long case and also testified against Long in the trial.

"Master Mind"

"Roxie Long was the master mind behind the whole conspiracy," declared Brown. "He led these young men into it. They were out of a job and when he offered them employment they took it." He asked for leniency for them.

Judge Hildebrand said that he was satisfied that Roxie was the "master mind," but at the same time he felt that the young men could not helped have known that something was wrong when they went to work for Roxie, whose reputation was known in Pittsburgh. Taking into consideration their willingness to plead and help the commonwealth, Judge Hildebrand said that he had decided to place them on probation for two years, upon condition that each of them pay the costs in one case. They were given six months in which to pay half the costs and six months more in which to pay the remainder. If they do not comply with this order they will be brought in and sentenced. It was also impressed upon them that if they get into any trouble during the two years they can be sentenced on this charge.

Other Sentences

Among others sentenced were the following: Samuel DeFelice, driving while under the influence of liquor, $100 fine and costs and two months to the county jail. DeFelice ran into some children on Pearson street and some of them were so badly injured that they were sent to the hospital.

Mike Shuluga, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Mike Padunvac, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Henry Ludovicco, assault and battery, $10 fine and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Dale Patterson and John Kapcewich, larceny of some brass wire, paroled for two years.

Oscar Temenski, breaking and entering the Huston Hardware store on Long avenue, paroled for three years. Temenski claimed that he had been drinking and did not know what he was doing.

William McDaniel, paternity charge, sentenced to pay $1.50 a week until the child is 6 years old, and $4 per week thereafter until the child is 14 years old.

Needed At Home

Joseph Moslyk, possessing unlawful liquor, sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and paroled for one year. Moslyk said that he has nine children and is needed at home.

Eugene Welsh, 21, and Gladys Connor, 24, breaking and entering, were placed on probation for three years, the former to pay two-thirds of the costs and the latter one-third. They lived in the upper story of a house at 711 Court street, Floyd A. Hamill living in the lower story. Mrs. Connor said that Welsh had placed a step-ladder at a window and helped her into the Hamill house, where she got some articles of jewelry and clothing which were later returned. Welsh claimed that he had a job to go to and Mrs. Connor said she had two children needing her attention.

Mike Vanoski, an old man who claimed that he had been annoyed by children when he pulled a pocket knife and cut one of them slightly, was sentenced to thirty days to jail.

Samuel Metz, unlawful possession of liquor, was fined $300 and costs and six months to jail.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Susie Williams

Mrs. Susie Williams, aged 48 years of Birmingham, Alabama, died at noon Thursday after an illness which became acute when she came here from Birmingham six weeks ago to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Sara Cummings. Her death came at her late mother's home, 219 East Clayton street.

She leaves her husband, H. B. Williams; two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Rosser and Miss Lucy Williams both of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. Sara Williams, of New Castle and Mrs. Frances Bean, of Birmingham; three brothers, W. J. Cummings, Eugene Cummings, of New Castle and Cornelius Cummings, of Birmingham and five grandchildren.

She was a member of the Christian Love Church of Birmingham. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West, aged 57, widow of Edward West, 126 West North street, died at 3 p. m. Thursday, October 25, in her home after a long illness.

She was born at Plaingrove, April 19, 1877, the daughter of John and Martha Gillespie, but had spent most of her life time in New Castle. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving is one son, Francis West of Sharusville.

She has been taken to the Kelley Funeral Home, from where funeral services will be conducted Saturday, October 27, at 1:30 p. m. with the Rev. C. H. Heaton officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong, R. D. 4, Volant, died at 1:30 this morning in the family home, after an illness of six months.

She was born in Wilmington township, Mercer county May 22, 1880 the daughter of Henry and Alice Ashmore Brenneman, and had lived in the same vicinity all her life. She was a faithful member of the Volant Presbyterian church and for forty years had been a teacher in the Sabbath School. She won a host of friends by her kindly, Christian character. She was also a member of the Indian Run Grange.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Alice, at home; and two brothers: the Rev. F. S. Brenneman of New Castle and Thomas A. Brenneman of Volant.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the home with the Rev. C. M. Rohrbaugh officiating. Interment will be made in the Volant cemetery.

Three Of Same Name Run For Congress

(International News Service)

DETROIT.—Three Lesinski's are in the race for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the Sixteenth Michigan District, and in the opinion of John Lesinski, of Dearborn, the incumbent, there are two too many.

"There ought to be a law," he said, in denouncing the tendency of persons with names similar to that of office holders, to seek to cash in on the similarity.

Stanley Lesinski, of Detroit, one of the other candidates, is a tool grinder, while Thomas Lesinski, the third aspirant, is a machine hand.

Blood Tests Fix Paternity Of Child

(International News Service)

SYDNEY.—Blood tests were accepted as conclusive evidence by a Sydney court asked to decide the paternity of a child.

A married woman took proceedings against a man to force him to provide for a child of which she alleged that he, and not her husband, was the father.

Evidence of blood-grouping tests on the woman, her husband and the child, was given by Dr. E. A. Shipton, a pathologist and biochemist, who said they showed conclusively that it could not possibly be the child of the husband.

The court ordered the defendant to pay $2.50 a week towards the maintenance of the child until it was 16, and also awarded the woman $100 expenses.

Little Church Plans 7-Ton Bronze Doors

(International News Service)

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. — Notre Dame church is but a small edifice in a small city, yet soon it will boast doors weighing more than seven tons and costing $25,000.

The heavy bronze portals were a gift to the church by its late pastor, Monsignor L. O. Trigannne. On the doors, designed by D. R. Barbault, Springfield architect, and cast by a Providence, R. I., metal foundry, are raised figures in circular wreaths, depicting the life of Christ and the 15 mysteries of the Catholic rosary.

Notre Dame church has long been known as one of the most beautiful churches in New England. It was built almost entirely of marble at a cost of $800,000.

CONVICTED PRISONER ATTEMPS SUICIDE

Walter Mika, Convicted Of Shooting Philadelphia Officer Tries Suicide

SECOND ATTEMPT TO END OWN LIFE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—To guard the life which Walter Mika, condemned cop-killer, is scheduled to forfeit to the commonwealth extreme measures were being taken today following a suicide attempt by the prisoner.

Mika, the 24 year old "tough guy" who fainted at the opening session of the trial which culminated in a jury condemning him to the electric chair, attempted to hang himself in his cell at Moyamensing prison early yesterday morning, it was revealed today.

Attempt Frustrated

Standing on a table in his cell, Mika fastened a towel to the top cell bars, wound it tightly about his neck and stepped off into space. Vigilance of a guard frustrated the attempted suicide. He was unconscious when cut down but was soon revived by the prison physician.

The suicide was Mike's second unsuccessful effort to cheat the law of its penalty—death. On the eve of his trial, he jumped the wall of Moyamensing prison and gained 15 hours of liberty. His escape was the first from "Old Moko" in 12 years.

Since his recapture Mika has been tried and found guilty of participating with four other hoodlums in the cold-blooded slaughter of policeman William C. Wilson, who was killed in defense of a motion picture theatre's night's receipts on September 3.

One of his accomplices, Willie Talarico, 21, head of the mob has also been condemned to die in the electric chair for the same crime.

Ancient Tree Found Under Volcanic Mud

(International News Service)

CRATER LAKE, NATIONAL PARK, Ore.—A tree possibly 10,000 years old and still containing some of its natural wood, has been found along the Union Cree-Diamond lake highway not far from here.

The carbonized logs found in this district up until now have all been in a flat position. This log was upright, buried under 60 feet of volcanic overburden. A small portion visible from the highway led to the discovery. An investigation by Warren D. Smith, range-naturalist and University of Oregon doctor of geology, leads to belief that the tree was buried by explosive material from old Mount Mazama, the ancestral mountain of Crater lake.

Approve Social Betterment.

After clashing with the administration on the bonus issue, the Legion turned around and literally endorsed President Roosevelt's social betterment program. It ordered an immediate inquiry into the benefits of an old age pension law, unemployment insurance and a law to reduce working hours without decreasing wages. Mr. Roosevelt probably will recommend this legislation to the next congress, as he favored a 30-hour week in the last congress.

The Legion also was on record as demanding enactment by congress of a universal draft law, which would conscript capital, industry, labor and manpower in time of war.

Then, it reiterated its frequently expressed opposition to the world court and to any reduction or revision of foreign debt settlements. Indeed, it came close to withdrawing from the Fidac, the international war veterans' organization, when a woman delegate denounced "international entangling alliances." Only the astute maneuvering of the presiding officer and a plea from the Legion chaplain blocked the withdrawal, as the veterans were violently opposed to showing any more favors to Europe.

Demand Preference Over Aliens.

Three widely differing items completed the major program. These were demands for preference of Americans over aliens on federal jobs and in HOLC loans, a denunciation of mercy pleas for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious draft dodger, and a plea to congress to set aside Armistice Day as a national holiday.

This was the program given Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., of San Francisco, the new national commander. He was pledged the united support of the Legion in carrying it to a successful conclusion in the coming year.

Sinclair Refuses To Quit Race For Governor's Post

Suggestion Made By Progressive - Commonwealth Candidate In California

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—California's red hot gubernatorial race will continue as a colorful three-way political battle, it appeared today.

Upton Sinclair, epic standard bearer and Democratic nominee today declared the suggestion of Raymond L. Haight, progressive-commonwealth candidate, that he retire in the latter's favor.

Day Of Denials

Following a day of denials, Sinclair and Haight admitted a fusion of forces against Gov. Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee, had been discussed at a secret meeting in Sacramento.

Sinclair in Berkeley insisted the meeting was at the request of Haight. At first he declared the purpose of the meeting was to enable Haight to apprise him of a "Republican coup".

This apparently irked Haight who had arrived here from Northern California.

"This statement is to confirm Mr. Sinclair's recollection of our conversation," said the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate.

"Mr. Sinclair and I met in the Sacramento Valley yesterday. He frankly, full and voluntarily discussed with me the difficulties of winning the election and the advantages which the Progressive cause would secure through the withdrawal. Naturally his withdrawal and his obligations toward the Progressive movement are a matter of his own conscience."

Amplifies Statement

Thus prodded, Sinclair amplified an earlier statement, in which he had characterized the report he was thinking of withdrawing as "one more campaign tale, without any basis whatever," by announcing Haight had asked him to withdraw, but he was declining.

Haight and Sinclair were agreed, Sinclair said, that Governor Meriam ought to withdraw.

MERCHANTS MAKE PROTEST AGAINST PARKING CRUSADE

"Do you want the signs taken down?" inquired Mayor Mayne.

"No" answered Cole.

"Why then do you come into council?" questioned Mayor Mayne. "Council does not have anything to do with this. If you want enforcement to stop—that is up to me" he added. The mayor is by his office superintendent of police.

"I may be out of order in coming here but I was instructed to come before council. In this particular case . . ." said Cole. He was interrupted by the mayor who inquired as to the reason for the woman's arrest.

"She did not say" Cole replied.

"There has not been a farmer fined for exceeding the parking limit for two years. I have taken wonderful care of them. No one has been arrested for speeding who did not exceed the limit 100 percent" he declared then charged:

Fined In Youngstown

"An East Side boy, employed at Warren, Ohio, came to me with a receipt for $58.00, which he paid for speeding in Youngstown. He also produced a copy of a Youngstown newspaper which said three others had been fined amounts ranging from $5.00 to $8.00.

"They were residents of Youngstown. The police judge told the East Side boy he was fining him $50.00, because he was from New Castle," the mayor declared the boy told him.

The mayor added that, practically all of the persons arrested here by police "are our own people" then declared in reply to the assertion that New Castle merchants would lose business through the campaign charged "that's politics. I know who is circulating the story. It is circulated against me."

"If the committee believes it to be a pleasure for me to listen to people who have been arrested plead poverty, let them fill the job. Not one person is going to get off. All are going to pay or no one will pay" he said heatedly.

"No one wants anything like that" said Cole.

"We will take down the signs and traffic lights if you want it" the mayor remarked.

"I did not come here to quarrel with you" Cole informed the mayor.

"I'm quarreling with you" replied the mayor.

"I believe that statement you made about fining everybody, a little 'hard-boiled' "remarked Safety Director Davies." "Isn't it possible that a policeman may make a mistake?"

"Emergencies are different" replied the mayor, stating that he had taken care of doctors and other persons who had to used speed or violated other angles of the laws pertaining to automobiles.

"Bring a list of those farmers to me" said Mayor Mayne to Cole, apparently referring to any arrested and whom the merchants believed would trade elsewhere.

"Pardon me for coming in here. We should have gone to you" said Cole as he left the council room where the discussion occurred.

Roxie smiled and thanked the court when sentence was passed. He also expressed appreciation of the leniency shown to his wife.

Tried Own Cases

Roxie Long acted as his own attorney at the trial of the cases. The charges were brought by wholesale merchants, who had sold him goods ostensibly to open a store in Mahoningtown. Worthless checks were given in payment for the goods.

In connection with his scheme to open a store and defraud wholesalers, Roxie had employed four young men, Anthony Adisey, 17; Jake Exler, 29; Louis Cardone, 20, and Abraham J. Coury, 22.

They were also charged with conspiracy, but when they found that they were in wrong, they showed a willingness to help the commonwealth. Attorney Orville Brown, who represented them, called attention to the fact that they had waived hearings and later had entered pleas. They appeared here before the grand jury in the Long case and also testified against Long in the trial.

"Master Mind"

"Roxie Long was the master mind behind the whole conspiracy," declared Brown. "He led these young men into it. They were out of a job and when he offered them employment they took it." He asked for leniency for them.

Judge Hildebrand said that he was satisfied that Roxie was the "master mind," but at the same time he felt that the young men could not helped have known that something was wrong when they went to work for Roxie, whose reputation was known in Pittsburgh. Taking into consideration their willingness to plead and help the commonwealth, Judge Hildebrand said that he had decided to place them on probation for two years, upon condition that each of them pay the costs in one case. They were given six months in which to pay half the costs and six months more in which to pay the remainder. If they do not comply with this order they will be brought in and sentenced. It was also impressed upon them that if they get into any trouble during the two years they can be sentenced on this charge.

Other Sentences

Among others sentenced were the following: Samuel DeFelice, driving while under the influence of liquor, $100 fine and costs and two months to the county jail. DeFelice ran into some children on Pearson street and some of them were so badly injured that they were sent to the hospital.

Mike Shuluga, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Mike Padunvac, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Henry Ludovicco, assault and battery, $10 fine and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Dale Patterson and John Kapcewich, larceny of some brass wire, paroled for two years.

Oscar Temenski, breaking and entering the Huston Hardware store on Long avenue, paroled for three years. Temenski claimed that he had been drinking and did not know what he was doing.

William McDaniel, paternity charge, sentenced to pay $1.50 a week until the child is 6 years old, and $4 per week thereafter until the child is 14 years old.

Needed At Home

Joseph Mosiyk, possessing unlawful liquor, sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and paroled for one year. Mosiyk said that he has nine children and is needed at home.

Eugene Welsh, 21, and Gladys Connor, 24, breaking and entering, were placed on probation for three years, the former to pay two-thirds of the costs and the latter one-third. They lived in the upper story of a house at 711 Court street, Floyd A. Hamill living in the lower story. Mrs. Connor said that Welsh had placed a step-ladder at a window and helped her into the Hamill house, where she got some articles of jewelry and clothing which were later returned. Welsh claimed that he had a job to go to and Mrs. Connor said she had two children needing her attention.

Mike Vanoski, an old man who claimed that he had been annoyed by children when he pulled a pocket knife and cut one of them slightly, was sentenced to thirty days to jail.

P-12-P Club Meets

Members of the P-12-P club were entertained in the home of Sophia Luke on Ashland avenue Thursday, with bridge forming the main diversion. Honors were won by Mrs. Frederick Droeder and Mrs. Anthony Kacenski, the latter of Beaver Falls.

A tasty Hallowe'en repast was later served by the hostess, and plans were made for their next meeting to take place, November 7, with Mrs. Droeder on Chartes street.

Hadassah Plans

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Susie Williams

Mrs. Susie Williams, aged 48 years of Birmingham, Alabama, died at noon Thursday after an illness which became acute when she came here from Birmingham six weeks ago to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Sara Cummings. Her death came at her late mother's home, 219 East Clayton street.

She leaves her husband, H. B. Williams: two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Rosser and Miss Lucy Williams both of Birmingham: two sisters, Mrs. Sara Williams, of New Castle and Mrs. Frances Bean, of Birmingham: three brothers, W. J. Cummings, Eugene Cummings, of New Castle and Cornelius Cummings, of Birmingham and five grandchildren.

She was a member of the Christian Love Church of Birmingham. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West, aged 57, widow of Edward West, 126 West North street, died at 3 p. m. Thursday, October 25, in her home after a long illness.

She was born at Plaingrove, April 19, 1877, the daughter of John and Martha Gillespie, but had spent most of her life time in New Castle. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving is one son, Francis West of Sharusville.

She has been taken to the Kelley Funeral Home, from where funeral services will be conducted Saturday, October 27, at 1:30 p. m. with the Rev. C. H. Heaton officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong, R. D. 4, Volant, died at 1:30 this morning in the family home, after an illness of six months.

She was born in Wilmington township, Mercer county May 22, 1880 the daughter of Henry and Alice Ashmore Brenneman, and had lived in the same vicinity all her life. She was a faithful member of the Volant Presbyterian church and for forty years had been a teacher in the Sabbath School. She won a host of friends by her kindly, Christian character. She was also a member of the Indian Run Grange.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Alice, at home; and two brothers: the Rev. F. S. Brenneman of New Castle and Thomas A. Brenneman of Volant.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the home with the Rev. C. M. Rohrbaugh officiating. Interment will be made in the Volant cemetery.

Three Of Same Name Run For Congress

(International News Service)

DETROIT.—Three Lesinski's are in the race for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the Sixteenth Michigan District, and in the opinion of John Lesinski, of Dearborn, the incumbent, there are two too many.

"There ought to be a law," he said, in denouncing the tendency of persons with names similar to that of office holders, to seek to cash in on the similarity.

Stanley Lesinski, of Detroit, one of the other candidates, is a tool grinder, while Thomas Lesinski, the third aspirant, is a machine hand.

Blood Tests Fix Paternity Of Child

(International News Service)

SYDNEY.—Blood tests were accepted as conclusive evidence by a Sydney court asked to decide the paternity of a child.

A married woman took proceedings against a man to force him to provide for a child of which she alleged that he, and not her husband, was the father.

Evidence of blood-grouping tests on the woman, her husband and the child, was given by Dr. E. A. Shipton, a pathologist and biochemist, who said they showed conclusively that it could not possibly be the child of the husband.

The court ordered the defendant to pay $2.50 a week towards the maintenance of the child until it was 16, and also awarded the woman $100 expenses.

Little Church Plans 7-Ton Bronze Doors

(International News Service)

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. — Notre Dame church is but a small edifice in a small city, yet soon it will boast doors weighing more than seven tons and costing $25,000.

The heavy bronze portals were a gift to the church by its late pastor, Monsignor L. O. Trigance. On the doors, designed by D. R. Baribault, Springfield architect, and cast by a Providence, R. I., metal foundry, are raised figures in circular wreaths, depicting the life of Christ and the 15 mysteries of the Catholic rosary.

Notre Dame church has long been known as one of the most beautiful churches in New England. It was built almost entirely of marble at a cost of $800,000.

CONVICTED PRISONER ATTEMPS SUICIDE

Walter Mika, Convicted Of Shooting Philadelphia Officer Tries Suicide

SECOND ATTEMPT TO END OWN LIFE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—To guard the life which Walter Mika, condemned cop-killer, is scheduled to forfeit to the commonwealth extreme measures were being taken today following a suicide attempt by the prisoner.

Mika, the 24 year old "tough guy" who fainted at the opening session of the trial which culminated in a jury condemning him to the electric chair, attempted to hang himself in his cell at Moyamensing prison early yesterday morning, it was revealed today.

Attempt Frustrated

Standing on a table in his cell Mika fastened a towel to the top cell bars, wound it tightly about his neck and stepped off into space. Vigilance of a guard frustrated the attempted suicide. He was unconscious when cut down but was soon revived by the prison physician.

The suicide was Mike's second unsuccessful effort to cheat the law of its penalty—death. On the eve of his trial, he jumped the wall of Moyamensing prison and gained 15 hours of liberty. His escape was the first from "Old Moko" in 12 years.

Since his recapture Mika has been tried and found guilty of participating with four other hoodlums in the cold-blooded slaughter of policeman William C. Wilson, who was killed in defense of a motion picture theatre's night's receipts on September 3.

One of his accomplices, Willie Talarico, 21, head of the mob has also been condemned to die in the electric chair for the same crime.

Ancient Tree Found Under Volcanic Mud

(International News Service)

CRATER LAKE, NATIONAL PARK, Ore.—A tree possibly 10,000 years old and still containing some of its natural wood, has been found along the Union Cree-Diamond lake highway not far from here.

The carbonized logs found in this district up until now have all been in a flat position. This log was upright, buried under 60 feet of volcanic overburden. A small portion visible from the highway led to the discovery. An investigation by Warren D. Smith, range-naturalist and University of Oregon doctor of geology, leads to belief that the tree was buried by explosive material from old Mount Mazama, the ancestral mountain of Crater lake.

Approve Social Betterment.

After clashing with the administration on the bonus issue, the Legion turned around and literally endorsed President Roosevelt's social betterment program. It ordered an immediate inquiry into the benefits of an old age pension law, unemployment insurance and a law to reduce working hours without decreasing wages. Mr. Roosevelt probably will recommend this legislation to the next congress, as he favored a 30-hour week in the last congress.

The Legion also was on record as demanding enactment by congress of a universal draft law, which would conscript capital, industry, labor and manpower in time of war.

Then, it reiterated its frequently expressed opposition to the world court and to any reduction or revision of foreign debt settlements. Indeed, it came close to withdrawing from the Fidac, the international war veterans' organization, when a woman delegate denounced "international entangling alliances." Only the astute maneuvering of the presiding officer and a plea from the Legion chaplain blocked the withdrawal, as the veterans were violently opposed to showing any more favors to Europe.

Demand Preference Over Aliens.

Three widely differing items completed the major program. These were demands for preference of Americans over aliens on federal jobs and in HOLC loans, a denunciation of mercy pleas for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious draft dodger, and a plea to congress to set aside Armistice Day as a national holiday.

This was the program given Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., of San Francisco, the new national commander. He was pledged the united support of the Legion in carrying it to a successful conclusion in the coming year.

Sinclair Refuses To Quit Race For Governor's Post

Suggestion Made By Progressive - Commonwealth Candidate In California

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—California's red hot gubernatorial race will continue as a colorful three-way political battle, it appeared today.

Upton Sinclair, epic standard bearer and Democratic nominee today declared the suggestion of Raymond L. Haight, progressive-commonwealth candidate, that he retire in the latter's favor.

Day Of Denials

Following a day of denials, Sinclair and Haight admitted a fusion of forces against Gov. Frank F. Merriam, Republican nominee, had been discussed at a secret meeting in Sacramento.

Sinclair in Berkeley insisted the meeting was at the request of Haight. At first he declared the purpose of the meeting was to enable Haight to apprise him of a "Republican coup".

This apparently irked Haight who had arrived here from Northern California.

"This statement is to confirm Mr. Sinclair's recollection of our conversation," said the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate.

"Mr. Sinclair and I met in the Sacramento Valley yesterday. He frankly, full and voluntarily discussed with me the difficulties of winning the election and the advantages which the Progressive cause would secure through the withdrawal. Naturally his withdrawal and his obligations toward the Progressive movement are a matter of his own conscience."

Amplifies Statement

Thus prodded, Sinclair amplified an earlier statement, in which he had characterized the report he was thinking of withdrawing as "one more campaign tale, without any basis whatever," by announcing Haight had asked him to withdraw, but he was declining.

Haight and Sinclair were agreed, Sinclair said, that Governor Meriam ought to withdraw.

MERCHANTS MAKE PROTEST AGAINST PARKING CRUSADE

lieved the matter worth council's consideration.

"Do you want the signs taken down?" inquired Mayor Mayne.

"No" answered Cole.

"Why then do you come into council?" questioned Mayor Mayne. "Council does not have anything to do with this. If you want enforcement to stop—that is up to me" he added. The mayor is by his office superintendent of police.

"I may be out of order in coming here but I was instructed to come before council. In this particular case . . . " said Cole. He was interrupted by the mayor who inquired as to the reason for the woman's arrest.

"She did not say" Cole replied.

"There has not been a farmer fined for exceeding the parking limit for two years. I have taken wonderful care of them. No one has been arrested for speeding who did not exceed the limit 100 percent" he declared then charged:

Fined In Youngstown

"An East Side boy, employed at Warren, Ohio, came to me with a receipt for $58.00, which he paid for speeding in Youngstown. He also produced a copy of a Youngstown newspaper which said three others had been fined amounts ranging from $5.00 to $8.00.

"They were residents of Youngstown. The police judge told the East Side boy he was fining him $50.00, because he was from New Castle," the mayor declared the boy told him.

The mayor added that, practically all of the persons arrested here by police "are our own people" then declared in reply to the assertion that New Castle merchants would lose business through the campaign charged "that's politics. I know who is circulating the story. It is circulated against me."

"If the committee believes it to be a pleasure for me to listen to people who have been arrested plead poverty, let them fill the job. Not one person is going to get off. All are going to pay or no one will pay" he said heatedly.

"No one wants anything like that" said Cole.

"We will take down the signs and traffic lights if you want it" the mayor remarked.

"I did not come here to quarrel with you" Cole informed the mayor.

"I'm quarreling with you" replied the mayor.

"I believe that statement you made about fining everybody, a little 'hard-boiled' "remarked Safety Director Davies." "Isn't it possible that a policeman may make a mistake?"

"Emergencies are different" replied the mayor, stating that he had taken care of doctors and other persons who had to used speed or violated other angles of the laws pertaining to automobiles.

"Bring a list of those farmers to me" said Mayor Mayne to Cole, apparently referring to any arrested and whom the merchants believed would trade elsewhere.

"Pardon me for coming in here. We should have gone to you" said Cole as he left the council room where the discussion occurred.

LOCAL RWD PROGRAM IS GAINING IMPETUS; PROJECTS UNDER WAY

pleted the auditorium will be the prettiest of its kind in the city.

Taylor street from Pearson on down across Mill street is torn up just now, with dirt piled high on either side of the ditch. The storm sewer is being laid and the street looks like a trench area in France during the World War. This sewer has been needed for years and will soon be an actuality.

At the George Washington junior high school RWD workers are extending and developing the athletic grounds. A rise in the ground is being leveled and the earth used to fill a depression. When it is finished the athletic field will be much larger and the cinder track will be put down without infringing on the football field.

More Playgrounds

In Cunningham Park the workers are engaged in building athletic fields for use in the coming summers. Later on the roads will receive attention, but at the present time they are grading and filling baseball diamonds, tennis courts and football fields. When this project is completed there will be a series of athletic fields in service that will accomodate various teams at one time.

The Locust street ravine sewer job was started a little ahead of the others, but the results show some speedy work. The ditch which will be riprapped later, is now dug from the Wilmington avenue fill down below Canyon street, with another ditch leading into the main ditch from the north.

Much of this sewer was completed under the old CWA plan, but the present project will finish it from Wilmington avenue to the Shenango river. When it is finished it will drain the entire area, prevent flooded cellars and yards in the spring and give the residents of this district a water course that has been needed for more years than the oldest resident can remember.

The stone for the riprapping comes from the Ray street quarry and in a week or so the workers will begin the work of laying the riprap. This job is one that is saving the city thousands of dollars and at the same time providing the citizens with a worth while project.

SENTENCE TO WORKHOUSE IS GIVEN TO ROXIE

sentence hanging over Long for breaking his parole, and no matter what the sentence of the court here might be he would have to serve the additional five years. "We know his record," said Clark, "but is not to be sentenced on his record, but only on the crime committed in this county."

District Attorney Mont L. Ailey, presented the position of the commonwealth, saying that the court was thoroughly familiar with the case.

Obeyed Husband

As to Mrs. Long, Clark contended that she was under the domination of her husband in assisting him in carrying out his plans. "In fact" said he "she has been under the domination of her husband for years. In view of this fact, I think that leniency should be extended to her."

In passing sentence Judge Hildebrand said that he was taking into consideration the fact that Long had entered pleas in the other cases against him, also that he had the Federal charge hanging over him and would have to serve 5 years on it when he got out.

With regard to Mrs. Long the court was satisfied that she was under the domination of her husband, but nevertheless helped him in carrying out his plans. He placed her on probation for two years upon the condition that she pay the costs in one case.

Roxie smiled and thanked the court when sentence was passed. He also expressed appreciation of the leniency shown to his wife.

Tried Own Cases

Roxie Long acted as his own attorney at the trial of the cases. The charges were brought by wholesale merchants, who had sold him goods ostensibly to open a store in Mahoningtown. Worthless checks were given in payment for the goods.

In connection with his scheme to open a store and defraud wholesalers, Roxie had employed four young men, Anthony Adisey, 17; Jake Exler, 29; Louis Cardone, 20, and Abraham J. Coury, 22.

They were also charged with conspiracy, but when they found that they were in wrong, they showed a willingness to help the commonwealth. Attorney Orville Brown, who represented them, called attention to the fact that they had waived hearings and later had entered pleas. They appeared here before the grand jury in the Long case and also testified against Long in the trial.

"Master Mind"

"Roxie Long was the master mind behind the whole conspiracy," declared Brown. "He led these young men into it. They were out of a job and when he offered them employment they took it." He asked for leniency for them.

Judge Hildebrand said that he was satisfied that Roxie was the "master mind," but at the same time he felt that the young men could not helped have known that something was wrong when they went to work for Roxie, whose reputation was known in Pittsburgh. Taking into consideration their willingness to plead and help the commonwealth, Judge Hildebrand said that he had decided to place them on probation for two years, upon condition that each of them pay the costs in one case. They were given six months in which to pay half the costs and six months more in which to pay the remainder. If they do not comply with this order they will be brought in and sentenced. It was also impressed upon them that if they get into any trouble during the two years they can be sentenced on this charge.

Other Sentences

Among others sentenced were the following: Samuel DeFelice, driving while under the influence of liquor, $100 fine and costs and two months to the county jail. DeFelice ran into some children on Pearson street and some of them were so badly injured that they were sent to the hospital.

Mike Shuluga, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Mike Padunvac, adultery, $25 and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Henry Ludovicco, assault and battery, $10 fine and costs and sixty days to the county jail.

Dale Patterson and John Kapcewich, larceny of some brass wire, paroled for two years.

Oscar Temenski, breaking and entering the Huston Hardware store on Long avenue, paroled for three years. Temenski claimed that he had been drinking and did not know what he was doing.

William McDaniel, paternity charge, sentenced to pay $1.50 a week until the child is 6 years old, and $4 per week thereafter until the child is 14 years old.

Needed At Home

Joseph Moslyk, possessing unlawful liquor, sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and paroled for one year. Moslyk said that he has nine children and is needed at home.

Eugene Welsh, 21, and Gladys Connor, 24, breaking and entering, were placed on probation for three years, the former to pay two-thirds of the costs and the latter one-third. They lived in the upper story of a house at 711 Court street, Floyd A. Hamill living in the lower story. Mrs. Connor said that Welsh had placed a step-ladder at a window and helped her into the Hamill house, where she got some articles of jewelry and clothing which were later returned. Welsh claimed that he had a job to go to and Mrs. Connor said she had two chldren needing her attention.

Mike Vanoski, an old man who claimed that he had been annoyed by children when he pulled a pocket knife and cut one of them slightly, was sentenced to thirty days to jail.

Samuel Metz, unlawful possession of liquor, was fined $300 and costs and six months to jail.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Susie Williams

Mrs. Susie Williams, aged 48 years of Birmingham, Alabama, died at noon Thursday after an illness which became acute when she came here from Birmingham six weeks ago to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Sara Cummings. Her death came at her late mother's home, 219 East Clayton street.

She leaves her husband, H. B. Williams: two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Rosser and Miss Lucy Williams both of Birmingham: two sisters, Mrs. Sara Williams, of New Castle and Mrs. Frances Bean, of Birmingham: three brothers, W. J. Cummings, Eugene Cummings, of New Castle and Cornelius Cummings, of Birmingham and five grandchildren.

She was a member of the Christian Love Church of Birmingham. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West.

Mrs. Maud Gillespie West, aged 57, widow of Edward West, 126 West North street, died at 3 p. m. Thursday, October 25, in her home after a long illness.

She was born at Plaingrove, April 19, 1877, the daughter of John and Martha Gillespie, but had spent most of her life time in New Castle. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Surviving is one son, Francis West of Sharusville.

She has been taken to the Kelley Funeral Home, from where funeral services will be conducted Saturday, October 27, at 1:30 p. m. with the Rev. C. H. Heaton officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong.

Mrs. Bessie Brenneman Armstrong,, R. D. 4, Volant, died at 1:30 this morning in the family home, after an illness of six months.

She was born in Wilmington township, Mercer county May 22, 1880 the daughter of Henry and Alice Ashmore Brenneman, and had lived in the same vicinity all her life. She was a faithful member of the Volant Presbyterian church and for forty years had been a teacher in the Sabbath School. She won a host of friends by her kindly, Christian character. She was also a member of the Indian Run Grange.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Alice, at home; and two brothers: the Rev. F. S. Brenneman of New Castle and Thomas A. Brenneman of Volant.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in the home with the Rev. C. M. Rohrbaugh officiating. Interment will be made in the Volant cemetery.

Three Of Same Name Run For Congress

(International News Service)

DETROIT.—Three Lesinski's are in the race for the Democratic nomination for Congressman from the Sixteenth Michigan District, and in the opinion of John Lesinski, of Dearborn, the incumbent, there are two too many.

"There ought to be a law," he said, in denouncing the tendency of persons with names similar to that of office holders, to seek to cash in on the similarity.

Stanley Lesinski, of Detroit, one of the other candidates, is a tool grinder, while Thomas Lesinski, the third aspirant, is a machine hand.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

(International News Service)

LYNN, Mass.—Loud snores awoke a Trinity avenue woman. She notified police. A policeman discovered a man asleep beneath the front porch. The man turned out to be her husband. When asked by the policeman if she wished him brought into the house, the woman replied: "No. Leave him where he is."

HERO FOR AN HOUR

(International News Service)

CODY, Wyo.—Ernest Johnson was the hero of the hour, when, awakening at midnight, he saw the huge form of a bear just outside his window and shot it down. The next day he learned that it was a pet that had escaped from the Cody zoo.

Blood Tests Fix Paternity Of Child

(International News Service)

SYDNEY.—Blood tests were accepted as conclusive evidence by a Sydney court asked to decide the paternity of a child.

A married woman took proceedings against a man to force him to provide for a child of which she alleged that he, and not her husband, was the father.

Evidence of blood-grouping tests on the woman, her husband and the child, was given by Dr. E. A. Shipton, a pathologist and biochemist, who said they showed conclusively that it could not possibly be the child of the husband.

The court ordered the defendant to pay $2.50 a week towards the maintenance of the child until it was 16, and also awarded the woman $100 expenses.

Little Church Plans 7-Ton Bronze Doors

(International News Service)

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. — Notre Dame church is but a small edifice in a small city, yet soon it will boast doors weighing more than seven tons and costing $25,000.

The heavy bronze portals were a gift to the church by its late pastor, Monsignor L. O. Trigane. On the doors, designed by D. R. Baribault, Springfield architect, and cast by a Providence, R. I., metal foundry, are raised figures in circular wreaths, depicting the life of Christ and the 15 mysteries of the Catholic rosary.

Notre Dame church has long been known as one of the most beautiful churches in New England. It was built almost entirely of marble at a cost of $800,000.

Wine Harvest On Rhine Is A Flood

(International News Service)

COLOGNE—The record wine harvest has caused a crisis—due to lack of barrels. Coopers and barrel dealers cannot work fast enough to supply the demand.

There is so much wine waiting for barrels and cellar accommodation that the Nazi party has issued a general appeal for barrels and cellarage in the Pfalz district.

GETS HIT, IS ARRESTED

(International News Service)

MADRID— There was a loud explosion when a man knocked down by a motor car in a busy Madrid street. When picked up by police, it was found that a loaded pistol in his pocket had been discharged by his impact. The man was not injured, but as he had no license for carrying arms, he was arrested.

BALDWIN CLASS "HARD TIME" PARTY

Dresses that were patched, stockings that had runs and shoes down at the heel were the prevailing styles Thursday evening in the Highland church when 60 members of the Baldwin Bible class enjoyed a "hard time" party, and the group certainly looked the part.

"Pictures" formed the theme of the evening's entertainment, and as each member entered she placed a picture of herself, when a child, on a table, later these were numbered and Mrs. Frank Tyler won the prize for identifying the greatest number. The next form of entertainment was a guessing contest on famous pictures, which were represented by a table of household articles, the prize in this contest went to Mrs. C. W. Shaller.

During the entertainment a "photographer's gallery" was conducted by Mrs. James Cole and Mrs. Josephine Kison, and after all had been "took", the pictures were cut out and silhouettes thrown on a screen. Much laughter ensued as the members guessed the identities of the profiles.

After the entertainment a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harold McCulloch, when plans were made for a ladies' chorus to sing during the special meetings in Highland church, which begin next week. Mrs. June Bernard will conduct the chorus.

The closing feature of the evening came when the hostesses, Mrs. W. D. Jones, Mrs. T. J. McFate, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Mrs. J. W. Cartwright, Mrs. Fred Lipp, Ethel Moore, Mrs. Ed Rumbaugh and Mrs. John Haven, invited the group to partake of a "hard time" lunch. The long tables in the dining room were covered with newspapers instead of tablecloths, no flowers were used in decoration but the tables were artistically decorated with autumn leaves, ears of corn and pans of nuts, which later turned out to be acorns. At each place there was a "ghostly" favor, made of an apple and lolly pop, dressed in a white paper napkin, with a skeleton face and beside this was a package done up in newspaper which, when opened, contained the sandwiches; the hostesses passed large pans of doughnuts and glasses of cider, not a dish nor silver being used throughout the serving.

Mrs. Henry Halley and Mrs. J. Gayle Blim were awarded the prizes for the most poverty stricken costumes.

November 27 will mark the date of the next meeting.

"MUMMERS" PARTY FOR BENNETT CLASS

With only the light from pumpkin faces to guide them the members of the Bennett Bible class of the First Christian church silently wended their ways into the church basement Thursday evening, and here darkness greeted them, while from the corners the eyes of ghosts leered at them. They made their ways to the church parlor, where for about an hour each one was absolutely "mum" in order not to give away his identity.

Finally the silence was broken as the members unmasked and were then escorted through a "Hall of Horrors" where screeches and wails filled the air; after all had returned from this place, there was a period of ghost stories, which were hair raising, and games, which were thrilling.

Musical entertainment was provided by a quartet: Lewis Jenkins, Carl Gilmore, Dale Andrews and Harry McClintock, with Earl Eakin as guitar accompanist.

Refreshments were the last thing on the evening's program, but by no means the least. They were served cafeteria style, from a table beautifully suggestive of the season. The decorations for the evening were arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walther. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sadler and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hemphill.

The group arranged for a tureen dinner for the families on Friday, November 9. Tentative plans were made for a minstrel show later in the season.

Leave For Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Biddle of the Glen-road were pleasantly surprised, Wednesday evening, in thier home, when fifty friends and neighbors assembled to bid them farewell and a safe journey to Florida where they will spend the winter months. They left this morning for the South lands.

Following an informal social period, delicious refreshments were served by the guests, who prepared the menu.

H. W. G. Club

The H. W. G. club met Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Myrna Smith on West Washington street, and the hours were pleasantly spent with bridge. Prizes for scores went to Miss Margaret McCreary and Miss Rae Otto. A tasty lunch was later served.

Special guests included Mrs. Mae McConahy, Miss Molly Komarc, Miss Jean Reamer, Mrs. Marian Patterson, Miss Helen Kolchisky and Miss Florence Glasgow.

DR. GALBREATH AT PITTSBURGH WEDDING

Dr. Robert Galbreath, of Westminster college, officiated at the wedding in Pittsburgh, today, of Dorothy Helen Damm, daughter of Edward L. Damm, of Denniston avenue, to John Frederick Chesterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Chesterman, of Lytton avenue.

Concerning the wedding, which took place at high noon, in the bride's home, in a setting of fall flowers, palms and cibotium ferns, it is particularly interesting to note that the bride wore the wedding gown of her future mother-in-law, the bodice of which was of exquisite rosepoint lace, short puffed sleeves, and had an extended train. She was attended by Ruth Cousley, maid of honor, and only attendant. George Vincent, of Washington, D. C., was best man.

After a wedding reception in the Damm home, the bride and groom left on a motor trip east. They will make their future home in Elizabeth, N. J.

QUIET WEDDING IN PULASKI PARSONAGE

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Heckathorn of Walmo announce the marriage of their daughter Bertha to John H. Thompson, son of Mrs. Myrtle Thompson of New Wilmington.

The ceremony was performed on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the parsonage of the Pulaski M. E. church, with the Rev. Earl J. Jennings reading the ring service. The bride was attired in a gown of blue crepe with silver and black accessories.

Immediately after their marriage, the couple motored to Youngstown for dinner. Later they departed for a short trip to Pittsburgh. Upon their return they will receive their many friends in their home on the New Wilmington-Neshannock Falls road.

CANTER BRIDGE MEMBERS GUESTS

Miss Elma Houk proved a pleasing hostess Thursday evening to members of the Canter Bridge club at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Mann, Castlewood.

Bridge formed the diversion of the early hours, lovely prizes being awarded to Mrs. C. E. Kennedy and Mrs. E. J. Longacre for capturing honors. A brief business session followed, and plans for future activities were discussed.

In serving a delicious Hallowe'en lunch, the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Mann and Mrs. D. Fenton.

The next meeting will occur on November 15, with Mrs. Kennedy of Harrison street.

W. E. Assembly

Misses Virginia and Thelma Kerber were guests at the W. E. assembly, Wednesday evening, in the home of Mrs. Ben Hartland, on Hazel street.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Everett Arrow, Mrs. Lois Arrow and Mrs. Ray Richards, and following several rounds of interesting card playing, dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Jesse Dufford, of Huron avenue, will have the next meeting, on November 7.

TURCO-SCARNATI WEDDING EVENT

A number of relatives and friends attended the pretty autumn wedding of Miss Jeanne Turco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turco, of rear 518 Pearson street, and Peter Scarnati, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scarnati, of 409 Shadyside, on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the St. Vitus church. The Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita, officiated.

Miss Turco was attractively gowned in white satin with a lace jacket and a veil of real lace. She carried calla lilies, orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Phyllis Zappi, of Youngstown, the maid of honor, wore a green satin gown with harmonizing accessories. Her bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. Tony Angelo, of Kittanning, served as best man.

Four young women who served as bridesmaids were lovely in pink gowns with matching accessories. They were the Misses Rose Capp, Madeline Smarelli, Josephine Pavone and Mary Scarnati. The ushers included Fred Turco, Louis Scarnati, Dominick Scarnati and William Scarnati. James Scarnati was ring bearer and Hortense Scarnati was veil carrier.

Friends and relatives of the couple, numbering close to 100 persons, gathered in the Roma restaurant, 13 South Mercer street, on Thursday afternoon where they enjoyed a sumptuous dinner. On Thursday evening a reception was tendered the newlyweds at 409 Shadyside.

The out-of-town guests included Egio DiCola and daughter, Dena, of Kent, O.; William and Mary Scarnati, of Brockway, Pa. During the serving of the meal, Nunzio Giardini and John Strizzi featured with several recitations. Dispensing with a honeymoon for the present, Mr. and Mrs. Scarnati will reside at 409 Shadyside.

KLINE SISTERS HAVE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The home of the Kline sisters on Beckford street, was an appropriate setting Thursday evening for the "ghostly" masquerade party of the Loyal Band class of the Third United Presbyterian church, when 43 members of the class appeared, all disguised as ghosts.

After a period of identification Mrs. Elizabeth Harris and Mrs. Mary Lewis presented a program of games, with prizes going to the winners.

The refreshments were in keeping with the evening's idea of Hallowe'en, served by the hostesses and their aides: Mrs. Lottie Ishler, Mrs. Wanda Doone, Mrs. Lena Nolte, Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan.

November 6 the class will meet at the home of Mrs. Stella Pillifant, Hazen street.

HUSBANDS GUESTS AT CLUB EVENT

An evening party was held Thursday by members of the O. N. O. club at the home of Mrs. Maurice Boyd, Garfield avenue, with husbands as special guests. Sharing as co-hostesses were Mrs. Harvey Booher and Mrs. Ben Harlan, the latter of Ellwood City.

Cards filled in the hours with prizes going to Mrs. Harold Unangst, Jess Gehrkin and Mrs. Sam Rohrer. Following play, the hostesses served a bountiful chop suey dinner.

Plans were completed for a Hallowe'en party to be held on Tuesday evening of the coming week, at the Horchler hall, in Mahoningtown, with husbands as guests, while on November 27 the regular meeting will occur at the home of Mrs. Jack Conn, West Madison avenue.

MRS. LEWIS TO ATTEND PHILADELPHIA WEDDING

Mrs. J. C. Lewis, of Edison avenue, left today for Philadelphia, to spend the next two weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Daniel Mozart Davis.

She will be among a large number of guests at the wedding Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock, of her niece, Gertrude Marjorie Davis, to George Edmund Johnson, of Moore, Pa.

The wedding will take place in Norwood Methodist church, and will be a brilliant social event.

Evening Party

Miss Emeline Cearfoss, of 910 West Washington street, gave a party to a group of friends Wednesday evening, the hours being spent informally, with dancing, cards and games. Piano music by Mrs. O'Brien was enjoyed.

Lunch was a later issue, the aides including Mrs. H. C. Cearfoss, Mrs. N. A. Cearfoss, Mrs. Jack O'Brien and Mrs. Alice Gordon.

Brisco Club

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fazzone, of 204 Park avenue, delightfully entertained the members of the Brisco club in their home on Wednesday evening.

Cards and music proved the features of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served at an appropriate time.

PRIMARY FOLKS HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Mrs. Ethel Miller of Cunningham avenue, entertained the little tots of the Primary department, First Congregational church, in her home Thursday from the hours of 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 in the evening.

The event was in the form of a Hallowe'en gathering, the basement of the home being darkened with witchcraft novelties, lighted pumpkin faces, etc., lending a weird background. Games were enjoyed, and those winning prizes were Billy James, Jean Crawford, Peggy Lou Love and Lydia Betty Steinbrink.

Lunch was serve at miniature tables and chairs, places being marked with small baskets of candies and toys, which were given as favors to each. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Thomas Jr., Mrs. Joseph Leyde, Mrs. Reese T. Williams and Miss Lela Lewis.

OLD TIME REBEKAHS HONOR MRS. C. V. AILEY

As a courtesy to Mrs. Clyde V. Ailey, of Court street, who will leave, in November, for Crompton, Cal., to make her future home, Mrs. Charles D. Gray and Miss Bessie Durant entertained Old Time Rebekahs at a farewell party yesterday afternoon, in the Gray home on Court street.

The gift of a handsome lace table cover and recent pictures which have been taken of the club members, conveyed many good wishes to Mrs. Ailey for happiness in her new home. Hours were happily informal, with Mrs. Jane Krebs, of Angelica, N. Y., sharing in the pleasures. A lovely refection, in Hallowe'en tones, was served by the hostesses.

The first Wednesday in November Rebekahs will be guests in the home of Mrs. Harvey, 922 Beckford street, with Mrs. Hettie Rhodes, assistant hostess.

KENNETH GARRATT HOST AT MASQUERADE

Kenneth Garratt, Scott street, was host to a group of young people Thursday evening at a masquerade party in his home, which was cleverly decorated in all the seasonal suggestions, with pumpkin faces used in lighting the rooms.

The dining room was transformed into a dancing floor for the young people and Miss Mildred Carson entertained with piano numbers and songs. Kimmel Barber was in charge of an amusing group of games.

After the activities of the evening had subsided Mrs. L. D. Garratt, the host's mother, invited the group to the basement of the home, where a long table, with a fruit centerpiece, lighted with tall orange candles, was arranged and all manner of good things to eat were served.

BUTLER GROUP AT MISS MARY BERGER'S

Miss Mary Berger, North Mercer street, delightfully entertained a group from Butler Thursday afternoon at a dessert bridge in her home.

Small fables, centered with bud vases of baby mums, were used in serving dessert and afterward utilized for bridge.

The winning scores were held by Mrs. William Crucinger, Mrs. John Dillon and Mrs. Dana Fox, lovely prizes being awarded them.

Others from Butler in the group were Miss Grace O'Connor, Mrs. Austin Gormley, Mrs. William Heineman, Mrs. James Barton and Mrs. Bert Vance.

Nurses Honored

An enjoyable surprise party was held by the nurses of the New Castle hospital on October 22, when they entertained, informally, with cards, music and dancing in the home of Miss Frances Patton, Smithfield street. The affair honored the Misses Margaret Mizer of Terrace avenue and Frances Wallas of East Brook, the occasion being their birthday anniversaries.

After a social period, an appetizing menu was served to Miss Wallas, Miss Mizer, Rose Harble of Ellwood City, Gertrude Yuengert of Butler, Catherine Cunningham, Helen Kielar, Margaret Mizer, Inez Cory and Frances Patton, all of New Castle; Messrs Martin Dickey of Butler, John Winick, Louis Koch, William Patton of New Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patton.

Appointments of gold and pink were used throughout and those in charge of refreshments included Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Gibson.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honored guests.

Mothers Entertained

An enjoyable evening was spent in the dining room of Wesley M. E. church on Tuesday, when members of the Hi-Shi-Ni class entertained their mothers at a Hallowe'en frolic.

After the guests had arrived, a grand march was featured, as a source of much merriment. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Hogue. Prize winners were announced as Mrs. Thacker and Agnes Green.

Games of various kinds were entertaining, and in concluding a happy evening, refreshments were served to Mrs. Hogue, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Thacker, Marie Graham, Helen Hayes, Wanda Thacker, Vivian Hogue, Betty Jane Buchanan, Dottie Bacon, Erma Matthews, Miss Clara Rech and Agnes Greene. Mrs. Peter Grittle was a special guest.

D. G. O. A. Party

Members of the D. G. O. A. club gathered at the home of Clair Haus, Ice Apartments, Boyles avenue Wednesday evening, in the manner of holding a Hallowe'en party.

The evening was pleasantly devoted to music, dancing and games, and all of the assembled guests joined in the merriment and many of the guests roared with laughter at the various costumes worn by themselves and friends.

At a very appropriate hour delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Everett McCracken, assisted by Mrs. Harvey Gamble, and the happy crowd wended their way homeward voting the affair a huge success.

O. G. Card Club

Mrs. Charles A. Brickner, Jr., of Euclid avenue, received members of the O. G. club for cards, Wednesday evening. High scores were won by Mrs. N. Walsh and Melba Brickner.

Evelyn Cunningham was a club guest. Lunch was served, the hostess being assisted by Miss Brickner.

In three weeks, a tureen supper will be held, with husbands and friends special guests, at the home of Mrs. Charles Brickner, Sr., on Hutchinson street.

Murharram is the first month of the Mohammedan year.

With only the light from pumpkin faces to guide them the members of the Bennett Bible class of the First Christian church silently wended their ways into the church basement Thursday evening, and here darkness greeted them, while from the corners the eyes of ghosts leered at them. They made their ways to the church parlor, where for about an hour each one was absolutely "mum" in order not to give away his identity.

Finally the silence was broken as the members unmasked and were then escorted through a "Hall of Horrors" where screeches and wails filled the air; after all had returned from this place, there was a period of ghost stories, which were hair raising, and games, which were thrilling.

Musical entertainment was provided by a quartet: Lewis Jenkins, Carl Gilmore, Dale Andrews and Harry McClintock, with Earl Eakin as guitar accompanist.

Refreshments were the last thing on the evening's program, but by no means the least. They were served cafeteria style, from a table beautifully suggestive of the season. The decorations for the evening were arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walther. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sadler and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hemphill.

The group arranged for a tureen dinner for the families on Friday, November 9. Tentative plans were made for a minstrel show later in the season.

Leave For Florida

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Biddle of the Glen-road were pleasantly surprised, Wednesday evening, in thier home, when fifty friends and neighbors assembled to bid them farewell and a safe journey to Florida where they will spend the winter months. They left this morning for the South lands.

Following an informal social period, delicious refreshments were served by the guests, who prepared the menu.

H. W. G. Club

The H. W. G. club met Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Myrna Smith on West Washington street, and the hours were pleasantly spent with bridge. Prizes for scores went to Miss Margaret McCreary and Miss Rae Otto. A tasty lunch was later served.

Special guests included Mrs. Mae McConahy, Miss Molly Komare, Miss Jean Reamer, Mrs. Marian Patterson, Miss Helen Kolchisky and Miss Florence Glasgow.

DR. GALBREATH AT PITTSBURGH WEDDING

Dr. Robert Galbreath, of Westminster college, officiated at the wedding in Pittsburgh, today, of Dorothy Helen Damm, daughter of Edward L. Damm, of Denniston avenue, to John Frederick Chesterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Chesterman, of Lytton avenue.

Concerning the wedding, which took place at high noon, in the bride's home, in a setting of fall flowers, palms and cibotium ferns, it is particularly interesting to note that the bride wore the wedding gown of her future mother-in-law, the bodice of which was of exquisite rosepoint lace, short puffed sleeves, and had an extended train. She was attended by Ruth Cousley, maid of honor, and only attendant. George Vincent, of Washington, D. C., was best man.

After a wedding reception in the Damm home, the bride and groom left on a motor trip east. They will make their future home in Elizabeth, N. J.

QUIET WEDDING IN PULASKI PARSONAGE

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Heckathorn of Walmo announce the marriage of their daughter Bertha to John H. Thompson, son of Mrs. Myrtle Thompson of New Wilmington.

The ceremony was performed on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the parsonage of the Pulaski M. E. church, with the Rev. Earl J. Jennings reading the ring service. The bride was attired in a gown of blue crepe with silver and black accessories.

Immediately after their marriage, the couple motored to Youngstown for dinner. Later they departed for a short trip to Pittsburgh. Upon their return they will receive their many friends in their home on the New Wilmington-Neshannock Falls road.

CANTER BRIDGE MEMBERS GUESTS

Miss Elma Houk proved a pleasing hostess Thursday evening to members of the Canter Bridge club at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. Mann, Castlewood.

Bridge formed the diversion of the early hours, lovely prizes being awarded to Mrs. C. E. Kennedy and Mrs. E. J. Longacre for capturing honors. A brief business session followed, and plans for future activities were discussed.

In serving a delicious Hallowe'en lunch, the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Mann and Mrs. D. Fenton.

The next meeting will occur on November 15, with Mrs. Kennedy of Harrison street.

W. E. Assembly

Misses Virginia and Thelma Keiber were guests at the W. E. assembly, Wednesday evening, in the home of Mrs. Ben Hartland, on Hazel street.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Everett Arrow, Mrs. Lois Arrow and Mrs. Ray Richards, and following several rounds of interesting card playing, dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Jesse Dufford, of Huron avenue, will have the next meeting, on November 7.

TURCO-SCARNATI WEDDING EVENT

A number of relatives and friends attended the pretty autumn wedding of Miss Jeanne Turco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turco, of rear 518 Pearson street, and Peter Scarnati, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scarnati, of 409 Shadyside, on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the St. Vitus church. The Rev. Fr. Nicholas DeMita, officiated.

Miss Turco was attractively gowned in white satin with a lace jacket and a veil of real lace. She carried calla lilies, orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Phyllis Zappi, of Youngstown, the maid of honor, wore a green satin gown with harmonizing accessories. Her bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. Tony Angelo, of Kittanning, served as best man.

Four young women who served as bridesmaids were lovely in pink gowns with matching accessories. They were the Misses Rose Capp, Madeline Smarelli, Josephine Pavone and Mary Scarnati. The ushers included Fred Turco, Louis Scarnati, Dominick Scarnati and William Scarnati. James Scarnati was ring bearer and Hortense Scarnati was veil carrier.

Friends and relatives of the couple, numbering close to 100 persons, gathered in the Roma restaurant, 13 South Mercer street, on Thursday afternoon where they enjoyed a sumptuous dinner. On Thursday evening a reception was tendered the newlyweds at 409 Shadyside.

The out-of-town guests included Egio DiCola and daughter, Dena, of Kent, O.; William and Mary Scarnati, of Brockway, Pa. During the serving of the meal, Nunzio Giardini and John Strizzi featured with several recitations. Dispensing with a honeymoon for the present, Mr. and Mrs. Scarnati will reside at 409 Shadyside.

KLINE SISTERS HAVE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The home of the Kline sisters on Beckford street, was an appropriate setting Thursday evening for the "ghostly" masquerade party of the Loyal Band class of the Third United Presbyterian church, when 43 members of the class appeared, all disguised as ghosts.

After a period of identification Mrs. Elizabeth Harris and Mrs. Mary Lewis presented a program of games, with prizes going to the winners.

The refreshments were in keeping with the evening's idea of Hallowe'en, served by the hostesses and their aides; Mrs. Lottie Ishler, Mrs. Wanda Doone, Mrs. Lena Nolte, Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan.

November 6 the class will meet at the home of Mrs. Stella Pillifant, Hazen street.

HUSBANDS GUESTS AT CLUB EVENT

An evening party was held Thursday by members of the O. N. O. club at the home of Mrs. Maurice Boyd, Garfield avenue, with husbands as special guests. Sharing as co-hostesses were Mrs. Harvey Booher and Mrs. Ben Harlan, the latter of Ellwood City.

Cards filled in the hours with prizes going to Mrs. Harold Unangst, Jess Gehrkin and Mrs. Sam Rohrer. Following play, the hostesses served a bountiful chop suey dinner.

Plans were completed for a Hallowe'en party to be held on Tuesday evening of the coming week, at the Horchler hall, in Mahoningtown, with husbands as guests, while on November 27 the regular meeting will occur at the home of Mrs. Jack Conn, West Madison avenue.

MRS. LEWIS TO ATTEND PHILADELPHIA WEDDING

Mrs. J. C. Lewis, of Edison avenue, left today for Philadelphia, to spend the next two weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Daniel Mozart Davis.

She will be among a large number of guests at the wedding Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock, of her niece, Gertrude Marjorie Davis, to George Edmund Johnson, of Moore, Pa.

The wedding will take place in Norwood Methodist church, and will be a brilliant social event.

Evening Party

Miss Emeline Cearfoss, of 910 West Washington street, gave a party to a group of friends Wednesday evening, the hours being spent informally, with dancing, cards and games. Piano music by Mrs. O'Brien was enjoyed.

Lunch was a later issue, the aides including Mrs. H. C. Cearfoss, Mrs. N. A. Cearfoss, Mrs. Jack O'Brien and Mrs. Alice Gordon.

Brisco Club

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fazzone, of 204 Park avenue, delightfully entertained the members of the Brisco club in their home on Wednesday evening.

Cards and music proved the features of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served at an appropriate time.

PRIMARY FOLKS HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Mrs. Ethel Miller of Cunningham avenue, entertained the little tots of the Primary department, First Congregational church, in her home Thursday from the hours of 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 in the evening.

The event was in the form of a Hallowe'en gathering, the basement of the home being darkened with witchcraft novelties, lighted pumpkin faces, etc., lending a weird background. Games were enjoyed, and those winning prizes were Billy James, Jean Crawford, Peggy Lou Love and Lydia Betty Steinbrink.

Lunch was serve at miniature tables and chairs, places being marked with small baskets of candies and toys, which were given as favors to each. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Thomas Jr., Mrs. Joseph Leyde, Mrs. Reese T. Williams and Miss Lela Lewis.

OLD TIME REBEKAHS HONOR MRS. C. V. AILEY

As a courtesy to Mrs. Clyde V. Ailey, of Court street, who will leave, in November, for Crompton, Cal., to make her future home, Mrs. Charles D. Gray and Miss Bessie Durant entertained Old Time Rebekahs at a farewell party yesterday afternoon, in the Gray home on Court street.

The gift of a handsome lace table cover and recent pictures which have been taken of the club members, conveyed many good wishes to Mrs. Ailey for happiness in her new home. Hours were happily informal, with Mrs. Jane Krebs, of Angelica, N. Y., sharing in the pleasures. A lovely refection, in Hallowe'en tones, was served by the hostesses.

The first Wednesday in November Rebekahs will be guests in the home of Mrs. Harvey, 922 Beckford street, with Mrs. Hettie Rhodes, assistant hostess.

KENNETH GARRATT HOST AT MASQUERADE

Kenneth Garratt, Scott street, was host to a group of young people Thursday evening at a masquerade party in his home, which was cleverly decorated in all the seasonal suggestions, with pumpkin faces used in lighting the rooms.

The dining room was transformed into a dancing floor for the young people and Miss Mildred Carson entertained with piano numbers and songs. Kimmel Barber was in charge of an amusing group of games.

After the activities of the evening had subsided Mrs. L. D. Garratt, the host's mother, invited the group to the basement of the home, where a long table, with a fruit centerpiece, lighted with tall orange candles, was arranged and all manner of good things to eat were served.

BUTLER GROUP AT MISS MARY BERGER'S

Miss Mary Berger, North Mercer street, delightfully entertained a group from Butler Thursday afternoon at a dessert bridge in her home.

Small tables, centered with bud vases of baby mums, were used in serving dessert and afterward utilized for bridge.

The winning scores were held by Mrs. William Crucinger, Mrs. John Dillon and Mrs. Dana Fox, lovely prizes being awarded them.

Others from Butler in the group were Miss Grace O'Connor, Mrs. Austin Gormley, Mrs. William Heineman, Mrs. James Barton and Mrs. Bert Vance.

Nurses Honored

An enjoyable surprise party was held by the nurses of the New Castle hospital on October 22, when they entertained, informally, with cards, music and dancing in the home of Miss Frances Patton, Smithfield street. The affair honored the Misses Margaret Mizer of Terrace avenue and Frances Wallas of East Brook, the occasion being their birthday anniversaries.

After a social period, an appetizing menu was served to Miss Wallas, Miss Mizer, Rose Harble of Ellwood City, Gertrude Yuengert of Butler, Catherine Cunningham, Helen Kielar, Margaret Mizer, Inez Cory and Frances Patton, all of New Castle; Messrs Martin Dickey of Butler, John Winick, Louis Koch, William Patton of New Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patton.

Appointments of gold and pink were used throughout and those in charge of refreshments included Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Gibson.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honored guests.

Mothers Entertained

An enjoyable evening was spent in the dining room of Wesley M. E. church on Tuesday, when members of the Hi-Shi-Ni class entertained their mothers at a Hallowe'en frolic.

After the guests had arrived, a grand march was featured, as a source of much merriment. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Hogue. Prize winners were announced as Mrs. Thacker and Agnes Green.

Games of various kinds were entertaining, and in concluding a happy evening, refreshments were served to Mrs. Hogue, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Thacker, Marie Graham, Helen Hayes, Wanda Thacker, Vivian Hogue, Betty Jane Buchanan, Dottie Bacon, Ermn Matthews, Miss Clara Rech and Agnes Greene. Mrs. Peter Grittle was a special guest.

D. G. O. A. Party

Members of the D. G. O. A. club gathered at the home of Clair Haus, Ice Apartments, Boyles avenue Wednesday evening, in the manner of holding a Hallowe'en party.

The evening was pleasantly devoted to music, dancing and games, and all of the assembled guests joined in the merriment and many of the guests roared with laughter at the various costumes worn by themselves and friends.

At a very appropriate hour delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Everett McCracken, assisted by Mrs. Harvey Gamble, and the happy crowd wended their way homeward voting the affair a huge success.

O. G. Card Club

Mrs. Charles A. Brickner, Jr., of Euclid avenue, received members of the O. G. club for cards, Wednesday evening. High scores were won by Mrs. N. Walsh and Melba Brickner.

BALDWIN CLASS "HARD TIME" PARTY

Dresses that were patched, stockings that had runs and shoes down at the heel were the prevailing styles Thursday evening in the Highland church when 60 members of the Baldwin Bible class enjoyed a "hard time" party, and the group certainly looked the part.

"Pictures" formed the theme of the evening's entertainment, and as each member entered she placed a picture of herself, when a child, on a table, later these were numbered and Mrs. Frank Tyler won the prize for identifying the greatest number. The next form of entertainment was a guessing contest on famous pictures, which were represented by a table of household articles, the prize in this contest went to Mrs. C. W. Shaller.

During the entertainment a "photographer's gallery" was conducted by Mrs. James Cole and Mrs. Josephine Kison, and after all had been "took", the pictures were cut out and silhouettes thrown on a screen. Much laughter ensued as the members guessed the identities of the profiles .

After the entertainment a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harold McCulloch, when plans were made for a ladies' chorus to sing during the special meetings in Highland church, which begin next week. Mrs. June Bernard will conduct the chorus.

The closing feature of the evening came when the hostesses, Mrs. W. D. Jones, Mrs. T. J. McFate, Mrs. Bertha Smith, Mrs. J. W. Cartwright, Mrs. Fred Lipp, Ethel Moore, Mrs. Ed Rumbaugh and Mrs. John Haven, invited the group to partake of a "hard time" lunch. The long tables in the dining room were covered with newspapers instead of tablecloths, no flowers were used in decoration but the tables were artistically decorated with autumn leaves, ears of corn and pans of nuts, which later turned out to be acorns. At each place there was a "ghostly" favor, made of an apple and lolly pop, dressed in a white paper napkin, with a skeleton face and beside this was a package done up in newspaper which, when opened, contained the sandwiches; the hostesses passed large pans of doughnuts and glasses of cider, not a dish nor silver being used throughout the serving.

Mrs. Henry Halley and Mrs. J. Gayle Blim were awarded the prizes for the most poverty stricken costumes.

November 27 will mark the date of the next meeting.

Others from Butler in the group were Miss Grace O'Connor, Mrs. Austin Gormley, Mrs. William Heineman, Mrs. James Barton and Mrs. Bert Vance.

Nurses Honored.

An enjoyable surprise party was held by the nurses of the New Castle hospital on October 22, when they entertained, informally, with cards, music and dancing in the home of Miss Frances Patton, Smithfield street. The affair honored the Misses Margaret Mizer of Terrace avenue and Frances Wallas of East Brook, the occasion being their birthday anniversaries.

After a social period, an appetizing menu was served to Miss Wallas, Miss Mizer, Rose Harble of Ellwood City, Gertrude Yuengert of Butler, Catherine Cunningham, Helen Kielar, Margaret Mizer, Inez Cory and Frances Patton, all of New Castle; Messrs Martin Dickey of Butler, John Winick, Louis Koch, William Patton of New Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibson and Mr. and Mrs J. M. Patton.

Appointments of gold and pink were used throughout and those in charge of refreshments included Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Gibson.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honored guests.

Mothers Entertained

An enjoyable evening was spent in the dining room of Wesley M. E. church on Tuesday, when members of the Hi-Shi-Ni class entertained their mothers at a Hallowe'en frolic.

After the guests had arrived, a grand march was featured, as a source of much merriment. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Hogue. Prize winners were announced as Mrs. Thacker and Agnes Green.

Games of various kinds were entertaining, and in concluding a happy evening, refreshments were served to Mrs. Hogue, Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Thacker, Marie Graham, Helen Hayes, Wanda Thacker, Vivian Hogue, Betty Jane Buchanan, Dottie Bacon, Erma Matthews, Miss Clara Rech and Agnes Greene. Mrs. Peter Grittie was a special guest.

D. G. O. A. Party

Members of the D. G. O. A. club gathered at the home of Clair Haus, Ice Apartments, Boyles avenue Wednesday evening, in the manner of holding a Hallowe'en party.

The evening was pleasantly devoted to music, dancing and games, and all of the assembled guests joined in the merriment and many of the guests roared with laughter at the various costumes worn by themselves and friends.

At a very appropriate hour delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Everett McCracken, assisted by Mrs. Harvey Gamble, and the happy crowd wended their way homeward voting the affair a huge success.

NAVY DAY SATURDAY

NAVY DAY was sponsored in the first instance by the Navy League of the United States in 1922, and has been observed annually since that time.

October 27th was selected because of two significant events. First it was on October 27, 1775 that the resolution to authorize the federal purchase of several merchantmen and also to build men of war was passed by a committee of the Continental Congress. Second, October 27 is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States of America.

It will be remembered that President Roosevelt first achieved a national reputation by writing a naval history of the War of 1812, a work of such merit that it was incorporated into Clowe's Royal Navy, a monumental history of the British sea service. Later, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and finally as President, Roosevelt bent his tremendous energies to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate navy and endeavored, through his leadership, to realize his ideal.

In addition to paying a deserved tribute to the sea heroes of the nation and recalling the splendid part the Navy has played in making and keeping us a nation, the Navy Day observance has proved a valuable means of fostering a better understanding of our Navy and its work. Such information, in a country where government is by public opinion, is essential to the formation of correct judgments affecting naval and national policies, and in this work of information the Navy Day observance has played a considerable part.

Indeed, October 27 has yearly developed into a day of serious thought on the subject of reasonable naval defense.

CROPS AND DIETS

Diets and menus are not determined by fashions and weights alone. People eat certain foods at certain times for the purpose of reducing or gaining weight, or for health reasons or because other foods are scarce or too expensive.

The American diet during the coming winter will be affected by last summer's drought, the government's crop reduction program and price increases resulting therefrom. Families, irrespective of their means, instinctively turn to foods most plentiful and cheapest.

When most of the food supply was raised in the backyard of the family that consumed it the folks ate fruit when there was fruit, food prepared from grain when there was grain and vegetables when the truck garden flourished. When famine was abroad in the land people ate what they could dig up out of the earth, pick from trees or catch in the way of fish and game.

This is civilization, but man's diet is still governed in some degree by nature. More so, probably, than man commonly supposes.

But the dietary revisions that may be more or less compulsory until the 1935 harvest will not bet he cause of unhappiness or discontent at the average family table. The American housewife is resourceful and ingenius enough to put together what raw materials are at hand by some sort of magic produce something good to eat.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

Out of every meeting of the American College of Surgeons comes some good to mankind. Surgeons attending these sessions—one has just adjourned in Boston—return to their operating rooms better surgeons and the surgeon-scientists engaged in research work teach and learn.

The benefit that comes to the layman from these meetings is in the form of longer life, less pain and the comforting knowledge that the word "incurable" is slowly being erased from the dictionary.

Few meeting of the American College of Surgeons adjourn without producing at least one piece of startling news. The "front page stuff" this year was the development of a vaccine for the prevention of peritonitis.

Although the beneficiaries are not aware of it, surgery is constantly making advances, performing miracles and chacing upon remarkable discoveries. Much has been learned in the last 10 years, and yet the surgeon of 1934 will seem to the surgeon of 1944 to have been an ignorant fellow.

Looking back through the centuries one is likely to wonder how humanity survived all the plagues, accidents, ailments and diseases which have beset it. There was no such thing as medical science a few generations ago, unless blood-letting by barbers is scientific. It was not so many years ago that a merciful and intelligent surgeon in Holland saw his hospital burned to the ground because he invented an anaesthetic.

THE PROFESSOR'S LADY

The urge of a scientific age to reduce all sorts of things to formula has assuredly attained the ultimate, we think, in a chart of women's charms prepared by (of all people) a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Where poet and lover and genius and scholar through the ages—and even Fannie Hurst—failed in their efforts to approximate a description of woman's loveliness our sage of Massachusetts not only describes that pleasant mystery but takes it apart and puts a number beside each catalogued fragment of the whole.

Perhaps the less said about such things the better, and while we shall not say very much about it, here are the salient features:

Twenty points, the highest rating of all for any single attribute, an average weight for height and age.

Ten points for perfection in each of the following: Skin, feet and health.

Five points for excellence in each of these particulars: Hair, eyes, mouth, teeth, hands, posture, hearing, vision and clothing.

Three points for harmony of movement.

Two points for good lines and grace, while seated.

Thus our professor's perfect woman, and whether it all adds up to one hundred or not can't make a great deal of difference. For what lover will gaze into his darling's eyes and with pencil and paper and chart in hand murmur, My dear you only add up to sixty-two?

If he does we think he will get what's coming to him, and deserve it, too.

There's one way to see more of your children. You can spend the week-end at the home of their friends.

Too bad we can't all be as philosophic as a sun dial—which counts only the bright hours and forgets the rest.

IS THERE A RESERVE OF LOVE?

In that bitter but fascinating novel, "Journeying to the End of the Night," two men walk through the crowded streets of Paris.

One can see but the other is blind. The man who can see takes the arm of the blind man and helps him through the crowds. And as they go along the street, says the author:

"People turned around and were sorry for the poor blind man. There's pity in people for the blind and infirm; they really have got love in reserve. I'd often felt the presence of this love in reserve. There's any amount of it. No good saying there isn't. Only it's a pity people should still be such sods, with so much love in reserve. It stays where it is, that's what. It's stuck away inside and doesn't come out, doesn't do them any good. They die of love—inside."

People turned to that fumbling blind man, even though they knew nothing about him, and did not know how he had lost his sight. He wasn't, really, of much use as a human being. He was a coward. He was a thief. He had been a false friend, false in nearly every human relationship. He was lazy, envious, brutal. And he had lost his sight while trying, in return for a very little money, to blow up an old woman by setting a bomb in her chicken house. . . . She continued her spry old way through life, and he went searching through darkness, no better than before.

But people pitied him. And turned the golden key in their hearts that opened up a reserve of love for him. . . . Celine wants us to know and to remain aware that this reserve of love is within us, whatever we may think or do. Though we snarl and whine, complain and slash out at our fellows, we are to remember that they carry a reserve love in their hearts and that we, too, have that secret supply of untapped love. The other fellow is not so crabbed as he thinks he is, nor as you think he is, and neither are we as self-sufficient as we pretend to be.

We are sometimes surprised at our weaker, discreditable actions. But we are occasionally just as surprised by our own powers of tenderness, consideration, unselfishness and love—when the reservoir of decency within us overflows in friendly action toward our fellows.

"HEAR NO EVIL, SPEAK NO ——"

If your neighbors engage in a quarrel, be deaf, dumb and blind to what takes place.

You may feel that one of the participants is wrong and the other is right and you may think that you should go to the aid of the latter.

Keep out of it—why should you be entangled with those quarrelling?

In most sections there are persons who foment trouble.

They seem to look for it and enjoy it.

It takes little to rouse them to any sort of battle.

Frequently they are tale-bearers and general distributors of gossip.

Keep aloof from such if you value your peace of mind.

In some neighborhoods the families go without quarrels years on end.

It is because these families strictly mind their own business.

They are willing to give and take the few things that come up which do not please them.

If they have habits that displease or offend their neighbors they are willing to abstain from them, or at least be less offensive about it.

They don't make a big fuss over their neighbors' actions which displease them. They live in harmony.

It can be done!

ACQUAINTANCES AND FRIENDS

Acquaintances will gather round
With flattery and loud acclaim
Where glittering wealth and power are found.
They rush to share the light of fame.

Acquaintances will kindly be
And offer gifts both great and small
To victors, who are trouble free
And have no need of gifts at all.

But when you blunder and you fail,
And difficult the course you steer;
When bitterly your foes assail
The flattering strangers disappear.

Good friends are those devoted few
Who, whether goals be near or far
Or joy or sorrow come to you
Remain your friends for what you are.

"Sometimes they live in holes and sometimes they crawl into the sugar bole, and sometimes they live with their married sisters.

"That is all I know about Ants."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight, 5:05. Sun rises tomorrow, 6:23.

Sooner or later the bad boys who go around robbing and killing get what is coming to them. They often don't get it soon enough, however.

After an organization passes a vigorous resolution they imagine the victim of it's wrath prone on the ground wriggling in agony.

C. H. T. admits he is "probably a bit old-fashioned' but somehow he can't get used to seeing a slender pretty girl up at the bar shaking dice for a 26 ounce glass of beer."

For the matter of that, neither can we, who pride ourself we're among the moderns. However, we can't visualize a 26 ounce glass of beer, either.

In some places beer drinking must be a highly developed form of scientific irrigation.

Doubtless Mitchell means that fifty dirigibles could destroy Japan if somebody knew how to manage them and the weather.

A few days ago we said that a good pie could not be made out of squash. The next day we received some squash pie that was the best ever. We cannot mention any kind of cats any more because some one will send us some. We do it innocently but some think we are panhandling.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

He was an aviation ace in the war and found himself out of a job. So as a last resort he went to the proprietor of a warehouse and asked for work.

"What was your last occupation?" the applicant was asked.

"Pilot."

"Just the man, I want," said the boss. "See all that truck strewn around the warehouse? "Well, go out there and pilot up like it should be."

Mr. Sinclair's platform and poverty in California is attracting all the bums in the United States. It will be a case of more poverty than ever in that state instead of ending it. Just another case of bull throwing to attract the voters of those who don't think even after they get stung.

I wonder if you've heard about the Scot who tucked a pair of socks in the pocket of his pajamas before he sent them to the laundry.

In the foreword of a recent book Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt writes that parents can spend their time in no better way "than in getting to know their children."

Uh, huh!

—Continues Mrs. Roosevelt:

"A mature attitude toward life which gives young people the power to live moderately and to develop reliability and steadfastness of character together with an emotional nature which is under control, should be the aim for which all parents strive."

In the old days necessity was the mother of invention. Now, Alas! invention is the mother of necessity.

The old wall phones had one advantage. People didn't talk so long when they couldn't sit down at it.

THINK IN DOLLARS—NOT PENNIES

It's all right to look out for the pennies, but if you aspire to greater things, learn to think in terms of dollars. . . . thousands of them. The man who holds a penny so close to his eyes that he can't see the sun, will never discover wealth that lies about him.

Men at the head of big business are there because they trained themselves to think in terms of large sums. The man at the head of a small business who remains there year after year has not trained himself to think in terms of money beyond his business requirements. The small salaried man thinks in terms of his own earnings Train yourself to think in terms of thousands instead of tens of dollars. Don't let penny vision dwarf your dollar perspective.

The World At A Glance

Nov. 6 Victory May Not Be Godsend Roosevelt Faced By Many Dissindents He Himself Comes To Forks Of The Road

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The tremendous Democratic victory nationally that is predestined on Nov. 6 may not be a godsend to the Roosevelt administration. As a moral mandate it will be without precedent, something like Hitler's victory in Germany. Hitler, however, disqualifid the opposition.

President Roosevelt has disqualified nobody. He could not, nor would he if he could.

But his chief tactician, James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, has done something that may, in the end, prove as damaging to the Roosevelt cause. He has, in some states, turned on the Progressives who have been Roosevelt supporters, and has been trying to displace them with Old Deal Democrats.

The one place where the administration is giving tacit support to a Progressive is in Wisconsin, where Senator Robert F. La Follette stands to win over John M. Callahan, conservative Democrat. But Phillip La Follette, seeking to regain the governorship from Governor Schmedeman, Democrat, probably will lose.

The Progressives in congress cannot abide by all the articles of the New Deal (if they can decipher what they are) any more than can the reactionary Democrats.

And the radical Democrats, such as the Longs and the Bilbos, will have no truck with such middle-of-the-roaders as the Rooseveltians.

In addition, the individualists, such as Donahey of Ohio (certain to win) and Costigan of Colorado, will make up their own minds.

And joining hands with all the dissident groups will be all the standpat Republicans who remain.

As throughout the world liberal groups win victories at the polls, the greatest danger to liberalism appears because of a multiplicity of groups and because of a negative program instead of a positive program that would catch the popular appeal.

The public tires of parliamentary maneuvers and calls for action. Whereupon, by subtly promising action, dictators, bigots and other cruel minority figures step into power. Then, of course, all liberty ends.

* * *

ROOSEVELT COURSE

President Roosevelt will have to make a decision early in the sessions of the new congress.

That decision—according to competent Washington observers — is whether he will go left or go right. The pressure will be too great for him to remain in the middle of the road. Yet he may risk it—and win.

But it looks now as if early in the new session of congress he will come to the forks in the road. One will be left, one will be right.

The president's greatest test will not come on his social measures. It will come on public spending. Some day there will have to be an end. Permanent measures, permanent means of protecting the citizenry, will have to be adopted.

To save the budget, the huge employing interests may support the broadest kind of social welfare measures.

But the majority in congress will be against saving the budget.

* * *

PLOUGHING UNDER

With the Republican critics themselves "ploughed under", the administration's ploughing under program of economics will find its stiffest opposition hereafter from the Socialists.

Norman Thomas is going up and down the country denouncing an economic scheme that calls for destruction of foodstuffs, while millions are suffering from malnutrition from insufficient food.

The Socialists, of course, would nationalize industry in order to give an equal livelihood to all workers so that the workers would have the money to buy foods.

* * *

The American Legion convention created as much tension in Wall Street as in the White House.

Wall Street looked upon a call for bonus cash as the last straw.

When Edward A. Hayes, retiring commander, said in his annual report that the Legion's Americanism program had dealt direct blows to radical, pacifist and Communist groups "disseminating poisonous propaganda", there was a slight relief in Wall Street, but an evident increase in tension in Washington.

Wall Street hoped that the convention would continue to dwell on that familiar key.

Washington was not so eager to hear that old note.

There is a growing fear that organizations composed of former military men may take matters into their own hands, to the harm of law and order and representative government, itself.

A growing number of vigilante raids is cited. Then there was the case recently of the hearing of an alleged Communist youth in Brooklyn. A group of Veterans of American Foreign Wars decided to attend the meeting en masse "to preserve order" against Communists.

The integrity of justice may be seriously impaired by mass appearances in courtrooms—or at public gatherings, or in legislative halls.

TODAY Is The Day

FRIDAY, OCT. 26

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 26, 1914—Flags flew in Berlin because it was the birthday of the long dead Helmuth Carl Bernhard Von Moltke, for 30 years chief of staff of the Prussian army, the greatest strategist of the 19th century, and the creator of the modern method of directing armies in the field.

The aura of the name was responsible for the fact that another Helmuth Von Moltke, a nephew, was in command of the German armies that inundated eastern and western frontiers in 1914. He was too anxious to make a name for himself to adhere to the precepts of his uncle or stick to the plan for the advance on Paris drawn up by his great predecessor, Von Schlieffen, and now just three months after he set in motion the most efficient army of modern times, he was so conspicuous a failure, that he was removed from his post in the supreme headquarters—as he already had been from the field command, and demoted to perfunctory duties in Berlin.

The German people were not allowed to know that their new Von Moltke had failed. It was announced that he had been relieved because of ill health. The German people were being allowed to know but very little of the truth.

We know from Maximilian Harden, the famous wartime editor of Die Zukunft of Berlin, that the people were kept in ignorance of the deportation of hostages from Belgium and Northern France, of the fact and significance of the retreat from the Marne, of the terrible failures at Ypres, the Zeppelin disasters, the total losses in killed, prisoners, ships, airships—"these things were deliberately hushed up." All around one saw "nothing but liars, plunders, lawbreakers and frauds; all of whom, however, had been decorated with honors."

The news that come to Von Moltke's successor, Falkenhayn, of the imminence of Turkey's entry into the war on the German side brightened to some extent the reports that day from the armies east and west. In the east they evacuated Lodz; in the west they were repulsed in phases of the battles on the Yser and Ypres fronts.

Dixmude on the 26th was the scene of a terrible fight. The Belgian army was "holding the line." Following two months' hard fighting that ended in the long and discouraging retreat from Antwerp the weary men went into the trenches without opportunity to sleep or rest. They had nothing to drink except the water from the canal they were guarding, and no hot food. The wounded were carried back from the firing-line, plastered with mud from head to foot. The men on the firing line were so close to the German lines that they had to endure the rain of shells hurled from their own guns.

One resource was left to the Allies and they used it. A line of dykes kept the North Sea from beating into this low, shifting sand coast of West Flanders which Belgians by laborous thrift had converted into farming land. It was kept drained by a system of ditches and sluices. Allied engineers closed the sluices at Nieuport, no land-water was permitted to enter the sea, while at high-tide the sea was introduced into the canal to push back the land-water. Slowly the country was flooded. To hasten the spread, Belgian and French artillery during the 25th and succeeding days fired shells into the raised bank of the canal. From the 25th onward, the Germans, on the west side of the Yser, were in a trap. Their only chance of escaping was to capture Nieuport, and obtain control of the sluice gates.

NAVY DAY SATURDAY

NAVY DAY was sponsored in the first instance by the Navy League of the United States in 1922, and has been observed annually since that time.

October 27th was selected because of two significant events. First it was on October 27, 1775 that the resolution to authorize the federal purchase of several merchantmen and also to build men of war was passed by a committee of the Continental Congress. Second, October 27 is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States of America.

It will be remembered that President Roosevelt first achieved a national reputation by writing a naval history of the War of 1812, a work of such merit that it was incorporated into Clowe's Royal Navy, a monumental history of the British sea service. Later, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and finally as President, Roosevelt bent his tremendous energies to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate navy and endeavored, through his leadership, to realize his ideal.

In addition to paying a deserved tribute to the sea heroes of the nation and recalling the splendid part the Navy has played in making and keeping us a nation, the Navy Day observance has proved a valuable means of fostering a better understanding of our Navy and its work. Such information, in a country where government is by public opinion, is essential to the formation of correct judgments affecting naval and national policies, and in this work of information the Navy Day observance has played a considerable part.

Indeed, October 27 has yearly developed into a day of serious thought on the subject of reasonable naval defense.

CROPS AND DIETS

Diets and menus are not determined by fashions and weights alone. People eat certain foods at certain times for the purpose of reducing or gaining weight, or for health reasons or because other foods are scarce or too expensive.

The American diet during the coming winter will be affected by last summer's drought, the government's crop reduction program and price increases resulting therefrom. Families, irrespective of their means, instinctively turn to foods most plentiful and cheapest.

When most of the food supply was raised in the backyard of the family that consumed it the folks ate fruit when there was fruit, food prepared from grain when there was grain and vegetables when the truck garden flourished. When famine was abroad in the land people ate what they could dig up out of the earth, pick from trees or catch in the way of fish and game.

This is civilization, but man's diet is still governed in some degree by nature. More so, probably, than man commonly supposes.

But the dietary revisions that may be more or less compulsory until the 1935 harvest will not bet he cause of unhappiness or discontent at the average family table. The American housewife is resourceful and ingenius enough to put together what raw materials are at hand by some sort of magic produce something good to eat.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

Out of every meeting of the American College of Surgeons comes some good to mankind. Surgeons attending these sessions—one has just adjourned in Boston—return to their operating rooms better surgeons and the surgeon-scientists engaged in research work teach and learn.

The benefit that comes to the layman from these meetings is in the form of longer life, less pain and the comforting knowledge that the word "incurable" is slowly being erased from the dictionary.

Few meeting of the American College of Surgeons adjourn without producing at least one piece of startling news. The "front page stuff" this year was the development of a vaccine for the prevention of peritonitis.

Although the beneficiaries are not aware of it, surgery is constantly making advances, performing miracles and chacing upon remarkable discoveries. Much has been learned in the last 10 years, and yet the surgeon of 1934 will seem to the surgeon of 1944 to have been an ignorant fellow.

Looking back through the centuries one is likely to wonder how humanity survived all the plagues, accidents, ailments and diseases which have beset it. There was no such thing as medical science a few generations ago, unless blood-letting by barbers is scientific. It was not so many years ago that a merciful and intelligent surgeon in Holland saw his hospital burned to the ground because he invented an anaesthetic.

THE PROFESSOR'S LADY

The urge of a scientific age to reduce all sorts of things to formula has assuredly attained the ultimate, we think, in a chart of women's charms prepared by (of all people) a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Where poet and lover and genius and scholar through the ages—and even Fannie Hurst—failed in their efforts to approximate a description of woman's loveliness our sage of Massachusetts not only describes that pleasant mystery but takes it apart and puts a number beside each catalogued fragment of the whole.

Perhaps the less said about such things the better, and while we shall not say very much about it, here are the salient features:

Twenty points, the highest rating of all for any single attribute, an average weight for height and age.

Ten points for perfection in each of the following: Skin, feet and health.

Five points for excellence in each of these particulars: Hair, eyes, mouth, teeth, hands, posture, hearing, vision and clothing.

Three points for harmony of movement.

Two points for good lines and grace, while seated.

Thus our professor's perfect woman, and whether it all adds up to one hundred or not can't make a great deal of difference. For what lover will gaze into his darling's eyes and with pencil and paper and chart in hand murmur, My dear you only add up to sixty-two?

If he does we think he will get what's coming to him, and deserve it, too.

There's one way to see more of your children. You can spend the week-end at the home of their friends.

Too bad we can't all be as philosophic as a sun dial—which counts only the bright hours and forgets the rest.

IS THERE A RESERVE OF LOVE?

In that bitter but fascinating novel, "Journeying to the End of the Night," two men walk through the crowded streets of Paris.

One can see but the other is blind. The man who can see takes the arm of the blind man and helps him through the crowds. And as they go along the street, says the author:

"People turned around and were sorry for the poor blind man. There's pity in people for the blind and infirm; they really have got love in reserve. I'd often felt the presence of this love in reserve. There's any amount of it. No good saying there isn't. Only it's a pity people should still be such sods, with so much love in reserve. It stays where it is, that's what. It's stuck away inside and doesn't come out, doesn't do them any good. They die of love—inside."

People turned to that fumbling blind man, even though they knew nothing about him, and did not know how he had lost his sight. He wasn't, really, of much use as a human being. He was a coward. He was a thief. He had been a false friend, false in nearly every human relationship. He was lazy, envious, brutal. And he had lost his sight while trying, in return for a very little money, to blow up an old woman by setting a bomb in her chicken house. . . . She continued her spry old way through life, and he went searching through darkness, no better than before.

But people pitied him. And turned the golden key in their hearts that opened up a reserve of love for him. . . . Celine wants us to know and to remain aware that this reserve of love is within us, whatever we may think or do. Though we snarl and whine, complain and slash out at our fellows, we are to remember that they carry a reserve love in their hearts and that we, too, have that secret supply of untapped love. The other fellow is not so crabbed as he thinks he is, nor as you think he is, and neither are we as self-sufficient as we pretend to be.

We are sometimes surprised at our weaker, discreditable actions. But we are occasionally just as surprised by our own powers of tenderness, consideration, unselfishness and love—when the reservoir of decency within us overflows in friendly action toward our fellows.

"HEAR NO EVIL, SPEAK NO ——"

If your neighbors engage in a quarrel, be deaf, dumb and blind to what takes place.

You may feel that one of the participants is wrong and the other is right and you may think that you should go to the aid of the latter.

Keep out of it—why should you be entangled with those quarrelling?

In most sections there are persons who foment trouble.

They seem to look for it and enjoy it.

It takes little to rouse them to any sort of battle.

Frequently they are tale-bearers and general distributors of gossip.

Keep aloof from such if you value your peace of mind.

In some neighborhoods the families go without quarrels years on end.

It is because these families strictly mind their own business.

They are willing to give and take the few things that come up which do not please them.

If they have habits that displease or offend their neighbors they are willing to abstain from them, or at least be less offensive about it.

They don't make a big fuss over their neighbors' actions which displease them. They live in harmony.

It can be done!

ACQUAINTANCES AND FRIENDS

Acquaintances will gather round
With flattery and loud acclaim
Where glittering wealth and power are found.
They rush to share the light of fame.

Acquaintances will kindly be
And offer gifts both great and small
To victors, who are trouble free
And have no need of gifts at all.

But when you blunder and you fail,
And difficult the course you steer;
When bitterly your foes assail
The flattering strangers disappear.

Good friends are those devoted few
Who, whether goals be near or far
Or joy or sorrow come to you
Remain your friends for what you are.

THINK IN DOLLARS—NOT PENNIES

It's all right to look out for the pennies, but if you aspire to greater things, learn to think in terms of dollars....thousands of them. The man who holds a penny so close to his eyes that he can't see the sun, will never discover wealth that lies about him.

Men at the head of big business are there because they trained themselves to think in terms of large sums. The man at the head of a small business who remains there year after year has not trained himself to think in terms of money beyond his business requirements. The small salaried man thinks in terms of his own earnings Train yourself to think in terms of thousands instead of tens of dollars. Don't let penny vision dwarf your dollar perspective.

The World At A Glance

Nov. 6 Victory May Not Be Godsend Roosevelt Faced By Many Dissindents He Himself Comes To Forks Of The Road

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The tremendous Democratic victory nationally that is predestined on Nov. 6 may not be a godsend to the Roosevelt administration. As a moral mandate it will be without precedent, something like Hitler's victory in Germany. Hitler, however, disqualifid the opposition.

President Roosevelt has disqualified nobody. He could not, nor would he if he could.

But his chief tactician, James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, has done something that may, in the end, prove as damaging to the Roosevelt cause. He has, in some states, turned on the Progressives who have been Roosevelt supporters, and has been trying to displace them with Old Deal Democrats.

The one place where the administration is giving tacit support to a Progressive is in Wisconsin, where Senator Robert F. La Follette stands to win over John M. Callahan, conservative Democrat. But Phillip La Follette, seeking to regain the governorship from Governor Schmedeman, Democrat, probably will lose.

The Progressives in congress cannot abide by all the articles of the New Deal (if they can decipher what they are) any more than can the reactionary Democrats.

And the radical Democrats, such as the Longs and the Bilbos, will have no truck with such middle-of-the-roaders as the Rooseveltians.

In addition, the individualists, such as Donahey of Ohio (certain to win) and Costigan of Colorado, will make up their own minds.

And joining hands with all the dissident groups will be all the standpat Republicans who remain.

As throughout the world liberal groups win victories at the polls, the greatest danger to liberalism appears because of a multiplicity of groups and because of a negative program instead of a positive program that would catch the popular appeal.

The public tires of parliamentary maneuvers and calls for action. Whereupon, by subtly promising action, dictators, bigots and other cruel minority figures step into power. Then, of course, all liberty ends.

* * *

ROOSEVELT COURSE

President Roosevelt will have to make a decision early in the sessions of the new congress.

That decision—according to competent Washington observers — is whether he will go left or go right. The pressure will be too great for him to remain in the middle of the road. Yet he may risk it—and win.

But it looks now as if early in the new session of congress he will come to the forks in the road. One will be left, one will be right.

The president's greatest test will not come on his social measures. It will come on public spending. Some day there will have to be an end. Permanent measures, permanent means of protecting the citizenry, will have to be adopted.

To save the budget, the huge employing interests may support the broadest kind of social welfare measures.

But the majority in congress will be against saving the budget.

* * *

PLOUGHING UNDER

With the Republican critics themselves "ploughed under", the administration's ploughing under program of economics will find its stiffest opposition hereafter from the Socialists.

Norman Thomas is going up and down the country denouncing an economic scheme that calls for destruction of foodstuffs, while millions are suffering from malnutrition from insufficient food.

The Socialists, of course, would nationalize industry in order to give an equal livelihood to all workers so that the workers would have the money to buy foods.

TENSION

The American Legion convention created as much tension in Wall Street as in the White House.

Wall Street looked upon a call for bonus cash as the last straw.

When Edward A. Hayes, retiring commander, said in his annual report that the Legion's Americanism program had dealt direct blows to radical, pacifist and Communist groups "disseminating poisonous propaganda", there was a slight relief in Wall Street, but an evident increase in tension in Washington.

Wall Street hoped that the convention would continue to dwell on that familiar key.

Washington was not so eager to hear that old note.

There is a growing fear that organizations composed of former military men may take matters into their own hands, to the harm of law and order and representative government, itself.

A growing number of vigilante raids is cited. Then there was the case recently of the hearing of an alleged Communist youth in Brooklyn. A group of Veterans of American Foreign Wars decided to attend the meeting en masse "to preserve order" against Communists.

The integrity of justice may be seriously impaired by mass appearances in courtrooms—or at public gatherings, or in legislative halls.

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 26, 1914—Flags flew in Berlin because it was the birthday of the long dead Helmuth Carl Bernhard Von Moltke, for 30 years chief of staff of the Prussian army, the greatest strategist of the 19th century, and the creator of the modern method of directing armies in the field.

The German people were not allowed to know that their new Von Moltke had failed. It was announced that he had been relieved because of ill health. The German people were being allowed to know but very little of the truth.

We know from Maximilian Harden, the famous wartime editor of Die Zukunft of Berlin, that the people were kept in ignorance of the deportation of hostages from Belgium and Northern France, of the fact and significance of the retreat from the Marne, of the terrible failures at Ypres, the Zeppelin disasters, the total losses in killed, prisoners, ships, airships—"these things were deliberately hushed up." In the east they evacuated Lodz; in the west they were repulsed in phases of the battles on the Yser and Ypres fronts.

Dixmude on the 26th was the scene of a terrible fight. The Belgian army was "holding the line." Slowly the country was flooded. To hasten the spread, Belgian and French artillery during the 25th and succeeding days fired shells into the raised bank of the canal. From the 25th onward, the Germans, on the west side of the Yser, were in a trap. Their only chance of escaping was to capture Nieuport, and obtain control of the sluice gates.

Oct. 26, 1774—The word American was born as a designation for a resident of this country. Patrick Henry, addressing the first Continental Congress which adjourned on this date, declared:

NAVY DAY SATURDAY

NAVY DAY was sponsored in the first instance by the Navy League of the United States in 1922, and has been observed annually since that time.

October 27th was selected because of two significant events. First it was on October 27, 1775 that the resolution to authorize the federal purchase of several merchantmen and also to build men of war was passed by a committee of the Continental Congress. Second, October 27 is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States of America.

It will be remembered that President Roosevelt first achieved a national reputation by writing a naval history of the War of 1812, a work of such merit that it was incorporated into Clowe's Royal Navy, a monumental history of the British sea service. Later, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy and finally as President, Roosevelt bent his tremendous energies to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate navy and endeavored, through his leadership, to realize his ideal.

In addition to paying a deserved tribute to the sea heroes of the nation and recalling the splendid part the Navy has played in making and keeping us a nation, the Navy Day observance has proved a valuable means of fostering a better understanding of our Navy and its work. Such information, in a country where government is by public opinion, is essential to the formation of correct judgments affecting naval and national policies, and in this work of information the Navy Day observance has played a considerable part.

Indeed, October 27 has yearly developed into a day of serious thought on the subject of reasonable naval defense.

CROPS AND DIETS

Diets and menus are not determined by fashions and weights alone. People eat certain foods at certain times for the purpose of reducing or gaining weight, or for health reasons or because other foods are scarce or too expensive.

The American diet during the coming winter will be affected by last summer's drought, the government's crop reduction program and price increases resulting therefrom. Families, irrespective of their means, instinctively turn to foods most plentiful and cheapest.

When most of the food supply was raised in the backyard of the family that consumed it the folks ate fruit when there was fruit, food prepared from grain when there was grain and vegetables when the truck garden flourished. When famine was abroad in the land people ate what they could dig up out of the earth, pick from trees or catch in the way of fish and game.

This is civilization, but man's diet is still governed in some degree by nature. More so, probably, than man commonly supposes.

But the dietary revisions that may be more or less compulsory until the 1935 harvest will not bet he cause of unhappiness or discontent at the average family table. The American housewife is resourceful and ingenius enough to put together what raw materials are at hand by some sort of magic produce something good to eat.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

Out of every meeting of the American College of Surgeons comes some good to mankind. Surgeons attending these sessions—one has just adjourned in Boston—return to their operating rooms better surgeons and the surgeon-scientists engaged in research work teach and learn.

The benefit that comes to the layman from these meetings is in the form of longer life, less pain and the comforting knowledge that the word "incurable" is slowly being erased from the dictionary.

Few meeting of the American College of Surgeons adjourn without producing at least one piece of startling news. The "front page stuff" this year was the development of a vaccine for the prevention of peritonitis.

Although the beneficiaries are not aware of it, surgery is constantly making advances, performing miracles and chacing upon remarkable discoveries. Much has been learned in the last 10 years, and yet the surgeon of 1934 will seem to the surgeon of 1944 to have been an ignorant fellow.

Looking back through the centuries one is likely to wonder how humanity survived all the plagues, accidents, ailments and diseases which have beset it. There was no such thing as medical science a few generations ago, unless blood-letting by barbers is scientific. It was not so many years ago that a merciful and intelligent surgeon in Holland saw his hospital burned to the ground because he invented an anaesthetic.

THE PROFESSOR'S LADY

The urge of a scientific age to reduce all sorts of things to formula has assuredly attained the ultimate, we think, in a chart of women's charms prepared by (of all people) a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Where poet and lover and genius and scholar through the ages—and even Fannie Hurst—failed in their efforts to approximate a description of woman's loveliness our sage of Massachusetts not only describes that pleasant mystery but takes it apart and puts a number beside each catalogued fragment of the whole.

Perhaps the less said about such things the better, and while we shall not say very much about it, here are the salient features:

Twenty points, the highest rating of all for any single attribute, an average weight for height and age.

Ten points for perfection in each of the following: Skin, feet and health.

Five points for excellence in each of these particulars: Hair, eyes, mouth, teeth, hands, posture, hearing, vision and clothing.

Three points for harmony of movement.

Two points for good lines and grace, while seated.

Thus our professor's perfect woman, and whether it all adds up to one hundred or not can't make a great deal of difference. For what lover will gaze into his darling's eyes and with pencil and paper and chart in hand murmur, My dear you only add up to sixty-two?

If he does we think he will get what's coming to him, and deserve it, too.

There's one way to see more of your children. You can spend the week-end at the home of their friends.

Too bad we can't all be as philosophic as a sun dial—which counts only the bright hours and forgets the rest.

IS THERE A RESERVE OF LOVE?

In that bitter but fascinating novel, "Journeying to the End of the Night," two men walk through the crowded streets of Paris.

One can see but the other is blind. The man who can see takes the arm of the blind man and helps him through the crowds. And as they go along the street, says the author:

"People turned around and were sorry for the poor blind man. There's pity in people for the blind and infirm; they really have got love in reserve. I'd often felt the presence of this love in reserve. There's any amount of it. No good saying there isn't. Only it's a pity people should still be such sods, with so much love in reserve. It stays where it is, that's what. It's stuck away inside and doesn't come out, doesn't do them any good. They die of love—inside."

People turned to that fumbling blind man, even though they knew nothing about him, and did not know how he had lost his sight. He wasn't, really, of much use as a human being. He was a coward. He was a thief. He had been a false friend, false in nearly every human relationship. He was lazy, envious, brutal. And he had lost his sight while trying, in return for a very little money, to blow up an old woman by setting a bomb in her chicken house. . . . She continued her spry old way through life, and he went searching through darkness, no better than before.

But people pitied him. And turned the golden key in their hearts that opened up a reserve of love for him. . . . Celine wants us to know and to remain aware that this reserve of love is within us, whatever we may think or do. Though we snarl and whine, complain and slash out at our fellows, we are to remember that they carry a reserve love in their hearts and that we, too, have that secret supply of untapped love. The other fellow is not so crabbed as he thinks he is, nor as you think he is, and neither are we as self-sufficient as we pretend to be.

We are sometimes surprised at our weaker, discreditable actions. But we are occasionally just as surprised by our own powers of tenderness, consideration, unselfishness and love—when the reservoir of decency within us overflows in friendly action toward our fellows.

"HEAR NO EVIL, SPEAK NO ——"

If your neighbors engage in a quarrel, be deaf, dumb and blind to what takes place.

You may feel that one of the participants is wrong and the other is right and you may think that you should go to the aid of the latter.

Keep out of it—why should you be entangled with those quarrelling?

In most sections there are persons who foment trouble.

They seem to look for it and enjoy it.

It takes little to rouse them to any sort of battle.

Frequently they are tale-bearers and general distributors of gossip.

Keep aloof from such if you value your peace of mind.

In some neighborhoods the families go without quarrels years on end.

It is because these families strictly mind their own business.

They are willing to give and take the few things that come up which do not please them.

If they have habits that displease or offend their neighbors they are willing to abstain from them, or at least be less offensive about it.

They don't make a big fuss over their neighbors' actions which displease them. They live in harmony.

It can be done!

ACQUAINTANCES AND FRIENDS

Acquaintances will gather round
With flattery and loud acclaim
Where glittering wealth and power are found.
They rush to share the light of fame.

Acquaintances will kindly be
And offer gifts both great and small
To victors, who are trouble free
And have no need of gifts at all.

But when you blunder and you fail,
And difficult the course you steer;
When bitterly your foes assail
The flattering strangers disappear.

Good friends are those devoted few
Who, whether goals be near or far
Or joy or sorrow come to you
Remain your friends for what you are.

ANTS, YEA VERILY!

A school teacher asked the pupils to write a short essay and to choose their own subjects. A little girl sent in the following paper:

"Sometimes they live in holes and sometimes they crawl into the sugar bole, and sometimes they live with their married sisters.

"That is all I know about Ants."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight, 5:05. Sun rises tomorrow, 6:23.

Sooner or later the bad boys who go around robbing and killing get what is coming to them. They often don't get it soon enough, however.

After an organization passes a vigorous resolution they imagine the victim of it's wrath prone on the ground wriggling in agony.

C. H. T. admits he is "probably a bit old-fashioned' but somehow he can't get used to seeing a slender pretty girl up at the bar shaking dice for a 26 ounce glass of beer."

For the matter of that, neither can we, who pride ourself we're among the moderns. However, we can't visualize a 26 ounce glass of beer, either.

In some places beer drinking must be a highly developed form of scientific irrigation.

In the foreword of a recent book Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt writes that parents can spend their time in no better way "than in getting to know their children."

Uh, huh!

—Continues Mrs. Roosevelt:

"A mature attitude toward life which gives young people the power to live moderately and to devolop reliability and steadfastness of character together with an emotional nature which is under control, should be the aim for which all parents strive."

The old wall phones had one advantage. People didn't talk so long when they couldn't sit down at it.

THINK IN DOLLARS—NOT PENNIES

It's all right to look out for the pennies, but if you aspire to greater things, learn to think in terms of dollars....thousands of them. The man who holds a penny so close to his eyes that he can't see the sun, will never discover wealth that lies about him.

Men at the head of big business are there because they trained themselves to think in terms of large sums. The man at the head of a small business who remains there year after year has not trained himself to think in terms of money beyond his business requirements. The small salaried man thinks in terms of his own earnings Train yourself to think in terms of thousands instead of tens of dollars. Don't let penny vision dwarf your dollar perspective.

Nov. 6 Victory May Not Be Godsend Roosevelt Faced By Many Dissindents He Himself Comes To Forks Of The Road

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The tremendous Democratic victory nationally that is predestined on Nov. 6 may not be a godsend to the Roosevelt administration. As a moral mandate it will be without precedent, something like Hitler's victory in Germany. Hitler, however, disqualifid the opposition.

President Roosevelt has disqualified nobody. He could not, nor would he if he could.

But his chief tactician, James A. Farley, national Democratic chairman, has done something that may, in the end, prove as damaging to the Roosevelt cause. He has, in some states, turned on the Progressives who have been Roosevelt supporters, and has been trying to displace them with Old Deal Democrats.

The one place where the administration is giving tacit support to a Progressive is in Wisconsin, where Senator Robert F. La Follette stands to win over John M. Callahan, conservative Democrat. But Phillip La Follette, seeking to regain the governorship from Governor Schmedeman, Democrat, probably will lose.

The Progressives in congress cannot abide by all the articles of the New Deal (if they can decipher what they are) any more than can the reactionary Democrats.

And the radical Democrats, such as the Longs and the Bilbos, will have no truck with such middle-of-the-roaders as the Rooseveltians.

In addition, the individualists, such as Donahey of Ohio (certain to win) and Costigan of Colorado, will make up their own minds.

And joining hands with all the dissident groups will be all the standpat Republicans who remain.

As throughout the world liberal groups win victories at the polls, the greatest danger to liberalism appears because of a multiplicity of groups and because of a negative program instead of a positive program that would catch the popular appeal.

The public tires of parliamentary maneuvers and calls for action. Whereupon, by subtly promising action, dictators, bigots and other cruel minority figures step into power. Then, of course, all liberty ends.

* * *

ROOSEVELT COURSE

President Roosevelt will have to make a decision early in the sessions of the new congress.

That decision—according to competent Washington observers — is whether he will go left or go right. The pressure will be too great for him to remain in the middle of the road. Yet he may risk it—and win.

But it looks now as if early in the new session of congress he will come to the forks in the road. One will be left, one will be right.

The president's greatest test will not come on his social measures. It will come on public spending. Some day there will have to be an end. Permanent measures, permanent means of protecting the citizenry, will have to be adopted.

To save the budget, the huge employing interests may support the broadest kind of social welfare measures.

But the majority in congress will be against saving the budget.

PLOUGHING UNDER

With the Republican critics themselves "ploughed under", the administration's ploughing under program of economics will find its stiffest opposition hereafter from the Socialists.

Norman Thomas is going up and down the country denouncing an economic scheme that calls for destruction of foodstuffs, while millions are suffering from malnutrition from insufficient food.

The Socialists, of course, would nationalize industry in order to give an equal livelihood to all workers so that the workers would have the money to buy foods.

TENSION

The American Legion convention created as much tension in Wall Street as in the White House.

Wall Street looked upon a call for bonus cash as the last straw.

When Edward A. Hayes, retiring commander, said in his annual report that the Legion's Americanism program had dealt direct blows to radical, pacifist and Communist groups "disseminating poisonous propaganda", there was a slight relief in Wall Street, but an evident increase in tension in Washington.

Wall Street hoped that the convention would continue to dwell on that familiar key.

Washington was not so eager to hear that old note.

There is a growing fear that organizations composed of former military men may take matters into their own hands, to the harm of law and order and representative government, itself.

A growing number of vigilante raids is cited. Then there was the case recently of the hearing of an alleged Communist youth in Brooklyn. A group of Veterans of American Foreign Wars decided to attend the meeting en masse "to preserve order" against Communists.

The integrity of justice may be seriously impaired by mass appearances in courtrooms—or at public gatherings, or in legislative halls.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

FRIDAY, OCT. 26

The World War Day-By-Day—Oct. 26, 1914—Flags flew in Berlin because it was the birthday of the long dead Helmuth Carl Bernhard Von Moltke, for 30 years chief of staff of the Prussian army, the greatest strategist of the 19th century, and the creator of the modern method of directing armies in the field.

The aura of the name was responsible for the fact that another Helmuth Von Moltke, a nephew, was in command of the German armies that inundated eastern and western frontiers in 1914. He was too anxious to make a name for himself to adhere to the precepts of his uncle or stick to the plan for the advance on Paris drawn up by his great predecessor, Von Schlieffen, and now just three months after he set in motion the most efficient army of modern times, he was so conspicuous a failure, that he was removed from his post in the supreme headquarters—as he already had been from the field command, and demoted to perfunctory duties in Berlin.

The German people were not allowed to know that their new Von Moltke had failed. It was announced that he had been relieved because of ill health. The German people were being allowed to know but very little of the truth.

We know from Maximilian Harden, the famous wartime editor of Die Zukunft of Berlin, that the people were kept in ignorance of the deportation of hostages from Belgium and Northern France, of the fact and significance of the retreat from the Marne, of the terrible failures at Ypres, the Zeppelin disasters, the total losses in killed, prisoners, ships, airships—"these things were deliberately hushed up." All arcund one saw "nothing but liars, plunders, lawbreakers and frauds; all of whom, however, had been decorated with honors."

The news that come to Von Moltke's successor, Falkenhayn, of the imminence of Turkey's entry into the war on the German side brightened to some extent the reports that day from the armies east and west. In the east they evacuated Lodz; in the west they were repulsed in phases of the battles on the Yser and Ypres fronts.

Dixmude on the 26th was the scene of a terrible fight. The Belgian army was "holding the line." Following two months' hard fighting that ended in the long and discouraging retreat from Antwerp the weary men went into the trenches without opportunity to sleep or rest. They had nothing to drink except the water from the canal they were guarding, and no hot food. The wounded were carried back from the firing-line, plastered with mud from head to foot. The men on the firing line were so close to the German lines that they had to endure the rain of shells hurled from their own guns.

One resource was left to the Allies and they used it. A line of dykes kept the North Sea from beating into this low, shifting sand coast of West Flanders which Belgians by laborous thrift had converted into farming land. It was kept drained by a system of ditches and sluices. Allied engineers closed the sluices at Nieuport, no land-water was permitted to enter the sea, while at high-tide the sea was introduced into the canal to push back the land-water. Slowly the country was flooded. To hasten the spread, Belgian and French artillery during the 25th and succeeding days fired shells into the raised bank of the canal. From the 25th onward, the Germans, on the west side of the Yser, were in a trap. Their only chance of escaping was to capture Nieuport, and obtain control of the sluice gates.

Girl, 12, Heroine Of Two Infantile Paralysis Attacks

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—Barbara Conover, 12, of Seattle is being hailed by physicians as the heroine of the infantile paralysis situation in the Pacific Northwest.

Barbara, already credited with saving the life of one child, now is aiding another, stricken with the rare and ultra-dangerous bulbar infantile paralysis.

The young girl is the only registered child in the city who has had the bulbar form of paralysis, and her blood is therefore invaluable for transfusion.

When Seattle's only victim of the disease so far, Robert Reed, died, Barbara volunteered to give her blood to save the youth's brother, Thomas, 7, who was also hit by the disease, and the saving of his life was credited to her.

Recently she again gave her blood to save a small boy. His improvement almost immediately was reported.

'Don't Burn Land!' Farmers Warned

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—A note of warning has been sent to all those in semi-arid sections by the United State soil erosion service, that the practice of burning the vegetation from idle lands should be stopped. This must be done if the conditions confronting the farmers of these districts are to be helped.

With cheat and other weeds combining to make agricultural conditions worse, numerous farmers have taken up burning as a means of combating weed spread and hoping for the increase of grass stands.

Instead of improving the land, A. L. Hafenrichter, of the erosion service, declares that burning of land increases run-off of moisture; tendency of soil to drift; that other weeds gain a foothold and that tiny grass seedlings are killed.

A WORD ABOUT OUR DIAMONDS

Have you hesitated to buy diamonds because you feel you have to be an expert to tell whether you are getting what you pay for? If you have, you're perfectly justified in doing so. It does require an expert. On the other hand, you probably realize that a good diamond is an investment, as well as an expression of esteem beyond any other gift you might choose. When this business was founded 12 years ago, we took those things into consideration. We decided that only one thing would ever overcome that hesitancy on the part of our customers: Reputation. We have earned our reputation for honesty, have guarded it zealously through the years. Today, when you decide to invest in a diamond ring, Jack Gerson helps you choose—and his reputation guards your investment.

Girl, 12, Heroine Of Two Infantile Paralysis Attacks

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash.—Barbara Conover, 12, of Seattle is being hailed by physicians as the heroine of the infantile paralysis situation in the Pacific Northwest.

Barbara, already credited with saving the life of one child, now is aiding another, stricken with the rare and ultra-dangerous bulbar infantile paralysis.

The young girl is the only registered child in the city who has had the bulbar form of paralysis, and her blood is therefore invaluable for transfusion.

When Seattle's only victim of the disease so far, Robert Reed, died, Barbara volunteered to give her blood to save the youth's brother, Thomas, 7, who was also hit by the disease, and the saving of his life was credited to her.

Recently she again gave her blood to save a small boy. His improvement almost immediately was reported.

Today Is The Day

cholera, the disease that wastes away the victim in one day and leaves no chance of recovery. (The organism is so virile that the bodies of persons dying of cholera are found to remain long warm, and the temperature may even rise after death!)

The epidemic had started in India, its ancient breeding place, and swept across Europe as fast as man could travel, like flames fanned by a person running with burning clothes, and killed more than 900,000 persons. In England alone, 50,547 died.

Oct. 26, 1905—One kingdom became two. Norway and Sweden agreed to disagree, dissolved their dual monarchy. Originally a Danish domain, Norway elected a 33-year-old Danish prince its king and provided the only instance in modern times of separate countries ruled by brothers—Christian IX of Denmark and Haakon VII of Norway.

Notable Nativities—George Jacques Danton (Don-tong), b. 1759, the farmer boy who became the firebrand who ignited the French Revolution. It devoured him. . . . William K. Vanderbilt, b. 1878, capitalist who is the largest single stockholder in the New York Central Railroad. . . . George Gordon Battle, b. 1868, nationally known New York lawyer. Like most successful New Yorkers, he came from a small town—in North Carolina. . . . John Leslie "Jackie" Coogan, b. 1914, who made a million dollars before he was 10. The million becomes his on his next birthday.

'Don't Burn Land!' Farmers Warned

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—A note of warning has been sent to all those in semi-arid sections by the United State soil erosion service, that the practice of burning the vegetation from idle lands should be stopped. This must be done if the conditions confronting the farmers of these districts are to be helped.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH LADIES ASSOCIATION

Mrs. James Speers extended the hospitality of her home on Pine street Thursday afternoon to members of the Ladies association of the First U. P. church. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Lockhart and Mrs. Raymond McBride.

The spirit of the Hallowe'en season was brought out in colorful table decorations, luncheon being served at 1 o'clock, buffet style, with the women helping themselves to the tasty viands arranged on the dining room table.

The afternoon was in charge of the president, Mrs. John Ingham and Mrs. Roy M. Jamison who arranged the program. They both gave interesting papers on "India", Mrs. Ingham dealing with Christian Women in India, and Mrs. Jamison telling about Women's Work in India. Current events concerning the country followed.

This evening in the First U. P. church the organization will sponsor a unique social affair, for which no admission will be charged, but to which everybody is invited.

However, guests will each bring a discarded hat—men being supposed to have these things, as well as women—and these will be exchanged for a nominal sum. A grand march with the folks conspicuous in their newly acquired headgear, is expected to provide heaps of fun, together with informal diversions.

Field Club Dance.

On Saturday evening members of the New Castle Field club will gather at the club house for their usual evening dance, this occasion, however, taking the form of a costume ball in observance of the Hallowe'en season. Mr. and Mrs. James B. Matthews will be hosts in charge of the activities, and an interesting program is in store for the mummers who attend.

A most delightful Hallowe'en frolic featured Thursday evening when the W. W. M. G. class of the Third U. P. church entertained more than 200 persons in the church assembly room, which was handsomely decorated for the event.

The grand march of masqueraders passed the judges stand early in the evening and awards were made Mrs. Willard Kimmel and Mrs. Ed Mitchell for the best costumes. Judges were Arthur Minnick, Rube McKibmen, Mrs. Earl McKnight, Mrs. Ed Book and Gilbert Colnot.

Bill McKnight and his orchestra played throughout the evening as the guests enjoyed themselves on "the spooky trail" in the fortune telling booth, getting their weights guessed, or fishing in the old fashioned well.

The concluding feature of the program was beautifully staged in the form of a fall style revue, with Mrs. Lula Kocher, Mrs. Ira Alford, Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Claire Lutz, Misses Kathryn Hopper and Charlene Bates as the models.

Refreshments were served from a booth decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season.

BESTYETTE BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Thomas Solomon, Long avenue, again proved herself a perfect hostess Thursday evening to associates of the Bestyette Bridge club. The event marked their regular meeting, and the leisure hours were devoted to contract bridge. Mrs. Ned Chapman was winner of the prize.

At a seasonable hour the guests were invited to the dining room, which was elaborately decorated in Hallowe'en suggestions, every detail to the N'th degree being in keeping with the season. A delectable menu was served at places cleverly arranged, the hostess being aided by Miss Dorothy Boyles.

Mrs. Ned Chapman of 1604 Highland avenue will extend hospitality to the club members in her home in two weeks.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH LADIES ASSOCIATION

Mrs. James Speers extended the hospitality of her home on Pine street Thursday afternoon to members of the Ladies association of the First U. P. church. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Lockhart and Mrs. Raymond McBride.

The spirit of the Hallowe'en season was brought out in colorful table deocrations, luncheon being served at 1 o'clock, buffet style, with the women helping themselves to the tasty viands arranged on the dining room table.

The afternoon was in charge of the president, Mrs. John Ingham and Mrs. Roy M. Jamison who arranged the program. They both gave interesting papers on "India", Mrs. Ingham dealing with Christian Women in India, and Mrs. Jamison telling about Women's Work in India. Current events concerning the country followed.

This evening in the First U. P. church the organization will sponsor a unique social affair, for which no admission will be charged, but to which everybody is invited.

However, guests will each bring a discarded hat—men being supposed to have these things, as well as women—and these will be exchanged for a nominal sum. A grand march with the folks conspicuous in their newly acquired headgear, is expected to provide heaps of fun, together with informal diversions.

Field Club Dance.

On Saturday evening members of the New Castle Field club will gather at the club house for their usual evening dance, this occasion, however, taking the form of a costume ball in observance of the Hallowe'en season. Mr. and Mrs. James B. Matthews will be hosts in charge of the activities, and an interesting program is in store for the mummers who attend.

Mrs. Lucy Pettit and Mrs. Marie Roof entertained the group with sketches and readings, after which there were games and music. Special guests included Mrs. Jennie Flemming of Santa Ann, Calif., a former resident of the city: Mrs. G. R. Mundwyer, Hoytville, O. Mrs. Roof and Mrs. Pettitt.

Mrs. W. G. Ayers and Mrs. Harry Black assisted the hostess in serving a delicious menu of refreshments.

SEASON'S PARTY FOR PARLEY-VOUS CLUB

A Hallowe'en party was held for members of the Parley-Vous club Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Robert Flack, Cascade street. Weird characters filed into the house at the appointed hour, and among them were two special guests, Mrs. M. E. Battley and Mrs. R. D. Barge.

A program of games, contests and various stunts enlivened the occasion. A special feature was a towel shower tendered Mrs. O. J. Davies and Mrs. Karl White in remembrance of their birthday anniversaries.

The participants were later seated about a beautifully decorated table, Hallowe'en suggestions being artistically used in the appointments. The hostess was assisted in serving lunch by her sister, Mrs. Ida Reynolds, and niece, Miss Elizabeth Reynolds.

The next meeting of the club will be held in November, the date to be decided, with Mrs. O. J. Davies, Martin street, hosstess.

Theta-Nu Club Meets.

Members of the Theta-Nu club met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Roy McGaffic, East Washington street. The occasion was in the form of a Hallowe'en party, the guests making their appearance in weird costumes. A guessing contest started the activities, and Mrs. T. Aiken was awarded the prize for this feature. In games, Mrs. Genevieve Johns was presented the trophy.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter Verna Mae, served a delicious lunch to 15 guests.

On Thursday, November 22, Mrs. Joseph Walters of Cunningham avenue will entertain.

West Side Club

Mrs. Frank Steckel, Mrs. Richard Hannon and Mrs. C. E. Fulkerson won pretty trophies in 500 at Thursday evening's meeting of the West Side Club in the home of Mrs. J. C. Carr on West Washington street. A tasty luncheon was a concluding pleasure, the hostess being assisted by her daughter, Catherine.

Mrs. James O'Loughlin of West Washington street will be hostess to the group in two weeks.

500 Club

Mrs. George Hurn of Galbraith avenue will be hostess to the 500 Club Tuesday evening, Oct. 30.

Saturday

O. M. K. CLUB HAS SEASON'S PARTY

Associates of the O. M. K. Club were entertained at a Hallowe'en masquerade party Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. W. G. Andrews, Highland avenue. Mrs. Florence McWilliams Tougnitz of California was a special guest of the members.

All were attired in clever costumes and prizes for the most original outfits were awarded to Mrs. Jessie Camblin and Mrs. Nettie Harry.

Upon being invited into the dining room the guests were served a tasty lunch by the hostess. Aides were Mrs. Will Jones, Mrs. Earl Jarrett and Miss Mary Andrews.

In two weeks Mrs. Daisy Brown of Hillcrest avenue will entertain members at their regular session.

Sisterhood Party

The Beth Shalom Sisterhood has arranged a most interesting Hallowe'en masquerade party for October 28 in the Beth Shalom Center, on Boyles avenue with a grand march of masquerades as a feature of the evening.

Mrs. Jack Gold, who is in charge of general arrangements, announces that prizes will be given for the best costumes and an evening of fun is assured.

P. W. C. Quilting Club.

The P. W. C. Quilting club members enjoyed an all day session at the home of Mrs. Samuel Winger, Volant, Thursday. A sumptuous tureen dinner was served at noon by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. A. Campbell. Following, the hours were devoted to quilting, chat and other pastimes.

Mrs. Clair Winger was a special guest of the day.

Mrs. Orville Potter of Hillcrest avenue, this city, will entertain at their next meeting, the date to be announced.

I. W. T. Club.

The home of Mrs. John Warneck, Marshall avenue, was the scene of an enjoyable meeting Thursday when members of the I. W. T. club met in regular session. Hallowe'en tones decorated the rooms and at 6 o'clock a delicious fish dinner was served.

Following, the hours were devoted to chat, music and other diversions. Special guests were Mrs. Ben Kennedy and Mrs. Pearl Hunter.

Their next meeting will take place November 8, Mrs. Christina Didiano of Moravia street extension, hostess.

Re Deal Club

Mrs. Claude Crill welcomed associates in the Re Deal club, Thursday evening, to her home on Adams street.

Miss Clara Bernine won the high score award, at bridge, tallies for which were of a Hallowe'en nature, like suggestions being developed in luncheon details. Mrs. Grace Crill assisted.

The next meeting will be on November 16, at the home of Miss Charlotte Alexander, of Smithfield street.

HOUSE DRESS PARTY AT THE NOSS HOME

Forty different styles of clever house dresses were worn by the forty women and girls who attended the Hallowe'en party Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. A. Noss, Mercer road, when the Mothers' Class members of the First Methodist church were guests.

The home was prettily decorated for the event and Mrs. Noss dispensed hospitality in her usual gracious manner.

The games and stunts were conducted by Mrs. John Black, with much merriment caused by the antics of the grown-ups as they played childish games.

Mrs. Charles Layton and her group had a most important part in the evening's program, for they served a most delicious menu of refreshments.

Mrs. Joseph Hunter, Moody avenue, will be hostess to the group November 9.

Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Taylor, 836 Beckford street, entertained 17 girls Thursday evening in their home in honor of their daughter, Viola, the date being the anniversary of her birth.

Games and music featured the evening, with prizes awarded in the various contests. The honored one received many lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Taylor.

FIRST U. P. CHURCH LADIES ASSOCIATION

Mrs. James Speers extended the hospitality of her home on Pine street Thursday afternoon to members of the Ladies association of the First U. P. church. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Lockhart and Mrs. Raymond McBride.

The spirit of the Hallowe'en season was brought out in colorful table decorations, luncheon being served at 1 o'clock, buffet style, with the women helping themselves to the tasty viands, arranged on the dining room table.

The afternoon was in charge of the president, Mrs. John Ingham and Mrs. Roy M. Jamison who arranged the program. They both gave interesting papers on "India", Mrs. Ingham dealing with Christian Women in India, and Mrs. Jamison telling about Women's Work in India. Current events concerning the country followed.

This evening in the First U. P. church the organization will sponsor a unique social affair, for which no admission will be charged, but to which everybody is invited.

However, guests will each bring a discarded hat—men being supposed to have these things, as well as women—and these will be exchanged for a nominal sum. A grand march with the folks conspicuous in their newly acquired headgear, is expected to provide heaps of fun, together with informal diversions.

Field Club Dance.

On Saturday evening members of the New Castle Field club will gather at the club house for their usual evening dance, this occasion, however, taking the form of a costume ball in observance of the Hallowe'en season. Mr. and Mrs. James B. Matthews will be hosts in charge of the activities, and an interesting program is in store for the mummers who attend.

FROLIC IN CHURCH PROVES ATTRACTIVE

A most delightful Hallowe'en frolic featured Thursday evening when the W. W. M. G. class of the Third U. P. church entertained more than 200 persons in the church assembly room, which was handsomely decorated for the event.

The grand march of masqueraders passed the judges stand early in the evening and awards were made Mrs. Willard Kimmel and Mrs. Ed Mitchell for the best costumes. Judges were Arthur Minnick, Rube McKibmen, Mrs. Earl McKnight, Mrs. Ed Bock and Gilbert Colnot.

Bill McKnight and his orchestra played throughout the evening as the guests enjoyed themselves on "the spooky trail" in the fortune telling booth, getting their weights guessed, or fishing in the old fashioned well.

The concluding feature of the program was beautifully staged in the form of a fall style revue, with Mrs. Lula Kocher, Mrs. Ira Alford, Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Claire Lutz, Misses Kathryn Hopper and Charlene Bates as the models.

Refreshments were served from a booth decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season.

BESTYETTE BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Thomas Solomon, Long avenue, again proved herself a perfect hostess Thursday evening to associates of the Bestyette Bridge club. The event marked their regular meeting, and the leisure hours were devoted to contract bridge. Mrs. Ned Chapman was winner of the prize.

At a seasonable hour the guests were invited to the dining room, which was elaborately decorated in Hallowe'en suggestions, every detail to the N'th degree being in keeping with the season. A delectable menu was served at places cleverly arranged, the hostess being aided by Miss Dorothy Boyles.

Mrs. Ned Chapman of 1604 Highland avenue will extend hospitality to the club members in her home in two weeks.

Legion Auxiliary Notes.

The American Legion auxiliary members will entertain at a party in the Legion Home this evening, starting at 8 o'clock. Cards, bingo and other diversions will be featured. The committee in charge will serve refreshments at the close of the contests.

1934 Club Notes

The 1934 Club members will meet on Thursday, Nov. 1, at the home of Mrs. Leighty, Clayton street.

FEDERATED JUNIORS HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION

Miss Esther Wallace will continue to head the organization of Federated Juniors, the coming year having been re-elected at the first fall meeting last evening, in the home of Mrs. Walter McKee, on Wallace avenue.

Her cabinet will be as follows: first vice president, Charlotte Bartlett: second vice president, Helen Jameson: first secretary, Martha Joe McGoun, second secretary, Martha Muse: first treasurer, Mildred Sneckenberger, second treasurer, Ruth Brennamen.

Chairman of committees were named: calling, Harriett Beadel: membership, Helen Weingartner; publicity, Julia Gordon, constitution, Martha Beadel.

The evening's discussion included plans for the Christmas party which will be given for a group of poor children, in December.

For next meeting, the third Thursday in November Esther Wallace and Charlotte Bartlett will give a resume of the convention which was held in Harrisburg, recently.

POLLOCK TEACHERS HALLOWE'EN FROLIC

Pollock avenue teachers, with their principal, James M. Hughes, laid aside their school cares, Thursday evening, and donned Hallowe'en costumes for an evening of fun at the home of one of their members, Miss Anna Shifman, on Wallace avenue.

Special guests were Mrs. Hughes, Misses Wilda Smith, Lois Biggins, and Paul Confield.

Amid a weird Hallowe'en atmosphere of jack-o-lanterns, goblins, black cats and other spooks, the jolly group played a variety of games with Mr. Hughes, Hazel Grossman and Rosalyn Safier carrying off the prizes. Peter Grittie, Jr., was given the award for the most comical outfit, that of a "devil" who kept the guests scared "out of their wits" most of the time.

The party was such a success that much credit reflects upon the committee. in charge, Misses Rosalyn Safier, Esther Lebo, Sylvia Lee Martin and Peter Grittie, Jr., who, of course, attended to the refreshments which were most appropriate.

Masquerade Party

Mrs. Frank Boran was awarded the prize for the best costume, among many, which were in attendance at the masquerade party in which Ritz Club members, participated, last evening, in the home of Mrs. Albert De Palmo, on Elm street.

Dancing and games were the main diversions with a song and dance number, by Mrs. James Bartlett and Mrs. James Bongivengo, featuring.

An appetizing chicken supper was served at midnight, with table appointments carried out in Hallowe'en colors and novelties.

Mrs. Fred Farone, of Center street will be the next hostess, November eighth.

Luncheon Affair

Mrs. Robert Hemphill, of South Jefferson street, was a gracious hostess to friends in the G. M. T. club, whom she entertained at a delicious chicken luncheon Thursday, in her home, the occasion honoring the hostess' own birthday.

Dainty tones of green, pink and white, combined with lovely flowers, adorned the tables, at which covers were arranged for fourteen. Aiding the hostess in serving were her daughter, Eleanor, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carl Hemphill and Mrs. G. Uder.

Music and visiting were avenues of pleasures, afterwards, and it was planned to meet again with Mrs. J. Smith, Beaver street, November 15.

Octova Club Guests

Mrs. Robert Adams of Fairmont avenue received as guests in her home Thursday members of the Octova Club. Bridge was featured and the prize for high honors was captured by Mrs. Harold Pyle. Mrs. Roy Samuels was a special guest of the event.

Lunch was served and following plans were formulated for a masquerade party, to be held on Tuesday evening of the coming week, with Mrs. Perry Rodgers of Walmo hostess. Their next regular session will take place in two weeks, with Mrs. Robert Dailey on Meyer avenue.

Gramoda Kensington

The members of the Gramoda Kensington motored to Youngstown, Ohio Thursday, where they had a delicious one o'clock luncheon in the home of Mrs. George Thomas, St. Louis avenue, with covers arranged for 9, with Mrs. Earl Miller as a special guest.

After the delicious menu had been served the women went on a sight seeing trip through the city.

November 8 the group will meet at luncheon at the home of Mrs. Mayo Porter, Wallace avenue.

Daughters Of Lydia

Mrs. J. Norman Martin, 302 North Mercer street, will receive the Daughters of Lydia of the First Presbyterian church in her home on Saturday at 3 p. m.

Stewardship will be the theme of the program, with Mrs. John M. Butz, Mrs. H. E. Bleakley, Mrs. Frank Douds and Miss Mary W. Clark taking part.

LOCAL CLUB GUESTS AT YOUNGSTOWN HOME

The home of Mary Lou Thomas of 88 St. Louis street, Youngstown, O., was opened to members of the Fort-Nighters Club Thursday evening, when they motored to her home city for a social session. The occasion was featured with the serving of dinner at a Youngstown tavern, and later, they enjoyed a contest in bridge at the Thomas residence.

Lovely prizes for honors were awarded to Julia Ann Jackson and Betty Johnston at conclusion of play. The hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Thomas, served an appetizing repast.

On November 8, the girls will assemble at the home of Miss "Bernie" Semler, at 802 Highland avenue.

HONEYMOON SHOWER HONORS MISS UBER

Miss Isabelle Shaw of West Cherry street provided a most delightful evening for a group of young women Thursday in the honor of Miss Julia Ann Uber, who is to be married Saturday.

The gathering took the form of a "honeymoon shower". The guests spent a part of the evening in a "towel hemming" contest, at the close of which the linen towels were presented to Miss Uber as souvenirs of the occasion. Chat and bingo were enjoyed and Miss Shaw, with the assistance of her mother, Mrs. Mary Shaw, and sister, Mrs. Ruth Maloney, served a delicious Hallowe'en lunch.

WE-FU CLUB HAS LUNCHEON EVENT

A delightful event for the We-Fu-Bridge club members was held on Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Harry Carlson, Laurel avenue, entertained at a beautifully appointed 1 o'clock luncheon, down town.

The tables were prettily arranged in tones suggestive of the season, and places marked for associates and one guest, Miss Josephine Miller. Mrs. Robert Allshouse of Youngstown, O., an out of town member who shared, and Mrs. Earl Yoho, were winners of the trophies in bridge, which featured.

Mrs. Allshouse will entertain at her home on Avondale avenue, Youngstown, in two weeks.

Modernistic Club

The Modernistic Club members participated in a novel "kid" party Wednesday evening at the home of Betty Conover on Pine street. The "youngsters" arrived in dainty frilled frocks, romper suits and neat gingham dresses to share the event. Bridge was enjoyed, the prizes going to Gertrude Harbert, Jane Leight and Mrs. Fred Wettich for honor scores.

A delicious lunch was served at the dining room table, which was elaborately decorated in Hallowe'en tones, the hostess being assisted by her mother, Mrs. Walter Conover. The rooms throughout were also suggestive of the present season.

In two weeks Miss Dorothy Cain of Ray street will entertain at their regular meeting.

Juniors Have Party

The Junior C. D. of A. had an interesting masquerade party Wednesday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall, North Jefferson street.

As each person entered she was escorted up the long stairway by a ghost to the room where the entire group joined in a grand march, with Miss Rose Uhl and Miss Margaret McGown acting as judges. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded Anna Gertrude O'Neill and Catherine Hannon.

The Rev. Fr. W. M. F. Galvin and Mrs. C. Kelley were special guests.

Refreshments were in charge of the committee.

G. W. C. Club.

Mrs. Marley Scott, Wilson avenue, was hostess to the G. W. C. club members Thursday afternoon in her home, with Miss Laura Johnston of Beaver Falls and Mrs. Walter Earl special guests.

Sewing, knitting and chatting were the pastimes that filled in the hours, and at an appropriate time the hostess, aided by Mrs. William Campbell and Mrs. Earl, served lunch.

In two weeks Mrs. Arthur Scott, Whippo street, will entertain members.

Alcanza Club

Mrs. Chester Minnick, Mrs. Jesse Kennedy and Mrs. David Griffith were guests at the Alcanza club gathering, interesting fifteen, Thursday evening in the Temple avenue home of Mrs. Ben Jones.

Attractive Hallowe'en decorations were in evidence about the house, and seasonable appointments prevailed in the tasty repast, serving which, Mrs. George Kennedy aided.

The November meeting will be in Mrs. Kennedy's home, the date undecided, on account of Thanksgiving.

Lotus Kensington.

Mrs. D. W. Byers, East street, extended hospitality to members of the Lotus Kensington in her home Thursday evening. Cards whiled away the leisure time, and at the close of the entertainment, lunch was served. Hallowe'en appointments prevailed throughout.

Their next session in two weeks will be held at the residence of Mrs. Joseph McCaskey, Sr., East Washington street.

KING'S DAUGHTERS AT WEDDELL HOME

Outstanding among the many masquarade parties of Thursday evening was that in the home of Mrs. C. W. Weddell, Wilmington avenue, when 26 members and guests of the King's Daughters class of the First Methodist church each arrayed in a different costume, arrived for the evening.

The women were dressed as brakemen, golfers, dudes and old fashionel dames and much merriment ensued as the group guessed who their friends were.

Interesting Meeting Of County Dealers Takes Place Thursday Evening

CODE PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Members of the Lawrence County Automobile Dealers Association heard several splendid talks from men prominent in the automobile world at their meeting in the Elks Club last evening, which followed a dinner at 6:30.

Some misunderstanding relative to price-fixing was clarified by A. C. Bennett, code commissioner of district five, which includes western Pennsylvania. Mr. Bennett stated that in the opinion of the public there had been a price-fixing provision in the code, but that this has been entirely clarified as a result of recent decisions by the courts. He stated that there never had been such a provision, but that it had been generally understood that such a provision existed.

Speaks for Code

V. L. Noble, representative of one of the leading motor magazines, reviewed the address made by James Dalton at the meeting of the directors of the National Automobile Association in St. Louis.

He stated that a questionnaire had been sent to auto dealers throughout the country, which asked if the dealers were in favor of the automobile code providing it could be fully enforced; whether the dealers believed that the factories should back up the code; and how many persons were employed in their establishments.

The results showed that 63 per cent of those queried had answered, and of this number 77 per cent were in favor on question one; 80 per cent on question two. Replies were received from 10,813 dealers, who employed 140,950 persons.

Mr. Dalton, in his address, stated that six weeks ago he was afraid that the code would not stand up. Today, he stated, he would not take a bet against the code, no matter what odds were given.

Others who were present and who spoke were E. C. Venetianer, field representative of the P. A. A., insurance division, who spoke on his work in the field. Anthony Haberl, assistant code commissioner of the district, and James Shakely, code inspector for Lawrence county.

Continue Summer

The gardens are seared and dead from the frost, the flowers that colored your yard all summer are gone, and those occasional bouquets you were able to cut from your own plants are done for the winter. TROOP V-18 PRACTICES

Instructions in signaling, knot work and first aid practice were given when Troop V-18 held its regular meeting this week under the leadership of Harry W. Miles and C. C. Schaller.

The instructions were held in preparation for the field meet on Saturday at Washington athletic field.

TROOP V-37 GATHERS

A meeting of Troop V-37 was held at the Sinawik hut on Albert street this week. The senior patrol leader, Bob Cole, took charge of the meeting.

First the troop was lined up and the opening exercises performed. The troop was then dismissed for patrol meetings. Later the boys lined up for inspection and then "Simon Says" was played, after which instruction interests was given. "Swat 'Em" was another game played.

The closing ceremonies brought the meeting to an end.

A speaker will address the troop at its next meeting.

Holiness Band Meets

Members of the former Holiness Band of Energy, are having a get-together meeting. It has been planned to have three meetings in the Castlewood Christian and Missionary Alliance church, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The Rev. Loy Mershimer, a former member of the band, who for the past year has been engaged in evangelistic meetings, will be the speaker on Friday evening. There will be interesting spiritual programs arranged for each evening.

This band was organized a number of years ago at Energy, for the purpose of spreading scriptural holiness. The membership was small, but they met regularly in the Greenwood M. E. church each week and people would come from far and near to be in the meetings, which were characterized by old time Pentecostal power, and much good was done. While the band has not been active as a group for sometime, out of its small membership, five are in the active ministry, while a number of the other members have prepared themselves for other kinds of missionary and Christian work.

Shenango Church

At the Shenango United Presbyterian church on the New Wilmington road, of which the Rev. J. M. McMains is pastor, there will be church service at 10 a. m.; Sabbath school at 11, Nathaniel Nesbitt, superintendent.

James Peebles will give a talk on "Temperance" following the Sabbath school session.

Cottage Prayer Meetings

This evening at 7:30 the Gospel Tabernacle will have cottage prayers at the home of Harry Shaw, 10 West Washington street, with E. B. Emery as the leader, and at the home of Albert Martin, 602 Wall street, with the Rev. J. Henry Boon in charge, this evening at 7:30.

The young people will meet in the church at 7:30.

Saturday evening there will be a Fishers of Men meeting at 7:30.

Dames Of Malta

At last Tuesday evening's meeting of the Dames of Malta conducted in Malta hall, arrangements were made for the November 13 meeting when initation of candidates for membership will take place.

A visiting team from Sharon will take part in the service which will open on that date at 2:00 p. m. Dinner will be served at 6:00 p. m. with a social time following.

U. C. T. Party

The United Commercial Travelers will have a masquerade party, with their families as special guests, Friday evening at the veteran's hall in the city building, starting at 8:00 o'clock.

Section G Change.

Section G of the Y. L. B. of the Third U. P. church will have a masquerade party at the home of Mrs. John Hemminger, Butler road, Tuesday evening, instead of Monday evening as formerly planned. The change is made because of the East Side Hallowe'en parade of Monday night.

Nazarene Women Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Bible class of the Church of the Nazarene was held at the parsonage, West Falls street, Thursday evening, with Mrs. C. F. Whetsell, Mrs. Clyde Shoaf and Mrs. Riley Flaughter as hostesses.

Mrs. L. M. Downing opened the meeting of which Mrs. C. P. Whetsell was in charge. Mrs. John Martin conducted the program, with Mrs. L. G. Furey giving a splendid talk: Mrs. Isaac Thomas gave a reading and a duet was sung by Mrs. Myrtle McAllan and Audrey McAllan.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Central Circle

The Central Circle of the Central Presbyterian church met in the church parlor Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John Atkinson in charge of devotionals and business, with 23 members present.

Plans were made for a father and son banquet November 1. Miss Blanche Bright will entertain the officers in the near future in what will be the first of a series of "Vanishing" parties.

An appetizing lunch was served by Miss Bright, Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Camblin with the season's suggestions in appointments.

Mrs. J. H. Cox, Park avenue, will entertain the Circle in her home on November 22, with Mrs. Florence Cartwright and Mrs. A. L. Conn as associates.

Executive Board

The executive board of the First Congregational church will meet in the church parlors Saturday, at 2:30 p. m.

Interesting Meeting Of County Dealers Takes Place Thursday Evening

CODE PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Members of the Lawrence County Automobile Dealers Association heard several splendid talks from men prominent in the automobile world at their meeting in the Elks Club last evening, which followed a dinner at 6:30.

Some misunderstanding relative to price-fixing was clarified by A. C. Bennett, code commissioner of district five, which includes western Pennsylvania. Mr. Bennett stated that in the opinion of the public there had been a price-fixing provision in the code, but that this has been entirely clarified as a result of recent decisions by the courts. He stated that there never had been such a provision, but that it had been generally understood that such a provision existed.

Speaks for Code

V. L. Noble, representative of one of the leading motor magazines, reviewed the address made by James Dalton at the meeting of the directors of the National Automobile Association in St. Louis.

He stated that a questionnaire had been sent to auto dealers throughout the country, which asked if the dealers were in favor of the automobile code providing it could be fully enforced; whether the dealers believed that the factories should back up the code; and how many persons were employed in their establishments.

The results showed that 63 per cent of those queried had answered, and of this number 77 per cent were in favor on question one; 80 per cent on question two. Replies were received from 10,813 dealers, who employed 140,950 persons.

Mr. Dalton, in his address, stated that six weeks ago he was afraid that the code would not stand up. Today, he stated, he would not take a bet against the code, no matter what odds were given.

Others who were present and who spoke were E. C. Venetianer, field representative of the F. A. A., insurance division, who spoke on his work in the field. Anthony Haberl, assistant code commissioner of the district, and James Shakely, code inspector for Lawrence county.

Continue Summer

The gardens are seared and dead from the frost, the flowers that colored your yard all summer are gone, and those occasional bouquets you were able to cut from your own plants are done for the winter. Why not continue summer throughout the winter? Table bouquets and bouquets for parties cost so little and add so much to the cheer of the home. Make it a habit to order flowers several times a week and see how little the cost will be.

TROOP V-18 PRACTICES

Instructions in signaling, knot work and first aid practice were given when Troop V-18 held its regular meeting this week under the leadership of Harry W. Miles and C. C. Schaller.

The instructions were held in preparation for the field meet on Saturday at Washington athletic field.

TROOP V-37 GATHERS

A meeting of Troop V-37 was held at the Sinawik hut on Albert street this week. The senior patrol leader, Bob Cole, took charge of the meeting.

First the troop was lined up and the opening exercises performed. The troop was then dismissed for patrol meetings. Later the boys lined up for inspection and then "Simon Says" was played, after which instruction interests was given. "Swat 'Em" was another game played.

The closing ceremonies brought the meeting to an end.

A speaker will address the troop at its next meeting.

Holiness Band Meets

Members of the former Holiness Band of Energy, are having a get-together meeting. It has been planned to have three meetings in the Castlewood Christian and Missionary Alliance church, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The Rev. Loy Mershimer, a former member of the band, who for the past year has been engaged in evangelistic meetings, will be the speaker on Friday evening. There will be interesting spiritual programs arranged for each evening.

This band was organized a number of years ago at Energy, for the purpose of spreading scriptural holiness. The membership was small, but they met regularly in the Greenwood M. E. church each week and people would come from far and near to be in the meetings, which were characterized by old time Pentecostal power, and much good was done. While the band has not been active as a group for sometime, out of its small membership, five are in the active ministry, while a number of the other members have prepared themselves for other kinds of missionary and Christian work.

Shenango Church

At the Shenango United Presbyterian church on the New Wilmington road, of which the Rev. J. M. McMains is pastor, there will be church service at 10 a. m.; Sabbath school at 11, Nathaniel Nesbitt, superintendent.

James Peebles will give a talk on "Temperance" following the Sabbath school session.

Cottage Prayer Meetings

This evening at 7:30 the Gospel Tabernacle will have cottage prayers at the home of Harry Shaw, 10 West Washington street, with E. B. Emery as the leader, and at the home of Albert Martin, 602 Wall street, with the Rev. J. Henry Boon in charge, this evening at 7:30.

The young people will meet in the church at 7:30.

Saturday evening there will be a Fishers of Men meeting at 7:30.

Dames Of Malta

At last Tuesday evening's meeting of the Dames of Malta conducted in Malta hall, arrangements were made for the November 13 meeting when initation of candidates for membership will take place.

A visiting team from Sharon will take part in the service which will open on that date at 2:00 p. m. Dinner will be served at 6:00 p. m. with a social time following.

U. C. T. Party

The United Commercial Travelers will have a masquerade party, with their families as special guests, Friday evening at the veteran's hall in the city building, starting at 8:00 o'clock.

Section G Change.

Section G of the Y. L. B. of the Third U. P. church will have a masquerade party at the home of Mrs. John Hemminger, Butler road, Tuesday evening, instead of Monday evening as formerly planned. The change is made because of the East Side Hallowe'en parade of Monday night.

Nazarene Women Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Bible class of the Church of the Nazarene was held at the parsonage, West Falls street, Thursday evening, with Mrs. C. F. Whetsell, Mrs. Clyde Shoaf and Mrs. Riley Flaughter as hosteses.

Mrs. L. M. Downing opened the meeting of which Mrs. C. P. Whetsell was in charge. Mrs. John Martin conducted the program, with Mrs. L. G. Furey giving a splendid talk: Mrs. Isaac Thomas gave a reading and a duet was sung by Mrs. Myrtle McAllan and Audrey McAllan.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Central Circle

The Central Circle of the Central Presbyterian church met in the church parlor Thursday afternoon with Mrs. John Atkinson in charge of devotionals and business, with 23 members present.

Plans were made for a father and son banquet November 1. Miss Blanche Bright will entertain the officers in the near future in what will be the first of a series of "Vanishing" parties.

An appetizing lunch was served by Miss Bright, Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Camblin with the season's suggestions in appointments.

Mrs. J. H. Cox, Park avenue, will entertain the Circle in her home on November 22, with Mrs. Florence Cartwright and Mrs. A. L. Conn as associates.

Executive Board

The executive board of the First Congregational church will meet in the church parlors Saturday, at 2:30 p. m.

Over 210 Cash Prizes Will Be Given Paraders

South Side Hallowe'en Celebration Promises To Eclipse All In Past

JUDGES NAMED TO MAKE AWARDS

Parking Restrictions To Prevail On Streets Used By Mummers

With 210 cash prizes awaiting the prize mummers, with all committees functioning and with several thousand youngsters impatiently awaiting the night the South Side is unanimous in the opinion that this years Hallowe'en celebration will be the best ever held. The celebration will be held Wednesday night, October 31.

Red fire and bands and a milling mob of gay masqueraders will make the night one to be remembered, the South Siders believe and a look at the plans seem to bear out the idea. All prizes this year are in cash, with a number of them running into some real money. Prizes will be given for the best group of three or more, the best couple, the best Popeye, the best Mahatma Ghandi, Clown, Hebrew, Devil, Hobo, Uncle Sam, Miss Columbia, Mae West, Indian and Ghost.

Parking Restricted

Chairman John Wajert of the safety committee stated today that there would be no parking on Long avenue between Moravia and Hamilton or on Mill street between Long and Home street from seven o'clock on. There is plenty of parking space on the sidestreets and the public is asked to co-operate. The police department will also co-operate in keeping the line of march open.

The judges committee contains a long list of prominent names. Councilman D. O. Davies is the chairman of the committee, with the following members, Mayor Charles B. Mayne, Councilmen A. A. Hoyland, Joseph D. Alexander and B. F. Butler, J. H. McIlvenny, Mrs. J. Klamar, Mario Kolodjeski, Frank Golis, Frew Book, Fred Englehardt, H. R. Huston, Henry Budzowski, Joseph Noga, John Melichar, C. G. Snyder, Stanley Girard, and honorary judges, Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers and Fred L. Rentz.

Chairmen To Meet

All of the judges committee and the following committee chairmen will meet at the office of Alderman J. Lee Cooper at seven o'clock to get organized for the parade which starts at eight o'clock promptly.

Maurice Markley, Hartzell Huston, Alex Samuels, George Smith, D. O. Davies, John Wajert, Tom Frank, W. C. Druschel, Ivor V. Davies. General Chairman Maurice Markley and his assistants Hartzell Huston and Alec Samuels have made all arrangements for badges and flares and detailed instructions will be given out to the chairmen at that time. The prizes will be given out at 318 East Long avenue immediately following the parade.

The parade moves out promptly at eight o'clock from Hamilton and Long avenues, moves down to Mill street, up Mill street to Home, down Home to Moravia, down Moravia to Long and then up Long avenue to Hamilton where the parade disbands.

DRUNKEN WALKERS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Pedestrians who were apparently intoxicated have been involved this year in 617 motor vehicle accidents of which 81 resulted in fatalities, the division of safety reports. During the same eight-month period of last year intoxicated pedestrians were involved in 341 accidents, of which 45 resulted in deaths.

Let's find out why Turkish tobacco is so important to a good cigarette

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna..in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . along the shores of the Black Sea . . grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

Turkish tobacco hung in the open air to be cured.

On Court House Hill

With the approach of the hunting season Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard is receiving a number of applications from hunters who desire to carry a revolver while hunting for big game such as deer. The law gives the sheriff authority to issue permits to carry side arms, and a number have already been issued. The sheriff also has the authority to issue a permit to carry a gun to others than hunters, if he is satisfied that the reasons given are good. Very few permits of this kind are issued.

Frank Wojciechowski, of Enon R. D. 3 has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from his wife, Victoria Wofciechowski, now of Harrisburg, Pa., on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment and desertion. The couple were married in April 1930. Wojciechowski claims that his wife abused him and on one occassion cut him with a knife.

Letters of administration have been granted by Register and Recorder William R. Hanna to Margaret Gennaro in the estate of Domenic Macri, late of Mahoning township.

Superintendent Perry Snyder and inmates of the county home are engaged in holing cabbage for winter use. Cabbage is said to keep better when buried in the ground than any other way. It is first covered with straw and then with earth.

No later than November 3rd noon, an elector in a third class city who was prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city on all fall registration days, may present his petition to the county commissioners for registration.

County commissioners spent a part of yesterday looking over improvements being made on the New Wilmington-Volant road.

Office of the Board of Trustees of the Mothers Assistance fund was formally opened in the building occupied by the Welfare Department on Court street this morning. The board has employed Mrs. Annie Yoho and Miss Mary James to register applicants for old age pensions. This will be the principal work for some time as action has already been taken on allowances for 105 mothers and 52 blind persons. There are also some applications by blind persons which have not yet been taken care of, but they will be a small part of the work.

One member at least of the board of trustees will be in attendance at the office daily, while others will assist in investigating the claims for old age pensions. Already the board has 800 applications which have been made either in person or by letter to members of the board. The first work will be to check these over for duplicates. The number indicated above is all the applicants so far, but it is believed that there is a number of duplicates among them, as some were under the impression that they had to make application to more than one member of the board.

The applicant must be 70 years of age and have no children or others able to take care of them. Members of the board will investigate each claim fully before passing upon it. If approved the applicant gets $30 per month, or $45 for man and wife if each have passed 70 years. While the act under which the board occupies provides compensation for those whom the ladies employ in the office none of the members of the board are paid anything. Their work, which is going to be quite heavy for some time, is all donated to the cause.

The members of the board are Mrs. Grace Crawford, Mrs. Charles E. Miller, Miss Clair Duff, Mrs. W. W. Duff, of this city; Mrs. Walter Gilmore of Hillsville; Mrs. Lenore A. Reynolds, Ellwood City, and Mrs. Blanche Sampson of Volant.

HIGH TAXES VERSUS RECOVERY

Editor New Castle News:

Are high taxes a hindrance to recovery? Yes, they not only retard recovery but also prolong it. Among many economic factors that retard the progress of recovery, is the high taxation—a problem hard to regulate and keep everybody satisfied.

Besides real estate, i. e. City, County and School taxes, there is a variety of commodity taxes, the processing taxes, the corn-and-hog taxes and many other taxes, too numerous to mention here. We pay taxes on everything we use, eat, drink and wear, and on many articles a whole series of taxes are imposed, all of which, when put together, account for the present high cost of living.

Suppose an average person makes, more or less, $100 per month and 40 per cent of that, or $40 goes for taxes at present, and, suppose that 1-4 of $40 or $10 would go for taxes each month, then there would be $30 left to that person to buy different needs of life with. Then everybody would buy $30 worth more of goods, and as so many millions of people are still working or having an income, therefore, multiplying $30 by the aforesaid number of people, it would make a big pile of money, all of which would be spent for the purchase of various commodities. Consequently, this vast amount of money would flow to our factories or into the hands of the producers of these goods. Wouldn't that make business better? The answer is affirmative.

Of course, this high tax burden will not last forever; it will be moderated, if, or when, the depression is over. Well, so much on recovery today, according to Common Sense Economics. I thank you.

Legion Against Any Clemency For Bergdoll

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Florida, Oct. 26—The American Legion, by unanimous vote, protested against President Roosevelt granting any clemency to Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the notorious Philadelphia draft-dodger.

The veterans jeered memtion of his name and adopted a resolution, which declared he had used his wealth to take refuge in Germany in order to avoid army service during the war.

"We believe," the resolution read, "That Bergdoll having gotten out of America when the nation needed him, should now be kept out."

Let's find out why Turkish tobacco is so important to a good cigarette

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna..in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . along the shores of the Black Sea . . grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

Turkish tobacco hung in the open air to be cured.

With the approach of the hunting season Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard is receiving a number of applications from hunters who desire to carry a revolver while hunting for big game such as deer. The law gives the sheriff authority to issue permits to carry side arms, and a number have already been issued. The sheriff also has the authority to issue a permit to carry a gun to others than hunters, if he is satisfied that the reasons given are good. Very few permits of this kind are issued.

Frank Wojciechowski, of Enon R. D. 3 has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from his wife, Victoria Wofciechowski, now of Harrisburg, Pa., on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment and desertion. The couple were married in April 1930. Wojciechowski claims that his wife abused him and on one occassion cut him with a knife.

Letters of administration have been granted by Register and Recorder William R. Hanna to Margaret Gennaro in the estate of Domenic Macri, late of Mahoning township.

Superintendent Perry Snyder and inmates of the county home are engaged in holing cabbage for winter use. Cabbage is said to keep better when buried in the ground than any other way. It is first covered with straw and then with earth.

No later than November 3rd noon, an elector in a third class city who was prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city on all fall registration days, may present his petition to the county commissioners for registration.

County commissioners spent a part of yesterday looking over improvements being made on the New Wilmington-Volant road.

Office of the Board of Trustees of the Mothers Assistance fund was formally opened in the building occupied by the Welfare Department on Court street this morning. The board has employed Mrs. Annie Yoho and Miss Mary James to register applicants for old age pensions. This will be the principal work for some time as action has already been taken on allowances for 105 mothers and 52 blind persons. There are also some applications by blind persons which have not yet been taken care of, but they will be a small part of the work.

One member at least of the board of trustees will be in attendance at the office daily, while others will assist in investigating the claims for old age pensions. Already the board has 800 applications which have been made either in person or by letter to members of the board. The first work will be to check these over for duplicates. The number indicated above is all the applicants so far, but it is believed that there is a number of duplicates among them, as some were under the impression that they had to make application to more than one member of the board.

The applicant must be 70 years of age and have no children or others able to take care of them. Members of the board will investigate each claim fully before passing upon it. If approved the applicant gets $30 per month, or $45 for man and wife if each have passed 70 years. While the act under which the board occupies provides compensation for those whom the ladies employ in the office none of the members of the board are paid anything. Their work, which is going to be quite heavy for some time, is all donated to the cause.

The members of the board are Mrs. Grace Crawford, Mrs. Charles E. Miller, Miss Clair Duff, Mrs. W. W. Duff, of this city; Mrs. Walter Gilmore of Hillsville; Mrs. Lenore A. Reynolds, Ellwood City, and Mrs. Blanche Sampson of Volant.

HIGH TAXES VERSUS RECOVERY

Editor New Castle News:

Are high taxes a hindrance to recovery? Yes, they not only retard recovery but also prolong it. Among many economic factors that retard the progress of recovery, is the high taxation—a problem hard to regulate and keep everybody satisfied.

Besides real estate, i. e. City, County and School taxes, there is a variety of commodity taxes, the processing taxes, the corn-and-hog taxes and many other taxes, too numerous to mention here. We pay taxes on everything we use, eat, drink and wear, and on many articles a whole series of taxes are imposed, all of which, when put together, account for the present high cost of living.

Suppose an average person makes, more or less, $100 per month and 40 per cent of that, or $40 goes for taxes at present, and, suppose that 1-4 of $40 or $10 would go for taxes each month, then there would be $30 left to that person to buy different needs of life with. Then everybody would buy $30 worth more of goods, and as so many millions of people are still working or having an income, therefore, multiplying $30 by the aforesaid number of people, it would make a big pile of money, all of which would be spent for the purchase of various commodities. Consequently, this vast amount of money would flow to our factories or into the hands of the producers of these goods. Wouldn't that make business better? The answer is affirmative.

Of course, this high tax burden will not last forever; it will be moderated, if, or when, the depression is over. Well, so much on recovery today, according to Common Sense Economics. I thank you.

Over 210 Cash Prizes Will Be Given Paraders

South Side Hallowe'en Celebration Promises To Eclipse All In Past

JUDGES NAMED TO MAKE AWARDS

Parking Restrictions To Prevail On Streets Used By Mummers

With 210 cash prizes awaiting the prize mummers, with all committees functioning and with several thousand youngsters impatiently awaiting the night the South Side is unanimous in the opinion that this years Hallowe'en celebration will be the best ever held. The celebration will be held Wednesday night, October 31.

Red fire and bands and a milling mob of gay masqueraders will make the night one to be remembered, the South Siders believe and a look at the plans seem to bear out the idea. All prizes this year are in cash, with a number of them running into some real money. Prizes will be given for the best group of three or more, the best couple, the best Popeye, the best Mahatma Ghandi, Clown, Hebrew, Devil, Hobo, Uncle Sam, Miss Columbia, Mae West, Indian and Ghost.

Parking Restricted

Chairman John Wajert of the safety committee stated today that there would be no parking on Long avenue between Moravia and Hamilton or on Mill street between Long and Home street from seven o'clock on. There is plenty of parking space on the sidestreets and the public is asked to co-operate. The police department will also co-operate in keeping the line of march open.

The judges committee contains a long list of prominent names. Councilman D. O. Davies is the chairman of the committee, with the following members, Mayor Charles B. Mayne, Councilmen A. A. Hoyland, Joseph D. Alexander and B. F. Butler, J. H. McIlvenny, Mrs. J. Klamar, Mario Kolodjeski, Frank Golis, Frew Book, Fred Englehardt, H. R. Huston, Henry Budzowski, Joseph Noga, John Melichar, C. G. Snyder, Stanley Girard, and honorary judges, Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers and Fred L. Rentz.

Chairmen To Meet

All of the judges committee and the following committee chairmen will meet at the office of Alderman J. Lee Cooper at seven o'clock to get organized for the parade which starts at eight o'clock promptly.

Maurice Markley, Hartzell Huston, Alex Samuels, George Smith, D. O. Davies, John Wajert, Tom Frank, W. C. Druschel, Ivor V. Davies. General Chairman Maurice Markley and his assistants Hartzell Huston and Alec Samuels have made all arrangements for badges and flares and detailed instructions will be given out to the chairmen at that time. The prizes will be given out at 318 East Long avenue immediately following the parade.

The parade moves out promptly at eight o'clock from Hamilton and Long avenues, moves down to Mill street, up Mill street to Home, down Home to Moravia, down Moravia to Long and then up Long avenue to Hamilton where the parade disbands.

Head Of State Police Says Influence Of Religion Is Needed By Youth

BROKEN HOMES INCREASE CRIME

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 26—Pointing out that the average age of the country's prison population is less than 24 years, Maj. Lynn G. Adams, head of the Pennsylvania state police, stresses the importance of the influence of the home, church and school in discouraging potential criminals.

In a recent address here, Major Adams declared:

"The average age shows that something is wrong with our youth. Are they to blame? No. The parents are to blame. I believe in religion. The influence of religion is needed to prevent our young people from going the wrong way.

"A large number of young people in our penal institutions come from broken homes, most of which were caused by divorce. We must start to work in our homes and churches. Another place that plays a great part is the public schools."

He declared Pennsylvania's annual "crime tax" is more than $50,000,000 and that although penal institutions are constantly being enlarged yet there is none that is not overcrowded.

Dillinger's Property Wanted For Judgment

(International News Service)

TUCSON, Ariz.—If anyone knows of any property that the Dillinger gangsters own, Sheriff John F. Belton of Pima county wants to meet him.

Belton is seeking to fulfill a judgment of $30,000 returned by a superior court jury recently in favor of Mrs. Lucy Sarber against Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark and Charles Makley. Mrs. Sarber is the widow of the Lima, Ohio, sheriff who was slain by the three when John Dillinger was freed from the Lima jail last fall.

Although $35,000 was taken from the gangsters in cash and automobiles when they were arrested here last January, Dilinger's attorney is maintaining that the property belongs to the famous desperado and cannot be seized in the Sarber case. Belton plans to ask Superior Judge Fred W. Fickett to rule that at least a portion of the money belonged to Pierpont, Clark and Makley, and should go to Mrs. Sarber.

Mussolini 600 M. P. H. Plan.

Have, And Tell About It.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

W. A. HARRIMAN, head of the Union Pacific Railroad, first to take seriously the building of light railroad trains and developing high speed, has, as this is written, a streamline train, driven by a nine hundred-horsepower Diesel motor, on the way from Los Angeles to New York, and expected to make the run in fifty-seven and one-half hours. The time from Los Angeles to New York hitherto has been four nights and three days.

Mr. Harriman's father, who made the Union Pacific the railroad that it is, would like to know about that. And W. A. Harriman, a very young man, will live to see his fifty-seven and one-half hour run cut to twenty-four hours, and lower.

It is impossible to exaggerate the value that railroad rights-of-way, with speed unlimited, would possess if they were really used. They would make automobile or motor bus competition with railroads impossible.

THE WINNING British plane flew from London to Darwin, Australia, in 52 hours and on about 2,000 miles more to Melbourne, Will Rogers, exulting in the fine performance of American planes, and commenting on that extraordinary flying nearly half way around the world, remarks:

"Watch Brisbane, he will have Japan flying into California for lunch."

It would be better for Rogers to watch Europe, Asia and Africa, including Japan. The mikado might well have pilots flying into California, disturbing many luncheons.

This country knows now that it can be done, and the question is, what is to be done to make it too dangerous for anybody to send planes here, assuming that we cannot prevent their coming?

IN PRAISING fliers, don't forget the Italian lieutenant Francesco Agello, beating his own record by raising it to 440 miles an hour.

That is real flying, and you need not be big and heavy to do it. Agello stands five feet four, weighs 140 pounds.

But do not believe that Mussolini is satisfied. "Satisfied" is not word a in his dictionary.

He has put Agello at the head of an "air speed school" to work for a speed of "600 miles an hour." With that speed Agello could breakfast comfortably in Rome and reach New York in time to take a bath and dress before luncheon.

Or Mr. Rogers' planes from Tokio could leave home at 8 a. m. and flatten San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle that afternoon.

ONE CHEERFUL item for newspaper publishers, looking into the wind for favorable straws. Frank F. Barham, who manages the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, wants you to know that business is good in his city. For instance, the Los Angeles "May Company" printed in Mr. Barham's paper yesterday one advertisement eleven pages long.

Wise businessmen know that the first thing is to have what people want, and the second is to let them know you have it.

Good news for one publisher is good for all publishers and for all business.

MR. JESSE JONES, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, spoke kindly to the four thousand bankers in Washington and wanted to cooperate with them, "all little pals together."

A year ago he was not so gentle. The bankers, gathered to hope and cry together, were looking forward to the President's talk, hoping that this would be his night to "roar like any sucking dove."

YOU MAY sympathize with bankers, their millions lying idle. They say, a large golden tear in each eye:

"You criticize us for not lending money. If we lend it on unsafe security, you threaten to put us in jail. Why don't you tell what loans are safe, let the government guarantee their safety and we will lend freely."

ABE KABIBBLE said to his father-in-law:

"The banker says that if you will write your name across the back of my note, he will give me the $5,000."

The father-in-law replied:

"Abe, I'll do better than that. Go back and tell the banker to write his name across the back of your note and I will give you the $5,000 myself."

A PRAISEWORTHY desire to improve the moral tone of moving pictures and theaters, many of them in great need of improvement, has moved important persons to recommend the boycott of ALL moving pictures.

Religious authority in many countries has listed books that should not be read. But no order has ever been promulgated forbidding the reading of ANY book.

THE CATHOLIC NEWS says truly:

"There is danger that the whole movement may be made unworkable and ridiculous by the demands of unreasonable individuals. Already the cry has been raised that the clean movie crusade is designed to clap a censorship on everything and everybody."

Moving pictures represent one of the great industries in which the United States leads the world. They are the chief entertainment of the people of the United States, and pay hundreds of millions in wages and salaries every year. It would seem difficult to justify punishing the good with the bad.

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, always cheerful, said, concerning President Roosevelt:

"If he doesn't change his mind, and says what he told me He would, I can tell you I shall be your next Governor."

Mr. Sinclair, who does not say what it was that the President promised, may be disappointed.

President Roosevelt, asked "Did you promise Mr. Sinclair you would make a statement of any kind?" replied that he had not made such a promise, and doubted that the federal government would intervene in California or anywhere else.

MRS. FRANK W. WARREN, 34-year-old wife of a dentist in Grand Rapids, Mich., is sent to the house of correction for "three to ten years," and all she did was beat her husband's office assistant, Miss Dorothy Morris, 19, with a flatiron handle.

She should not have done that, and she should be punished. But you wonder how many, if any, married women were on the jury that sent Mrs. Warren to such long imprisonment.

Some married women would buy her a new flatiron handle, although, in this case, the wife doubtless had no just cause of complaint.

YOUTH OF CRIMINALS ALARMS POLICE HEAD

Maj. Adams Says Homes To Blame

Head Of State Police Says Influence Of Religion Is Needed By Youth

BROKEN HOMES INCREASE CRIME

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 26—Pointing out that the average age of the country's prison population is less than 24 years, Maj. Lynn G. Adams, head of the Pennsylvania state police, stresses the importance of the influence of the home, church and school in discouraging potential criminals.

In a recent address here, Major Adams declared:

"The average age shows that something is wrong with our youth. Are they to blame? No. The parents are to blame. I believe in religion. The influence of religion is needed to prevent our young people from going the wrong way.

"A large number of young people in our penal institutions come from broken homes, most of which were caused by divorce. We must start to work in our homes and churches. Another place that plays a great part is the public schools."

He declared Pennsylvania's annual "crime tax" is more than $50,000,000 and that although penal institutions are constantly being enlarged yet there is none that is not overcrowded.

Dillinger's Property Wanted For Judgment

(International News Service)

TUCSON, Ariz.—If anyone knows of any property that the Dillinger gangsters own, Sheriff John F. Belton of Pima county wants to meet him.

Belton is seeking to fulfill a judgment of $$30,000 returned by a superior court jury recently in favor of Mrs. Lucy Sarber against Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark and Charles Makley. Mrs. Sarber is the widow of the Lima, Ohio, sheriff who was slain by the three when John Dillinger was freed from the Lima jail last fall.

Although $35,000 was taken from the gangsters in cash and automobiles when they were arrested here last January, Dilinger's attorney is maintaining that the property belongs to the famous desperado and cannot be seized in the Sarber case. Belton plans to ask Superior Judge Fred W. Fickett to rule that at least a portion of the money belonged to Pierpont, Clark and Makley, and should go to Mrs. Sarber.

Mussolini 600 M. P. H. Plan.

Have, And Tell About It.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

W. A. HARRIMAN, head of the Union Pacific Railroad, first to take seriously the building of light railroad trains and developing high speed, has, as this is written, a streamline train, driven by a nine hundred-horsepower Diesel motor, on the way from Los Angeles to New York, and expected to make the run in fifty-seven and one-half hours. The time from Los Angeles to New York hitherto has been four nights and three days.

Mr. Harriman's father, who made the Union Pacific the railroad that it is, would like to know about that. And W. A. Harriman, a very young man, will live to see his fifty-seven and one-half hour run cut to twenty-four hours, and lower.

It is impossible to exaggerate the value that railroad rights-of-way, with speed unlimited, would possess if they were really used. They would make automobile or motor bus competition with railroads impossible.

THE WINNING British plane flew from London to Darwin, Australia, in 52 hours and on about 2,000 miles more to Melbourne, Will Rogers, exulting in the fine performance of American planes, and commenting on that extraordinary flying nearly half way around the world, remarks:

"Watch Brisbane, he will have Japan flying into California for lunch."

It would be better for Rogers to watch Europe, Asia and Africa, including Japan. The mikado might well have pilots flying into California, disturbing many luncheons.

This country knows now that it can be done, and the question is, what is to be done to make it too dangerous for anybody to send planes here, assuming that we cannot prevent their coming?

That is real flying, and you need not be big and heavy to do it. Agella stands five feet four, weighs 140 pounds.

But do not believe that Mussolini is satisfied. "Satisfied" is not word a in his dictionary.

He has put Agello at the head of an "air speed school" to work for a speed of "600 miles an hour." With that speed Agello could breakfast comfortably in Rome and reach New York in time to take a bath and dress before luncheon.

Or Mr. Rogers' planes from Tokio could leave home at 8 a. m. and flatten San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle that afternoon.

ONE CHEERFUL item for newspaper publishers, looking into the wind for favorable straws. Frank F. Barham, who manages the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, wants you to know that business is good in his city. For instance, the Los Angeles "May Company" printed in Mr. Barham's paper yesterday one advertisement eleven pages long.

Wise businessmen know that the first thing is to have what people want, and the second is to let them know you have it.

Good news for one publisher is good for all publishers and for all business.

MR. JESSE JONES, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, spoke kindly to the four thousand bankers in Washington and wanted to cooperate with them, "all little pals together."

A year ago he was not so gentle. The bankers, gathered to hope and cry together, were looking forward to the President's talk, hoping that this would be his night to "roar like any sucking dove."

YOU MAY sympathize with bankers, their millions lying idle. They say, a large golden tear in each eye:

"You criticize us for not lending money. If we lend it on unsafe security, you threaten to put us in jail. Why don't you tell what loans are safe, let the government guarantee their safety and we will lend freely."

ABE KABIBBLE said to his father-in-law:

"The banker says that if you will write your name across the back of my note, he will give me the $5,000."

The father-in-law replied:

"Abe, I'll do better than that. Go back and tell the banker to write his name across the back of your note and I will give you the $5,000 myself."

A PRAISEWORTHY desire to improve the moral tone of moving pictures and theaters, many of them in great need of improvement, has moved important persons to recommend the boycott of ALL moving pictures.

Religious authority in many countries has listed books that should not be read. But no order has ever been promulgated forbidding the reading of ANY book.

THE CATHOLIC NEWS says truly:

"There is danger that the whole movement may be made unworkable and ridiculous by the demands of unreasonable individuals. Already the cry has been raised that the clean movie crusade is designed to clap a censorship on everything and everybody."

Moving pictures represent one of the great industries in which the United States leads the world. They are the chief entertainment of the people of the United States, and pay hundreds of millions in wages and salaries every year. It would seem difficult to justify punishing the good with the bad.

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, always cheerful, said, concerning President Roosevelt:

"If he doesn't change his mind, and says what he told me He would, I can tell you I shall be your next Governor."

Mr. Sinclair, who does not say what it was that the President promised, may be disappointed.

President Roosevelt, asked "Did you promise Mr. Sinclair you would make a statement of any kind?" replied that he had not made such a promise, and doubted that the federal government would intervene in California or anywhere else.

MRS. FRANK W. WARREN, 34-year-old wife of a dentist in Grand Rapids, Mich., is sent to the house of correction for "three to ten years," and all she did was beat her husband's office assistant, Miss Dorothy Morris, 19, with a flatiron handle.

Mr. Harriman's father, who made the Union Pacific the railroad that it is, would like to know about that. And W. A. Harriman, a very young man, will live to see his fifty-seven and one-half hour run cut to twenty-four hours, and lower.

It is impossible to exaggerate the value that railroad rights-of-way, with speed unlimited, would possess if they were really used. They would make automobile or motor bus competition with railroads impossible.

THE WINNING British plane flew from London to Darwin, Australia, in 52 hours and on about 2,000 miles more to Melbourne, Will Rogers, exulting in the fine performance of American planes, and commenting on that extraordinary flying nearly half way around the world, remarks:

"Watch Brisbane, he will have Japan flying into California for lunch."

It would be better for Rogers to watch Europe, Asia and Africa, including Japan. The mikado might well have pilots flying into California, disturbing many luncheons.

This country knows now that it can be done, and the question is what is to be done to make it too dangerous for anybody to send planes here, assuming that we cannot prevent their coming?

That is real flying, and you need not be big and heavy to do it. Agello stands five feet four, weighs 140 pounds.

But do not believe that Mussolini is satisfied. "Satisfied" is not word a in his dictionary.

He has put Agello at the head of an "air speed school" to work for a speed of "600 miles an hour." With that speed Agello could breakfast comfortably in Rome and reach New York in time to take a bath and dress before luncheon.

Or Mr. Rogers' planes from Tokio could leave home at 8 a. m. and flatten San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Seattle that afternoon.

ONE CHEERFUL item for newspaper publishers, looking into the wind for favorable straws. Frank E. Barham, who manages the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, wants you to know that business is good in his city. For instance, the Los Angeles "May Company" printed in Mr. Barham's paper yesterday one advertisement eleven pages long.

Wise businessmen know that the first thing is to have what people want, and the second is to let them know you have it.

Good news for one publisher is good for all publishers and for all business.

MR. JESSE JONES, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, spoke kindly to the four thousand bankers in Washington and wanted to cooperate with them, "all little pals together."

A year ago he was not so gentle. The bankers, gathered to hope and cry together, were looking forward to the President's talk, hoping that this would be his night to "roar like any sucking dove."

YOU MAY sympathize with bankers, their millions lying idle. They say, a large golden tear in each eye:

"You criticize us for not lending money. If we lend it on unsafe security, you threaten to put us in jail. Why don't you tell what loans are safe, let the government guarantee their safety and we will lend freely."

ABE KABIBBLE said to his father-in-law:

"The banker says that if you will write your name across the back of my note, he will give me the $5,000."

The father-in-law replied:

"Abe, I'll do better than that. Go back and tell the banker to write his name across the back of your note and I will give you the $5,000 myself."

A PRAISEWORTHY desire to improve the moral tone of moving pictures and theaters, many of them in great need of improvement, has moved important persons to recommend the boycott of ALL moving pictures.

Religious authority in many countries has listed books that should not be read. But no order has ever been promulgated forbidding the reading of ANY book.

THE CATHOLIC NEWS says truly:

"There is danger that the whole movement may be made unworkable and ridiculous by the demands of unreasonable individuals. Already the cry has been raised that the clean movie crusade is designed to clap a censorship on everything and everybody."

Moving pictures represent one of the great industries in which the United States leads the world. They are the chief entertainment of the people of the United States, and pay hundreds of millions in wages and salaries every year. It would seem difficult to justify punishing the good with the bad.

MR. UPTON SINCLAIR, always cheerful, said, concerning President Roosevelt:

"If he doesn't change his mind, and says what he told me He would, I can tell you I shall be your next Governor."

Mr. Sinclair, who does not say what it was that the President promised, may be disappointed.

President Roosevelt, asked "Did you promise Mr. Sinclair you would make a statement of any kind?" replied that he had not made such a promise, and doubted that the federal government would intervene in California or anywhere else.

MRS. FRANK W. WARREN, 34-year-old wife of a dentist in Grand Rapids, Mich., is sent to the house of correction for "three to ten years," and all she did was beat her husband's office assistant, Miss Dorothy Morris, 19, with a flatiron handle.

She should not have done that, and she should be punished. But you wonder how many, if any, married women were on the jury that sent Mrs. Warren to such long imprisonment.

Some married women would buy her a new flatiron handle, although, in this case, the wife doubtless had no just cause of complaint.

Uses Vaccine For Blight Of Chestnut Tree

Harrisburg Practitioner Points To Cure Of Trees On His Estate

SEEDLINGS ARE FOUND IMMUNE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26. — The spectacle of hardy chestnut trees, replete with bristling burs enclosing big, brown nuts, may again delight nature lovers in Pennsylvania if a fight now being waged by modern science is successful.

Some experts aver the chestnut tree, virtually wiped out in this state nearly 20 years ago by the blight, can't come back but Dr. G. A. Zimmerman, a local practitioner, believes otherwise.

He treats the trees much as if they were human beings and "vaccinates" them against the blight.

To prove the practical value of his experiment, Dr. Zimmerman, who is also president of the Pennsylvania Nut Growers' Association and vice president of the Northern Nut Growers' Association, points to the some 1,000 Chestnut trees treated by him which are flourishing on his land at nearby Piketown.

Serum Is Used

The chestnut tree, Dr. Zimmerman believes, can be immunized against the blight by injecting into it a serum prepared from a diseased specimen. With this artificial aid, the tree will develop a resistance to the disease and grow to a normal size, he said.

The vaccination takes place in the spring when the sap is running. A T-incision is made in the bark over which is sealed a paper cup containing the serum. The serum immunizes the tree as it seeps to all its parts through the sap stream.

Dr. Zimmerman pointed out, however, that the treatment was not absolute. Some trees subjected to the experiment failed to respond favorably and died. Others were affected in but various parts by the blight. This was to be expected, he said, since the serum must reach all parts of the tree before it can be fully immunized.

Early in his medical career, Dr. Zimmerman pioneered in animal and human vaccination. He finally became convinced that the cells of a plant organism, as well as those of an animal, will develop an enzyme when a germ is introduced. With this thought in mind, Dr. Zimmerman prepared serum and began experimenting on chestnut shoots growing on his land.

Trees Bear Fruit

"I soon discovered that the trees would build up a defense against the blight," he said. "The problem then became one of finding chestnut stock worth immunizing."

He obtained suitable stock from all over the country and abroad. Within a few years, the grafted and immunized trees were bearing fruit. He planted the seeds and from them raised trees which now, at ages ranging from two to six years, are beginning to bear nuts.

"Seedlings from these nuts," he said, "inherit about the same amount of immunity as the parent tree has. I have planted seedlings from fruit of immunized trees beside seedlings from nuts I obtained in the middle west. The trees from the fruit that was not immunized died, the immunized ones grew."

Dr. Zimmerman now has six acres planted in immunized chestnut seedlings, in addition to scattered clumps and individual trees about the woods and brush land. He prophesied:

"If I could have had 50 men working with me so that thousands of injections were made for every one of mine, I would have half of Pennsylvania covered with chestnut trees."

S. A. Webber of 131 Elm street, has reported the loss of a valuable dog to the city police. It was a hound that he brought from North Carolina. The dog was put into his garage as soon as it arrived here and before he had had time to secure a license the dog got away. It is a brown and white hound which brings to mind that Frank Coen, game protector, who visits city hall daily, has lost four of six valuable hunting dogs during the past year. Illness and accidents claimed the dogs.

Although approximately between 500 and 600 arrests have been made for motor law violations very few of the persons instructed to appear and pay fines at the police station have requested hearings.

Owing to the fact that RWD engineers engaged on plans for projects in the city work at the engineer's bureau in city hall the tables have been rearranged to provide more working room.

Street department employes are scraping Cunningham and Wilson avenues, according to department attaches. Other employes of the city are constructing a small stretch of stonewall in Wilson avenue along the line of Gaston Park.

Chris Walker, motor mechanic for the city, is going over the concrete mixer which the city purchased not long ago. The mixer will be used by RWD employes on the Taylor street storm sewer and other jobs where a mixer is needed.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne's order that children be off the streets after nine p. m. unless they are accompanied by parents or on legitimate business has resulted in a decrease in vandalism. Innocent children had to suffer with the guilty.

May Be Union Of Methodist Churches

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 26—Early union of the North and South conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church was predicted by two Bishops at the 111th annual Pittsburgh conference of the church which assembled to commemorate the Sesqui-Centennial of Methodism in America.

The forecast was voiced by Bishop H. Lester Smith of the Cincinnati area, presiding officer, and Bishop Paul Kern of the M. E. church of the South, when they declared that sentiment for a union of both divisions was mutually strong and agreed that a consolidation would probably come in the near future.

Truck Owners Given Warning By Division Of Safety Of State

CITE RECENT TRUCK CRASHES

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Truck owners who hire under-age employes or permit drivers to work excessively long hours are flirting with accidents, damage suits and license revocations, the Division of Safety said today.

Officials of the division cited two recent accidents in which these hazardous practices played a prominent part.

Near Harrisburg, a truck driver was killed when a heavily loaded machine, enroute from the coal regions to Baltimore left the highway. The driver was pinned against a tree and was burned to death as the wrecked truck caught fire.

Investigation revealed that the operator was slightly over 16 years of age. The owner of the truck has been cited for violation of the Motor Vehicle Code provision which prohibits the employment of any person under 18 years of age as the paid operator of an automobile or truck.

In another case in which a hearing was conducted by the division it developed that the operator employed on a coal truck had been on duty for 34½ hours without sleep or rest. While out on a delivery, the man drove his truck to the side of a highway at a dangerous intersection and parked the machine on the wrong side of the road, facing oncoming traffic. His failure to switch on the lights of the vehicle aggravated the dangerous situation created. The result was a collision with another motor vehicle, approaching from the opposite direction, and an accident in which one person was killed.

Teaching Claims Most Graduates From Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Teaching, the ministry, and law have attracted the bulk of Westminster College alumni since 1924, a recent survey of the last 10 years at Westminster shows.

During these 10 years, 267 graduates have become teachers; 19, attorneys; and 27, ministers. There are also 13 graduates still enrolled in theological seminaries; and five in law schools.

Of the 813 graduates from 1924 to last year, six have died. Advertising, editorial work, and printing have attractive five. Business positions claim 28 in various types of work. Eight have become missionaries. Ten graduates have become doctors in the last 10 years, while seven are still in medical schools. Five graduates are government employees. Fifty-eight other occupations claim grads.

800 Pound Cake For Royal Pair

(International News Service)

LONDON—Wedding cake records will be shattered for the wedding of Prince George of England and Princess Marina of Greece.

A cake weighing 800 pounds and towering nine feet into the air has been ordered from a prominent biscuit firm and will be completed within the next six weeks.

It is being made according to a secret recipe used for wedding cakes for generations past, and will be shipped to London from Edinburgh in sections for icing.

Final choice of the decorations is being left to the bridal couple. King George of England will provide the the "lucky sixpence" a silver coin worth approximately twelve cents, which will be placed in the lower tier of the cake.

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. October 25, 20 arrests on charges as follows: Violating traffic regulations 12, exceeding speed limit 6, drunkenness 2.

S. A. Webber of 131 Elm street, has reported the loss of a valuable dog to the city police. It was a hound that he brought from North Carolina. The dog was put into his garage as soon as it arrived here and before he had had time to secure a license the dog got away. It is a brown and white hound which brings to mind that Frank Coen, game protector, who visits city hall daily, has lost four of six valuable hunting dogs during the past year. Illness and accidents claimed the dogs.

Although approximately between 500 and 600 arrests have been made for motor law violations very few of the persons instructed to appear and pay fines at the police station have requested hearings.

Owing to the fact that RWD engineers engaged on plans for projects in the city work at the engineer's bureau in city hall the tables have been rearranged to provide more working room.

Street department employes are scraping Cunningham and Wilson avenues, according to department attaches. Other employes of the city are constructing a small stretch of stonewall in Wilson avenue along the line of Gaston Park.

Chris Walker, motor mechanic for the city, is going over the concrete mixer which the city purchased not long ago. The mixer will be used by RWD employes on the Taylor street storm sewer and other jobs where a mixer is needed.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne's order that children be off the streets after nine p. m. unless they are accompanied by parents or on legitimate business has resulted in a decrease in vandalism. Innocent children had to suffer with the guilty.

May Be Union Of Methodist Churches

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 26—Early union of the North and South conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church was predicted by two Bishops at the 111th annual Pittsburgh conference of the church which assembled to commemorate the Sesqui-Centennial of Methodism in America.

The forecast was voiced by Bishop H. Lester Smith of the Cincinnati area, presiding officer, and Bishop Paul Kern of the M. E. church of the South, when they declared that sentiment for a union of both divisions was mutually strong and agreed that a consolidation would probably come in the near future.

Truck Owners Given Warning By Division Of Safety Of State

CITE RECENT TRUCK CRASHES

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Truck owners who hire under-age employes or permit drivers to work excessively long hours are flirting with accidents, damage suits and license revocations, the Division of Safety said today.

Officials of the division cited two recent accidents in which these hazardous practices played a prominent part.

Near Harrisburg, a truck driver was killed when a heavily loaded machine, enroute from the coal regions to Baltimore left the highway. The driver was pinned against a tree and was burned to death as the wrecked truck caught fire.

Investigation revealed that the operator was slightly over 16 years of age. The owner of the truck has been cited for violation of the Motor Vehicle Code provision which prohibits the employment of any person under 18 years of age as the paid operator of an automobile or truck.

In another case in which a hearing was conducted by the division it developed that the operator employed on a coal truck had been on duty for 34½ hours without sleep or rest. While out on a delivery, the man drove his truck to the side of a highway at a dangerous intersection and parked the machine on the wrong side of the road, facing oncoming traffic. His failure to switch on the lights of the vehicle aggrevated the dangerous situation created. The result was a collision with another motor vehicle, approaching from the opposite direction, and an accident in which one person was killed.

Still Working For $6,000,000 Park

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—Its $6,000,000 proposal to rebuild Pittsburgh's "point" into a park vetoed, the greater Pittsburgh exposition society continues its efforts undeterred by the setback.

If the society had its way, a towering monument, not unlike the Washington Memorial, but on a smaller scale, would greet visitors.

Teaching Claims Most Graduates From Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Teaching, the ministry, and law have attracted the bulk of Westminster College alumni since 1924, a recent survey of the last 10 years at Westminster shows.

During these 10 years, 267 graduates have become teachers; 19, attorneys; and 27, ministers. There are also 13 graduates still enrolled in theological seminaries; and five in law schools.

Of the 813 graduates from 1924 to last year, six have died. Advertising, editorial work, and printing have attractive five. Business positions claim 28 in various types of work. Eight have become missionaries. Ten graduates have become doctors in the last 10 years, while seven are still in medical schools. Five graduates are government employees. Fifty-eight other occupations claim grads.

800 Pound Cake For Royal Pair

(International News Service)

LONDON—Wedding cake records will be shattered for the wedding of Prince George of England and Princess Marina of Greece.

A cake weighing 800 pounds and towering nine feet into the air has been ordered from a prominent biscuit firm and will be completed within the next six weeks.

It is being made according to a secret recipe used for wedding cakes for generations past, and will be shipped to London from Edinburgh in sections for icing.

Final choice of the decorations is being left to the bridal couple. King George of England will provide the the "lucky sixpence" a silver coin worth approximately twelve cents, which will be placed in the lower tier of the cake.

Uses Vaccine For Blight Of Chestnut Tree

Harrisburg Practitioner Points To Cure Of Trees On His Estate

SEEDLINGS ARE FOUND IMMUNE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26. — The spectacle of hardy chestnut trees, replete with bristling burs enclosing big, brown nuts, may again delight nature lovers in Pennsylvania if a fight now being waged by modern science is successful.

Some experts aver the chestnut tree, virtually wiped out in this state nearly 20 years ago by the blight, can't come back but Dr. G. A. Zimmerman, a local practitioner, believes otherwise.

He treats the trees much as if they were human beings and "vaccinates" them against the blight.

To prove the practical value of his experiment, Dr. Zimmerman, who is also president of the Pennsylvania Nut Growers' Association and vice president of the Northern Nut Growers' Association, points to the some 1,000 Chestnut trees treated by him which are flourishing on his land at nearby Piketown.

Serum Is Used

The chestnut tree, Dr. Zimmerman believes, can be immunized against the blight by injecting into it a serum prepared from a diseased specimen. With this artificial aid, the tree will develop a resistance to the disease and grow to a normal size, he said.

The vaccination takes place in the spring when the sap is running. A T-incision is made in the bark over which is sealed a paper cup containing the serum. The serum immunizes the tree as it seeps to all its parts through the sap stream.

Dr. Zimmerman pointed out, however, that the treatment was not absolute. Some trees subjected to the experiment failed to respond favorably and died. Others were affected in but various parts by the blight. This was to be expected, he said, since the serum must reach all parts of the tree before it can be fully immunized.

Early in his medical career, Dr. Zimmerman pioneered in animal and human vaccination. He finally became convinced that the cells of a plant organism, as well as those of an animal, will develop an enzyme when a germ is introduced. With this thought in mind, Dr. Zimmerman prepared serum and began experimenting on chestnut shoots growing on his land.

Trees Bear Fruit

"I soon discovered that the trees would build up a defense against the blight," he said. "The problem then became one of finding chestnut stock worth immunizing."

He obtained suitable stock from all over the country and abroad. Within a few years, the grafted and immunized trees were bearing fruit. He planted the seeds and from them raised trees which now, at ages ranging from two to six years, are beginning to bear nuts.

"Seedlings from these nuts," he said, "inherit about the same amount of immunity as the parent tree has. I have planted seedlings from fruit of immunized trees beside seedlings from nuts I obtained in the middle west. The trees from the fruit that was not immunized died, the immunized ones grew."

Dr. Zimmerman now has six acres planted in immunized chestnut seedlings, in addition to scattered clumps and individual trees about the woods and brush land. He prophesied:

"If I could have had 50 men working with me so that thousands of injections were made for every one of mine, I would have half of Pennsylvania covered with chestnut trees."

Grange Plans For Hallowe'en Party

Plans have been completed by the Liberty Grange for a Hallowe'en carnival which will be held on the grange hall on the Harlansburg road Tuesday evening, October 30. Old fashioned Hallowe'en entertainment will be on the program of the evening with the Grand Parade at nine o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

Troop Starts Indoor Drill

Outdoor Drill Activities Are Suspended For Winter Season

EXPECT VISIT OF MAJOR PRICE

Indoor drill activities of Troop F, 103rd cavalry, P. N. G., will start at the armory this evening, because of the shortened hours of daylight and the threat of inclement weather. There will be individual riding by the members during the daylight hours, but from now until spring there will be no more outdoor drill.

Troop F is expecting a visit from Major Price, the squadron commander, this evening. The uniform for drill tonight will be wool O. D., with barrack caps.

The meeting of the non-commissioned officers, which have regularly been held on Monday evenings, will take place on Wednesday evenings, starting at 7:30, until further notice. Use of the armory has been turned over to the American Legion band for drill purposes on Monday evenings.

SCOUTS ON EDGE FOR FIELD MEET HERE TOMORROW

District Troops To Rally At Washington Field; Events Listed

On Saturday afternoon representatives of north district troops will assemble at 2 o'clock at George Washington junior high school athletic field for the annual scout field meet, an interesting program of events having been arranged by a committee of the Scout Leaders' club.

The various events are as follows: waterboiling (two-man team), tent pitching (two man team), patrol antelope race (team of eight), semaphore signalling (four-man team), fire by flint and steel (one-man team), individual knot typing contest (one-man team), international Morse signalling (four-man team), fire by friction (one-man team), and fireman's carry relay (eight-man team). The troop scoring the highest number of points will be awarded a banner trophy donated by the Sport Goods store; this to be competed for annually. Individual awards have been ordered, but have not arrived as yet, so they will be presented in troop meetings to the winners of events.

Chief Judge Chester Childs, Boy Scout executive of Mercer county, will be assisted by a group of Mercer county scout leaders, and a good meet is looked forward to. However, in case of steady rain the meet will have to be automatically postponed, as on the 3rd, the leader training course will prevent many leaders from attending such a meet.

Drill Oil Well Near Chicago

Well Is Being Drilled Within 35 Miles Of Downtown Chicago As Experiment

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—An oil well is being drilled today on the fringe of the Windy City, a scant 35 miles from the heart of Chicago's loop business district.

Geologists and scientists, the well's promoters insist, are unanimous in the opinion that a pool three miles long and two and one half miles wide, will be tapped somewhere between a depth of from 800 to 1,200 feet.

The well, being sunk on the farm of Joseph McGlashan, near the city limits on the Lincoln highway, is the culmination of seven years of research.

Troop Starts Indoor Drill

Outdoor Drill Activities Are Suspended For Winter Season

EXPECT VISIT OF MAJOR PRICE

Indoor drill activities of Troop F, 103rd cavalry, P. N. G., will start at the armory this evening, because of the shortened hours of daylight and the threat of inclement weather. There will be individual riding by the members during the daylight hours, but from now until spring there will be no more outdoor drill.

Troop F is expecting a visit from Major Price, the squadron commander, this evening. The uniform for drill tonight will be wool O. D., with barrack caps.

The meeting of the non-commissioned officers, which have regularly been held on Monday evenings, will take place on Wednesday evenings, starting at 7:30, until further notice. Use of the armory has been turned over to the American Legion band for drill purposes on Monday evenings.

SCOUTS ON EDGE FOR FIELD MEET HERE TOMORROW

District Troops To Rally At Washington Field; Events Listed

On Saturday afternoon representatives of north district troops will assemble at 2 o'clock at George Washington junior high school athletic field for the annual scout field meet, an interesting program of events having been arranged by a committee of the Scout Leaders' club.

The various events are as follows: waterboiling (two-man team), tent pitching (two man team), patrol antelope race (team of eight), semaphore signalling (four-man team), fire by flint and steel (one-man team), individual knot typing contest (one-man team), international Morse signalling (four-man team), fire by friction (one-man team), and fireman's carry relay (eight-man team). The troop scoring the highest number of points will be awarded a banner trophy donated by the Sport Goods store; this to be competed for annually. Individual awards have been ordered, but have not arrived as yet, so they will be presented in troop meetings to the winners of events.

Chief Judge Chester Childs, Boy Scout executive of Mercer county, will be assisted by a group of Mercer county scout leaders, and a good meet is looked forward to. However, in case of steady rain the meet will have to be automatically postponed, as on the 3rd, the leader training course will prevent many leaders from attending such a meet.

Drill Oil Well Near Chicago

Well Is Being Drilled Within 35 Miles Of Downtown Chicago As Experiment

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—An oil well is being drilled today on the fringe of the Windy City, a scant 35 miles from the heart of Chicago's loop business district.

Geologists and scientists, the well's promoters insist, are unanimous in the opinion that a pool three miles long and two and one half miles wide, will be tapped somewhere between a depth of from 800 to 1,200 feet.

The well, being sunk on the farm of Joseph McGlashan, near the city limits on the Lincoln highway, is the culmination of seven years of research.

Lions, Ladies Frolic In Hallowe'en Party

Liberty grange hall on the New Castle-Harlansburg road, perhaps got a fright itself last night when a noise-making host of New Castle Lions and Ladies of the Lions arrived to participate in what turned out to be their most successful Hallowe'en masquerade party.

The grange hall walls didn't waver, thanks for that, but it's likely the building would have released some hideous roars at some of the ghastly looking costumes had it a means of making a noise.

Put Skids To Dignity

The Lions smashed one another's dignity to bits and the sense of humor of all who took part was fed to the bursting point.

At 8 o'clock the "funatics" of the club made their bow and from that hour until midnight the hilarity kept up. Practically everyone appeared masked and the majority of them kept the crowd guessing. Original costumes to be seen almost everywhere and the costume judges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitely, of Pittsburgh, formerly of New Castle, found their job a delicate one.

Upstairs in the grange hall the earlier part of the evening brought a blind-fold boxing bout between I. J. Miller and D. E. Matheson, a comic airplane trip for E. D. Marvin and J. B. Waddington, apple-bobbing contests, a fish pond and a number of other fun-provoking sideshows.

Decorated in gala style, the hall itself was an ideal setting for the party.

At 10 everyone unmasked and the judging came to an end.

Down in the basement a buffet lunch was served within a short time with pumpkin pie, cider, coffee, doughnuts and other Hallowe'en eats in abundance.

Win Costume Prizes

The judging by Mr. and Mrs. Whitely, formerly associated with the club, resulted as follows:

First—Gold Dust Twins, Mrs. W. H. Fenton, Jr., and Mrs. C. E. Hough

Second—Mother and baby, Dr. T. J. Fletcher and unknown baby

Third—Ghost, Mrs. George Smith

Fourth—Schrooge, Charles Pile

Fifth—Andy, of Amos 'n Andy, J. B. Leyde

Sixth—Madame Queen, R. F. Conway

Seventh—Best-dressed man, Earl Ramsey

Liveliest woman—Mrs. C. J. Streib

Liveliest man—Numa Vidal

Typical Scotchman—Paul Dingledy

W. O. "Red" Williams led the group singing of the evening. Nearly 40 prizes in all were given out.

W. H. Fenton, Jr. was chairman of the party, assisted by George Smith and J. W. Staudinger.

BEAVER Townships

BIG BEAVER GRANGE

Big Beacver grange will meet on Tuesday evening, October 30, with Miss Thelma McCullough, lecturer, in charge.

The program will be of a miscellaneous nature and will include the following numbers: Roll call, everyone bringing an antique and telling of its history.

Talk, "What Hallowe'en Means to Us"—Mrs. Chester McChesney.

Talk, "Economical meals for cold winter nights"—Mrs. W. G. Shannon.

German Project Reclaims Land From North Sea

(International News Service)

NORDEN, East Friesland—Reclamation work on the North Sea coast of Germany, proceeding in desultory manner for some years, has been speeded up and the first of a number of new villages soon to sprout in the region has been dedicated with elaborate ceremony.

Neu Westeel, the infant community, stands on part of 50,000 acres of "drowned land" swallowed by the sea some 600 years ago during a great storm. Bit by bit the sea has been pushed back with fillings and dams, bringing to light again polders from 1,500 to 20,000 acres in area and finally these were generally linked into one solid strip jutting out of the sea.

The remainder of the "drowned land" will be brought back month by month.

Neu Westeel, in addition to the group of neat workingmen's houses, boasts a stone church and school. The first child to be born there will be given a fully equipped cradle by the new community.

Lloyd George Views Errors Of World War

Charges Field Marshal Haig Sacrificed British Soldiers Needlessly

SAYS GENERAL CONCEALED FACTS

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Charges by David Lloyd George that the late Field Marshal Earl Haig insisted, despite cabinet opposition, in continuing the great sacrifice of men at the battle of Passchendaele to satisfy his own vanity today caused a stir in political and military circles.

Lloyd George, prime minister at the time of the battle in 1917, discussed Earl Haig and the Flanders struggle where 400,000 Britons fell, in the fourth volume of his war memoirs, published today.

Haig "wilfully and skilfully" misled the cabinet by withholding vital facts, the famous Welsh statesman charged.

Gambled On Break

Haig's aim was to keep the Germans engaged in Flanders to give Marshal Petain a chance to restore the morale of the collapsing French army. The struggle for the little Belgian hamlet of Passchendaele in the early winter of 1917, at the end of the third battle of Ypres, was waged under appalling conditions. Chill rain fell continuously, troops and artillery bogged down in a sea of mud, and the Germans used poison gas, their new weapon, extensively. Losses were tremendous on both sides.)

"Haig," wrote Lloyd George, "gambled on the chance that the Germans would break, rather than face the dread alternative of a confession of failure to the politicians who had deposed Lord French for a less stupendous errore of judgment at Loos.

"While hundreds of thousands were being destroyed through insane egotism, every message and memorandum from Haig was full of insistences in the importance of sending him more men to replace those who had been sent to die in the mud."

Lloyd George said Haig minimized the German morale and reserves of man power, and the quality of the enemy's guns and ammunition.

He deliberately concealed from the cabinet, asserted Lloyd George, that all the generals had consulted about the battle were opposed to it.

"Passchendaele, with the Somme and Verdun," wrote Lloyd George, "will always rank as the most gigantic, tenacious, grim, futile and bloody fight ever waged in the history of war."

Haig, who was elevated to the peerage after the war, died Jan. 29, 1928.

Sanhedrin was the name in ancient times of the highest court of justice and supreme council in Jerusalem.

HIRE EFFICIENCY

Reduced to its simplest terms, the purpose of the present campaign is to hire a manager for this business we call the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The man we hire, to be governor, through our votes, is the man who will manage the affairs of the state for four years, who will have the last word in our laws and our finances, who will manage a giant business like a business man.

Will you hire a man capable of doing the job, trained and experienced for his work, or will you hire a playboy who looks upon the governorship of Pennsylvania as a means of strengthening the Tammany-like political organization of Jim Farley.

William A. Schnader has given eleven years of his life as the attorney-general or deputy attorney-general of this state. He has prepared more legislation for this state than any other man in it. He knows the merchanics of government.

His opponent George the Third Earle has a long list of social achievements back of him. He is familiarly known in the drawing rooms of New York, London, Paris and Vienna. He is a capable polo player. He has travelled. But what has he ever done in all his life to warrant his being elected governor of Pennsylvania?

Born into millions built upon the sugar industry, living on an income which is guaranteed by a spendthrift trust he has never had to work, never had to worry. His only contribution to government has been some of the money left him, to the Democratic war chests.

Surely the time has not come when Pennsylvania is on the auction block. Let's hire a man for the job of running Pennsylvania who knows something about the job. Let's vote for William A. Schnader.

Lions, Ladies Frolic In Hallowe'en Party

Liberty grange hall on the New Castle-Harlansburg road, perhaps got a fright itself last night when a noise-making host of New Castle Lions and Ladies of the Lions arrived to participate in what turned out to be their most successful Hallowe'en masquerade party.

The grange hall walls didn't waver, thanks for that, but it's likely the building would have released some hideous roars at some of the ghastly looking costumes had it a means of making a noise.

Put Skids To Dignity

The Lions smashed one another's dignity to bits and the sense of humor of all who took part was fed to the bursting point.

At 8 o'clock the "funatics" of the club made their bow and from that hour until midnight the hilarity kept up. Practically everyone appeared masked and the majority of them kept the crowd guessing. Original costumes to be seen almost everywhere and the costume judges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitely, of Pittsburgh, formerly of New Castle, found their job a delicate one.

Upstairs in the grange hall the earlier part of the evening brought a blind-fold boxing bout between I. J. Miller and D. E. Matheson, a comic airplane trip for E. D. Marvin and J. B. Waddington, apple-bobbing contests, a fish pond and a number of other fun-provoking sideshows.

Decorated in gala style, the hall itself was an ideal setting for the party.

At 10 everyone unmasked and the judging came to an end.

Down in the basement a buffet lunch was served within a short time with pumpkin pie, cider, coffee, doughnuts and other Hallowe'en eats in abundance.

Win Costume Prizes

The judging by Mr. and Mrs. Whitely, formerly associated with the club, resulted as follows:

First—Gold Dust Twins, Mrs. W. H. Fenton, Jr., and Mrs. C. E. Hough

Second—Mother and baby, Dr. T. J. Fletcher and unknown baby

Third—Ghost, Mrs. George Smith

Fourth—Schrooge, Charles Pile

Fifth—Andy, of Amos 'n Andy, J. B. Leyde

Sixth—Madame Queen, R. F. Conway

Seventh—Best-dressed man, Earl Ramsey

Liveliest woman—Mrs. C. J. Streib

Liveliest man—Numa Vidal

Typical Scotchman—Paul Dingledy

W. O. "Red" Williams led the group singing of the evening. Nearly 40 prizes in all were given out.

W. H. Fenton, Jr. was chairman of the party, assisted by George Smith and J. W. Staudinger.

Demented Man In Canada Kills Six

Hunt For Two More Bodies Of Alleged Victims Of Demented Ex-Soldier

TWO SISTERS ARE AMONG VICTIMS

(International News Service)

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—Police today searched the woods of St. Therese de Beauport for the bodies of two youths believed to have been victims of Rosaire Bilodeau, allegedly demented ex-soldier and former mail carrier whom authorities blamed for a wild rampage that cost six lives.

The bodies of four of Bilodeau's victims were recovered. The identified dead included Oscar Fiset, divisional superintendent of the Quebec postal service; Marie and Rosalie Bilodeau, sisters of the accused, and Yvette Gauvin, his niece.

Authorities searched for Gaston and Fernand Gauvin, nephews of Bilodeau, whom the gun-wielding former soldier told police he shot to death.

Police Receive Few Complaints Of Hallowe'eners

Rain Aids Police; Children Off Streets At 9 P. M., They Report

Rain helped police last night and only three calls for police protection from boys were received at the police station. No children were ordered before Mayor Mayne for being on the streets after nine p. m.

The complaints said boys were annoying persons in East Fairmont avenue and some boys broke a window in North Croton avenue. Boys also annoyed persons near Stanton avenue and Morton street.

Stolen Money Orders Being Passed Here

Warning is issued by Postmaster Richard Steen, that two strangers are operating in this city, with stolen money orders. The blanks were stolen from the Leavittsburg post office. They are stamped with a home-made stamp, and some have been passed here, he said.

The method of operation is for the money order to be presented in payment of a bill, and cash be received in change. One money order was passed for $25 and the pair received $23 in change.

Report Enon Man Robbed Of $30

State and city police in this vicinity are searching for five Gypsies who are alleged to have obtained $30 from George Von Berg at Enon Valley late yesterday afternoon. The Gypsies, three men and two women, were in an auto carrying New Jersey license plates.

They stopped at his home and engaged in conversation with him. He reached for his pocketbook, found it missing and accused them of taking it. One of them pointed to his pocketbook which was on the ground nearby. He examined it and found $30 missing, according to word telephoned to the state police.

LOSES GOOD DOG

Police were told last night that H. A. Bailey, Jr., 1048 Maryland avenue, had lost his English setter dog. It is a black and white marked dog.

Lions, Ladies Frolic In Hallowe'en Party

Liberty grange hall on the New Castle-Harlansburg road, perhaps got a fright itself last night when a noise-making host of New Castle Lions and Ladies of the Lions arrived to participate in what turned out to be their most successful Hallowe'en masquerade party.

The grange hall walls didn't waver, thanks for that, but it's likely the building would have released some hideous roars at some of the ghastly looking costumes had it a means of making a noise.

Put Skids To Dignity

The Lions smashed one another's dignity to bits and the sense of humor of all who took part was fed to the bursting point.

At 8 o'clock the "funatics" of the club made their bow and from that hour until midnight the hilarity kept up. Practically everyone appeared masked and the majority of them kept the crowd guessing. Original costumes to be seen almost everywhere and the costume judges, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitely, of Pittsburgh, formerly of New Castle, found their job a delicate one.

Upstairs in the grange hall the earlier part of the evening brought a blind-fold boxing bout between I. J. Miller and D. E. Matheson, a comic airplane trip for E. D. Marvin and J. B. Waddington, apple-bobbing contests, a fish pond and a number of other fun-provoking sideshows.

Decorated in gala style, the hall itself was an ideal setting for the party.

At 10 everyone unmasked and the judging came to an end.

Down in the basement a buffet lunch was served within a short time with pumpkin pie, cider, coffee, doughnuts and other Hallowe'en eats in abundance.

Win Costume Prizes

The judging by Mr. and Mrs. Whitely, formerly associated with the club, resulted as follows:

First—Gold Dust Twins, Mrs. W. H. Fenton, Jr., and Mrs. C. E. Hough

Second—Mother and baby, Dr. T. J. Fletcher and unknown baby

Third—Ghost, Mrs. George Smith

Fourth—Schrooge, Charles Pile

Fifth—Andy, of Amos 'n Andy, J. B. Leyde

Sixth—Madame Queen, R. F. Conway

Seventh—Best-dressed man, Earl Ramsey

Liveliest woman—Mrs. C. J. Streib

Liveliest man—Numa Vidal

Typical Scotchman—Paul Dingledy

W. O. "Red" Williams led the group singing of the evening. Nearly 40 prizes in all were given out.

W. H. Fenton, Jr. was chairman of the party, assisted by George Smith and J. W. Staudinger.

BEAVER Townships

BIG BEAVER GRANGE

Big Beacver grange will meet on Tuesday evening, October 30, with Miss Thelma McCullough, lecturer, in charge.

The program will be of a miscellaneous nature and will include the following numbers: Roll call, everyone bringing an antique and telling of its history.

Talk, "What Hallowe'en Means to Us"—Mrs. Chester McChesney.

Talk, "Economical meals for cold winter nights"—Mrs. W. G. Shannon.

Vocal solo—Olive Louise Davis.

Talk, "Will the increase in the price of milk to the consumer mean greater profits to the producer?"—W. A. Scott.

Talk, "Things of interest I read this week"—Mrs. Joe Wilson.

Music—Gladys Howell.

Talk, "Does it pay a farmer to belong to a cow-testing association?"—Clifford Douthitt.

Stunt—Wayne Walker.

Group No. 3 will furnish one number on the program and will serve light refreshments.

ENTERTAIN DEGREE TEAM

Misses Gladys and Doris Howell and Hollis Howell entertained the members of the first and second degree teams of the Big Beaver grange Friday evening. A fine time was enjoyed by all present. Miss Doris Howell and Howard Henderson will be married Thanksgiving Day.

BEAVER TOWNSHIP PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. James L. McHattie and family of Little Beaver township visited friends at Sewickley on Sunday afternoon. Miss Anna McHattie, the former's sister, accompanied them home, concluding a week's visit in Sewickley.

Rev. W. W. Willis, Rev. L. F. Patterson and Willard Foster attended the Beaver Valley Presbytery meeting at Ellwood City U. P. church Tuesday.

Mrs. Lydia L. [illegible] of New Brighton moved to the h[illegible] of her daughter in Little Beaver township last week, where she plans to make her future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams and Mrs. Robert Hindmarsh of Homestead were recent guests of their cousin, J. W. Bronson of Little Beaver township.

The Y. P. C. U. of the Rocky Springs U. P. church enjoyed a Hallowe'en party in the church basement last Friday evening. A large crowd was in attendance and all report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lusk and son of New Brighton visited relatives in Little Beaver township the first of the week.

Mrs. Edna Marshall Stambaugh of Aberdeen, Idaho, arrived in Beaver last week for several weeks' visit among friends and relatives in Beaver and Lawrence counties.

Lawrence G. Moore of North Beaver is enjoying a visit with his uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. George Atwell of Washington, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colmerry of Bellevue visited Thursday at the home of the latter's brother, J. G. Russell and wife of Little Beaver township.

German Project Reclaims Land From North Sea

(International News Service)

NORDEN, East Friesland — Reclamation work on the North Sea coast of Germany, proceeding in desultory manner for some years, has been speeded up and the first of a number of new villages soon to sprout in the region has been dedicated with elaborate ceremony.

Neu Westeel, the infant community, stands on part of 50,000 acres of "drowned land" swallowed by the sea some 600 years ago during a great storm. Bit by bit the sea has been pushed back with fillings and dams, bringing to light again polders from 1,500 to 20,000 acres in area and finally these were generally linked into one solid strip jutting out of the sea.

The remainder of the "drowned land" will be brought back month by month.

Neu Westeel, in addition to the group of neat workingmen's houses, boasts a stone church and school. The first child to be born there will be given a fully equipped cradle by the new community.

Lloyd George Views Errors Of World War

Charges Field Marshal Haig Sacrificed British Soldiers Needlessly

SAYS GENERAL CONCEALED FACTS

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Charges by David Lloyd George that the late Field Marshal Earl Haig insisted, despite cabinet opposition, in continuing the great sacrifice of men at the battle of Passchendaele to satisfy his own vanity today caused a stir in political and military circles.

Lloyd George, prime minister at the time of the battle in 1917, discussed Earl Haig and the Flanders struggle where 400,000 Britons fell, in the fourth volume of his war memoirs, published today.

Haig "wilfully and skilfully" misled the cabinet by withholding vital facts, the famous Welsh statesman charged.

Gambled On Break

Haig's aim was to keep the Germans engaged in Flanders to give Marshal Petain a chance to restore the morale of the collapsing French army. The struggle for the little Belgian hamlet of Passchendaele in the early winter of 1917, at the end of the third battle of Ypres, was waged under appalling conditions. Chill rain fell continuously, troops and artillery bogged down in a sea of mud, and the Germans used poison gas, their new weapon, extensively. Losses were tremendous on both sides.)

"Haig," wrote Lloyd George, "gambled on the chance that the Germans would break, rather than face the dread alternative of a confession of failure to the politicians who had deposed Lord French for a less stupendous errore of judgment at Loos.

"While hundreds of thousands were being destroyed through insane egotism, every message and memorandum from Haig was full of insistences in the importance of sending him more men to replace those who had been sent to die in the mud."

Lloyd George said Haig minimized the German morale and reserves of man power, and the quality of the enemy's guns and ammunition.

He deliberately concealed from the cabinet, asserted Lloyd George, that all the generals had consulted about the battle were opposed to it.

"Passchendaele, with the Somme and Verdun," wrote Lloyd George, "will always rank as the most gigantic, tenacious, grim, futile and bloody fight ever waged in the history of war."

Haig, who was elevated to the peerage after the war, died Jan. 29, 1928.

Sanhedrin was the name in ancient times of the highest court of justice and supreme council in Jerusalem.

HIRE EFFICIENCY

Reduced to its simplest terms, the purpose of the present campaign is to hire a manager for this business we call the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The man we hire, to be governor, through our votes, is the man who will manage the affairs of the state for four years, who will have the last word in our laws and our finances, who will manage a giant business like a business man.

Will you hire a man capable of doing the job, trained and experienced for his work, or will you hire a playboy who looks upon the governorship of Pennsylvania as a means of strengthening the Tammany-like political organization of Jim Farley.

William A. Schnader has given eleven years of his life as the attorney-general or deputy attorney-general of this state. He has prepared more legislation for this state than any other man in it. He knows the merchanics of government.

His opponent George the Third Earle has a long list of social achievements back of him. He is familiarly known in the drawing rooms of New York, London, Paris and Vienna. He is a capable polo player. He has travelled. But what has he ever done in all his life to warrant his being elected governor of Pennsylvania?

Born into millions built upon the sugar industry, living on an income which is guaranteed by a spendthrift trust he has never had to work, never had to worry. His only contribution to government has been some of the money left him, to the Democratic war chests.

Surely the time has not come when Pennsylvania is on the auction block. Let's hire a man for the job of running Pennsylvania who knows something about the job. Let's vote for William A. Schnader.

ROY W. HAZEN, Chairman,
Republican County Committee.

Hints Record In Hauptmann Case Altered

Attorney For Alleged Kidnaper Plans Court Order To Scrutinize Payroll

SPECULATE ON USE OF CONDON

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—James M. Fawcett, counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sprung a surprise today when he hinted that records which otherwise might have established an alibi for the sullen Bronx carpenter might have been altered.

He said he planned to seek a court order for a rigid scrutiny of the payroll of the Majestic apartments where Hauptmann is known to have worked.

Somewhat recovered from his astonishment at Joseph M. Furcht's repudiation of his earlier story that Hauptmann had worked at the Majestic on the day of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Fawcett expressed the belief that an examination of the payroll might show his client's name had been erased from the list.

Police Have Records

New Jersey police authorities now have possession of the payroll. Furcht, who was construction superintendent at the building at the time of the kidnaping, withdrew his alibi when he was shown that his record did not contain Hauptmann's name.

Fawcett, it is understood, will also seek to examine the records of the Sixth avenue employment agency whose manager, E. Pescia, said he sent Hauptmann to the Majestic on February 27, 1932, the Saturday before the day of the crime, which occurred on Tuesday, March 1.

In the meantime there was still much speculation as to whether Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations, identified Hauptmann as the mysterious "John" to whom he paid over $50,000 in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx on the night of April 2, 1932. Condon talked with Hauptmann in his cell in the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J., on Wednesday and there have been conflicting stories as to whether he identified the prisoner.

But whether or not such a positive identification was made, the question remained as to what use would be made of Condon at the trial, scheduled to start January 2.

Goes Into Wilds On Long Search

(International News Service)

LONDON—With a revolver in her belt and a music book in her haversack, Miss Julia Chatterton, founder of the International Folk Song and Folk Lore Society, will soon set out alone on a camel across the Moroccan deserts in search of songs.

Miss Chatterton left London Oct. 5 to travel by easy stages to Tangier, where she will hire camels and donkeys for a six weeks' trip into the Morroccan interior.

She will sit unobstrusively by quaint village gatherings and jot down the songs that are sung—songs that perhaps have never been written down before, and yet have been sung to the same curiously rhythmical chants throughout the centuries.

Miss Chatterton has already had adventures in many lands in her quest for traditional music of little-known countries. She expects to meet with more adventures in Morocco and the famed country of the Riffs.

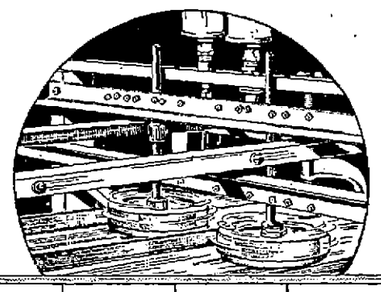
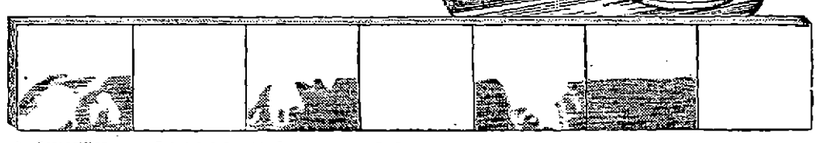
Sears Seroco ENAMEL

Given 35,000 Rubs, with No Signs of Wear

Three Sears Seroco enamels and four much higher priced competing brands were applied on a wood surface; then placed on the Durometer machine where strong laundry soap, water and a large pad created a 5½-pound pressure and a rubbing, scrubbing action. After 35,000 rubs only the Seroco enamels came through without any signs of wear. For a lasting job, buy your enamels at Sears.





1 Competitor "A"—price $6.38 per gallon. Badly worn at 20,479 rubs.

2 Seroco Snow-white Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

3 Competitor "B"—price $6.55 per gallon. Started to wear at 14,816 rubs.

4 Seroco Gloss Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

5 Competitor "C"—price $6.85 per gal. Partly worn off. Started wear at 23,283 rubs.

6 Competitor "D"—price $7.50 per gallon. Completely worn off at 35,000 rubs.

7 Seroco Four-Hour Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

SEROCO Snowhite Enamel — $3.98 GAL.

There is no purer white enamel made—and it stays white! Easy to apply; dries to a brilliant finish.

SEROCO Gloss Enamel — $2.69 GAL.

Use it to brighten dingy kitchens, bathrooms, etc. Colorful, attractive!

SEROCO 4-Hour Enamel — $3.80 GAL.

35,000 rubs couldn't harm this quick-drying finish for walls, woodwork, furniture.

Japan Gives Out Partial Details Of Naval Plans

More Definite Details Of Proposed Naval Policy Given British

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26—After three days of jockeying by giving Britain and America only a foggy idea of her plan for a new naval agreement Japan today presented to the British delegates at least some definite details of Tokyo's proposals.

Rear Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto and Ambasador Tsuneo Matsudaira had their second talk with the British representatives, headed by Prime minister Ramsay MacDonald, at No. 10 Downing St.

They had met with the British Tuesday, and the Americans Wednesday, and outlined Japan's demands for the abolition of the 5-5-3 ratio, and substitution of a global tonnage system on a basis of "equality of security."

Pressure Brought

Irked by Japan's dilatory procedure, and suspicious that something was going on behind the scenes, Norman H. Davis, U. S. Ambassador at large, conferred with Premier MacDonald and foreign Minister Sir John Simon yesterday, and it was believed that pressure was brought to bear on the Japanese to elucidate their program.

Factors in the Japanese plan, which were believed to have been told to the British today, and which America opposed, included elimination of restrictions on submarines and cruisers, regarded as "defensive" vessels by Japan; a general cut in big ships, and a maximum total tonnage figure for all, that would not involve a ratio.

Companies Will File Details Of Reduced Rates

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Utility companies notified by the Public Service commission to reduce rates to net only a six per cent return by November 15 or show why they are unable to comply, are acknowledging the notice with replies that more details answers will be filed about the middle of next month, commission officials said today.

No detailed replies have yet been filed by the 50 companies who were in the first group to be notified that the commission was campaigning for reduced rates.

Commission officials said the answers will not be made public when they are received because of the informal nature of the cases.

It was expected that in most instances, conferences will be necessary before any agreement is reached and unless formal complaints are instituted there will be no public hearings.

Stole Gas Right From Auto Tanks

GREELEY, Colo.—An ingenious contrivance for obtaining free gasoline landed two Pueblo, Colo., men in jail here. Police said they caught E. B. Todd, 29, and John Pullaro, 23, transfering gasoline from parked automobiles to their car by means of a pump concealed beneath the front seat.

30-gallon drum for receiving the stolen gasoline was also found. The pump, officers said, had been connected with the engine manifold in such a way that when the motor was started it would suck gas through a rubber hose.

Oil Monopoly In Manchukuo Stirs Nations

Magnitude Of Crisis Between Great Powers Is Revealed By Japanese Papers

CLAIM LAW IS MADE IN JAPAN

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—The magnitude of the new crisis between Japan and the United States and Great Britain over the proposed state oil monopoly in Manchukuo was clearly revealed here today when Japanese newspapers defied a police ban and published full details of the diplomatic exchanges in the affair.

There was no attempt to disguise the fact an acute situation exists, due to the firm belief of Britain and America that Japan is sponsoring this monopoly for purely military purposes.

Demand Expenditure

The proposed law for establishment of the monopoly would compel the Standard Oil Company and the Royal Dutch Shell Company to construct storage tanks at a cost of $20,000,000, without the slightest guaranty that no losses would be sustained by the investment.

Futhermore, the American and British companies would have no assurance of non-interference in the project by the Manchukuo government, and no promise has been given that the work could be carried out without government supervision.

Tokyo newspapers featured the fact that the United Stats, Britain and the Netherlands, working in sympathy if not actual concert, have formally warned Japan that the proposed monopoly is in violation of Article 3 of the Nine-Power treaty, which established the open door policy in China and what is now Manchukuo.

An interesting sidelight on the affair is that Keizaburo Hasimoto, chairman of the Manchukuo Oil board and a leading figure in the monopoly, is president of the Japan Oil company and a brother-in-law of General Takashi Hishikari, commander of the Japanese army in Manchukuo.

Business men declared it is common knowledge that the Manchukuo monopoly bill is being prepared under Tokyo's direction, despite the diplomatic attitude of the Japanese government that the affair is sole concern of the "independent" state of Manchukuo.

Miss Donna Evans, says that she has discovered that if she has no darner, an electric light bulb makes a satisfactory one when darning stockings. It does not put runs in silk stockings, and there usually is one around the place.

GRANT CITY

SURPRISE PARTY

A number of folks motored to the home of Mrs. Stickel on last Wednesday evening in surprise fashion. The evening was spent in music. At a late hour a delicious lunch was served by Miss Kathryn Stickel and Mrs. Charlie Stickel.

Those attending were: Mrs. Samuel Gettings and daughter Alice and Florence Weidel, of McCaslin; Wendell Myers of Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Houk and niece, Jane Tomer, of New Castle.

GRANT CITY PERSONALS

Jean Stoner spent the week-end with relatives in New Castle.

John Karcher of Rochester was a business caller here on Thursday.

Mrs. Sadie Heberling of Portersville spent a few days recently at the home of Mae and June Book.

Junior Allen of New Castle visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoner on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner and children and Mr. and Mrs. Freed, of New Castle, spent Sunday afternoon here.

Mrs. Lizzie Stickel motored to Franklin on Friday with her niece, Miss Gertrude Thompson, and Mrs. O. E. Thompson of New Castle.

Friends of Clifford Robison are very sorry to hear of his death. Mr. Robison lived in this vicinity from early boyhood until about two years ago, when he moved to Gardner.

The selected site for an oil well has been chosen at the grounds formerly known as Payne quarry, and owned by the Lehigh Cement Company of New Castle. The drilling rig has been moved in from the Munnell farm, where a well had been previously sunk without favorable results.

Miss Kathryn Stickel spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Gertrude Thompson, of New Castle. Miss Stickel, accompanied by friends, motored to the Pymatuning dam on Sunday.

Rev. Broadhead of New Castle was the speaker on Sunday morning at Zion church in the absence of Rev. Carl Jones, pastor. Clyde Shoemaker of Butler was the evening speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shoemaker, recent bride and groom, have returned from a honeymoon and will make their home in Butler, where Mr. Shoemaker is engaged in practice of law.

Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations, identified Hauptmann as the mysterious "John" to whom he paid over $50,000 in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx on the night of April 2, 1932. Condon talked with Hauptmann in his cell in the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J., on Wednesday and there have been conflicting stories as to whether he identified the prisoner.

But whether or not such a positive identification was made, the question remained as to what use would be made of Condon at the trial, scheduled to start January 2.

Goes Into Wilds On Long Search

(International News Service)

LONDON—With a revolver in her belt and a music book in her haversack, Miss Julia Chatterton, founder of the International Folk Song and Folk Lore Society, will soon set out alone on a camel across the Moroccan deserts in search of songs.

Miss Chatterton left London Oct. 5 to travel by easy stages to Tangier, where she will hire camels and donkeys for a six weeks' trip into the Morroccan interior.

She will sit unobstrusively by quaint village gatherings and jot down the songs that are sung—songs that perhaps have never been written down before, and yet have been sung to the same curiously rhythmical chants throughout the centuries.

Miss Chatterton has already had adventures in many lands in her quest for traditional music of little-known countries. She expects to meet with more adventures in Morocco and the famed country of the Riffs.

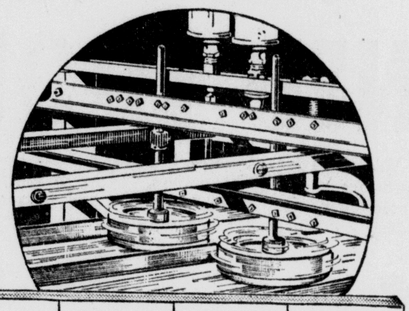
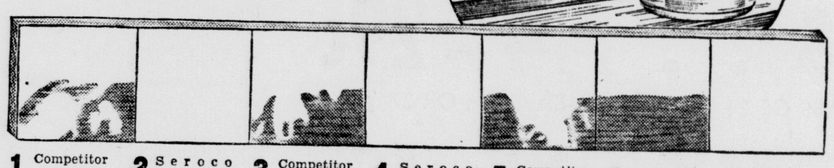
Sears Seroco ENAMEL

Given 35,000 Rubs, with No Signs of Wear

Three Sears Seroco enamels and four much higher priced competing brands were applied on a wood surface; then placed on the Durometer machine where strong laundry soap, water and a large pad created a 5½-pound pressure and a rubbing, scrubbing action. After 35,000 rubs only the Seroco enamels came through without any signs of wear. For a lasting job, buy your enamels at Sears.





1 Competitor "A"—price $6.38 per gallon. Badly worn at 20,472 rubs.

2 Seroco Snow-white Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

3 Competitor "B"—price $6.55 per gallon. Started to wear at 14,816 rubs.

4 Seroco Gloss Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

5 Competitor "C"—price $6.85 per gal. Partly worn off. Started wear at 23,280 rubs.

6 Competitor "D"—price $7.50 per gallon. Completely worn off at 35,000 rubs.

7 Seroco Four-Hour Enamel. No signs of wear after 35,000 rubs.

SEROCO Snowhite Enamel $3.98 GAL.

There is no purer white enamel made—and it stays white! Easy to apply; dries to a brilliant finish.

SEROCO Gloss Enamel $2.69 GAL.

Use it to brighten dingy kitchens, bathrooms, etc. Colorful, attractive!

SEROCO 4-Hour Enamel $3.80 GAL.

35,000 rubs couldn't harm this quick-drying finish for walls, woodwork, furniture.

Japan Gives Out Partial Details Of Naval Plans

More Definite Details Of Proposed Naval Policy Given British

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26—After three days of jockeying by giving Britain and America only a foggy idea of her plan for a new naval agreement Japan today presented to the British delegates at least some definite details of Tokyo's proposals.

Rear Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto and Ambasador Tsuneo Matsudaira had their second talk with the British representatives, headed by Prime minister Ramsay MacDonald, at No. 10 Downing St.

They had met with the British Tuesday, and the Americans Wednesday, and outlined Japan's demands for the abolition of the 5-5-3 ratio, and substitution of a global tonnage system on a basis of "equality of security."

Pressure Brought

Irked by Japan's dilatory procedure, and suspicious that something was going on behind the scenes, Norman H. Davis, U. S. Ambassador at large, conferred with Premier MacDonald and foreign Minister Sir John Simon yesterday, and it was believed that pressure was brought to bear on the Japanese to elucidate their program.

Factors in the Japanese plan, which were believed to have been told to the British today, and which America opposed, included elmininations of restrictions on submarines and cruisers, regarded as "defensive" vessels by Japan; a general cut in big ships, and a maximum total tonnage figure for all, that would not involve a ratio.

Companies Will File Details Of Reduced Rates

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Utility companies notified by the Public Service commission to reduce rates to net only a six per cent return by November 15 or show why they are unable to comply, are acknowledging the notice with replies that more details answers will be filed about the middle of next month, commission officials said today.

No detailed replies have yet been filed by the 50 companies who were in the first group to be notified that the commission was campaigning for reduced rates.

Commission officials said the answers will not be made public when they are received because of the informal nature of the cases.

It was expected that in most instances, conferences will be necessary before any agreement is reached and unless formal complaints are instituted there will be no public hearings.

Stole Gas Right From Auto Tanks

GREELEY, Colo.—An ingenious contrivance for obtaining free gasoline landed two Pueblo, Colo., men in jail here. Police said they caught E. B. Todd, 29, and John Pullaro, 23, transfering gasoline from parked automobiles to their car by means of a pump concealed beneath the front seat.

30-gallon drum for receiving the stolen gasoline was also found. The pump, officers said, had been connected with the engine manifold in such a way that when the motor was started it would suck gas through a rubber hose.

Oil Monopoly In Manchukuo Stirs Nations

Magnitude Of Crisis Between Great Powers Is Revealed By Japanese Papers

CLAIM LAW IS MADE IN JAPAN

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—The magnitude of the new crisis between Japan and the United States and Great Britain over the proposed state oil monopoly in Manchukuo was clearly revealed here today when Japanese newspapers defied a police ban and published full details of the diplomatic exchanges in the affair.

There was no attempt to disguise the fact an acute situation exists, due to the firm belief of Britain and America that Japan is sponsoring this monopoly for purely military purposes.

Demand Expenditure

The proposed law for establishment of the monopoly would compel the Standard Oil Company and the Royal Dutch Shell Company to construct storage tanks at a cost of $20,000,000, without the slightest guaranty that no losses would be sustained by the investment.

Futhermore, the American and British companies would have no assurance of non-interference in the project by the Manchukuo government, and no promise has been given that the work could be carried out without government supervision.

Tokyo newspapers featured the fact that the United Stats, Britain and the Netherlands, working in sympathy if not actual concert, have formally warned Japan that the proposed monopoly is in violation of Article 3 of the Nine-Power treaty, which established the open door policy in China and what is now Manchukuo.

An interesting sidelight on the affair is that Keizaburo Hasimoto, chairman of the Manchukuo Oil board and a leading figure in the monopoly, is president of the Japan Oil company and a brother-in-law of General Takashi Hishikari, commander of the Japanese army in Manchukuo.

Business men declared it is common knowledge that the Manchukuo monopoly bill is being prepared under Tokyo's direction, despite the diplomatic attitude of the Japanese government that the affair is sole concern of the "independent" state of Manchukuo.

GRANT CITY

SURPRISE PARTY

A number of folks motored to the home of Mrs. Stickel on last Wednesday evening in surprise fashion. The evening was spent in music. At a late hour a delicious lunch was served by Miss Kathryn Stickel and Mrs. Charlie Stickel.

Those attending were: Mrs. Samuel Gettings and daughter Alice and Florence Weidel, of McCaslin; Wendell Myers of Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Houk and niece, Jane Tomer, of New Castle.

GRANT CITY PERSONALS

Jean Stoner spent the week-end with relatives in New Castle.

John Karcher of Rochester was a business caller here on Thursday.

Mrs. Sadie Heberling of Portersville spent a few days recently at the home of Mae and June Book.

Junior Allen of New Castle visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoner on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner and children and Mr. and Mrs. Freed, of New Castle, spent Sunday afternoon here.

Mrs. Lizzie Stickel motored to Franklin on Friday with her niece, Miss Gertrude Thompson, and Mrs. O. E. Thompson of New Castle.

Friends of Clifford Robison are very sorry to hear of his death. Mr. Robison lived in this vicinity from early boyhood until about two years ago, when he moved to Gardner.

The selected site for an oil well has been chosen at the grounds formerly known as Payne quarry and owned by the Lehigh Cement Company of New Castle. The drilling rig has been moved in from the Munnell farm, where a well had been previously sunk without favorable results.

Miss Kathryn Stickel spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Gertrude Thompson, of New Castle. Miss Stickel, accompanied by friends, motored to the Pymatuning dam on Sunday.

Rev. Broadhead of New Castle was the speaker on Sunday morning at Zion church in the absence of Rev. Carl Jones, pastor. Clyde Shoemaker of Butler was the evening speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shoemaker, recent bride and groom, have returned from a honeymoon and will make their home in Butler, where Mr. Shoemaker is engaged in practice of law.

Infant Prodigy Is Regular Fellow

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—"Shelly" Gilgore, two-and-one-half years of age and considered a genius by the psychology department of the University of Pennsylvania, may have an L. O. of 146.6, but his playmates say his batting average is over .300 and he is a "regular fellow."

Little Sheldon's amazing feats include quoting poetry, doing arithmatic and spelling two-syllable words.

His mother, Mrs. Harry Gilgore, who taught school before her marriage, declares that her amazing son "seems more interested in baseball and swimming than trying to impress people," however.

Demented Man In Canada Kills Six

Hunt For Two More Bodies Of Alleged Victims Of Demented Ex-Soldier

TWO SISTERS ARE AMONG VICTIMS

(International News Service)

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—Police today searched the woods of St. Therese de Beauport for the bodies of two youths believed to have been victims of Rosaire Bilodeau, allegedly demented ex-soldier and former mail carrier whom authorities blamed for a wild rampage that cost six lives.

The bodies of four of Bilodeau's victims were recovered. The identified dead included Oscar Fiset, divisional superintendent of the Quebec postal service; Marie and Rosalie Bilodeau, sisters of the accused, and Yvette Gauvin, his niece.

Authorities searched for Gaston and Fernand Gauvin, nephews of Bilodeau, whom the gun-wielding former soldier told police he shot to death.

Police Receive Few Complaints Of Hallowe'eners

Rain Aids Police; Children Off Streets At 9 P. M., They Report

Rain helped police last night and only three calls for police protection from boys were received at the police station. No children were ordered before Mayor Mayne for being on the streets after nine p. m.

The complaints said boys were annoying persons in East Fairmont avenue and some boys broke a window in North Croton avenue. Boys also annoyed persons near Stanton avenue and Morton street.

Stolen Money Orders Being Passed Here

Warning is issued by Postmaster Richard Steen, that two strangers are operating in this city, with stolen money orders. The blanks were stolen from the Leavittsburg post office. They are stamped with a home-made stamp, and some have been passed here, he said.

The method of operation is for the money order to be presented in payment of a bill, and cash be received in change. One money order was passed for $25 and the pair received $23 in change.

Report Enon Man Robbed Of $30

State and city police in this vicinity are searching for five Gypsies who are alleged to have obtained $30 from George Von Berg at Enon Valley late yesterday afternoon. The Gypsies, three men and two women, were in an auto carrying New Jersey license plates.

They stopped at his home and engaged in conversation with him. He reached for his pocketbook, found it missing and accused them of taking it. One of them pointed to his pocketbook which was on the ground nearby. He examined it and found $30 missing, according to word telephoned to the state police.

LOSES GOOD DOG

Police were told last night that H. A. Bailey, Jr., 1048 Maryland avenue, had lost his English setter dog. It is a black and white marked dog.

Amazon Beauty Who Hated Men Jailed For Fistic Protest

(International News Service)

VRASTA, Bulgaria, Oct. 26—Mara Reckof doesn't like the sight of men and makes no bones about it, that's why she is in jail today.

Thirty years old, almost handsome, a regular Amazon, Mara started hating boys and men early in life and now has it down almost to a scientific basis.

Many a boastful swain has sought to tame the shrew, but showed up back with his cronies with a "shiner" or broken arm.

One of the potential suitors was flung bodily out of Mara's father's farm house by the girl. She gave him a trouncing before heaving him out the front door.

She even went into the neighboring forests alone, where men go armed, if they must make a trip through the woods.

It may have been the heat, or the humidity, which sent Mara out in her latest one woman campaign to exterminate the sterner sex, but it proved the last straw. The mayor ordered her locked up after she had almost killed a good looking student.

She gave no reason why she set upon the youth and lacerated him with her fingernails and bit his face and neck.

Because of Mara the swains took to the side streets when she approached, but they can return to their amblings along the main stem now, for Mara's in jail.

Fish Drop A Fin In Drouth Fight

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 19.—The present drouth in the West may prove an insurmountable difficulty to many human beings, but Mother Nature, as usual, has provided means for her charges to survive.

Lee Larabee, of the Kansas State Fish and Game Commission, reports a new species of fish has appeared since the dry spell. The newcomer is posessed of only one fin, enabling it to be on its side and wiggle along the practically dry streams.

SHARON RABBI IS HEARD LAST NIGHT

Rabbi Shapiro Tells Cosmo Men The Mission Of Their Organization

"The Cosmo Club and its Mission" was the topic of an inspiring message which Rabbi Aaron Shapiro, of Sharon, brought to the members of the New Castle Cosmo Club at the club's North Mercer street home last night.

President Samuel Edelstein presided throughout the program. He introduced David Tobin, Max Shaffer and Louis Sandler as extemporaneous speakers before Rabbi Shapiro spoke.

"America" opened the meeting and "Hatikuvah," popular Jewish melody, was sung at the close. Eddie Haimes presided at the piano.

Dismiss Roberts From State Post

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.— David Roberts, Pittsburgh, today was dismissed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot from his $2400 a year post as a tax investigator for the Department of Revenue.

Although the governor's office declined to comment it was said Roberts was a follower of Judge Ralph Smith, of Pittsburgh, former Pinchot leader now supporting the Democratic ticket.

CONDITION THE SAME

No improvement was reported this morning in the condition of Mrs. J. Lee Cooper, of East Long avenue, who was seriously injured a few days ago, the result of a fall in her home.

DOG MAKES ATTACK

William Cummings, 310 Wood street, told police yesterday he was walking by 319 North Beaver street when a dog owned at that address bit him on a leg.

Andrea del Sarton, a Florentine painter of the high Renaissance was the greatest colorist of the school.

Amazon Beauty Who Hated Men Jailed For Fistic Protest

(International News Service)

VRASTA, Bulgaria, Oct. 26—Mara Reckof doesn't like the sight of men and makes no bones about it, that's why she is in jail today.

Thirty years old, almost handsome, a regular Amazon, Mara started hating boys and men early in life and now has it down almost to a scientific basis.

Many a boastful swain has sought to tame the shrew, but showed up back with his cronies with a "shiner" or broken arm.

One of the potential suitors was flung bodily out of Mara's father's farm house by the girl. She gave him a trouncing before heaving him out the front door.

She even went into the neighboring forests alone, where men go armed, if they must make a trip through the woods.

It may have been the heat, or the humidity, which sent Mara out in her latest one woman campaign to exterminate the sterner sex, but it proved the last straw. The mayor ordered her locked up after she had almost killed a good looking student.

She gave no reason why she set upon the youth and lacerated him with her fingernails and bit his face and neck.

Because of Mara the swains took to the side streets when she approached, but they can return to their amblings along the main stem now, for Mara's in jail.

Fish Drop A Fin In Drouth Fight

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct.19.—The present drouth in the West may prove an insurmountable difficulty to many human beings, but Mother Nature, as usual, has provided means for her charges to survive.

Lee Larabee, of the Kansas State Fish and Game Commission, reports a new species of fish has appeared since the dry spell. The newcomer is posessed of only one fin, enabling it to be on its side and wiggle along the practically dry streams.

Hints Record In Hauptmann Case Altered

Attorney For Alleged Kidnaper Plans Court Order To Scrutinize Payroll

SPECULATE ON USE OF CONDON

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—James M. Fawcett, counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sprung a surprise today when he hinted that records which otherwise might have established an alibi for the sullen Bronx carpenter might have been altered.

He said he planned to seek a court order for a rigid scrutiny of the payroll of the Majestic apartments where Hauptmann is known to have worked.

Somewhat recovered from his astonishment at Joseph M. Furcht's repudiation of his earlier story that Hauptmann had worked at the Majestic on the day of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Fawcett expressed the belief that an examination of the payroll might show his client's name had been erased from the list.

Police Have Records

New Jersey police authorities now have possession of the payroll. Furcht, who was construction superintendent at the building at the time of the kidnaping, withdrew his alibi when he was shown that his record did not contain Hauptmann's name.

Fawcett, it is understood, will also seek to examine the records of the Sixth avenue employment agency whose manager, E. Pescia, said he sent Hauptmann to the Majestic on February 27, 1932, the Saturday before the day of the crime, which occurred on Tuesday, March 1.

In the meantime there was still much speculation as to whether Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom negotiations, identified Hauptmann as the mysterious "John" to whom he paid over $50,000 in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx on the night of April 2, 1932. Condon talked with Hauptmann in his cell in the Hunterdon county jail in Flemington, N. J., on Wednesday and there have been conflicting stories as to whether he identified the prisoner.

But whether or not such a positive identification was made, the question remained as to what use would be made of Condon at the trial, scheduled to start January 2.

Goes Into Wilds On Long Search

(International News Service)

LONDON—With a revolver in her belt and a music book in her haversack, Miss Julia Chatterton, founder of the International Folk Song and Folk Lore Society, will soon set out alone on a camel across the Moroccan deserts in search of songs.

Miss Chatterton left London Oct. 5 to travel by easy stages to Tangier, where she will hire camels and donkeys for a six weeks' trip into the Morroccan interior.

She will sit unobstrusively by quaint village gatherings and jot down the songs that are sung—songs that perhaps have never been written down before, and yet have been sung to the same curiously rhythmical chants throughout the centuries.

Miss Chatterton has already had adventures in many lands in her quest for traditional music of little-known countries. She expects to meet with more adventures in Morocco and the famed country of the Riffs.

Japan Gives Out Partial Details Of Naval Plans

More Definite Details Of Proposed Naval Policy Given British

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 26—After three days of jockeying by giving Britain and America only a foggy idea of her plan for a new naval agreement Japan today presented to the British delegates at least some definite details of Tokyo's proposals.

Rear Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto and Ambasador Tsuneo Matsudaira had their second talk with the British representatives, headed by Prime minister Ramsay MacDonald, at No. 10 Downing St.

They had met with the British Tuesday, and the Americans Wednesday, and outlined Japan's demands for the abolition of the 5-5-3 ratio, and substitution of a global tonnage system on a basis of "equality of security."

Pressure Brought

Irked by Japan's dilatory procedure, and suspicious that something was going on behind the scenes, Norman H. Davis, U. S. Ambassador at large, conferred with Premier MacDonald and foreign Minister Sir John Simon yesterday, and it was believed that pressure was brought to bear on the Japanese to elucidate their program.

Factors in the Japanese plan which were believed to have been told to the British today, and which America opposed, included elmination of restrictions on submarines and cruisers, regarded as "defensive" vessels by Japan; a general cut in big ships, and a maximum total tonnage figure for all, that would not involve a ratio.

Oil Monopoly In Manchukuo Stirs Nations

Magnitude Of Crisis Between Great Powers Is Revealed By Japanese Papers

CLAIM LAW IS MADE IN JAPAN

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—The magnitude of the new crisis between Japan and the United States and Great Britain over the proposed state oil monopoly in Manchukuo was clearly revealed here today when Japanese newspapers defied a police ban and published full details of the diplomatic exchanges in the affair.

There was no attempt to disguise the fact an acute situation exists, due to the firm belief of Britain and America that Japan is sponsoring this monopoly for purely military purposes.

Demand Expenditure

The proposed law for establishment of the monopoly would compel the Standard Oil Company and the Royal Dutch Shell Company to construct storage tanks at a cost of $20,000,000, without the slightest guaranty that no losses would be sustained by the investment.

Futhermore, the American and British companies would have no assurance of non-interference in the project by the Manchukuo government, and no promise has been given that the work could be carried out without government supervision.

Tokyo newspapers featured the fact that the United Stats, Britain and the Netherlands, working in sympathy if not actual concert, have formally warned Japan that the proposed monopoly is in violation of Article 3 of the Nine-Power treaty, which established the open door policy in China and what is now Manchukuo.

An interesting sidelight on the affair is that Keizaburo Hasimoto, chairman of the Manchukuo Oil board and a leading figure in the monopoly, is president of the Japan Oil company and a brother-in-law of General Takashi Hishikari, commander of the Japanese army in Manchukuo.

Business men declared it is common knowledge that the Manchukuo monopoly bill is being prepared under Tokyo's direction, despite the diplomatic attitude of the Japanese government that the affair is sole concern of the "independent" state of Manchukuo.

Companies Will File Details Of Reduced Rates

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.—Utility companies notified by the Public Service commission to reduce rates to net only a six per cent return by November 15 or show why they are unable to comply, are acknowledging the notice with replies that more details answers will be filed about the middle of next month, commission officials said today.

No detailed replies have yet been filed by the 50 companies who were in the first group to be notified that the commission was campaigning for reduced rates.

Commission officials said the answers will not be made public when they are received because of the informal nature of the cases.

It was expected that in most instances, conferences will be necessary before any agreement is reached and unless formal complaints are instituted there will be no public hearings.

Stole Gas Right From Auto Tanks

GREELEY, Colo.—An ingenious contrivance for obtaining free gasoline landed two Pueblo, Colo., men in jail here. Police said they caught E. B. Todd, 29, and John Pullaro, 23, transfering gasoline from parked automobiles to their car by means of a pump concealed beneath the front seat.

30-gallon drum for receiving the stolen gasoline was also found. The pump, officers said, had been connected with the engine manifold in such a way that when the motor was started it would suck gas through a rubber hose.

Miss Donna Evans, says that she has discovered that if she has no darner, an electric light bulb makes a satisfactory one when darning stockings. It does not put runs in silk stockings, and there usually is one around the place.

GRANT CITY

SURPRISE PARTY

A number of folks motored to the home of Mrs. Stickel on last Wednesday evening in surprise fashion. The evening was spent in music. At a late hour a delicious lunch was served by Miss Kathryn Stickel and Mrs. Charlie Stickel.

Those attending were: Mrs. Samuel Gettings and daughter Alice and Florence Weidel, of McCaslin; Wendell Myers of Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Houk and niece, Jane Tomer, of New Castle.

GRANT CITY PERSONALS

Jean Stoner spent the week-end with relatives in New Castle.

John Karcher of Rochester was a business caller here on Thursday.

Mrs. Sadie Heberling of Portersville spent a few days recently at the home of Mae and June Book.

Junior Allen of New Castle visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoner on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner and children and Mr. and Mrs. Freed, of New Castle, spent Sunday afternoon here.

Mrs. Lizzie Stickel motored to Franklin on Friday with her niece, Miss Gertrude Thompson, and Mrs. O. E. Thompson of New Castle.

Friends of Clifford Robison are very sorry to hear of his death. Mr. Robison lived in this vicinity from early boyhood until about two years ago, when he moved to Gardner.

The selected site for an oil well has been chosen at the grounds formerly known as Payne quarry, and owned by the Lehigh Cement Company of New Castle. The drilling rig has been moved in from the Munnell farm, where a well had been previously sunk without favorable results.

Miss Kathryn Stickel spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Gertrude Thompson, of New Castle. Miss Stickel, accompanied by friends, motored to the Pymatuning dam on Sunday.

Rev. Broadhead of New Castle was the speaker on Sunday morning at Zion church in the absence of Rev. Carl Jones, pastor. Clyde Shoemaker of Butler was the evening speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shoemaker, recent bride and groom, have returned from a honeymoon and will make their home in Butler, where Mr. Shoemaker is engaged in practice of law.

Infant Prodigy Is Regular Fellow

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—"Shelly" Gilgore, two-and-one-half years of age and considered a genius by the psychology department of the University of Pennsylvania, may have an I. Q. of 146.6, but his playmates say his batting average is over .300 and he is a "regular fellow."

Little Sheldon's amazing feats include quoting poetry, doing arithmatic and spelling two-syllable words.

His mother, Mrs. Harry Gilgore, who taught school before her marriage, declares that her amazing son "seems more interested in baseball and swimming than trying to impress people," however.

Fitzmaurice To Try For Record

Irish Aviator Will Try To Smash England To Australia Flying Time

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A final check was being made today on the Bellanca monoplane in which Col. James C. Fitzmaurice of Dublin intends to leave at 3 a. m. tomorrow (10 o'clock tonight E. S. T.) in an attempt to beat the England-Australia record.

Fitzmaurice, whose machine was barred from the Robertson race, received a certificate of airworthiness for his 8,350 pound load yesterday. Trouble with his oil cooler delayed his departure.

New Castle Fans Can Get Tickets At Warren Field

Estimated 1,700 General Admission Tickets Will Go On Sale At 6:30 O'clock

The report circulated in New Castle today that the tickets for the Warren-New Castle grid game have all been sold, is erroneous. There will be about 1,700 general admission fifty cent seats available for the New Castle fans at 6:30 o'clock when the gates open at Warren.

The New Castle fans will occupy the bleachers on the western side of the field. There will be about 300 student tickets sold and the remainder of the seats will be given over to the New Castle fans.

The reserved tickets have practically been all sold out.

Select Officers For State D. A. R.

Mrs. H. D. Sheppard, Of Hanover, Is Named As President For Year

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Several important questions were to be settled at today's final sessions of the four-day annual conference of the Pennsylvania Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In a resolution, endorsed by delegates to the conference, the society condemned the system of a "flexible constitution" and pledged "loyalty and devotion to the constitution of the United States in its entirety in the end that liberty of our people may be maintained."

Mrs. Hugh G. Martin, of Narberth, chairman of the committe on correct use of the American flag, denounced the practice of drinking to the flag, claiming such toasts distracted from the flag's prestige. Mrs. Martin also reiterated the organization's protest against lowering the flag to half-staff at schools upon the death of principles.

Officers elected for the coming year included state regent, Mrs. Harper D. Sheppard, of Hanover; vice regent, Mrs. Ira Springer, of Middletown; chaplain, Mrs. Charles P. Wiles, Philadelphia; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert S. Birch, Reading; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. C. McEldowney, Pittsburgh; treasurer, Mrs. Horace M. Credit Exchange Makes Plans For Annual Meeting

Eighth Annual Session Will Take Place Late In November

Plans are being made by the officers of the New Castle Credit Exchange for their eighth annual meeting, which will take place on November 22, when election of officers will take place and work of the Exchange for the year will be reviewed.

President John Abel has named Emanuel Shenkan, C. D. Parker, and J. R. Rick, as a committee to prepare the ballot for the election of five directors, which will take place in connection with the annual meeting.

Bolshevism, in its insistence that other nations adopt its creed, must needs involve other people's and other nations.

Amazon Beauty Who Hated Men Jailed For Fistic Protest

(International News Service)

VRASTA, Bulgaria, Oct. 26—Mara Reckof doesn't like the sight of men and makes no bones about it, that's why she is in jail today.

Thirty years old, almost handsome, a regular Amazon, Mara started hating boys and men early in life and now has it down almost to a scientific basis.

Many a boastful swain has sought to tame the shrew, but showed up back with his cronies with a "shiner" or broken arm.

One of the potential suitors was flung bodily out of Mara's father's farm house by the girl. She gave him a trouncing before heaving him out the front door.

She even went into the neighboring forests alone, where men go armed, if they must make a trip through the woods.

It may have been the heat, or the humidity, which sent Mara out in her latest one woman campaign to exterminate the sterner sex, but it proved the last straw. The mayor ordered her locked up after she had almost killed a good looking student.

She gave no reason why she set upon the youth and lacerated him with her fingernails and bit his face and neck.

Because of Mara the swains took to the side streets when she approached, but they can return to their amblings along the main stem now, for Mara's in jail.

Fish Drop A Fin In Drouth Fight

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct.19.—The present drouth in the West may prove an insurmountable difficulty to many human beings, but Mother Nature, as usual, has provided means for her charges to survive.

Lee Larabee, of the Kansas State Fish and Game Commission, reports a new species of fish has appeared since the dry spell. The newcomer is posessed of only one fin, enabling it to be on its side and wiggle along the practically dry streams.

Rabbi Shapiro Tells Cosmo Men The Mission Of Their Organization

"The Cosmo Club and its Mission" was the topic of an inspiring message which Rabbi Aaron Shapiro, of Sharon, brought to the members of the New Castle Cosmo Club at the club's North Mercer street home last night.

President Samuel Edelstein presided throughout the program. He introduced David Tobin, Max Shaffer and Louis Sandler as extemporaneous speakers before Rabbi Shapiro spoke.

"America" opened the meeting and "Hatikuvah," popular Jewish melody, was sung at the close. Eddie Haimes presided at the piano.

Dismiss Roberts From State Post

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 26.— David Roberts, Pittsburgh, today was dismissed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot from his $2400 a year post as a tax investigator for the Department of Revenue.

Although the governor's office declined to comment it was said Roberts was a follower of Judge Ralph Smith, of Pittsburgh, former Pinchot leader now supporting the Democratic ticket.

Three-Inch Layer Of Frozen Pests Found In Snow

(International News Service)

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—A three-inch layer of frozen grasshoppers was uncovered recently when the almost perennial snow on the northwestern slope of Long's Peak, altitude 14,000 feet, melted during the prolonged heat.

The theory is that the grasshoppers came into the region during a prolonged drouth similar to the one this year, became chilled in a sudden cold snap and then were buried in the snows, heaping upon each other winter after winter and creating a great natural refrigerator.

Until this summer, when the snow has been melted to the lowest level within the memory of the oldest inhabitants of the region, the presence of thousands of insects in the huge mountain preservator, almost at the top of the peak, was unknown.

Entomologists have been requested to make a study of the insects by officials of the Rocky Mountain National park.

Here're Peaches That're Peaches

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Peaches grew so large in Adams county this year that they sold by the piece. Many weigh between a pound and 21 ounces each.

One grower sold his fruit for seven cents each, a record high in this county, and another exhibited peaches so large that one filled a quart basket.

Masculine Jobs No Barrier To British Women

(International News Service)

LONDON—British women are revealed in the current "Census of Occupations" to be gradually ousting men from jobs which for years have been regarded as male strongholds.

There are today 347 women blacksmiths in Britain, for instance, whereas ten years ago the number in this, one of the oldest of male occupations, was less than a score

There are 218 women employed as stationary engine and crane drivers, 93 women dynamo attendants, and 821 women shunters and grade-crossing attendants.

In professional occupations the women outnumbered the men in 1931, the year the census was taken, the figures being $399,359 to 356,726.

There are 6,080 women in agriculture, sixty-five women bookmakers, five women chief constables, inspectors and superintendents, 28 women fairground proprietors, four women film producers.

The census published the information, without comment, that all the women in the last mentioned professions were married.

Gold Coins Lost 1,000 Years Found

(International News Service)

VENICE—Children playing on the edge of a canal, temporarily emptied, saw something shining in the mud.

It proved to be a gold coin, and a subsequent search revealed five more, all of them dating from the times of the Byzantine Emperors.

Venice was once closely associated with the Byzantine Empire

It is probable that the coins had been there for over 1,000 years.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET

Girl Scout Troop No. 2 held their weekly meeting on Tuesday evening, the meeting opening with the reviewing of laws, motto, and the promise. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party to be held within the next week.

Troop No. 1 met recently and heard a discussion by Miss Mary Leona Dale, dietician at Westminster College. She conducted a test on table setting which all members passed. Mrs. Hurchison questioned the girls on fire prevention and graded them accordingly. The club will meet Oct. 27 for a Hallowe'en party.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Members of the Sabbath School Class, taught by Miss Marguerite Hoagland, held a Hallowe'en party at the home of Ellen Cotton on Wednesday evening. Following an interesting social hour, typical Hallowe'en refreshments were served.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Edwin Anderson, English professor at the high school, will lead the Community Chest drive to be held next month, according to announcement emanating from authorities. Police Get Shock; Autoist Is Eager To Pay His Fine

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—John Davis, 77, Lincoln, Neb. gave the police headquarters staff a shock when he came in voluntarily to pay a fine for parking his car in a prohibited zone.

Visitors to the city just didn't do things like that. Usually they simply tear up the traffic tickets and leave town.

"I stayed over night to pay the fine because the traffic office was closed," Davis told them.

"The traffic office is still closed," he was informed.

"Well," offered Davis a bit apologetically and further shocking the minions of law and order, "I wanted to get back to Lincoln but guess I'll have to stay over until tomorrow to pay the fine."

An officer tore up the ticket.

LaGuardia Vetoes City Lottery Plan

Legality Of Plan Is Not Sustained Mayor Of New York Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Mayor Florello H. LaGuardia vetoed a bill which has caused an uproar—the measure providing for a city lottery, on Thursday.

His objections to such a scheme for raising funds for unemployment relief were the lawyer's objections and not those of the clergymen.

Without discussing moral grounds the mayor vetoed the bill.

"The resolution and the plan" he wrote to the board of aldermen, "were offered in the best of good faith."

"In times as critical as we are now living in; every possible method of raising revenue is thought and suggested. But the mayor has been unable to obtain any reliable legal advice that sustains the legality of the plan."

Borough President James J. Lyons of the Bronx, author of the bill said he would go before the next session of the Legislature in an effort to get through laws which would legalize a lottery.

Convention Is Ending Today

Girl Scout Workers To Leave Boston Today; Mrs. George Ferver Local Delegate

Mrs. George W. Ferver of Lincoln avenue, who is a delegate from the New Castle Girl Scout council to the national Girl Scout convention at Boston, Mass., sends enthusiastic word of the sessions to Mrs. W. H. Hanger, Girl Scout commisioner.

Mrs. Ferver states that 1000 women were enrolled in the two-day training course which preceded the convention and that it was the best training course in which she had ever taken part. Agnes Leahy, executive secretary of the national personnel division, was in charge.

The convention proper opened October 24 and is ending today. Hundreds of notable women were present, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, honorary president; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary vice president; Mrs. Frederick Edey, national president, and Dr. Lilian Galbraith, consulting engineer. Of interest to New Castle people who met them during visits here is the presence of Miss Josephine Schain, national director, and Mrs. Stewart McGuire, regional chairman, at the convention.

VENICE—Children playing on the edge of a canal, temporarily emptied, saw something shining in the mud.

It proved to be a gold coin, and a subsequent search revealed five more, all of them dating from the times of the Byzantine Emperors.

Venice was once closely associated with the Byzantine Empire

It is probable that the coins had been there for over 1,000 years.

GIRL SCOUTS MEET

Girl Scout Troop No. 2 held their weekly meeting on Tuesday evening, the meeting opening with the reviewing of laws, motto, and the promise. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party to be held within the next week.

Troop No. 1 met recently and heard a discussion by Miss Mary Leona Dale, dietician at Westminster College. She conducted a test on table setting which all members passed. Mrs. Hurchison questioned the girls on fire prevention and graded them accordingly. The club will meet Oct. 27 for a Hallowe'en party.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Members of the Sabbath School Class, taught by Miss Marguerite Hoagland, held a Hallowe'en party at the home of Ellen Cotton on Wednesday evening. Following an interesting social hour, typical Hallowe'en refreshments were served.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Edwin Anderson, English professor at the high school, will lead the Community Chest drive to be held next month, according to announcement emanating from authorities. Russell Wilson has been chosen secretary-treasurer for this year's campaign. The week of November 12 has been chosen as the week for the drive.

NEW WILMINGTON NOTES

Mrs. A. W. Thompson spent a day recently with relatives in Fredonia.

Mrs. Flora McGill of Ben Avon, Pa., visited with friends here over the week end.

Lester Gibson, recently operated upon for appendicitis in the Jameson Memorial hospital, is doing nicely.

Mrs. Anna Baker and Mrs. Oswald Sedderson of Sandusky, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wilson, south of town.

Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Smith of Sugar Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Aten Smith, of Warren, Pa., were recent guests of Mrs. Catherine Williams and daughter over the week end.

Police Get Shock; Autoist Is Eager To Pay His Fine

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—John Davis, 77, Lincoln, Neb. gave the police headquarters staff a shock when he came in voluntarily to pay a fine for parking his car in a prohibited zone.

Visitors to the city just didn't do things like that. Usually they simply tear up the traffic tickets and leave town.

"I stayed over night to pay the fine because the traffic office was closed," Davis told them.

"The traffic office is still closed," he was informed.

"Well," offered Davis a bit apologetically and further shocking the minions of law and order, "I wanted to get back to Lincoln but guess I'll have to stay over until tomorrow to pay the fine."

An officer tore up the ticket.

LaGuardia Vetoes City Lottery Plan

Legality Of Plan Is Not Sustained Mayor Of New York Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia vetoed a bill which has caused an uproar—the measure providing for a city lottery, on Thursday.

His objections to such a scheme for raising funds for unemployment relief were the lawyer's objections and not those of the clergymen.

Without discussing moral grounds the mayor vetoed the bill.

"The resolution and the plan" he wrote to the board of aldermen, "were offered in the best of good faith."

"In times as critical as we are now living in, every possible method of raising revenue is thought and suggested. But the mayor has been unable to obtain any reliable legal advice that sustains the legality of the plan."

Borough President James J. Lyons of the Bronx, author of the bill said he would go before the next session of the Legislature in an effort to get through laws which would legalize a lottery.

YUM, YUM, PUMPKIN PIE

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 26.—Patients at a local hospital enjoyed 56 pies made from an 88-pound pumpkin donated to the institution by Dr. C. W. Youngman, who raised it in his garden this summer.

Convention Is Ending Today

Girl Scout Workers To Leave Boston Today; Mrs. George Ferver Local Delegate

Mrs. George W. Ferver of Lincoln avenue, who is a delegate from the New Castle Girl Scout council to the national Girl Scout convention at Boston, Mass., sends enthusiastic word of the sessions to Mrs. W. H. Hanger, Girl Scout commisioner.

Mrs. Ferver states that 1000 women were enrolled in the two-day training course which preceded the convention and that it was the best training course in which she had ever taken part. Agnes Leahy, executive secretary of the national personnel division, was in charge.

The convention proper opened October 24 and is ending today. Hundreds of notable women were present, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, honorary president; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary vice president; Mrs. Frederick Edey, national president, and Dr. Lillian Galbraith, consulting engineer. Of interest to New Castle people who met them during visits here is the presence of Miss Josephine Schain, national director, and Mrs. Stewart McGuire, regional chairman, at the convention.

Gehenna is a term used in the New Testament as a designation of the place of punishment of the wicked after deaath.

Fitzmaurice To Try For Record

Irish Aviator Will Try To Smash England To Australia Flying Time

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A final check was being made today on the Bellanca monoplane in which Col. James C. Fitzmaurice of Dublin intends to leave at 3 a. m. tomorrow (10 o'clock tonight E. S. T.) in an attempt to beat the England-Australia record.

Fitzmaurice, whose machine was barred from the Robertson race, received a certificate of airworthiness for his 8,350 pound load yesterday. Trouble with his oil cooler delayed his departure.

New Castle Fans Can Get Tickets At Warren Field

Estimated 1,700 General Admission Tickets Will Go On Sale At 6:30 O'clock

The report circulated in New Castle today that the tickets for the Warren-New Castle grid game have all been sold, is erroneous. There will be about 1,700 general admission fifty cent seats available for the New Castle fans at 6:30 o'clock when the gates open at Warren.

The New Castle fans will occupy the bleachers on the western side of the field. There will be about 300 student tickets sold and the remainder of the seats will be given over to the New Castle fans.

The reserved tickets have practically been all sold out.

Select Officers For State D. A. R.

Mrs. H. D. Sheppard, Of Hanover, Is Named As President For Year

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Several important questions were to be settled at today's final sessions of the four-day annual conference of the Pennsylvania Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In a resolution, endorsed by delegates to the conference, the society condemned the system of a "flexible constitution" and pledged "loyalty and devotion to the constitution of the United States in its entirety in the end that liberty of our people may be maintained."

Mrs. Hugh G. Martin, of Narberth, chairman of the committe on correct use of the American flag, denounced the practice of drinking to the flag, claiming such toasts distracted from the flag's prestige. Mrs. Martin also reiterated the organization's protest against lowering the flag to half-staff at schools upon the death of principles.

Officers elected for the coming year included state regent, Mrs. Harper D. Sheppard, of Hanover; vice regent, Mrs. Ira Springer, of Middletown; chaplain, Mrs. Charles P. Wiles, Philadelphia; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert S. Birch, Reading; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. C. McEldowney, Pittsburgh; treasurer, Mrs. Horace M. Jones, Philadelphia; registrar, Mrs. Guiles Flower, of Cumberland; historian, Mrs. Harold R. Hawkey, of Tidioute; librarian, Mrs. Thomas C. Cochran, of Grove City; directors, Mrs. Robert R. Motter, of York; Mrs. W. W. Blake, of Altoona, and Mrs. James W. Endsley, of Summerfield.

Credit Exchange Makes Plans For Annual Meeting

Eighth Annual Session Will Take Place Late In November

Plans are being made by the officers of the New Castle Credit Exchange for their eighth annual meeting, which will take place on November 22, when election of officers will take place and work of the Exchange for the year will be reviewed.

President John Abel has named Emanuel Shenkan, C. D. Parker, and J. R. Rick, as a committee to prepare the ballot for the election of five directors, which will take place in connection with the annual meeting.

Bolshevism, in its insistence that other nations adopt its creed, must needs involve other people's and other nations.

SOCIAL SNOBS

by Helen Augur

Every group has them. But when The Crowd went high hat Margery rebelled—and all because of the stray young man at the third-rate Clam House.

"It was such a blow to my vanity to think the Crowd didn't like me. . . . Unreasonable to want people to like you . . ."

McClure Fiction

THE year before, they'd done a good bit of crashing. But this summer, when they'd all come back to Cotasset, Riss had announced that crashing was vulgar, and that she'd never drift casually through any Long Island doorway again. Margery Venn was thoroughly relieved. She'd hated slipping into dances from the Sound or through the hedge. But she was younger than the rest of the Crowd, and they'd adored her and bossed her since she was a baby.

She'd backed up Riss so wholeheartedly about crashing that the Crowd was flabbergasted when she defended the man on the raft.

They were all lying as usual on the Cotasset Club beach, hating to go home to lunch, when Riss sat up and said, "There he is again."

"Who's where again?" Don Munson inquired drowsily.

"That man out there on the raft with the Robinson Crusoe hat. We've got to shoo him off."

At that, Sam Richards and Paul Stone sat up, too. Riss had made the Crowd crash-conscious. On the Club's farthest raft, so far that it was a little solitary island, the intruder lay on his stomach, his head under its ridiculous straw hat propped on his elbows.

Paul grunted. "Reading. Darned if he isn't."

Margery was thinking. "They've discovered him. And he's been so peaceful out there." She'd envied the stranger.

Don Munson shook Paul's shoulder. "Come on, fella," he said. "It's probably someone from the Clam House. Let's chisel that chiseller off our raft."

Margery was suddenly furious. Perhaps it was Don's tone, proprietary and smug. "Don't you dare go near that raft," she flashed.

The Crowd was flabbergasted. Riss, her sleek black head erect, said she couldn't understand people who were anti-crashers one day, and the next wanted to turn the Club into a roadhouse.

"Riss," Margery said slowly, "I've gone along with you this summer about no makeup till evening, and no cutting-in without introductions, and all that. I don't like sloppy manners, either. I hate crashing more than you do. But—"

"Well?" Riss demanded acidly.

"Well, it sounds horrid, but I'm willing to bet that if Mrs. Carter Reynolds and her Long Island set came out tomorrow for crashing, you'd tag along."

The Crowd watched her try to stalk down the beach. She wasn't a successful stalker, she was too small and softly rounded. They watched her dive with a beautiful clean arc.

Riss smiled. "She's over it already. Lunchtime, fellow-snobs."

AFTER her fifth dive, Margery glanced at the deserted beach and swam out to the raft. She circled around it, making no more splash than a seal, then lifted herself up silently. For ten minutes there was quiet, an absolute and heavenly quiet. The stranger didn't know she was there, and soon she forgot him.

The gentle sound of a book closing made her remember the stranger. He was sitting up, with his arms around his knees, looking at her.

"Nice out here," he said casually.

"Heavenly," she sighed. "I meant to leave you alone, you know. I didn't mean to intrude." She'd forgotten the raft didn't belong to the stranger.

"You're the least intrusive person I've ever seen," he assured her.

"So are you." Her violet eyes turned to his frankly.

"Let's start a club," he suggested. "An exclusive club. Intruders excluded."

She hesitated. "But let's find another raft. This one belongs to a club already, a very intrusive club."

"Oh." He looked embarrassed. "I thought it was just a natural island. I'm sorry."

"That's all right," she assured him hastily. "That's why I swam out. I wanted to warn you."

"Thanks," he said rather shortly. "I'll keep off."

She was distressed. "Oh no! That's not what I meant. I wanted to warn you against the Crowd. You see, the Club's trying to be very snooty this summer—" she saw him struggling with a grin— "and they got the silly idea that you were a— were from Jim's Clam House." She made a gesture toward the jovial third-rate establishment down the beach.

"As it happens," he said soberly, "I'm staying at Jim's Clam House."

She didn't know what to say. She looked blankly at him, caught the sudden twinkle in his eyes, and they both laughed. He had the most enchanting smile. It ran away with her judgment. She said blithely, "I'm going to give you a guest card, Mr.—"

"John Hill."

"Margery Venn." She reached out a small hand.

"Thank you, Margery Venn. But really you mustn't bother about me. I don't know a soul in Cotasset, and I'm not used to—" he struggled a bit—"to this sort of place, you know. Anyway, I have only two weeks' vacation, and I like to read."

"Then go ahead and read," she said, trying to smooth down his diffidence. "Just stay on the raft. You don't have to meet the Crowd."

FOR the next two mornings the Crowd let them alone. Mornings of peace, drowsing in the sun, talking when it suited them. They had no inquisitiveness about each other. Margery felt she knew all about John Hill, just as he must know about her.

On the third morning John began reading aloud, in a lazy voice.

In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decree,
Where Alph, the sacred river, ran
Through caverns measureless to man
Down to a sunless sea.

The cadences enclosed her like the waves lapping the raft. Margery slept.

"So sorry to intrude," a voice carrolled.

The Crowd was clambering up on the raft — briny, noisy, laughing. Margery looked at John Hill, and the shrug of his shoulders told her their peace had ended. She introduced Riss, Louise, Sam, Don, Paul. He gave each a little nod, then gazed at the distant Connecticut shore.

Margery knew what to expect. Clarissa Yorke had come to find out about John Hill. Swiftly Margery reviewed what she herself knew, after three mornings. John was studying law in somebody's office in New York, he didn't like his stepfather, his bathing suit was last year's, and his hat looked like flotsam fished out of the Sound. That was all.

Riss talked of polo, regattas, debuts at the Colony Club, Betty So-and-So, Jay This-and-That. But John nibbled at none of her lines. She even asked him if he knew the most ineffable hostess on Long Island. "You know Mrs. Carter Reynolds, of course?"

John looked as if he were at the end of his rope, and Margery intervened. "Riss is that way," she told him. "She's always looking for somebody that knows Mrs. Carter Reynolds. None of us does. But Riss is always hoping."

John shot Margery a look of pure gratitude. She had given him a moment's advantage, and he squared his big shoulders.

"Miss Yorke," he said quietly. "I brush my teeth and change my collars, but I just don't fit in your crowd. I'm a total loss socially. I'm much more at home with Jim of the Clam House."

"I'm desolate to think I've been boring you," Riss said elaborately, and turned her back squarely on him.

Paul and Don, a bit flustered, started noisy setting-up exercises. And Margery grinned in triumph at John Hill. Behind his back, she could see Riss pick up his book, leafing it over with the idle air of a shopper who doesn't intend to buy. In just a minute Riss would be swimming away, the Crowd after her, and there would be peace again.

But Margery was wrong.

Riss turned to John with the friendliest smile. "We're all playing mixed doubles at my house this afternoon," she said. "Won't you come along, Mr. Hill?"

The Crowd strangled down its amazement. But Riss ruled the Crowd, and it followed her lead. Don, of all people, offered to lend John Hill a racquet. Paul volunteered to call for him at the Clam House at four.

Most amazing of all, John accepted this sudden cordiality gratefully. Perhaps, Margery reflected, he hadn't loved being alone on the raft with her. Perhaps, all this time, he'd been just plain lonely, and too proud to admit it.

WELL, he's in everything up to his ears now," Margery thought a week later. She was alone on the raft. John was usually off fishing or sailing with Don, or escorting Riss on her morning errands in Cotasset.

Riss had informed the Crowd that she thought John Hill a born charmer. She'd set Cotasset into a social delirium for him, got him invitations to everything on the horizon, and given a dance for him herself. He had been assigned a locker at the Club, lent white flannels, presented with dancing-pumps by Sam . . .

Margery sighed, and stretched her smooth legs. Riss was clever. Sometimes she made dazzling remarks that everyone said should be in print.

"Perhaps they have been," Margery thought, and then mewed aloud at herself. "Cat," she said.

"Kitten, I would say." And John rose out of the water behind her.

"No," Margery confessed. "I'm just an immature cat. I can prove it to you. You're here because Riss has gone to New York, and Riss has gone to New York to spend her whole fall allowance on summer clothes because there's a new—"

But John's hand had closed gently over her mouth. "Don't say it. Don't feed my vanity. I'm fairly reeking now . . ."

"I'm glad you admit it," she said. "I suppose I shall have to join the social stampede and give you a party, too."

He studied her face. "Yes, do," he urged. "You'd feel better. You give me a party, and then, before my vacation's up, I'll give one to the Crowd." He paused. "I wonder, now. Your families wouldn't let you come to the Clam House. And this raft's a bit small. . . ."

"Besides—" She hesitated.

"Besides what?"

"Well, this raft really belongs to the Intruders Excluded Club, doesn't it?"

"Yes," he said, with such an intimate note in his voice that Margery felt its warmth deep inside her.

MARGERY'S party was simple. Riss had imported her paraphernalia from New York, from orchestra to ices. John was straight and unaffected and for her party Margery wanted—what was it?

"Integrity," she found the word, and singing, laid a sweet white dress on her bed.

The night was so lovely that Mrs. Venn was less the perfect hostess and more the charming mother, and Judge Venn was tempted out of his study to watch the dancing. John Hill, listening more and more absently to Riss's talk, caught Margery's smile at last, and vanished with her.

In a dream, they walked close to the Sound.

"It's hypnotic," John sighed. "This moonlight, this you in the moonlight. You're so cool and unreal."

She stirred. "I'm real, John." And she was suddenly warm and trembling in his arms.

"If I kiss you once more," he said presently, "I'll never be sane again."

"Would you mind terribly, John?"

"No, my sweet. But you make me forget everything. Tomorrow, I suppose, we must remember the respective positions of our respective families—"

"Don't," she said. "It doesn't matter."

"Tomorrow," he said, "will you come to the raft early? And we'll get through the dreary business of hows and whens—"

AT eleven the next morning Margery left the raft and swam back to shore. The Crowd seemed peevish.

"Looking for your boy friend?" Riss inquired.

"I—" Margery couldn't speak. Two hours on the raft, alone, and her delicious new world had grayed and grown old.

Riss was studying Margery's face. "John's gone," she said, very gently for Riss.

Margery sat down on the sand, and bound her arms tight around her knees. "Gone sailing?" Her voice was smothered.

"No, Marg," said Don Munson, giving it to her straight. "John's through with us, and he's gone home. He took French leave, did John Payson Hill, 3rd."

"John Payson—" Margery, who seldom looked at the social columns, knew that John Payson Hill, 3rd, was Mrs. Carter Reynolds's son. He hadn't belonged in Cotasset. He belonged to the people with yachts and golf courses and houses at Palm Beach.

Even Don, who had the nerves of a life guard, was alarmed at the way Margery laughed.

"We thought you knew, puss," he said, and took her cold little hand, and began pouring warm sand over it.

"Yes," Riss chattered nervously, "we thought you'd seen him first, as it were. That morning when we swam out, I knew right away he was rotogravure. And when I picked up his book, there was the bookplate, plain as your face—John Payson Hill, 3rd!"

"So you took him up," said Margery. "Didn't he suspect?"

"No, he just thought we were a friendly lot. That's what he said last night."

"Last night?" Margery echoed dully.

"When Paul and I drove him to the Clam House. He was awfully quiet and thoughtful. And Paul made some dumb remark, and the whole thing came out. Margery, he just froze. What I mean, nobody but the Prince of Wales could have been so polite."

"But, Riss, he didn't think I knew?"

"Oh sure," said Paul. "He asked particularly. And we said of course the whole Crowd had seen through his incognito right away, and decided to show him a good time."

"Goose flesh," said Don, pretending to inspect Margery's arms, tense around her knees. "A little run down the beach, Marg." He pulled her up. He put an arm under her elbow and propelled her down the beach to the Club.

"That's it, Kid," he urged. "Take it on the chin. Now you're having a stiff shower, and then I'm driving you home."

She managed to smile at him.

MARGERY told herself, in the days that followed, that she had underestimated the Crowd. They were marvelously kind. She tried to be really one of the Crowd, as she hadn't quite, before. She dreaded being alone through the dark hours when her room became a cavern echoing with empty laughter.

"He thought I was making a play for him. Trying to catch a millionaire. He thought I was a cheap climber. If only I could write him——" She would get out of bed, and write a formal note to Mr. John Payson Hill, 3rd. But by morning the note would lie shredded in her waste basket. John would never believe her.

The Crowd was worried. Things weren't getting better at all. Don went to Riss's early one morning, and found her breakfasting on the side porch. When she saw Don's face, she rang for coffee.

"She looks awful, Riss." She was gone on him, and no mistake."

"You don't look like a carefree lifeguard yourself."

"These nights are too muggy to sleep." But he looked gratefully at her. "I tell you straight, Riss, if I could give Margery back her John on his ancestral silver platter, I'd do it like a shot. I guess there never was much chance for me, anyway."

"Come up for air," Riss urged him. "You don't want Marg, really. That's only a childhood fixation. You know——" she wrinkled her piquant nose at him—"I have other plans for you. No, Don, I can't think when I'm holding hands. And I must think."

THAT night Margery was persuaded to go along to the Bentwood Club dance. They stayed an hour, then the others professed boredom.

"Rotten music," said Paul. "Horns sour as buttermilk."

"Nobody here," said Riss. "Dull, I says."

"Tepid punch and elderly lobster," Don complained. "Let's go places."

They dropped in at the Manning's weekly dance, but twenty minutes later they were on the road again, speeding eastward. When they passed Kelly's Wharf, Paul said, "My speed boat's here. Just been overhauled. Let's take to the water."

There was the shore line of a big estate, with its stream and its island in the Sound. Colored lanterns bloomed on the land, lighted pleasure boats on the water. The sky was incandescent with balloons and stars and comets. Everywhere lights and laughter, the plash of guitars, faces and gowns suddenly brilliant under the color poured from the sky.

"A water fete," Riss cried. "A stroke of genius."

"I know what it is." Margery was glowing. "It's the Grand Canal. It's the Feast of the Redeemer. I saw it one summer."

Paul cut off the engine, and they listened to the singing over the water. Then he chugged through the bright boats, and tied up at the wharf.

They were dancing in a pavillion hung with Italian damasks. Margery was enchanted. The fete was so beautiful that it never occurred to her that she didn't belong. All she knew was that she was almost happy, for the first time in a week.

Suddenly her eyes met those of a woman dancing near. The eyes looked smoothly inquiring under arched brows.

Margery stopped dead. "Don," she said. "Don! I hadn't realized. We're crashing! That's our hostess, I just know it is. And we're crashing——"

Don couldn't hold her. She wouldn't listen to him. She turned and ran. It was sheer instinct that made her find the only dark and quiet spot. A willow growing close to the water, where they hadn't hung a lantern. It was dark. It was quiet. She flung herself on the ground and sobbed.

The grass rustled. Somebody else had found the only dark and quiet spot. She scrambled to her feet.

"Margery," said John.

She had crashed a party, and John was here. "I'm going," she said in a panic. "I'm going right away."

But he had both her hands. "Don't you like my party?"

"Your party?"

"Mother's, really."

"It's wonderful. It all went to my head. I didn't realize we were crashing—"

"You aren't. Cotasset was invited. This very morning I had a telephone call from Mr. Don Munson."

"Don called up to wangle an invitation?"

He seized her shoulder and shook her. She could feel his hands trembling. "Margery Venn, you're wrong," he said fiercely. "You're almost as wrong as I was. Don called to straighten things out."

"And you believe me, John?"

"Darling, underneath, I believed you all the time, all this ghastly week. It was such a blow to my vanity to think the Crowd didn't like me just as a nameless tramp. Unreasonable to want people to like you without home and mother to back you up, isn't it?"

"Well," said Margery in a cozy little voice. "I did. I liked the insides of your knees, and the way your eyes would get warm, and the way you read Kubla Khan——"

"That's all past tense," John complained, putting little kisses along the fine lines of her brows. "What do you like now, my Margery?"

"This." She stirred in his arms. "Being alone with you."

Every group has them. But when The Crowd went high hat Margery rebelled—and all because of the stray young man at the third-rate Clam House.

THE year before, they'd done a good bit of crashing. But this summer, when they'd all come back to Cotasset, Riss had announced that crashing was vulgar, and that she'd never drift casually through any Long Island doorway again. Margery Venn was thoroughly relieved. She'd hated slipping into dances from the Sound or through the hedge. But she was younger than the rest of the Crowd, and they'd adored her and bossed her since she was a baby.

She'd backed up Riss so wholeheartedly about crashing that the Crowd was flabbergasted when she defended the man on the raft.

They were all lying as usual on the Cotasset Club beach, hating to go home to lunch, when Riss sat up and said, "There he is again."

"Who's where again?" Don Munson inquired drowsily.

"That man out there on the raft with the Robinson Crusoe hat. We've got to shoo him off."

At that, Sam Richards and Paul Stone sat up, too. Riss had made the Crowd crash-conscious. On the Club's farthest raft, so far that it was a little solitary island, the intruder lay on his stomach, his head under its ridiculous straw hat propped on his elbows.

Paul grunted. "Reading. Darned if he isn't."

Margery was thinking. "They've discovered him. And he's been so peaceful out there." She'd envied the stranger.

Don Munson shook Paul's shoulder. "Come on, fella," he said. "It's probably someone from the Clam House. Let's chisel that chiseller off our raft."

Margery was suddenly furious. Perhaps it was Don's tone, proprietary and smug. "Don't you dare go near that raft," she flashed.

The Crowd was flabbergasted. Riss, her sleek black head erect, said she couldn't understand people who were anti-crashers one day, and the next wanted to turn the Club into a roadhouse.

"She looks awful, Riss. She was gone on him, and no mistake."

"You don't look like a carefree lifeguard yourself."

"These nights are too muggy to sleep." But he looked gratefully at her. "I tell you straight, Riss, if I could give Margery back her John on his ancestral silver platter, I'd do it like a shot. I guess there never was much chance for me, anyway."

"Come up for air," Riss urged him. "You don't want Marg, really. That's only a childhood fixation. You know——" she wrinkled her piquant nose at him—"I have other plans for you. No, Don, I can't think when I'm holding hands. And I must think."

THAT night Margery was persuaded to go along to the Bentwood Club dance. They stayed an hour, then the others professed boredom.

"Rotten music," said Paul. "Horns sour as buttermilk."

"Nobody here," said Riss. "Dull, I says."

They dropped in at the Manning's weekly dance, but twenty minutes later they were on the road again, speeding eastward. When they passed Kelly's Wharf, Paul said, "My speed boat's here. Just been overhauled. Let's take to the water."

There was the shore line of a big estate, with its stream and its island in the Sound. Colored lanterns bloomed on the land, lighted pleasure boats on the water. The sky was incandescent with balloons and stars and comets. Everywhere lights and laughter, the plash of guitars, faces and gowns suddenly brilliant under the color poured from the sky.

"A water fete," Riss cried. "A stroke of genius."

"I know what it is." Margery was glowing. "It's the Grand Canal. It's the Feast of the Redeemer. I saw it one summer."

Paul cut off the engine, and they listened to the singing over the water. Then he chugged through the bright boats, and tied up at the wharf.

They were dancing in a pavillion hung with Italian damasks. Margery was enchanted. The fete was so beautiful that it never occurred to her that she didn't belong. All she knew was that she was almost happy, for the first time in a week.

Suddenly her eyes met those of a woman dancing near. The eyes looked smoothly inquiring under arched brows.

Margery stopped dead. "Don," she said. "Don! I hadn't realized. We're crashing! That's our hostess, I just know it is. And we're crashing——"

Don couldn't hold her. She wouldn't listen to him. She turned and ran. It was sheer instinct that made her find the only dark and quiet spot. A willow growing close to the water, where they hadn't hung a lantern. It was dark. It was quiet. She flung herself on the ground and sobbed.

The grass rustled. Somebody else had found the only dark and quiet spot. She scrambled to her feet.

"Margery," said John.

She had crashed a party, and John was here. "I'm going," she said in a panic. "I'm going right way."

But he had both her hands. "Don't you like my party?"

"Your party?"

"Mother's, really."

"It's wonderful. It all went to my head. I didn't realize we were crashing—"

"You aren't. Cotasset was invited. This very morning I had a telephone call from Mr. Don Munson."

"Don called up to wangle an invitation?"

He seized her shoulder and shook her. She could feel his hands trembling. "Margery Venn, you're wrong," he said fiercely. "You're almost as wrong as I was. Don called to straighten things out."

"And you believe me, John?"

"Darling, underneath, I believed you all the time, all this ghastly week. It was such a blow to my vanity to think the Crowd didn't like me just as a nameless tramp. Unreasonable to want people to like you without home and mother to back you up, isn't it?"

"Well," said Margery in a cozy little voice, "I did. I liked the insides of your knees, and the way your eyes would get warm, and the way you read Kubla Khan——"

"That's all past tense," John complained, putting little kisses along the fine lines of her brows. "What do you like now, my Margery?"

"This." She stirred in his arms. "Being alone with you."

Three-Inch Layer Of Frozen Pests Found In Snow

(International News Service)

FORT COLLINS, Colo.—A three-inch layer of frozen grasshoppers was uncovered recently when the almost perennial snow on the northwestern slope of Long's Peak, altitude 14,000 feet, melted during the prolonged heat.

The theory is that the grasshoppers came into the region during a prolonged drouth similar to the one this year, became chilled in a sudden cold snap and then were buried in the snows, heaping upon each other winter after winter and creating a great natural refrigerator.

Until this summer, when the snow has been melted to the lowest level within the memory of the oldest inhabitants of the region, the presence of thousands of insects in the huge mountain preservator, almost at the top of the peak, was unknown.

Entomoligists have been requested to make a study of the insects by officials of the Rocky Mountain National park.

Here're Peaches That're Peaches

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Peaches grew so large in Adams county this year that they sold by the piece. Many weigh between a pound and 21 ounces each.

One grower sold his fruit for seven cents each, a record high in this county, and another exhibited peaches so large that one filled a quart basket.

Masculine Jobs No Barrier To British Women

(International News Service)

LONDON—British women are revealed in the current "Census of Occupations" to be gradually ousting men from jobs which for years have been regarded as male strongholds.

There are today 347 women blacksmiths in Britain, for instance, whereas ten years ago the number in this, one of the oldest of male occupations, was less than a score

There are 218 women employed as stationary engine and crane drivers, 93 women dynamo attendants, and 821 women shunters and grade-crossing attendants.

In professional occupations the women outnumbered the men in 1931, the year the census was taken, the figures being $399,359 to 356,726.

There are 6,080 women in agriculture, sixty-five women bookmakers, five women chief constables, inspectors and superintendents, 28 women fairground proprietors, four women film producers.

The census published the information, without comment, that all the women in the last mentioned professions were married.

Gold Coins Lost 1,000 Years Found

(International News Service)

VENICE—Children playing on the edge of a canal, temporarily emptied, saw something shining in the mud.

It proved to be a gold coin, and a subsequent search revealed five more, all of them dating from the times of the Byzantine Emperors.

Venice was once closely associated with the Byzantine Empire

It is probable that the coins had been there for over 1,000 years.

Police Get Shock; Autoist Is Eager To Pay His Fine

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—John Davis, 77, Lincoln, Neb. gave the police headquarters staff a shock when he came in voluntarily to pay a fine for parking his car in a prohibited zone.

Visitors to the city just didn't do things like that. Usually they simply tear up the traffic tickets and leave town.

"I stayed over night to pay the fine because the traffic office was closed," Davis told them.

"The traffic office is still closed," he was informed.

"Well," offered Davis a bit apologetically and further shocking the minions of law and order, "I wanted to get back to Lincoln but guess I'll have to stay over until tomorrow to pay the fine."

An officer tore up the ticket.

LaGuardia Vetoes City Lottery Plan

Legality Of Plan Is Not Sustained Mayor Of New York Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia vetoed a bill which has caused an uproar—the measure providing for a city lottery, on Thursday.

His objections to such a scheme for raising funds for unemployment relief were the lawyer's objections and not those of the clergymen.

Without discussing moral grounds the mayor vetoed the bill.

"The resolution and the plan" he wrote to the board of aldermen, "were offered in the best of good faith."

"In times as critical as we are now living in; every possible method of raising revenue is thought and suggested. But the mayor has been unable to obtain any reliable legal advice that sustains the legality of the plan."

Borough President James J. Lyons of the Bronx, author of the bill said he would go before the next session of the Legislature in an effort to get through laws which would legalize a lottery.

Convention Is Ending Today

Girl Scout Workers To Leave Boston Today; Mrs. George Ferver Local Delegate

Mrs. George W. Ferver of Lincoln avenue, who is a delegate from the New Castle Girl Scout council to the national Girl Scout convention at Boston, Mass., sends enthusiastic word of the sessions to Mrs. W. H. Hanger, Girl Scout commisioner.

Mrs. Ferver states that 1000 women were enrolled in the two-day training course which preceded the convention and that it was the best training course in which she had ever taken part. Agnes Leahy, executive secretary of the national personnel division, was in charge.

The convention proper opened October 24 and is ending today. Hundreds of notable women were present, including Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, honorary president; Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary vice president; Mrs. Frederick Edey, national president, and Dr. Lillian Galbraith, consulting ergineer. Of interest to New Castle people who met them during visits here is the presence of Miss Josephine Schain, national director, and Mrs. Stewart McGuire, regional chairman, at the convention.

Scouts Advanced At Honor Court

New Castle District Boys Before Tribunal At First M. E. Church

LAUD FINE WORK OF ABLE SCOUTERS

The regular monthly Court of Honor of the New Castle (north) district of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Council, Boy Scouts of America, was held last night in the First Methodist church Sunday school rooms, with Rev. A. M. Stump chairman of the court, presiding, and assisted by Dr. R. C. Lutz, A. L. Howard, Commissioner Ralph F. Davis and Executive H. G. Horton.

A good sized group appeared for awards as follows:

Advancing from tenderfoot to second class rank, Johnson Hallett, troop 4: Jack Lucas, troop 9; Robt. Edmunds and Alvie Stimple of troop 12; James Woods of troop V-18: Harold Rebel and Wilbur Sloan of troop V-37 and Owen Evans of New Wilmington V-1.

Second class scouts who had completed all work necessary for first class rank were so rated as follows: Bryl McCartney of troop 4 and Bill Hoffman and David Taylor of troop V-37.

Second class scouts were awarded merit badges in their ranks: Jim Merrilees of V-18, basketry and handicraft and Jack Mercer of New Wilmington V-1, carpentry and handicraft.

First class scouts received badges as named: Lester Raub, electricity and bookbinding: Roger Hawk and Tom Bailey, electricity, and Donald Gibson, bookbinding: these scouts being troop 3 members. Philard McClure of V-4, plumbing and first aid to animals: Gerald Book, cycling: Bus Hanna, handicraft and cooking: George Miller, plumbing: these being troop 12 scouts. V-37 had these awards: Jim Gravenstreeter, warranted as junior assistant scoutmaster and the masonry badge: Bob Cole and Walter Logan, horsemanship; and Hunt Davis, electricity. Jim Emerick of V-4, firemanship. Bob Miner of V-17 qualified for canoeing and chemistry, Bob Johns of New Wilmington V-1 was awarded the scholarship badge.

Seascouting also made itself felt. H. G. Horton, Jr., of the Seascout patrol "Lawrence," now home on furlough from the United States Naval station at Hampton Roads, Virginia, qualified for camping and Walter Green, mate-elect of the "Neshannock" was awarded the civics badge.

Scouters Win Recognition

Scouters were also noted: Scoutmaster Hawk of Troop 3, reading badge; Miles of V-18 cooking; Turek of Troop 9, first aid, bird study and handicraft, and Zeigler of Troop 12 gardening: four scoutmasters to be recognized. Theodore Colnot, of V-4 was also warranted as junior assistant in that troop. Riley Patton, of New Wilmington V-1 received safety, civics and Star rank badges: Eldred Ubry, of New Castle V-18 Star rank, cooking, handicraft and music and Frank Shaffer of Troop 12, Life rank, carpentry and athletics, these scouts all being on their way up the Eagle trail.

Dr. R. C. Lutz was then called from the court, and Rev. Stump asked Dr. Popp and Dan Rebel to come forward. Acting for the Kiwanis club, Dr. Popp then gave a brief outline of Dr. Lutz's service, and presented him with the silver eagle badge, the company all saluting him. Mr. Rebel also spoke of Scouting's work and how Kiwanis had backed it for many years, Mr. Reebel himself having been council treasurer at one time.

Bronze Palm Eagle Joe Ferris was then introduced, and was awarded the Silver Palm for Eagle rank: he having fifteen more badges than those required for Eagle rank. He also was saluted, as were the assembled Eagles in the audience. The date of the next court will be announced later.

Nutt And Baldwin Win Court Victory

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—Joseph R. Nutt and Wilbur M. Baldwin, the two former chief officers of the Union Trust Co., one of Ohio's largest banks, today won partial vindication in their $10,000,000 bank "window-dressing" trial when federal judge Paul Jones sustained part of a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The home compost heap now becoming a staple fixture with experienced gardeners furnishes the humus necessary, and with the commercial fertilizer added makes an ideal combination for fertility and tilth.

Margiotti Speaks At Meeting Here

Makes Address In Behalf Of Democratic Candidates, This Morning

Speaking in the Regent Theatre at eleven o'clock today, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, addressed a crowd that filled the theatre, in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

Using the same line of arguments he employed during his own campaign, Mr. Margiotti endorsed the candidacy of George H. Earle, and Joseph Guffey, for governor and United States Senator respectively. He reiterated his former statements that property taxes must be reduced and said that the way to reduce them was to elect the Democratic ticket. His address was greeted with frequent applause.

County Chairman William R. Hanna opened the meeting and introduced Assemblyman William J. Eree, Jr. He then introduced Rev. Charles W. Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church who presided for the balance of the meeting.

Attorney Charles R. Eckert of Beaver county, candidate for congress spoke briefly.

Oklahoma City Woman Is Held

Woman With Auto Arrested By Pittsburgh Police, May Be Floyd's Moll

International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—Vigilance of law authorities in seeking possible accomplices of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, slain western outlaw, today was the indirect cause of the arrest of Lorraine Mavis, 24, attractive Oklahoma City woman, on suspicion of transporting a stolen auto from Oklahoma to Pittsburgh.

Federal agents and police were on the lookout for cohorts of Floyd when they stopped an automobile with Oklahoma license plates in Butler and questioned its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Halley of Pittsburgh.

They said they were told the couple borrowed the car from Miss Mavis and the later, after investigation allegedly showed it was the property of William West of Oklahoma City, was charged with violating the national auto theft act upon her location here. Although declaring the machine was loaned to her by West, the girl was held following her arraignment before the U. S. commissioner.

Hundred Eighty At Story Hour

Regular Thursday afternoon story hour at the city public library was attended by 181 boys and girls, Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian, reports. They enjoyed hearing a Hallowe'en poem and two stories, "The Good Orphan Sunblossom" and "Ah-Tcha the Sleeper." Story hour will be conducted as usual next Thursday afternoon.

Gasoline Prices Go Down Again In Pittsburgh Area

Gasoline Now Sells For 12 Cents Per Gallon In Many Stations

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Gasoline prices in Pittsburgh were down another half cent as the inter-company sales war waxed hotter.

Standard Oil of Pennsylvania and Gulf Refining cut their service station prices throughout Allegheny county the additional half cent late Thursday, and Atlantic Refining followed with a full cent cut to bring its retail price to new 12-cent level. The larger Atlantic slash was the outcome of its delay in meeting an earlier ½-cent reduction put through by Standard and Gulf.

The new figure, includes the 4-cent tax, making the actual cost of gas 8 cents per gallon. In the last two weeks, reductions in the price battle have totaled six cents.

Scouts Advanced At Honor Court

New Castle District Boys Before Tribunal At First M. E. Church

LAUD FINE WORK OF ABLE SCOUTERS

The regular monthly Court of Honor of the New Castle (north) district of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Council, Boy Scouts of America, was held last night in the First Methodist church Sunday school rooms, with Rev. A. M. Stump chairman of the court, presiding, and assisted by Dr. R. C. Lutz, A. L. Howard, Commissioner Ralph F. Davis and Executive H. G. Horton.

A good sized group appeared for awards as follows:

Advancing from tenderfoot to second class rank, Johnson Hallett, troop 4: Jack Lucas, troop 9; Robt. Edmunds and Alvie Stimple of troop 12; James Woods of troop V-18: Harold Rebel and Wilbur Sloan of troop V-37 and Owen Evans of New Wilmington V-1.

Second class scouts who had completed all work necessary for first class rank were so rated as follows: Bryl McCartney of troop 4 and Bill Hoffman and David Taylor of troop V-37.

Second class scouts were awarded merit badges in their ranks: Jim Merrilees of V-18, basketry and handicraft and Jack Mercer of New Wilmington V-1, carpentry and handicraft.

First class scouts received badges as named: Lester Raub, electricity and bookbinding: Roger Hawk and Tom Bailey, electricity, and Donald Gibson, bookbinding: these scouts being troop 3 members. Philard McClure of V-4, plumbing and first aid to animals: Gerald Book, cycling: Bus Hanna, handicraft and cooking: George Miller, plumbing: these being troop 12 scouts. V-37 had these awards: Jim Gravenstreeter, warranted as junior assistant scoutmaster and the masonry badge: Bob Cole and Walter Logan, horsemanship; and Hunt Davis, electricity. Jim Emerick of V-4, firemanship. Bob Miner of V-17 qualified for canoeing and chemistry, Bob Johns of New Wilmington V-1 was awarded the scholarship badge.

Seascouting also made itself felt. H. G. Horton, Jr., of the Seascout patrol "Lawrence," now home on furlough from the United States Naval station at Hampton Roads, Virginia, qualified for camping and Walter Green, mate-elect of the "Neshannock" was awarded the civics badge.

Scouters Win Recognition

Scouters were also noted: Scoutmaster Hawk of Troop 3, reading badge; Miles of V-18 cooking; Turek of Troop 9, first aid, bird study and handicraft, and Zeigler of Troop 12 gardening: four scoutmasters to be recognized. Theodore Colnot, of V-4 was also warranted as junior assistant in that troop. Riley Patton, of New Wilmington V-1 received safety, civics and Star rank badges: Eldred Ubry, of New Castle V-18 Star rank, cooking, handicraft and music and Frank Shaffer of Troop 12, Life rank, carpentry and athletics, these scouts all being on their way up the Eagle trail.

Dr. R. C. Lutz was then called from the court, and Rev. Stump asked Dr. Popp and Dan Rebel to come forward. Acting for the Kiwanis club, Dr. Popp then gave a brief outline of Dr. Lutz's service, and presented him with the silver eagle badge, the company all saluting him. Mr. Rebel also spoke of Scouting's work and how Kiwanis had backed it for many years, Mr. Reebel himself having been council treasurer at one time.

Bronze Palm Eagle Joe Ferris was then introduced, and was awarded the Silver Palm for Eagle rank: he having fifteen more badges than those required for Eagle rank. He also was saluted, as were the assembled Eagles in the audience. The date of the next court will be announced later.

Nutt And Baldwin Win Court Victory

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—Joseph R. Nutt and Wilbur M. Baldwin, the two former chief officers of the Union Trust Co., one of Ohio's largest banks, today won partial vindication in their $10,000,000 bank "window-dressing" trial when federal judge Paul Jones sustained part of a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Margiotti Speaks At Meeting Here

Makes Address In Behalf Of Democratic Candidates, This Morning

Speaking in the Regent Theatre at eleven o'clock today, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, addressed a crowd that filled the theatre, in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

Using the same line of arguments he employed during his own campaign, Mr. Margiotti endorsed the candidacy of George H. Earle, and Joseph Guffey, for governor and United States Senator respectively. He reiterated his former statements that property taxes must be reduced and said that the way to reduce them was to elect the Democratic ticket. His address was greeted with frequent applause.

County Chairman William R. Hanna opened the meeting and introduced Assemblyman William J. Eroe, Jr. He then introduced Rev. Charles W. Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church who presided for the balance of the meeting.

Attorney Charles R. Eckert of Beaver county, candidate for congress spoke briefly.

Oklahoma City Woman Is Held

Woman With Auto Arrested By Pittsburgh Police, May Be Floyd's Moll

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—Vigilance of law authorities in seeking possible accomplices of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, slain western outlaw, today was the indirect cause of the arrest of Lorraine Mavis, 24, attractive Oklahoma City woman, on suspicion of transporting a stolen auto from Oklahoma to Pittsburgh.

Federal agents and police were on the lookout for cohorts of Floyd when they stopped an automobile with Oklahoma license plates in Butler and questioned its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Halley of Pittsburgh.

They said they were told the couple borrowed the car from Miss Mavis and the later, after investigation allegedly showed it was the property of William West of Oklahoma City, was charged with violating the national auto theft act upon her location here. Although declaring the machine was loaned to her by West, the girl was held following her arraignment before the U. S. commissioner.

Hundred Eighty At Story Hour

Regular Thursday afternoon story hour at the city public library was attended by 181 boys and girls, Miss Alice Joyce, children's librarian, reports. They enjoyed hearing a Hallowe'en poem and two stories, "The Good Orphan Sunblossom" and "Ah-Tcha the Sleeper." Story hour will be conducted as usual next Thursday afternoon.

Gasoline Prices Go Down Again In Pittsburgh Area

Gasoline Now Sells For 12 Cents Per Gallon In Many Stations

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Gasoline prices in Pittsburgh were down another half cent as the inter-company sales war waxed hotter.

Standard Oil of Pennsylvania and Gulf Refining cut their service station prices throughout Allegheny county the additional half cent late Thursday, and Atlantic Refining followed with a full cent cut to bring its retail price to new 12-cent level. The larger Atlantic slash was the outcome of its delay in meeting an earlier ½-cent reduction put through by Standard and Gulf.

The new figure, includes the 4-cent tax, making the actual cost of gas 8 cents per gallon. In the last two weeks, reductions in the price battle have totaled six cents.

SOCIAL SNOBS

by Helen Augur

Every group has them. But when The Crowd went high hat Margery rebelled—and all because of the stray young man at the third-rate Clam House.

"It was such a blow to my vanity to think the Crowd didn't like me. . . . Unreasonable to want people to like you . . ."

McClure Fiction

THE year before, they'd done a good bit of crashing. But this summer, when they'd all come back to Cotasset, Riss had announced that crashing was vulgar, and that she'd never drift casually through any Long Island doorway again. Margery Venn was thoroughly relieved. She'd hated slipping into dances from the Sound or through the hedge. But she was younger than the rest of the Crowd, and they'd adored her and bossed her since she was a baby.

She'd backed up Riss so wholeheartedly about crashing that the Crowd was flabbergasted when she defended the man on the raft.

They were all lying as usual on the Cotasset Club beach, hating to go home to lunch, when Riss sat up and said, "There he is again."

"Who's where again?" Don Munson inquired drowsily.

"That man out there on the raft with the Robinson Crusoe hat. We've got to shoo him off."

At that, Sam Richards and Paul Stone sat up, too. Riss had made the Crowd crash-conscious. On the Club's farthest raft, so far that it was a little solitary island, the intruder lay on his stomach, his head under its ridiculous straw hat propped on his elbows.

Paul grunted. "Reading. Darned if he isn't."

Margery was thinking. "They've discovered him. And he's been so peaceful out there." She'd envied the stranger.

Don Munson shook Paul's shoulder. "Come on, fella," he said. "It's probably someone from the Clam House. Let's chisel that chiseller off our raft."

Margery was suddenly furious. Perhaps it was Don's tone, proprietary and smug. "Don't you dare go near that raft," she flashed.

The Crowd was flabbergasted. Riss, her sleek black head erect, said she couldn't understand people who were anti-crashers one day, and the next wanted to turn the Club into a roadhouse.

"Riss," Margery said slowly, "I've gone along with you this summer about no makeup till evening, and no cutting-in without introductions, and all that. I don't like sloppy manners, either. I hate crashing more than you do. But—"

"Well?" Riss demanded acidly.

"Well, it sounds horrid, but I'm willing to bet that if Mrs. Carter Reynolds and her Long Island set came out tomorrow for crashing, you'd tag along."

The Crowd watched her try to stalk down the beach. She wasn't a successful stalker, she was too small and softly rounded. They watched her dive with a beautiful clean arc.

Riss smiled. "She's over it already. Lunchtime, fellow-snobs."

AFTER her fifth dive, Margery glanced at the deserted beach and swam out to the raft. She circled around it, making no more splash than a seal, then lifted herself up silently. For ten minutes there was quiet, an absolute and heavenly quiet. The stranger didn't know she was there, and soon she forgot him.

The gentle sound of a book closing made her remember the stranger. He was sitting up, with his arms around his knees, looking at her.

"Nice out here," he said casually.

"Heavenly," she sighed. "I meant to leave you alone, you know. I didn't mean to intrude." She'd forgotten the raft didn't belong to the stranger.

"You're the least intrusive person I've ever seen," he assured her.

"So are you." Her violet eyes turned to his frankly.

"Let's start a club," he suggested. "An exclusive club. Intruders excluded."

She hesitated. "But let's find another raft. This one belongs to a club already, a very intrusive club."

"Oh." He looked embarrassed. "I thought it was just a natural island. I'm sorry."

"That's all right," she assured him hastily. "That's why I swam out. I wanted to warn you."

"Thanks," he said rather shortly. "I'll keep off."

She was distressed. "Oh no! That's not what I meant. I wanted to warn you against the Crowd. You see, the Club's trying to be very snooty this summer—" she saw him struggling with a grin— "and they got the silly idea that you were a— were from Jim's Clam House." She made a gesture toward the jovial third-rate establishment down the beach.

"As it happens," he said soberly, "I'm staying at Jim's Clam House."

She didn't know what to say. She looked blankly at him, caught the sudden twinkle in his eyes, and they both laughed. He had the most enchanting smile. It ran away with her judgment. She said blithely, "I'm going to give you a guest card, Mr.—"

"John Hill."

"Margery Venn." She reached out a small hand.

"Thank you, Margery Venn. But really you mustn't bother about me. I don't know a soul in Cotasset, and I'm not used to—" he struggled a bit— "to this sort of place, you know. Anyway, I have only two weeks' vacation, and I like to read."

"Then go ahead and read," she said, trying to smooth down his diffidence. "Just stay on the raft. You don't have to meet the Crowd."

FOR the next two mornings the Crowd let them alone. Mornings of peace, drowsing in the sun, talking when it suited them. They had no inquisitiveness about each other. Margery felt she knew all about John Hill, just as he must know about her.

On the third morning John began reading aloud, in a lazy voice.

In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decree,
Where Alph, the sacred river, ran
Through caverns measureless to man
Down to a sunless sea.

The cadences enclosed her like the waves lapping the raft. Margery slept.

"So sorry to intrude," a voice carrolled.

The Crowd was clambering up on the raft — briny, noisy, laughing. Margery looked at John Hill, and the shrug of his shoulders told her their peace had ended. She introduced Riss, Louise, Sam, Don, Paul. He gave each a little nod, then gazed at the distant Connecticut shore.

Margery knew what to expect. Clarissa Yorke had come to find out about John Hill. Swiftly Margery reviewed what she herself knew, after three mornings. John was studying law in somebody's office in New York, he didn't like his stepfather, his bathing suit was last year's, and his hat looked like flotsam fished out of the Sound. That was all.

Riss talked of polo, regattas, debuts at the Colony Club, Betty So-and-So, Jay This-and-That. But John nibbled at none of her lines. She even asked him if he knew the most ineffable hostess on Long Island. "You know Mrs. Carter Reynolds, of course?"

John looked as if he were at the end of his rope, and Margery intervened. "Riss is that way," she told him. "She's always looking for somebody that knows Mrs. Carter Reynolds. None of us does. But Riss is always hoping."

John shot Margery a look of pure gratitude. She had given him a moment's advantage, and he squared his big shoulders.

"Miss Yorke," he said quietly. "I brush my teeth and change my collars, but I just don't fit in your crowd. I'm a total loss socially. I'm much more at home with Jim of the Clam House."

"I'm desolate to think I've been boring you," Riss said elaborately, and turned her back squarely on him.

Paul and Don, a bit flustered, started noisy setting-up exercises. And Margery grinned in triumph at John Hill. Behind his back, she could see Riss pick up his book, leafing it over with the idle air of a shopper who doesn't intend to buy. In just a minute Riss would be swimming away, the Crowd after her, and there would be peace again.

But Margery was wrong.

Riss turned to John with the friendliest smile. "We're all playing mixed doubles at my house this afternoon," she said. "Won't you come along, Mr. Hill?"

The Crowd strangled down its amazement. But Riss ruled the Crowd, and it followed her lead. Don, of all people, offered to lend John Hill a racquet. Paul volunteered to call for him at the Clam House at four.

Most amazing of all, John accepted this sudden cordiality gratefully. Perhaps, Margery reflected, he hadn't loved being alone on the raft with her. Perhaps, all this time, he'd been just plain lonely, and too proud to admit it.

WELL, he's in everything up to his ears now," Margery thought a week later. She was alone on the raft. John was usually off fishing or sailing with Don, or escorting Riss on her morning errands in Cotasset.

Riss had informed the Crowd that she thought John Hill a born charmer. She'd set Cotasset into a social delirium for him, got him invitations to everything on the horizon, and given a dance for him herself. He had been assigned a locker at the Club, lent white flannels, presented with dancing-pumps by Sam . . .

Margery sighed, and stretched her smooth legs. Riss was clever. Sometimes she made dazzling remarks that everyone said should be in print.

"Perhaps they have been," Margery thought, and then mewed aloud at herself. "Cat," she said.

"Kitten, I would say." And John rose out of the water behind her.

"No," Margery confessed. "I'm just an immature cat. I can prove it to you. You're here because Riss has gone to New York, and Riss has gone to New York to spend her whole fall allowance on summer clothes because there's a new—"

But John's hand had closed gently over her mouth. "Don't say it. Don't feed my vanity. I'm fairly reeking now . . ."

"I'm glad you admit it," she said. "I suppose I shall have to join the social stampede and give you a party, too."

He studied her face. "Yes, do," he urged. "You'd feel better. You give me a party, and then, before my vacation's up, I'll give one to the Crowd." He paused. "I wonder, now. Your families wouldn't let you come to the Clam House. And this raft's a bit small. . . ."

"Besides—" She hesitated.

"Besides what?"

"Well, this raft really belongs to the Intruders Excluded Club, doesn't it?"

"Yes," he said, with such an intimate note in his voice that Margery felt its warmth deep inside her.

MARGERY'S party was simple. Riss had imported her paraphernalia from New York, from orchestra to ices. John was straight and unaffected and for her party Margery wanted—what was it?

"Integrity," she found the word, and singing, laid a sweet white dress on her bed.

The night was so lovely that Mrs. Venn was less the perfect hostess and more the charming mother, and Judge Venn was tempted out of his study to watch the dancing. John Hill, listening more and more absently to Riss's talk, caught Margery's smile at last, and vanished with her.

In a dream, they walked close to the Sound.

"It's hypnotic," John sighed. "This moonlight, this you in the moonlight. You're so cool and unreal."

She stirred. "I'm real, John." And she was suddenly warm and trembling in his arms.

"If I kiss you once more," he said presently, "I'll never be sane again."

"Would you mind terribly, John?"

"No, my sweet. But you make me forget everything. Tomorrow, I suppose, we must remember the respective positions of our respective families—"

"Don't," she said. "It doesn't matter."

"Tomorrow," he said, "will you come to the raft early? And we'll get through the dreary business of hows and whens—"

AT eleven the next morning Margery left the raft and swam back to shore. The Crowd seemed peevish.

"Looking for your boy friend?" Riss inquired.

"I—" Margery couldn't speak. Two hours on the raft, alone, and her delicious new world had grayed and grown old.

Riss was studying Margery's face. "John's gone," she said, very gently for Riss.

Margery sat down on the sand, and bound her arms tight around her knees. "Gone sailing?" Her voice was smothered.

"No, Marg," said Don Munson, giving it to her straight. "John's through with us, and he's gone home. He took French leave, did John Payson Hill, 3rd."

"John Payson—" Margery, who seldom looked at the social columns, knew that John Payson Hill, 3rd, was Mrs. Carter Reynolds's son. He hadn't belonged in Cotasset. He belonged to the people with yachts and golf courses and houses at Palm Beach.

Even Don, who had the nerves of a life-guard, was alarmed at the way Margery laughed.

"We thought you knew, puss," he said, and took her cold little hand, and began pouring warm sand over it.

"Yes," Riss chattered nervously, "we thought you'd seen him first, as it were. That morning when we swam out, I knew right away he was rotogravure. And when I picked up his book, there was the bookplate, plain as your face—John Payson Hill, 3rd!"

"So you took him up," said Margery. "Didn't he suspect?"

"No, he just thought we were a friendly lot. That's what he said last night."

"Last night?" Margery echoed dully.

"When Paul and I drove him to the Clam House. He was awfully quiet and thoughtful. And Paul made some dumb remark, and the whole thing came out. Margery, he just froze. What I mean, nobody but the Prince of Wales could have been so polite."

"But, Riss, he didn't think I knew?"

"Oh sure," said Paul. "He asked particularly. And we said of course the whole Crowd had seen through his incognito right away, and decided to show him a good time."

"Goose flesh," said Don, pretending to inspect Margery's arms, tense around her knees. "A little run down the beach, Marg." He pulled her up. He put an arm under her elbow and propelled her down the beach to the Club.

"That's it, Kid," he urged. "Take it on the chin. Now you're having a stiff shower, and then I'm driving you home."

She managed to smile at him.

MARGERY told herself, in the days that followed, that she had underestimated the Crowd. They were marvelously kind. She tried to be really one of the Crowd, as she hadn't quite, before. She dreaded being alone through the dark hours when her room became a cavern echoing with empty laughter.

"He thought I was making a play for him. Trying to catch a millionaire. He thought I was a cheap climber. If only I could write him——" She would get out of bed, and write a formal note to Mr. John Payson Hill, 3rd. But by morning the note would lie shredded in her waste basket. John would never believe her.

The Crowd was worried. Things weren't getting better at all. Don went to Riss's early one morning, and found her breakfasting on the side porch. When she saw Don's face, she rang for coffee.

"She looks awful, Riss. She was gone on him, and no mistake."

"You don't look like a carefree lifeguard yourself."

"These nights are too muggy to sleep." But he looked gratefully at her. "I tell you straight, Riss, if I could give Margery back her John on his ancestral silver platter, I'd do it like a shot. I guess there never was much chance for me, anyway."

"Come up for air," Riss urged him. "You don't want Marg, really. That's only a childhood fixation. You know——" she wrinkled her piquant nose at him— "I have other plans for you. No, Don, I can't think when I'm holding hands. And I must think."

THAT night Margery was persuaded to go along to the Bentwood Club dance. They stayed an hour, then the others professed boredom.

"Rotten music," said Paul. "Horns sour as buttermilk."

"Nobody here," said Riss. "Dull, I says."

They dropped in at the Manning's weekly dance, but twenty minutes later they were on the road again, speeding eastward. When they passed Kelly's Wharf, Paul said, "My speed boat's here. Just been overhauled. Let's take to the water."

There was the shore line of a big estate, with its stream and its island in the Sound. Colored lanterns bloomed on the land, lighted pleasure boats on the water. The sky was incandescent with balloons and stars and comets. Everywhere lights and laughter, the plash of guitars, faces and gowns suddenly brilliant under the color poured from the sky.

"A water fete," Riss cried. "A stroke of genius."

"I know what it is." Margery was glowing. "It's the Grand Canal. It's the Feast of the Redeemer. I saw it one summer."

Paul cut off the engine, and they listened to the singing over the water. Then he chugged through the bright boats, and tied up at the wharf.

They were dancing in a pavillion hung with Italian damasks. Margery was enchanted. The fete was so beautiful that it never occurred to her that she didn't belong. All she knew was that she was almost happy, for the first time in a week.

Suddenly her eyes met those of a woman dancing near. The eyes looked smoothly inquiring under arched brows.

Margery stopped dead. "Don," she said. "Don! I hadn't realized. We're crashing! That's our hostess, I just know it is. And we're crashing——"

Don couldn't hold her. She wouldn't listen to him. She turned and ran. It was sheer instinct that made her find the only dark and quiet spot. A willow growing close to the water, where they hadn't hung a lantern. It was dark. It was quiet. She flung herself on the ground and sobbed.

The grass rustled. Somebody else had found the only dark and quiet spot. She scrambled to her feet.

"Margery," said John.

She had crashed a party, and John was here. "I'm going," she said in a panic. "I'm going right away."

But he had both her hands. "Don't you like my party?"

"Your party?"

"Mother's, really."

"It's wonderful. It all went to my head. I didn't realize we were crashing—"

"You aren't. Cotasset was invited. This very morning I had a telephone call from Mr. Don Munson."

"Don called up to wangle an invitation?"

He seized her shoulder and shook her. She could feel his hands trembling. "Margery Venn, you're wrong," he said fiercely. "You're almost as wrong as I was. Don called to straighten things out."

"And you believe me, John?"

"Darling, underneath, I believed you all the time, all this ghastly week. It was such a blow to my vanity to think the Crowd didn't like me just as a nameless tramp. Unreasonable to want people to like you without home and mother to back you up, isn't it?"

"Well," said Margery in a cozy little voice, "I did. I liked the insides of your knees, and the way your eyes would get warm, and the way you read Kubla Khan——"

"That's all past tense," John complained, putting little kisses along the fine lines of her brows. "What do you like now, my Margery?"

"This." She stirred in his arms. "Being alone with you."

French Protest Use Of Yankee Words In Menus

(International News Service)

PARIS—American restauranteurs who pride themselves upon the number of French phrases they have in menus, will be interested to know that in Paris, newspapers are waging a campaign against the use of such American words as "hamburger sandwich," "ketchup" and buttered toast" in restaurant bills-of-fare.

After several lean years of tourist trade, Paris hotels and restaurants were more than obliging this summer in making their service convenient to American and other foreign visitors. But in the wake of the innovation of making menus intelligible to foreign patrons, Parisians bombarded their newspapers with letters of complaint over having to ask waiters the meaning of such phrases as "hamburger." There are plenty of French words to describe such dishes, they asserted in dignantly.

The newspapers took up the campaign.

Farley's Face Is Trifle Redder

Letters Get Out Bearing Endorsement Of Sinclair In California

FARLEY SILENT ABOUT MATTER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The ruddy, genial face of Postmaster General James A. Farley was a trifle redder than usual today, all because of California's boiling political situation, which finds Upton Sinclair, the reclaimed Socialist, trying to ride into the governorship on the back of the Democratic donkey.

The administration decided early to have as little to do as possible with the firecracker situation in California and with Sinclair. Other Democratic candidates received the usual pat on the back and "best wishes." Some of them have been aided in more material ways. But not Sinclair.

Roosevelt Silent

It is true that Sinclair made a pilgrimage to the summer White House at Hyde Park and conferred lengthily with President Roosevelt some weeks ago. After that meeting Sinclair said he was "charmed" and "delighted" with his reception. From Mr. Roosevelt emanated nothing but silence.

Taking his cut from his chief, Farley, who is also Democratic national chairman, has been strangely quiet about Sinclair and his epic plan for saving California.

But the genial chairman reckoned without the ponderous and efficient machinery of the Democratic national committee, which he built up, and of which he is the engineer in charge.

It seems that a form letter was rigged up by the national committee intended for general distribution in behalf of Democratic candidates for office. The letter was carefully phrased, with blank spaces left for the insertion of the names of states and candidates. It was all a part of the regular business of patting candidates on the back and appealing for Democratic support.

Fill In California

Some one, it appears, forgot to tell the stenographers whose business it was to fill in the names of states and candidates to omit California. So in the natural course of events, California was typed in. Also the names of Senator Hiram Johnson, who is running for re-election on both Republican and Democratic tickets—and Upton Sinclair. The letters were duly sent out to "key" men in California, as in other states.

Such, at least, is the unofficial explanation of Postmaster General Farley's "endorsement" of Upton Sinclair and his bizzare campaign for the governorship.

There is no "official" explanation, because the usually affable postmaster general declines to discuss it at all. He will discuss Democratic candidates and chances in 47 states. But mention California, which of course means mentioning Sinclair, and the loquacious Farley becomes as silent as the Sphinx.

It may be that the "unofficial" explanation of the Farley letter is wrong, and that despite the lack of public support accorded Sinclair by the administration, Farley decided to do what he would in his quiet way to advance Democratic chances in California. There are even rumors that the organization-minded national chairman appended a postscript to the California letter in his own hand-writing. But those rumors can't be confirmed because nobody around Democratic GHQ will discuss them—or discuss California at all.

Farley himself returned to Washington today from a mountain resort. His silence concerning the California campaign was even more dense than ever.

He called at the White House and discussed "a number of matters" with the President. Included in those matters was the California situation, and presumably the mix-up about the letter, but "Big Jim" blandly declined all comment upon leaving the White House.

"No comment," he grinned. "Nothing to say at all."

Inspectors Nip Extortion Plots

(International News Service)

DENVER—To the vigilance of postal inspectors goes credit for nipping many extortion plots in the bud. Many big mail robberies are also solved by these men; according to K. P. Aldrich, chief postoffice inspector, here from Washington on an inspection tour.

"We have had a wonderful year," Aldrich said. "We have apprehended and convicted more persons using the mails to defraud and extort money than ever before. We have solved many big robberies and other crimes.

"Only about 20 per-cent of our work is criminal investigation, however. The rest consists in auditing accounts and organizing postoffices."

Lightning Bolt Made House Tour

(International News Service)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa.—A freak lightning bolt that took on all the appearance of a "chaser" came out of the sky during an electrical storm at Acme to make a tour of the home of Charles Zelinska and depart by a window.

The charge flashed, then ran along the roof to cut a hole through the covering into the chimney. Down the stack it continued to the basement where it leaped out by knocking the lid off the stove and completed the trip by jumping across the floor to the window.

F. D. R. Wants Tenant

A "For Rent" sign is displayed on President Roosevelt's New York City home as painters touch up the house in anticipation of a new tenant. The President and his family have used the house on East 65th Street since 1926.

Bankers Prepare To Combat Drive

Will Seek To Halt Move In Congress For "Radical" Bank Legislation

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ADMINISTRATION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Plans were drawn today by officials of the American Bankers association to combat the expected congressional drive for "radical" bank legislation.

A committee of 36 on banking studies, headed by Second Vice-President Tom K. Smith of the association and a former treasury aide, was specifically empowered to examine demands for creation of a central bank to virtually replace the federal reserve system. It will consider other proposed legislation.

Having already suppressed controversial questions in the convention, which ended yesterday, the bankers' association chieftains nevertheless planned to keep a close check on all administration activities affecting banks.

To Present United Front.

The bankers also were prepared to intensify a campaign of education in every state. The campaign is designed to counteract attacks being made on bankers as a result of the business situation.

Big bankers who, in the past, have shunned the conventions of the American Bankers' association have enlisted in the movement to present a united front on all questions vitally concerning them.

"Never have we had a convention where there was such a large proportion of chief executives," said Rudolf Hecht of New Orleans, new president of the association. "I believe that there is a greater realization that we must all work through the association."

Pledge Co-operation.

Plans for cooperation with the federal Import-Export bank were discussed at a luncheon today. Aid of the bankers in stimulating foreign trade was requested by George N. Peek, head of the bank.

Hecht said that a bankers' committee representing the principal export cities probably will be named to cooperate with Peek.

Leaders of the bankers' association, publicly taking the attitude that President Roosevelt had virtually offered a truce between the bankers and the "new deal", pledged administration cooperation.

"I feel that the convention has accomplished a better feeling between the administration and the bankers—but there is always room for further accomplisments," said Hecht.

Bankers differed on the question of easing credit to spur industries, recommended by all administration spokesmen. Hecht said the only way bankers could aid in this movement is by exhibiting to prospective borrowers their own confidence in the future.

To the Greeks, Momus was the personification of mocking censure.

Inspectors Nip Extortion Plots

(International News Service)

DENVER—To the vigilance of postal inspectors goes credit for nipping many extortion plots in the bud. Many big mail robberies are also solved by these men, according to K. P. Aldrich, chief postoffice inspector, here from Washington on an inspection tour.

"We have had a wonderful year," Aldrich said. "We have apprehended and convicted more persons using the mails to defraud and extort money than ever before. We have solved many big robberies and other crimes.

"Only about 20 per-cent of our work is criminal investigation, however. The rest consists in auditing accounts and organizing postoffices."

Lightning Bolt Made House Tour

(International News Service)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa.—A freak lightning bolt that took on all the appearance of a "chaser" came out of the sky during an electrical storm at Acme to make a tour of the home of Charles Zelinska and depart by a window.

The charge flashed, then ran along the roof to cut a hole through the covering into the chimney. Down the stack it continued to the basement where it leaped out by knocking the lid off the stove and completed the trip by jumping across the floor to the window.

Scouts Advanced At Honor Court

New Castle District Boys Before Tribunal At First M. E. Church

LAUD FINE WORK OF ABLE SCOUTERS

The regular monthly Court of Honor of the New Castle (north) district of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Council, Boy Scouts of America, was held last night in the First Methodist church Sunday school rooms, with Rev. A. M. Stump chairman of the court, presiding, and assisted by Dr. R. C. Lutz, A. L. Howard, Commissioner Ralph F. Davis and Executive H. G. Horton.

A good sized group appeared for awards as follows:

Advancing from tenderfoot to second class rank, Johnson Hallett, troop 4: Jack Lucas, troop 9; Robt. Edmunds and Alvie Stimple of troop 12; James Woods of troop V-18: Harold Rebel and Wilbur Sloan of troop V-37 and Owen Evans of New Wilmington V-1.

Second class scouts who had completed all work necessary for first class rank were so rated as follows: Bryl McCartney of troop 4 and Bill Hoffman and David Taylor of troop V-37.

Second class scouts were awarded merit badges in their ranks: Jim Merrilees of V-18, basketry and handicraft and Jack Mercer of New Wilmington V-1, carpentry and handicraft.

First class scouts received badges as named: Lester Raub, electricity and bookbinding: Roger Hawk and Tom Bailey, electricity, and Donald Gibson, bookbinding: these scouts being troop 3 members. Philard McClure of V-4, plumbing and first aid to animals: Gerald Book, cycling: Bus Hanna, handicraft and cooking: George Miller, plumbing: these being troop 12 scouts. V-37 had these awards: Jim Gravenstreeter, warranted as junior assistant scoutmaster and the masonry badge: Bob Cole and Walter Logan, horsemanship; and Hunt Davis, electricity. Jim Emerick of V-4, firemanship. Bob Miner of V-17 qualified for canoeing and chemistry, Bob Johns of New Wilmington V-1 was awarded the scholarship badge.

Seascouting also made itself felt. H. G. Horton, Jr., of the Seascout patrol "Lawrence," now home on furlough from the United States Naval station at Hampton Roads, Virginia, qualified for camping and Walter Green, mate-elect of the "Neshannock" was awarded the civics badge.

Scouters Win Recognition

Scouters were also noted: Scoutmaster Hawk of Troop 3, reading badge; Miles of V-18 cooking; Turek of Troop 9, first aid, bird study and handicraft, and Zeigler of Troop 12 gardening: four scoutmasters to be recognized. Theodore Colnot, of V-4 was also warranted as junior assistant in that troop. Riley Patton, of New Wilmington V-1 received safety, civics and Star rank badges: Eldred Ubry, of New Castle V-18 Star rank, cooking, handicraft and music and Frank Shaffer of Troop 12, Life rank, carpentry and athletics, these scouts all being on their way up the Eagle trail.

Dr. R. C. Lutz was then called from the court, and Rev. Stump asked Dr. Popp and Dan Rebel to come forward. Acting for the Kiwanis club, Dr. Popp then gave a brief outline of Dr. Lutz's service, and presented him with the silver eagle badge, the company all saluting him. Mr. Rebel also spoke of Scouting's work and how Kiwanis had backed it for many years, Mr. Reebel himself having been council treasurer at one time.

Bronze Palm Eagle Joe Ferris was then introduced, and was awarded the Silver Palm for Eagle rank; he having fifteen more badges than those required for Eagle rank. He also was saluted, as were the assembled Eagles in the audience. The date of the next court will be announced later.

Nutt And Baldwin Win Court Victory

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 26.—Joseph R. Nutt and Wilbur M. Baldwin, the two former chief officers of the Union Trust Co., one of Ohio's largest banks, today won partial vindication in their $10,000,000 bar. "window-dressing" trial when federal judge Paul Jones sustained part of a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

The home compost heap now becoming a staple fixture with experienced gardeners furnishes the humus necessary, and with the commercial fertilizer added makes an ideal combination for fertility and tilth.

Margiotti Speaks At Meeting Here

Makes Address In Behalf Of Democratic Candidates, This Morning

Speaking in the Regent Theatre at eleven o'clock today, Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, addressed a crowd that filled the theatre, in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

Using the same line of arguments he employed during his own campaign, Mr. Margiotti endorsed the candidacy of George H. Earle, and Joseph Guffey, for governor and United States Senator respectively. He reiterated his former statements that property taxes must be reduced and said that the way to reduce them was to elect the Democratic ticket. His address was greeted with frequent applause.

County Chairman William R. Hanna opened the meeting and introduced Assemblyman William J. Eroe, Jr. He then introduced Rev. Charles W. Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church who presided for the balance of the meeting.

Attorney Charles R. Eckert of Beaver county, candidate for congress spoke briefly.

Oklahoma City Woman Is Held

Woman With Auto Arrested By Pittsburgh Police, May Be Floyd's Moll

International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—Vigilance of law authorities in seeking possible accomplices of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, slain western outlaw, today was the indirect cause of the arrest of Lorraine Mavis, 24, attractive Oklahoma City woman, on suspicion of transporting a stolen auto from Oklahoma to Pittsburgh.

Federal agents and police were on the lookout for cohorts of Floyd when they stopped an automobile with Oklahoma license plates in Butler and questioned its occupants, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Halley of Pittsburgh.

They said they were told the couple borrowed the car from Miss Mavis and the later, after investigation allegedly showed it was the property of William West of Oklahoma City, was charged with violating the national auto theft act upon her location here. Although declaring the machine was loaned to her by West, the girl was held following her arraignment before the U. S. commissioner.

Gasoline Prices Go Down Again In Pittsburgh Area

Gasoline Now Sells For 12 Cents Per Gallon In Many Stations

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Gasoline prices in Pittsburgh were down another half cent as the inter-company sales war waxed hotter.

Standard Oil of Pennsylvania and Gulf Refining cut their service station prices throughout Allegheny county the additional half cent late Thursday, and Atlantic Refining followed with a full cent cut to bring its retail price to new 12-cent level. The larger Atlantic slash was the outcome of its delay in meeting an earlier ½-cent reduction put through by Standard and Gulf.

The new figure, includes the 4-cent tax, making the actual cost of gas 8 cents per gallon. In the last two weeks, reductions in the price battle have totaled six cents.

Review Work Of Chamber Of Commerce Here

Activities Of Organization Are Reviewed At Annual Meeting Thursday

NEW DIRECTORS ASSUME POSTS

In addition to electing officers for the coming year, when L. G. Genkinger was renamed President for his third consecutive term, the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce reviewed the activities of the past year, at their meeting in The Castleton, on Thursday afternoon.

In the matter of transportation, representation was furnished to four hearings on behalf of the improvement of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers for slackwater navigation. The Chamber of Commerce also worked to secure a revision of freight rates in this district which will be fair and equitable to both railroads and shippers.

During the past fifteen months, the Chamber of Commerce has assisted in locating two industries in New Castle, one of which is now employing approximately 550 people most of whom have been taken from relief rolls. Their payroll is nearly $400,000 annually. The second industry is now in the process of beginning operations, and the volume of manufactured products will be many thousands of dollars annually.

NRA Activities

Since the message of the National Industrial Recovery Act and the establishment of NRA, the New Castle Chamber of Commerce has not only served as the local headquarters for these activities but local administration has been under its supervision. During this period of time approximately 1700 cases were handled by the Compliance Board and through its service of mediation many industrial conditions have been satisfactorily handled for the benefit of both employees and employers.

Your Chamber of Commerce has acted as temporary headquarters for the local committee of the Federal Housing Administration and is aiding in establishing this activity in New Castle and Lawrence county, from which it is hoped and anticipated, many thousands of dollars of construction work and sale of materials will be secured, thereby materially relieving the unemployment situation.

Other Activities

The civic and commercial activities of your Chamber of Commerce has been that of assisting the merchants in stimulating business through the conducting of collective sales events. The prevention of promiscuous soliciting schemes from operating in our City has saved the public many thousands of dollars annually.

Among its many other activities along civic lines your organization assisted in securing the 1936 Pennsylvania State Sabbath School convention in New Castle.

In addition to the activities listed above the executive staff, Directors, Committees and Individual Members of the Chamber, are continually working with all agencies of the community to the end that every phase of the Community's industrial, commercial and civic life may be benefitted.

The complete list of directors, is as follows: including the six new directors who assumed their posts yesterday:

Hon. James A. Chambers, Thomas W. Dickey, Thomas H. Hartman, Alex Crawford Hoyt, James K. Love, Thomas F. Morehead, W. Walter Braham, B. H. Kannenberg, W. Kieth McAfee, Fred L. Rentz, Louis B. Round, James M. Smith, Sr., W. W. Duff, Louis G. Genkinger, John H. Lamb, R. C. Love, William F. Moody and R. W. Rowland.

The officers are:

L. G. Genkinger, president: Thos. F. Morehead and B. H. Kannenberg, vice presidents: Thomas W. Dickey, treasurer; and Alfred W. Chilton, secretary-manager.

Plan Conferences At Westminster

Vocational Guidance Authority To Make Visit To Local College

(Special To The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Miss Florence Jackson, Wellesley, Mass., an authority on vocational guidance, will visit Westminster College as a guest of Target, senior women's honorary society, on November 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Miss Jackson will speak at the Sunday evening chapel, November 4, and will also speak at the morning chapl on November 5 and 6. She will hold individual conferences with senior women concerning vocations during morning hours, and will lead round table discussions each afternoon.

Miss Jackson comes to Westminster after having visited a number of colleges and schools in Illinois and Ohio. She is to arrive Saturday, November 3, and will be entertained by members of Target. The complete program of conferences and meetings will be announced later.

Makes His Visit 17 Years Later

(International News Service)

WATERDOWN, Ontario — Seventeen years ago Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes said goodbye to Walter ("Mickey") Roskett, then an enlisted man on the British warship Centurion, and promised to visit him if he ever came to Canada.

Sir Roger redeemed his promise by coming here from Toronto to see the old salt. What was more accompanied by Lady Keyes, the Admiral visited Waterdown school where Rockett's son is a pupil.

It was a popular call—the boys got a half holiday at the Admiral's request.

Blames Wives For Air Unpopularity

(International News Service)

NEWTON, Mass.—The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that controls the airmindedness of the nation.

So says Mrs. Theodore W. Kenyon, now New England holder of the women's altitude record.

"Most men don't fly because their wives won't let them. When husbands convince their wives that there's nothing to be afraid of the whole nation will be air-mind."

NOW EATS ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Christian's Standard Of Life

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Ephesians 5:18—"And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit."

(The international uniform lesson on the above topic for Oct. 28 is Ephesians 4:17-5:21, the Golden Text being 5:18, "And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit.")

By ALVIN E. BELL

After St. Paul had written the great Christian doctrines of the church in the eyes of God, which make up the first three chapters of his Ephesian letter, he proceeded to deal with the fruit of these doctrines in practice in the lives of Christians before the eyes of men. Thus always doctrine and practice appear in the relation of root and fruit, of source and stream, or light and life.

Personal Standards of Life

In Ephesians 4:17-6-9, Paul deals with personal, social and domestic life, laying down principles for the Christian's guidance in each of these realms. Our lesson deals with the first two of these. In dealing with the principles he enunciates for personal life (4:17-32); Paul contrasts the heathenish practices of darkness, ignorance, blindness and filthiness of those "who have given themselves over unto lascivinusness, to work all uncleanness with greediness". This contrast continues showing the necessity of putting off lying lips, to put on truthfulness (25); putting off sinful anger to put on righteous anger (26-27); putting off theft to put on industry and charity (28); putting off filthy-mouthedness to put on wholesome, helpful speech (29); and putting off bad temper to put on kindness (31-32). The motive power to accomplish all these tremendous personal changes is the love of God in Jesus Christ: "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." Paul never omits this essential hook-up between creed and conduct.

Social Standards of Life

From personal life standards Paul passes to standards for the Christian's social life in 5:1-21. His first practical demand here is that we walk in love, excluding lust (1-5). For this love life God's love is still to be the dynamic: "Be ye therefore imitators of God, as beloved children; and walk in love, even as Christ also loved you, and gave himself up for us." The filthy sex rot of movie screen and magazine stories that would pass for "love" is to be excluded as bestial, sensual lust; "fornication, and all uncleanness, let it not even be named among you as becometh saints", much less patronized and indulged. Distinguish between love and lust.

Paul's next social standard suggests that the Chritsian walk in light excluding darkness: "Ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord; walk as children of light.... and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them.' For this again Christ is to be the enabling power: "Arise from the dead, and Christ shall shine upon thee".

The Christian must furthermore walk in wisdom excluding folly (15-21): "Look therefore carefully how ye walk, not unwise, but as wise. Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit....giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God, even the Father." Thus again we see Paul establishing this hook-up of faith in the Trinity, Father, son and Holy Spirit, with practical living of the social virtues as the Christian seeks in God the grace to walk in love and light and wisdom. Practice of these principles will result in a life of joy: "speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord."

Wash green vegetables in plenty of salt water. This will remove any insects, slugs, etc. Do not, however, let the vegetables stand in the salt water.

Crash Of Truck Is Pie For Kiddies

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 26—Berry-stained faces and noses that bore traces of custard were to be seen among the ranks of Ellsworth youngsters recently following the crash of a bakery truck into a sycamore tree on Route 71, near here.

Bread, pies, cakes were flung in all directions when the truck crashed.

Grant Souvenirs Valued At $5000

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 26—Heirlooms once, belonging to Ulysses S. Grant, figured in the disposal of property in the will of General Grant's nephew, the late Jesse Grant Cramer, who died here recently.

Cramer's widow was bequeathed a lock of the late president's hair, his gold watch, the coat he wore as a cadet at West Point and his military gauntlets, worn by Grant when he commanded the Union forces during the Civil War. The minimum value of the property disposed of by the will was set at $5,000.

Water Reservoirs As Relief Project

(International News Service)

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 26—Residents of Jennerstown and Addison who have been dependent on old wells and springs for their water supplies, are soon to enjoy pure mountain waters.

Two large reservoirs which will store large supplies of water for distribution to those and adjoining communities are to be constructed with the approval of state relief officials.

3-Day Romance Leads After 18 Years To Altar

(International News Service)

MELBOURNE—A couple who met for three days in the war, and have been writing to each other for 18 years, are to be married in Melbourne.

In 1916, Robert Sommerfield, a German sailor who was serving a patrol ship in the North Sea, was given a short leave.

He went to Munich where he met Miss Sophie Kohn, a milliner, and spent three days courting her. Then he went back to the North Sea.

After armistice, he went to America. Eight years ago he migrated to Tasmania and later took out naturalization papers.

Throughout his wanderings he corresponded with Miss Kohn.

Now she has come out to Melbourne to marry him.

Review Work Of Chamber Of Commerce Here

Activities Of Organization Are Reviewed At Annual Meeting Thursday

NEW DIRECTORS ASSUME POSTS

In addition to electing officers for the coming year, when L. G. Genkinger was renamed President for his third consecutive term, the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce reviewed the activities of the past year, at their meeting in The Castleton, on Thursday afternoon.

In the matter of transportation, representation was furnished to four hearings on behalf of the improvement of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers for slackwater navigation. The Chamber of Commerce also worked to secure a revision of freight rates in this district which will be fair and equitable to both railroads and shippers.

During the past fifteen months, the Chamber of Commerce has assisted in locating two industries in New Castle, one of which is now employing approximately 550 people most of whom have been taken from relief rolls. Their payroll is nearly $400,000 annually. The second industry is now in the process of beginning operations, and the volume of manufactured products will be many thousands of dollars annually.

NRA Activities

Since the message of the National Industrial Recovery Act and the establishment of NRA, the New Castle Chamber of Commerce has not only served as the local headquarters for these activities but local administration has been under its supervision. During this period of time approximately 1700 cases were handled by the Compliance Board and through its service of mediation many industrial conditions have been satisfactorily handled for the benefit of both employees and employers.

Your Chamber of Commerce has acted as temporary headquarters for the local committee of the Federal Housing Administration and is aiding in establishing this activity in New Castle and Lawrence county, from which it is hoped and anticipated, many thousands of dollars of construction work and sale of materials will be secured, thereby materially relieving the unemployment situation.

Other Activities

The civic and commercial activities of your Chamber of Commerce has been that of assisting the merchants in stimulating business through the conducting of collective sales events. The prevention of promiscuous soliciting schemes from operating in our City has saved the public many thousands of dollars annually.

Among its many other activities along civic lines your organization assisted in securing the 1936 Pennsylvania State Sabbath School convention in New Castle.

In addition to the activities listed above the executive staff, Directors, Committees and Individual Members of the Chamber, are continually working with all agencies of the community to the end that every phase of the Community's industrial, commercial and civic life may be benefitted.

The complete list of directors, is as follows: including the six new directors who assumed their posts yesterday:

Hon. James A. Chambers, Thomas W. Dickey, Thomas H. Hartman, Alex Crawford Hoyt, James K. Love, Thomas F. Morehead, W. Walter Braham, B. H. Kannenberg, W. Kieth McAfee, Fred L. Rentz, Louis B. Round, James M. Smith, Sr., W. W. Duff, Louis G. Genkinger, John H. Lamb, R. C. Love, William F. Moody and R. W. Rowland.

The officers are:

L. G. Genkinger, president: Thos. F. Morehead and B. H. Kannenberg, vice presidents: Thomas W. Dickey, treasurer; and Alfred W. Chilton, secretary-manager.

Plan Conferences At Westminster

Vocational Guidance Authority To Make Visit To Local College

(Special To The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Miss Florence Jackson, Wellesley, Mass., an authority on vocational guidance, will visit Westminster College as a guest of Target, senior women's honorary society, on November 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Miss Jackson will speak at the Sunday evening chapel, November 4, and will also speak at the morning chapl on November 5 and 6. She will hold individual conferences with senior women concerning vocations during morning hours, and will lead round table discussions each afternoon.

Miss Jackson comes to Westminster after having visited a number of colleges and schools in Illinois and Ohio. She is to arrive Saturday, November 3, and will be entertained by members of Target. The complete program of conferences and meetings will be announced later.

Makes His Visit 17 Years Later

(International News Service)

WATERDOWN, Ontario—Seventeen years ago Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes said goodbye to Walter ("Mickey") Roskett, then an enlisted man on the British warship Centurion, and promised to visit him if he ever came to Canada.

Sir Roger redeemed his promise by coming here from Toronto to see the old salt. What was more accompanied by Lady Keyes, the Admiral visited Waterdown school where Rockett's son is a pupil.

It was a popular call—the boys got a half holiday at the Admiral's request.

Blames Wives For Air Unpopularity

(International News Service)

NEWTON, Mass.—The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that controls the airmindedness of the nation.

So says Mrs. Theodore W. Kenyon, now New England holder of the women's altitude record.

"Most men don't fly because their wives won't let them. When husbands convince their wives that there's nothing to be afraid of the whole nation will be air-mind."

NOW EATS ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Christian's Standard Of Life

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Ephesians 5:18—"And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit."

(The international uniform lesson on the above topic for Oct. 28 is Ephesians 4:17-5:21, the Golden Text being 5:18, "And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit.")

By ALVIN E. BELL

After St. Paul had written the great Christian doctrines of the church in the eyes of God, which make up the first three chapters of his Ephesian letter, he proceeded to deal with the fruit of these doctrines in practice in the lives of Christians before the eyes of men. Thus always doctrine and practice appear in the relation of root and fruit, of source and stream, or light and life.

Personal Standards of Life

In Ephesians 4:17-6-9, Paul deals with personal, social and domestic life, laying down principles for the Christian's guidance in each of these realms. Our lesson deals with the first two of these. In dealing with the principles he enunciates for personal life (4:17-32); Paul contrasts the heathenish practices of darkness, ignorance, blindness and filthiness of those "who have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness". This contrast continues showing the necessity of putting off lying lips, to put on truthfulness (25); putting off sinful anger to put on righteous anger (26-27); putting off theft to put on industry and charity (28); putting off filthy-mouthedness to put on wholesome, helpful speech (29); and putting off bad temper to put on kindness (31-32). The motive power to accomplish all these tremendous personal changes is the love of God in Jesus Christ: "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." Paul never omits this essential hook-up between creed and conduct.

Social Standards of Life

From personal life standards Paul passes to standards for the Christian's social life in 5:1-21. His first practical demand here is that we walk in love, excluding lust (1-5). For this love life God's love is still to be the dynamic: "Be ye therefore imitators of God, as beloved children; and walk in love, even as Christ also loved you, and gave himself up for us." The filthy sex rot of movie screen and magazine stories that would pass for "love" is to be excluded as bestial, sensual lust; "fornication, and all uncleanness, let it not even be named among you as becometh saints", much less patronized and indulged. Distinguish between love and lust.

Paul's next social standard suggests that the Chritsian walk in light excluding darkness: "Ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord; walk as children of light.... and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them.' For this again Christ is to be the enabling power: "Arise from the dead, and Christ shall shine upon thee".

The Christian must furthermore walk in wisdom excluding folly (15-21): "Look therefore carefully how ye walk, not unwise, but as wise. Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit....giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God, even the Father." Thus again we see Paul establishing this hook-up of faith in the Trinity, Father, son and Holy Spirit, with practical living of the social virtues as the Christian seeks in God the grace to walk in love and light and wisdom. Practice of these principles will result in a life of joy: "speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord."

Wash green vegetables in plenty of salt water. This will remove any insects, slugs, etc. Do not, however, let the vegetables stand in the salt water.

Crash Of Truck Is Pie For Kiddies

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 26—Berry-stained faces and noses that bore traces of custard were to be seen among the ranks of Ellsworth youngsters recently following the crash of a bakery truck into a sycamore tree on Route 71, near here.

Bread, pies, cakes were flung in all directions when the truck crashed.

Grant Souvenirs Valued At $5000

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 26—Heirlooms once, belonging to Ulysses S. Grant, figured in the disposal of property in the will of General Grant's nephew, the late Jesse Grant Cramer, who died here recently.

Cramer's widow was bequeathed a lock of the late president's hair, his gold watch, the coat he wore as a cadet at West Point and his military gauntlets, worn by Grant when he commanded the Union forces during the Civil War. The minimum value of the property disposed of by the will was set at $5,000.

Water Reservoirs As Relief Project

(International News Service)

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 26—Residents of Jennerstown and Addison who have been dependent on old wells and springs for their water supplies, are soon to enjoy pure mountain waters.

Two large reservoirs which will store large supplies of water for distribution to those and adjoining communities are to be constructed with the approval of state relief officials.

3-Day Romance Leads After 18 Years To Altar

(International News Service)

MELBOURNE—A couple who met for three days in the war, and have been writing to each other for 18 years, are to be married in Melbourne.

In 1916, Robert Sommerfield, a German sailor who was serving a patrol ship in the North Sea, was given a short leave.

He went to Munich where he met Miss Sophie Kohn, a milliner, and spent three days courting her. Then he went back to the North Sea.

After armistice, he went to America. Eight years ago he migrated to Tasmania and later took out naturalization papers.

Throughout his wanderings he corresponded with Miss Kohn.

Now she has come out to Melbourne to marry him.

SENIOR HIGH * * * SCHOOL NEWS * * *

(Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

NAME STAFF TO EDIT 'NE-CA-HI' DUE IN JANUARY

Ruth Stevenson Gets Chief Editorial Post; Thomas Handles Business

According to the usual custom, there is organized each semester a group of outstanding students who each day devote their talents and abilities to making the current edition of the annual the best ever published in the history of the school.

In this capacity, it is their duty to plan and edit the book of the graduating class for this semester. They take care of the individual pictures of each senior, group pictures of the various clubs and the literary features of the book. At the present time the staff consists of:

In addition to the literary staff, there is an art staff which designs the cover and the various title and theme pages of the book. The staff consists of Robert Miner, art editor, and Camilla Morganti, assistant editor.

The senior high column in The News is written by the following students on the news staff: Alma Broadbent, editor; Edythe Cowden and Bud McCamic, chief reporters, and Concetta Marrese, chief typist. The various members of the whole staff are called upon to contribute articles to the news.

VOLLEY BALL GAMES START

The girls' volley ball season opened several weeks ago. After a few trial practices, final eliminations were held, and 11 girls were chosen to represent their classes in the volley ball tournament. Four games are to be played each week for four consecutive weeks and the winning team will then be matched with an all-star team. The following captains were elected: Senior A, Jenny Ryglinski; senior B, Grace Anderson; junior A, Freida Bodendorfer; junior B, Rita Flynn; sophomore A, Gail Wornack, and sophomore B, Victoria Ginocchi.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES DINNER

The weekly meeting of the student council was held Wednesday, October 24. The council party committee reported progress in their plans for the dinner party to be held on November 9. Also probable plans for the school dance were reviewed. The students decided to have a council and representative picture in the coming annual. In connection with the squad organization the council discussed the probability of holding a recognition banquet. The main purpose of this banquet is to give the students an incentive for putting more enthusiasm into their work and also serve as a reward for their services. The meeting was then adjourned until next week.

DONEGAN HEADS JUNIOR B'S

The junior B's of the high school held an election this week for their class officers. The following pupils were elected: President, Eddie Donegan; vice president, Bob Young; secretary, Peggy England, and treasurer, David Rowland.

SENIOR B MEETING HELD

The senior B class held a meeting third period Wednesday, October 24. The meeting was in charge of James Dart, class president.

A short play was given by members of the class, and a piano solo played by James Fox. The secretary, Johnny McWilliams, read a report and after various affairs were attended to, the meeting was adjourned.

CLASS PICTURES SNAPPED

Pictures of all the classes, clubs and organizations of the high school are being taken this week and will continue into next week. Many of the classes are so large that it will be necessary to divide them into two or more groups. These pictures will be reproduced in the high school annual. They are being taken by a local photographer on special bleachers erected for that purpose.

ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD

Plans have been completed for the art exhibit which is to be held at the senior high school, beginning October 29 and continuing to November 2. At the exhibit, there will be 150 reproductions of famous paintings and it promises to be very interesting to all who attend. The proceeds of the tickets sold will be used to buy more pictures for the high school.

Appropriate to the art show, Mrs. Carrie Jeffery Roberts, this city, will discuss "Famous Paintings" at student chapels on Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

GIRL RESERVES HOLD DANCE

The Girl Reserves held a Hallowe'en dance last evening at the Y. W. C. A. gym. A local orchestra played from 8:30 to 11:30. During the intermission, a dancing school group presented an attractive floor show. The decorations were the customary Hallowe'en colors, orange and black. Layte Wheeler, Doris Marvin and Esther Pierce were in charge of the social affairs. Candy and pop furnished by the Girl Reserve cabinet were the chief refreshments. The great success of the first co-ed party of the current semester was due largely to the consistent efforts of the president, Betty Rice, in cooperation with the cabinet members and the faculty supervisors. The dance was attended by the Girl Reserves and their escorts.

CONVENTION ON, SCHOOL OUT

The students of Ne-Ca-Hi are sorrowfully enjoying a holiday this afternoon. As the students left the building this morning, various expressions of regret were overheard. The half-holiday is due to the fact that the midwestern convention is meeting in Beaver Falls this afternoon and the teachers are attending the convention. New Castle high school should feel highly honored, for many of its teachers, as well as its principal, hold positions of honor and importance.

Mr. Orth is treasurer of the general executive group. William Lehto is president of the commercial section; Miss Frances McClaren is president of the English section; Miss Bess Gailey is secretary of the art section; Miss Dorothy Edmunds is treasurer of the modern language section, and William Margraf is president of the physical science section. In the music department, Joseph Replogle will lead discusion on "The Significance of Sight Reading Contests."

Wedding In One Country, Guests Are In Another

(International News Service)

COPENHAGEN—A Swedish couple who had arranged to be married in the Swedish church at Copenhagen found at the last minute that the wedding could not take place in Denmark because notices required by the law had not been given.

The guests were assembled and the wedding breakfast was prepared when they learned of the hitch.

Telling their friends to wait the bride and bridegroom chartered an aeroplane which took them in 15 minutes to Swedish Malmo.

Meanwhile, a minister had been informed by telephone. He met the couple, performed the ceremony in a few minutes, and back they flew to their waiting friends in Copenhagen.

The bride was Miss Rottbcell, daughter of a former Swedish consul at Copenhagen, and she had lived most of her life there. Her husband Mr. Metzen comes from Malmo.

College Students Studying Politics

(International News Service)

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Oct. 26 — Swarthmore College students have gone in for the study of politics in a big way.

Political science courses this year show an increase of almost 50 per cent over last year, according to Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president.

Corresponding drops of from 40 to almost 65 per cent in the enrollment for classes in English, romance languages and fine arts, indicate that the trend is in the direction of "hard practicalities."

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

NAME STAFF TO EDIT 'NE-CA-HI' DUE IN JANUARY

Ruth Stevenson Gets Chief Editorial Post; Thomas Handles Business

According to the usual custom, there is organized each semester a group of outstanding students who each day devote their talents and abilities to making the current edition of the annual the best ever published in the history of the school.

In this capacity, it is their duty to plan and edit the book of the graduating class for this semester. They take care of the individual pictures of each senior, group pictures of the various clubs and the literary features of the book. At the present time the staff consists of:

In addition to the literary staff, there is an art staff which designs the cover and the various title and theme pages of the book. The staff consists of Robert Miner, art editor, and Camilla Morganti, assistant editor.

The senior high column in The News is written by the following students on the news staff: Alma Broadbent, editor; Edythe Cowden and Bud McCamic, chief reporters, and Concetta Marrese, chief typist. The various members of the whole staff are called upon to contribute articles to the news.

VOLLEY BALL GAMES START

The girls' volley ball season opened several weeks ago. After a few trial practices, final eliminations were held, and 11 girls were chosen to represent their classes in the volley ball tournament. Four games are to be played each week for four consecutive weeks and the winning team will then be matched with an all-star team. The following captains were elected: Senior A, Jenny Ryglinski; senior B, Grace Anderson; junior A, Freida Bodendorfer; junior B, Rita Flynn; sophomore A, Gail Wornack, and sophomore B, Victoria Ginocchi.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES DINNER

The weekly meeting of the student council was held Wednesday, October 24. The council party committee reported progress in their plans for the dinner party to be held on November 9. Also probable plans for the school dance were reviewed. The students decided to have a council and representative picture in the coming annual. In connection with the squad organization the council discussed the probability of holding a recognition banquet. The main purpose of this banquet is to give the students an incentive for putting more enthusiasm into their work and also serve as a reward for their services. The meeting was then adjourned until next week.

Farley's Face Is Trifle Redder

Letters Get Out Bearing Endorsement Of Sinclair In California

FARLEY SILENT ABOUT MATTER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The ruddy, genial face of Postmaster General James A. Farley was a trifle redder than usual today, all because of California's boiling political situation, which finds Upton Sinclair, the reclaimed Socialist, trying to ride into the governorship on the back of the Democratic donkey.

The administration decided early to have as little to do as possible with the firecracker situation in California and with Sinclair. Other Democratic candidates received the usual pat on the back and "best wishes." Some of them have been aided in more material ways. But not Sinclair.

Roosevelt Silent

It is true that Sinclair made a pilgrimage to the summer White House at Hyde Park and conferred lengthily with President Roosevelt some weeks ago. After that meeting Sinclair said he was "charmed" and "delighted" with his reception. From Mr. Roosevelt emanated nothing but silence.

Taking his cut from his chief, Farley, who is also Democratic national chairman, has been strangely quiet about Sinclair and his epic plan for saving California.

But the genial chairman reckoned without the ponderous and efficient machinery of the Democratic national committee, which he built up, and of which he is the engineer in charge.

It seems that a form letter was rigged up by the national committee intended for general distribution in behalf of Democratic candidates for office. The letter was carefully phrased, with blank spaces left for the insertion of the names of states and candidates. It was all a part of the regular business of patting candidates on the back and appealing for Democratic support.

Fill In California

Some one, it appears, forget to tell the stenographers whose business it was to fill in the names of states and candidates to omit California. So in the natural course of events, California was typed in. Also the names of Senator Hiram Johnson, who is running for re-election on both Republican and Democratic tickets—and Upton Sinclair. The letters were duly sent out to "key" men in California, as in other states.

Such, at least, is the unofficial explanation of Postmaster General Farley's "endorsement" of Upton Sinclair and his bizzare campaign for the governorship.

There is no "official" explanation, because the usually affable postmaster general declines to discuss it at all. He will discuss Democratic candidates and chances in 47 states. But mention California, which of course means mentioning Sinclair, and the loquacious Farley becomes as silent as the Sphinx.

It may be that the "unofficial" explanation of the Farley letter is wrong, and that despite the lack of public support accorded Sinclair by the administration, Farley decided to do what he would in his quiet way to advance Democratic chances in California. There are even rumors that the organization-minded national chairman appended a postscript to the California letter in his own hand-writing. But those rumors can't be confirmed because nobody around Democratic GHQ will discuss them—or discuss California at all.

Farley himself returned to Washington today from a mountain resort. His silence concerning the California campaign was even more dense than ever.

He called at the White House and discussed "a number of matters" with the President. Included in those matters was the California situation, and presumably the mix-up about the letter, but "Big Jim" blandly declined all comment upon leaving the White House.

"No comment," he grinned. "Nothing to say at all."

F. D. R. Wants Tenant

A "For Rent" sign is displayed on President Roosevelt's New York City home as painters touch up the house in anticipation of a new tenant. The President and his family have used the house on East 65th Street since 1926.

Bankers Prepare To Combat Drive

Will Seek To Halt Move In Congress For "Radical" Bank Legislation

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ADMINISTRATION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Plans were drawn today by officials of the American Bankers association to combat the expected congressional drive for "radical" bank legislation.

A committee of 36 on banking studies, headed by Second Vice-President Tom K. Smith of the association and a former treasury aide, was specifically empowered to examine demands for creation of a central bank to virtually replace the federal reserve system. It will consider other proposed legislation.

Having already suppressed controversial questions in the convention, which ended yesterday, the bankers' association chieftains nevertheless planned to keep a close check on all administration activities affecting banks.

To Present United Front.

The bankers also were prepared to intensify a campaign of education in every state. The campaign is designed to counteract attacks being made on bankers as a result of the business situation.

Big bankers who, in the past, have shunned the conventions of the American Bankers' association have enlisted in the movement to present a united front on all questions vitally concerning them.

"Never have we had a convention where there was such a large proportion of chief executives," said Rudolf Hecht of New Orleans, new president of the association. "I believe that there is a greater realization that we must all work through the association."

Pledge Co-operation.

Plans for cooperation with the federal Import-Export bank were discussed at a luncheon today. Aid of the bankers in stimulating foreign trade was requested by George N. Peek, head of the bank.

Hecht said that a bankers' committee representing the principal export cities probably will be named to cooperate with Peek.

Leaders of the bankers' association, publicly taking the attitude that President Roosevelt had virtually offered a truce between the bankers and the "new deal", pledged administration cooperation.

"I feel that the convention has accomplished a better feeling between the administration and the bankers—but there is always room for further accomplisments," said Hecht.

Bankers differed on the question of easing credit to spur industries, recommended by all administration spokesmen. Hecht said the only way bankers could aid in this movement is by exhibiting to prospective borrowers their own confidence in the future.

To the Greeks, Momus was the personification of mocking censure.

French Protest Use Of Yankee Words In Menus

(International News Service)

PARIS—American restauranteurs who pride themselves upon the number of French phrases they have in menus, will be interested to know that in Paris, newspapers are waging a campaign against the use of such American words as "hamburger sandwich," "ketchup" and buttered toast" in restaurant bills-of-fare.

After several lean years of tourist trade, Paris hotels and restaurants were more than obliging this summer in making their service convenient to American and other foreign visitors. But in the wake of the innovation of making menus intelligible to foreign patrons, Parisians bombarded their newspapers with letters of complaint over having to ask waiters the meaning of such phrases as "hamburger." There are plenty of French words to describe such dishes, they asserted in dignantly.

The newspapers took up the campaign.

BOOM IN LIVESTOCK
(International News Service)

SYDNEY, N. S. W.—Two mothers have distinguished themselves in different towns of New South Wales. A sow, the property of J. Sutton, farrowed 17 young ones, while a greyhound of Tarana, belonging to Mr. E. Toole, whelped no fewer than 15 pups.

Want Change In War On Rabbits

(International News Service)

HUGO, Colo.—Eastern Colorado ranchers signed a petition addressed to President Roosevelt asking that federal funds now being spent for jackrabbit poison be used instead in paying bounties.

Robbits shot to death could be utilized as hog feed, they explained.

Inspectors Nip Extortion Plots

(International News Service)

DENVER—To the vigilance of postal inspectors goes credit for nipping many extortion plots in the bud. Many big mail robberies are also solved by these men, according to K. P. Aldrich, chief postoffice inspector, here from Washington on an inspection tour.

"We have had a wonderful year," Aldrich said. "We have apprehended and convicted more persons using the mails to defraud and extort money than ever before. We have solved many big robberies and other crimes.

"Only about 20 per-cent of our work is criminal investigation, however. The rest consists in auditing accounts and organizing postoffices."

Lightning Bolt Made House Tour

(International News Service)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa.—A freak lightning bolt that took on all the appearance of a "chaser" came out of the sky during an electrical storm at Acme to make a tour of the home of Charles Zelinska and depart by a window.

The charge flashed, then ran along the roof to cut a hole through the covering into the chimney. Down the stack it continued to the basement where it leaped out by knocking the lid off the stove and completed the trip by jumping across the floor to the window.

PITT-WESTMINSTER GRID GAME HERE SATURDAY

Great Pitt Team Will Perform At Taggart Stadium

Indications Large Crowd Will See Contest—Westminster Coming En-Masse

Pitt 100-Piece Band To Accompany Eleven On Visit To This City

Pitt's powerful Panthers journey to New Castle Saturday where Westminster College will be met at Taggart Stadium at 2:30. The Panthers will carry a squad of 40 players for the Lawrence county contest, and will be accompanied by the 100 piece Pitt band.

The contest is carded as a home attraction for the Titans, and will give Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver and Butler county fans an opportunity to see the great Pitt team in action. Advance sale of tickets would indicate that from seven to ten thousand fans will be on hand for the contest.

To Start First Team

Coach Jock Sutherland has promised to start his first team, the same men who opposed Minnesota last Saturday with the exception of Karl Seiffert at end in place of the injured Verne Baxter. Westminster will start the same team which opposed Thiel last Saturday.

Pitt will wear light jerseys in the contest, and the Titans will be in royal blue outfits. The entire Titan squad of 32 players will be used by Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane with the hope of seasoning the scrubs and of avoiding injuries to the first-team men. Four important small-college contests still remain on the Titan card, and there is a 50-50 chance to win in all four games.

Pitt Great Team

In arranging to bring Pitt to New Castle, Westminster authorities are confident that district fans will be eager to see the outstanding team in the East. The fact that the Panthers will outclass the Titans will not detract from the interest the Sutherland crew has created. Despite the setback at the hands of Minnesota, Pitt still looms as one of the best teams in the country, and many people in the New Castle district have not had an opportunity of seeing the Panthers this year.

The lineups:

Westminster		Pitt
Watt	L E	Rooker
Franklin	L T	Hoel
Young	L G	Hartwig (c)
Scarbrough	C	Shotwell
Burry	R G	Ormiston
Straw	R T	Olejniczak
Austen	R E	Seiffert
Arrowsmith	Q B	Munjas
Sweeney	L H	Nicksick
Laraway	R H	LaRue
Staples	F B	Weinstock

Referee: R. B. Goodwin: Umpire, J. M. Holmes Linesmen, Wm. C. Evans. Game starts at 2:30.

Illinois college is the oldest collegiate institution of Illinois, founded in 1829 at Jacksonville, Ill.

Pitt's Coach

Jock Sutherland

Dr. John Bain "Jock" Sutherland, Head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh will bring his 1934 Pitt Panthers to New Castle tomorrow afternoon for the first time in grid history here. Westminster College will be the opponents at Taggart Field. Dr. Sutherland is ranked as one of the greatest football coaches in the nation, along with Howard Jones, Stagg, Warner and others. Sutherland has been here as a speaker, but tomorrow he will come as director-in-chief of the Pitt team.

Plans For Pitt Game Completed

Westminster College officials announced this morning that final plans for handling the crowd for the Pitt-Westminster game tomorrow at Taggart stadium are complete.

Westminster students will enter the North gate and will have seats in Section Two. Teams, officials, the bands of the two institutions, police and ushers will use the South gate.

General admission fans will use the gates on Cunningham street. Officials and all participants will be admitted only by ticket at any gate. The game will start at 2:30.

West Va. Wesleyan At Geneva Tonight

Reeves Stadium To Witness Great Battle Under Floodlights

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 26.—Although the men who engaged in the W. & J. game last week absorbed a terrific beating, Coach Beede is depending upon them to carry the brunt of the West Virginia assault here on Friday night. Beede will oppose the most brilliant team to appear here so far this season and he earnestly hopes that his Covenanter eleven will be able to give the West Virginia Bobcat a battle every step of the way.

The return of Clyde Johnson, hard hitting Geneva fullback, to the line-up last week made a vast difference in the style of play which had been exhibited during the two previous contests. The offensive and defensive play of the line has been noteworthy in every encounter this year, but Beede has been stressing offensive drive during his workouts this week with the hope that besides holding the Bobcats to a low score, the team will be able to produce sufficient points to annex their initial win of the season.

The Wesleyan team will be out to revenge last year's 14-6 defeat and will exhibit three men who are already being ranked as All-American timber. Peterson and Barnum form a backfield combination which leaves little to be desired. Both are clever ball handlers and accurate passers. Charlie White is turning in consistently superb performances at end. These three men beside playing a steady brand of ball provide sufficient flash to keep the rest of the team inspired and the spectators on their feet.

IN TITAN LINE

AUSTEN

BURRY

Bunny Austen, Etna, Pa., a 165 pound end on the Westminster College grid team, has been the talk of the season. Austen is fast going down under punts, seems to be able to fathom plays as they are developing, and has on many occasions this year thrown ball carriers for losses. He also has specialized at recovering fumbles.

Harold Burry, New Castle guard, third year on team, former cross-country runner, fast aggressive guard.

NEW CASTLE PLAYS WARREN TONIGHT

Big Crowd Will See Schoolboys In Night Battle

New Castle High Underdogs In Game Tonight At Ohio City, Starts At 8 P. M.

"RED HURRICANE" IN GOOD SHAPE

WARREN, OHIO, is the mecca tonight for the football loving fans of Pa. Newc's domain where under the floodlights at 8 p. m. Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh will unloosen the "Red Hurricane" of New Castle high school against the "Presidents" of Harding high of Warren, O. The kickoff should find Harding high field packed to the doors. A rough estimate of the crowd tonight will be in the neighborhood of 7,000, possibly a little higher.

Renew Relations.

This game has been talked about for a year. Warren and New Castle. Football relations between the two cities are about to be renewed after a lapse of ever so many years, possibly 20 or better. The fact that Warren high has won five straight games, bowling over opponents with monotonous regularity. By sheer power and strength. New Castle high with a crackerjack team, but sporting one defeat at the hands of Johnstown high. What better setting would one want for the gridiron feast.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh gave the New Castle high team a final polishing up Thursday night under the lights at Taggart field. New Castle hasn't played a night game for three weeks and the boys had to get accustomed to the lights again. The New Castle team last night was pronounced fit and ready for what looks like the severest testing of the year.

Coach Pierre Hill gave his Warrenites a final "once over" last night under the lights at Harding high field and pronounced them ready for the invasion of the New Castle "Red Hurricane".

Veteran Backfield.

Warren will present a veteran backfield combination consisting of Cononico at quarter weighing 158, W. Brogden at left half weighing 160, Sanfrey at right half weighing 145, and Chickerneo at fullback weighing 185. The Warren backfield will average better than 160 pounds.

The Warren line will average close to 180 pounds. Pitted against this array of beef will be the fighting New Castle boys, who will look more like midgets alongside the Warren giants. New Castle's backfield probably averages about 150, and the line about 165.

Bridenbaugh has two sets of backs groomed for the game tonight, he can start either DeCaprio, Ostrosky and Fleming with Shellogg at fullback, or he can start Mumford, Donegan, Cox and Copple.

Coach Bridenbaugh, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and the New Castle high team will leave early for Warren, traveling by bus.

In event that the weatherman gives us some nice weather, New Castle will be well represented.

Will New Castle be able to withstand that powerful beef of the Warren high team? Can New Castle's "Red Hurricane" kick up enough of a breeze tonight to blow the Warrenites off the field? There will not be many hours now to wait until these questions can be answered. See you in Warren!

New Castle High Gridders To Leave For Warren At 5:15

New Castle High school football squad will entrain by bus for Warren, Ohio, at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner. A squad of about 35 will make the trip to Warren.

The New Castle party will include Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches Klee and Thomas. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, student managers and sports writer. The New Castle team will go direct to the field upon reaching Warren.

Ask Fans To Park In Fairgrounds At Warren, O., Tonight

Gates At Warren Field Will Be Opened At 6:30 O'clock, Is Announcement

New Castle fans who intend to go to Warren for the game tonight are asked to park their cars in the Fairgrounds instead of in back of the Warren High building.

By parking in the Fairgrounds the motorists will not have to drive around to the Fairgrounds lot from the school. The gates at the Warren field will open at 6:30 o'clock.

VERSATILE

BOB SCARBROUGH, McDonald, O., lad, is playing his fourth year for Westminster. Scarbrough has played every position on the team. He entered Westminster lineups first as a fullback, then was shifted to end, then to right halfback, then to tackle, then to quarter, and is now playing center. His 190 pounds makes Scarbrough one of the best Titan players in any position, and he has played consistently for four years because of the fact that he can fit into any job in line or backfield.

Shenango Plays Emlenton High Here Saturday

Coach Ed Raney Will Send Shenango Against Emlenton Saturday At 10:30 A. M.

Shenango High School football team will play Emlenton High Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m., at the Shenango High field. Coach Ed Raney will send his strongest team against Emlenton to try and grab a victory.

All of the Shenango High regulars are in the best of condition for the game. McIltrot, McConahy and Horteg are rarin' to go and will make life miserable for the Emlenton team is the indication.

PAUL STREET WINS

Paul Street football team handed the Canary Midgets a 15 to 12 defeat in a football game played at Paul Street Field. The stars of the game were B. Kimmell, C. Jones, McWilliams, Brown, McKibbeu, Kelly and Klinefelter.

Many Undefeated Major Teams Will Face Severe Tests In Battles

MINNESOTA WILL PLAY AT IOWA

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—It looks innocent enough. In fact, except in one monumental instance—Vanderbilt versus Louisiana State—the defeated are playing the undefeated in a great many football games on college gridirons tomorrow afternoon, a soothing condition that might lull the unsuspecting into a sense of fancied security. But I'm not among the unsuspecting, and it won't lull me. I'm like General Phelan of the local boxing commission, who even suspects wrestlers.

Anyhow, it looks very much like under-dog day under the old goal posts tomorrow and, for lack of something better to do, a man attempting to call the turn might very well take out a pin and stab them, as they say at the track. On the other hand, it might be simpler to stab himself and get it over with.

Teams Face Test.

For instance, the undefeated stand a first rate chance of being bumped tomorrow in the following manner.

Washington by California, Duke by Tennessee, Illinois by Michigan, Alabama by Georgia, Dartmouth by Harvard, Army by Yale, Holy Cross by Colgate, Penn State by Columbia, Vanderbilt by Louisiana State (or vice versa), Iowa State by Nebraska, and Rice by Texas.

Likes Illinois.

As a matter of fact, I'm calling some of them just that way. I like Texas over Rice (the latter is just about due for a cropper), California over Washington, Columbia over Penn State, Yale over the Army (sometimes I dope them one way and hunch them another; this is my hunch), Louisiana State over Vanderbilt and Nebraska over Iowa State (I've got to stick with the Huskers at Lincoln). I'd likewise suggest a filer on Michigan over

Franklin High Tops Washington 12 To 0

Gillaspie Coached Team Wins Junior High Championship In Rain Thursday

Eddie Sovesky Scores Both Of Touchdowns, Washington Never Threatens

Junior high football trophy will rest for another year on the Ben Franklin high athletic shelf following the 12 to 0 defeat handed George Washington junior high gridders Thursday afternoon by the Ben Franklin junior high eleven in their annual game at Washington high field. Eddie Sovesky scored both of the Franklin touchdowns. The entire second half of the game was played in a downpour of rain and on a muddy field.

Sovesky Scores Early

Shortly after the start of the game, Franklin high gained the ball on a punt from Washington, and Sovesky flipped a fine pass to Nocera for a first down on the Washington 20 yard line. In a series of plays with Franklin high nearing the goal line, Chelella fumbled and Washington recovered and kicked out of danger. Franklin high put on another drive and again Sovesky tossed a pass to Nocera on the 25 yard line.

Franklin worked the ball to the five yard line and from this point Sovesky went around left end and crossed the goal line. The plunge by Sovesky for the extra point failed. Hawkey, of Franklin, kicked off to Washington and one of the Washington backs on the first play fumbled and it was recovered by a Franklin player on the Washington 30 yard line.

The end of the first period found Franklin leading 6 to 0.

Fraser Prevents Score

Franklin high was knocking at the door of the goal line at the start of the second period and worked the ball to the 18 yard line. A Franklin pass was grounded and on the next attempt to score on a pass, young Fraser, of the Washington high team, who played a stellar game at right end, leaped into the air and speared the ball just as it descended on the goal line. Washington kicked out of danger.

Franklin took the ball on the Washington 20 yard line on the kick by Updegraph. Two passes by the Franklin team failed to work. Washington took the ball on downs on their own 21 yard line. The half ended 6 to 0 in favor of Franklin.

Franklin high kicked off at the start of the third period and the Washingtons advanced the ball to the Franklin 35 yard line before losing it by punting over the goal line.

Sovesky Big Star

With Sovesky, Chelella and Mortimer carrying the ball on a series of plays Franklin clicked off three first downs in a row and carried the ball to the Washington 20 yard line. Franklin high drew a penalty and then Sovesky carried the ball to the Washington 12 yard line. Franklin lost the ball on downs on the Washington five yard line. Updegraph kicked out of danger as the third period ended.

Franklin high started a march down the field and with Sovesky doing most of the ground gaining. Finally the five yard line was reached and Sovesky plunged the ball over the goal line. The extra point attempt by plunging failed.

Play In Rain

The remainder of the game played in a sea of mud and water was about even with neither team

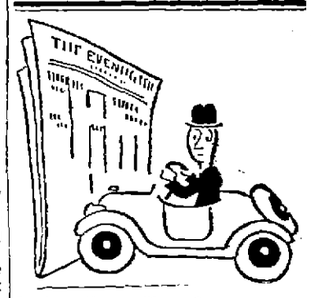
Union High At Zelienople For Football Game

Union High School football team will go to Zelienople shortly after noon today for a gridiron battle with the strong Zelienople High gridders. Union hopes for a victory today over the Butler countians.

Head Coach Davey Boyd has drilled the Unionites hard all week in preparation for the game. There will be several changes in the Union lineup.



Look at that, will you?

Last Saturday it seemed that every other man in Lawrence County counted on us for underwear.

The underwear case looked like a bargain counter . . . and there you have it . . . these shirts and shorts are bargains even tho' they are at regular prices.

Yes . . . and we haven't forgotten that some men like their drawers long enough to slip into their stockings and that others don't get red in the face at the mention of red flannels.

We have the underwear to fit even a body by Fisher . . . at prices that you have in mind and in purse.

PITT-WESTMINSTER GRID GAME HERE SATURDAY

Great Pitt Team Will Perform At Taggart Stadium

Indications Large Crowd Will See Contest—Westminster Coming En-Masse

Pitt 100-Piece Band To Accompany Eleven On Visit To This City

Pitt's powerful Panthers journey to New Castle Saturday where Westminster College will be met at Taggart Stadium at 2:30. The Panthers will carry a squad of 40 players for the Lawrence county contest, and will be accompanied by the 100 piece Pitt band.

The contest is carded as a home attraction for the Titans, and will give Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver and Butler county fans an opportunity to see the great Pitt team in action. Advance sale of tickets would indicate that from seven to ten thousand fans will be on hand for the contest.

To Start First Team

Coach Jock Sutherland has promised to start his first team, the same men who opposed Minnesota last Saturday with the exception of Karl Seiffert at end in place of the injured Verne Baxter. Westminster will start the same team which opposed Thiel last Saturday.

Pitt will wear light jerseys in the contest, and the Titans will be in royal blue outfits. The entire Titan squad of 32 players will be used by Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane with the hope of seasoning the scrubs and of avoiding injuries to the first-team men. Four important small-college contests still remain on the Titan card, and there is a 50-50 chance to win in all four games.

Pitt Great Team

In arranging to bring Pitt to New Castle, Westminster authorities are confident that district fans will be eager to see the outstanding team in the East. The fact that the Panthers will outclass the Titans will not detract from the interest the Sutherland crew has created. Despite the setback at the hands of Minnesota, Pitt still looms as one of the best teams in the country, and many people in the New Castle district have not had an opportunity of seeing the Panthers this year.

The lineups:

Westminster		Pitt
Watt	L E	Rooker
Franklin	L T	Hoel
Young	L G	Hartwig (c)
Scarbrough	C	Shotwell
Burry	R G	Ormiston
Straw	R T	Olejniczak

Sweeney	L H	Nicksick
Laraway	R H	LaRue
Staples	F B	Weinstock

Referee: R. B. Goodwin: Umpire, J. M. Holmes Linesmen, Wm. C. Evans. Game starts at 2:30.

Illinois college is the oldest collegiate institution of Illinois, founded in 1829 at Jacksonville, Ill.

Plans For Pitt Game Completed

Westminster College officials announced this morning that final plans for handling the crowd for the Pitt-Westminster game tomorrow at Taggart stadium are complete.

Westminster students will enter the North gate and will have seats in Section Two. Teams, officials, the bands of the two institutions, police and ushers will use the South gate.

General admission fans will use the gates on Cunningham street. Officials and all participants will be admitted only by ticket at any gate. The game will start at 2:30.

Pitt's Coach

Jock Sutherland

Dr. John Bain "Jock" Sutherland, Head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh will bring his 1934 Pitt Panthers to New Castle tomorrow afternoon for the first time in grid history here. Westminster College will be the opponents at Taggart Field. Dr. Sutherland is ranked as one of the greatest football coaches in the nation, along with Howard Jones, Stagg, Warner and others. Sutherland has been here as a speaker, but tomorrow he will come as director-in-chief of the Pitt team.

West Va. Wesleyan At Geneva Tonight

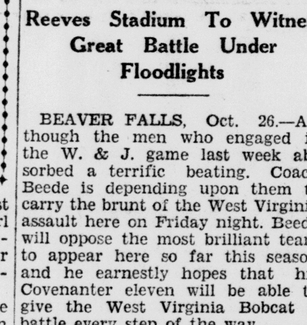
Reeves Stadium To Witness Great Battle Under Floodlights

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 26.—Although the men who engaged in the W. & J. game last week absorbed a terrific beating, Coach Beede is depending upon them to carry the brunt of the West Virginia assault here on Friday night. Beede will oppose the most brilliant team to appear here so far this season and he earnestly hopes that his Covenanter eleven will be able to give the West Virginia Bobcat a battle every step of the way.

The return of Clyde Johnson, hard hitting Geneva fullback, to the line-up last week made a vast difference in the style of play which had been exhibited during the two previous contests. The offensive and defensive play of the line has been noteworthy in every encounter this year, but Beede has been stressing offensive drive during his workouts this week with the hope that besides holding the Bobcats to a low score, the team will be able to produce sufficient points to annex their initial win of the season.

The Wesleyan team will be out to revenge last year's 14-6 defeat and will exhibit three men who are already being ranked as All-American timber. Peterson and Barnum form a backfield combination which leaves little to be desired. Both are clever ball handlers and accurate passers. Charlie White is turning in consistently superb performances at end. These three men beside playing a steady brand of ball provide sufficient flash to keep the rest of the team inspired and the spectators on their feet.

IN TITAN LINE



AUSTEN

BURRY

Bunny Austen, Etna, Pa., a 165 pound end on the Westminster College grid team, has been the talk of the season. Austen is fast going down under punts, seems to be able to fathom plays as they are developing, and has on many occasions this year thrown ball carriers for losses. He also has specialized at recovering fumbles.

Harold Burry, New Castle guard, third year on team, former cross-country runner, fast aggressive guard.

NEW CASTLE PLAYS WARREN TONIGHT

Big Crowd Will See Schoolboys In Night Battle

New Castle High Underdogs In Game Tonight At Ohio City, Starts At 8 P. M.

"RED HURRICANE" IN GOOD SHAPE

WARREN, OHIO, is the mecca tonight for the foootball loving fans of Pa Newc's domain where under the floodlights at 8 p. m. Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh will unloosen the "Red Hurricane" of New Castle high school against the "Presidents" of Harding high of Warren, O. The kickoff should find Harding high field packed to the doors. A rough estimate of the crowd tonight will be in the neighborhood of 7,000, possibly a little higher.

Renew Relations.

This game has been talked about for a year. Warren and New Castle. Football relations between the two cities are about to be renewed after a lapse of ever so many years, possibly 20 or better. The fact that Warren high has won five straight games, bowling over opponents with monotonous regularity. By sheer power and strength. New Castle high with a crackerjack team, but sporting one defeat at the hands of Johnstown high. What better setting would one want for the gridiron feast.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh gave the New Castle high team a final polishing up Thursday night under the lights at Taggart field. New Castle hasn't played a night game for three weeks and the boys had to get accustomed to the lights again. The New Castle team last night was pronounced fit and ready for what looks like the severest testing of the year.

Coach Pierre Hill gave his Warrenites a final "once over" last night under the lights at Harding high field and pronounced them ready for the invasion of the New Castle "Red Hurricane".

Veteran Backfield.

Warren will present a veteran backfield combination consisting of Cononico at quarter weighing 158, W. Brogden at left half weighing 160, Sanfrey at right half weighing 145, and Chickerneo at fullback weighing 185. The Warren backfield will average better than 160 pounds.

The Warren line will average close to 180 pounds. Pitted against this array of beef will be the fighting New Castle boys, who will look more like midgets alongside the Warren giants. New Castle's backfield probably averages about 150, and the line about 165.

Bridenbaugh has two sets of backs groomed for the game tonight, he can start either DeCaprio, Ostrosky and Fleming with Shellogg at fullback, or he can start Mumford, Donegan, Cox and Copple.

Coach Bridenbaugh, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and the New Castle high team will leave early for Warren, traveling by bus.

In event that the weatherman gives us some nice weather, New Castle will be well represented.

Will New Castle be able to withstand that powerful beef of the Warren high team? Can New Castle's "Red Hurricane" kick up enough of a breeze tonight to blow the Warrenites off the field? There will not be many hours now to wait until these questions can be answered. See you in Warren!

New Castle High Gridders To Leave For Warren At 5:15

New Castle High school football squad will entrain by bus for Warren, Ohio, at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner. A squad of about 35 will make the trip to Warren.

The New Castle party will include Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches Klee and Thomas. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, student managers and sports writer. The New Castle team will go direct to the field upon reaching Warren.

Ask Fans To Park In Fairgrounds At Warren, O., Tonight

Gates At Warren Field Will Be Opened At 6:30 O'clock, Is Announcement

New Castle fans who intend to go to Warren for the game tonight are asked to park their cars in the Fairgrounds instead of in back of the Warren High building.

By parking in the Fairgrounds the motorists will not have to drive around to the Fairgrounds lot from the school. The gates at the Warren field will open at 6:30 o'clock.

VERSATILE

BOB SCARBROUGH, McDonald, O., lad, is playing his fourth year for Westminster. Scarbrough has played every position on the team. He entered Westminster lineups first as a fullback, then was shifted to end, then to right halfback, then to tackle, then to quarter, and is now playing center. His 190 pounds makes Scarbrough one of the best Titan players in any position, and he has played consistently for four years because of the fact that he can fit into any job in line or backfield.

Shenango Plays Emlenton High Here Saturday

Coach Ed Raney Will Send Shenango Against Emlenton Saturday At 10:30 A. M.

Shenango High School football team will play Emlenton High Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m., at the Shenango High field. Coach Ed Raney will send his strongest team against Emlenton to try and grab a vistory.

All of the Shenango High regulars are in the best of condition for the game. McIltrot, McConahy and Horteg are rarin' to go and will make life miserable for the Emlenton team is the indication.

Many Undefeated Major Teams Will Face Severe Tests In Battles

MINNESOTA WILL PLAY AT IOWA

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—It looks innocent enough. In fact, except in one monumental instance—Vanderbilt versus Louisiana State—the defeated are playing the undefeated in a great many football games on college gridirons tomorrow afternoon, a soothing condition that might lull the unsuspecting into a sense of fancied security. But I'm not among the unsuspecting, and it won't lull me. I'm like General Phelan of the local boxing commission, who even suspects wrestlers.

Anyhow, it looks very much like under-dog day under the old goal posts tomorrow and, for lack of something better to do, a man attempting to call the turn might very well take out a pin and stab them, as they say at the track. On the other hand, it might be simpler to stab himself and get it over with.

Teams Face Test.

For instance, the undefeated stand a first rate chance of being bumped tomorrow in the following manner.

Washington by California, Duke by Tennessee, Illinois by Michigan, Alabama by Georgia, Dartmouth by Harvard, Army by Yale, Holy Cross by Colgate, Penn State by Columbia, Vanderbilt by Louisiana State (or vice versa), Iowa State by Nebraska, and Rice by Texas.

Likes Illinois.

As a matter of fact, I'm calling some of them just that way. I like Texas over Rice (the latter is just about due for a cropper). California over Washington, Columbia over Penn State, Yale over the Army (sometimes I dope them one way and hunch them another; this is my hunch), Louisiana State over Vanderbilt and Nebraska over Iowa State (I've got to stick with the Huskers at Lincoln). I'd likewise suggest a flier on Michigan over

Franklin High Tops Washington 12 To 0

Gillaspie Coached Team Wins Junior High Championship In Rain Thursday

Eddie Sovesky Scores Both Of Touchdowns, Washington Never Threatens

Junior high football trophy will rest for another year on the Ben Franklin high athletic shelf following the 12 to 0 defeat handed George Washington junior high gridders Thursday afternoon by the Ben Franklin junior high eleven in their annual game at Washington high field. Eddie Sovesky scored both of the Franklin touchdowns. The entire second half of the game was played in a downpour of rain and on a muddy field.

Sovesky Scores Early

Shortly after the start of the game, Franklin high gained the ball on a punt from Washington, and Sovesky flipped a fine pass to Nocera for a first down on the Washington 20 yard line. In a series of plays with Franklin high nearing the goal line, Chelella fumbled and Washington recovered and kicked out of danger. Franklin high put on another drive and again Sovesky tossed a pass to Nocera on the 25 yard line.

Franklin worked the ball to the five yard line and from this point Sovesky went around left end and crossed the goal line. The plunge by Sovesky for the extra point failed. Hawkey, of Franklin, kicked off to Washington and one of the Washington backs on the first play fumbled and it was recovered by a Franklin player on the Washington 30 yard line.

The end of the first period found Franklin leading 6 to 0.

Fraser Prevents Score

Franklin high was knocking at the door of the goal line at the start of the second period and worked the ball to the 18 yard line. A Franklin pass was grounded and on the next attempt to score on a pass, young Fraser, of the Washington high team, who played a stellar game at right end, leaped into the air and speared the ball just as it descended on the goal line. Washington kicked out of danger.

Franklin took the ball on the Washington 20 yard line on the kick by Updegraph. Two passes by the Franklin team failed to work. Washington took the ball on downs on their own 21 yard line. The half ended 6 to 0 in favor of Franklin.

Franklin high kicked off at the start of the third period and the Washingtons advanced the ball to the Franklin 35 yard line before losing it by punting over the goal line.

Sovesky Big Star

With Sovesky, Chelella and Mortimer carrying the ball on a series of plays Franklin clicked off three first downs in a row and carried the ball to the Washington 20 yard line. Franklin high drew a penalty and then Sovesky carried the ball to the Washington 12 yard line. Franklin lost the ball on downs on the Washington five yard line. Updegraph kicked out of danger as the third period ended.

Franklin high started a march down the field and with Sovesky doing most of the ground gaining. Finally the five yard line was reached and Sovesky plunged the ball over the goal line. The extra point attempt by plunging failed.

Play In Rain

The remainder of the game played in a sea of mud and water was about even with neither team

Union High At Zelienople For Football Game

Union High School football team will go to Zelienople shortly after noon today for a gridiron battle with the strong Zelienople High gridders. Union hopes for a victory today over the Butler countians.

Head Coach Davey Boyd has drilled the Unionites hard all week in preparation for the game. There will be several changes in the Union lineup.

Look at that, will you?

Last Saturday it seemed that every other man in Lawrence County counted on us for underwear.

The underwear case looked like a bargain counter . . . and there you have it . . . these shirts and shorts are bargains even tho' they are at regular prices.

Yes . . . and we haven't forgotten that some men like their drawers long enough to slip into their stockings and that others don't get red in the face at the mention of red flannels.

We have the underwear to fit even a body by Fisher . . . at prices that you have in mind and in purse.

Review Work Of Chamber Of Commerce Here

Activities Of Organization Are Reviewed At Annual Meeting Thursday

NEW DIRECTORS ASSUME POSTS

In addition to electing officers for the coming year, when L. G. Genkinger was renamed President for his third consecutive term, the board of directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce reviewed the activities of the past year, at their meeting in The Castleton, on Thursday afternoon.

In the matter of transportation, representation was furnished to four hearings on behalf of the improvement of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers for slackwater navigation. The Chamber of Commerce also worked to secure a revision of freight rates in this district which will be fair and equitable to both railroads and shippers.

During the past fifteen months, the Chamber of Commerce has assisted in locating two industries in New Castle, one of which is now employing approximately 550 people most of whom have been taken from relief rolls. Their payroll is nearly $400,000 annually. The second industry is now in the process of beginning operations, and the volume of manufactured products will be many thousands of dollars annually.

NRA Activities

Since the message of the National Industrial Recovery Act and the establishment of NRA, the New Castle Chamber of Commerce has not only served as the local headquarters for these activities but local administration has been under its supervision. During this period of time approximately 1700 cases were handled by the Compliance Board and through its service of mediation many industrial conditions have been satisfactorily handled for the benefit of both employees and employers.

Your Chamber of Commerce has acted as temporary headquarters for the local committee of the Federal Housing Administration and is aiding in establishing this activity in New Castle and Lawrence county, from which it is hoped and anticipated, many thousands of dollars of construction work and sale of materials will be secured, thereby materially relieving the unemployment situation.

Other Activities

The civic and commercial activities of your Chamber of Commerce has been that of assisting the merchants in stimulating business through the conducting of collective sales events. The prevention of promiscuous soliciting schemes from operating in our City has saved the public many thousands of dollars annually.

Among its many other activities along civic lines your organization assisted in securing the 1936 Pennsylvania State Sabbath School convention in New Castle.

In addition to the activities listed above the executive staff, Directors, Committees and Individual Members of the Chamber, are continually working with all agencies of the community to the end that every phase of the Community's industrial, commercial and civic life may be benefitted.

The complete list of directors, is as follows: including the six new directors who assumed their posts yesterday:

Hon. James A. Chambers, Thomas W. Dickey, Thomas H. Hartman, Alex Crawford Hoyt, James K. Love, Thomas F. Morehead, W. Walter Braham, B. H. Kannenberg, W. Kieth McAfee, Fred L. Rentz, Louis B. Round, James M. Smith, Sr., W. W. Duff, Louis G. Genkinger, John H. Lamb, R. C. Love, William F. Moody and R. W. Rowland.

The officers are:

L. G. Genkinger, president: Thos. F. Morehead and B. H. Kannenberg, vice presidents: Thomas W. Dickey, treasurer; and Alfred W. Chilton, secretary-manager.

Plan Conferences At Westminster

Vocational Guidance Authority To Make Visit To Local College

(Special To The News.)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26.—Miss Florence Jackson, Wellesley, Mass., an authority on vocational guidance, will visit Westminster College as a guest of Target, senior women's honorary society, on November 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Miss Jackson will speak at the Sunday evening chapel, November 4, and will also speak at the morning chapl on November 5 and 6. She will hold individual conferences with senior women concerning vocations during morning hours, and will lead round table discussions each afternoon.

Miss Jackson comes to Westminster after having visited a number of colleges and schools in Illinois and Ohio. She is to arrive Saturday, November 3, and will be entertained by members of Target. The complete program of conferences and meetings will be announced later.

Makes His Visit 17 Years Later

(International News Service)

WATERDOWN, Ontario — Seventeen years ago Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes said goodbye to Walter ("Mickey") Roskett, then an enlisted man on the British warship Centurion, and promised to visit him if he ever came to Canada.

Sir Roger redeemed his promise by coming here from Toronto to see the old salt. What was more accompanied by Lady Keyes, the Admiral visited Waterdown school where Rockett's son is a pupil.

It was a popular call—the boys got a half holiday at the Admiral's request.

Blames Wives For Air Unpopularity

(International News Service)

NEWTON, Mass.—The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that controls the airmindedness of the nation.

So says Mrs. Theodore W. Kenyon, now New England holder of the women's altitude record.

"Most men don't fly because their wives won't let them. When husbands convince their wives that there's nothing to be afraid of the whole nation will be air-mind."

NOW EATS ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Christian's Standard Of Life

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Ephesians 5:18—"And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit."

(The international uniform lesson on the above topic for Oct. 28 is Ephesians 4:17-5:21, the Golden Text being 5:18, "And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit.")

By ALVIN E. BELL

After St. Paul had written the great Christian doctrines of the church in the eyes of God, which make up the first three chapters of his Ephesian letter, he proceeded to deal with the fruit of these doctrines in practice in the lives of Christians before the eyes of men. Thus always doctrine and practice appear in the relation of root and fruit, of source and stream, or light and life.

Personal Standards of Life

In Ephesians 4:17-6-9, Paul deals with personal, social and domestic life, laying down principles for the Christian's guidance in each of these realms. Our lesson deals with the first two of these. In dealing with the principles he enunciates for personal life (4:17-32): Paul contrasts the heathenish practices of darkness, ignorance, blindness and filthiness of those "who have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness". This contrast continues showing the necessity of putting off lying lips, to put on truthfulness (25); putting off sinful anger to put on righteous anger (26-27); putting off theft to put on industry and charity (28); putting off filthy-mouthedness to put on wholesome, helpful speech (29); and putting off bad temper to put on kindness (31-32). The motive power to accomplish all these tremendous personal changes is the love of God in Jesus Christ: "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." Paul never omits this essential hook-up between creed and conduct.

Social Standards of Life

From personal life standards Paul passes to standards for the Christian's social life in 5:1-21. His first practical demand here is that we walk in love, excluding lust (1-5). For this love life God's love is still to be the dynamic: "Be ye therefore imitators of God, as beloved children; and walk in love, even as Christ also loved you, and gave himself up for us." The filthy sex rot of movie screen and magazine stories that would pass for "love" is to be excluded as bestial, sensual lust; "fornication, and all uncleanness, let it not even be named among you as becometh saints", much less patronized and indulged. Distinguish between love and lust.

Paul's next social standard suggests that the Chritsian walk in light excluding darkness: "Ye were once darkness, but are now light in the Lord; walk as children of light.... and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them.' For this again Christ is to be the enabling power: "Arise from the dead, and Christ shall shine upon thee".

The Christian must furthermore walk in wisdom excluding folly (15-21): "Look therefore carefully how ye walk, not unwise, but as wise. Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit....giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God, even the Father." Thus again we see Paul establishing this hook-up of faith in the Trinity, Father, son and Holy Spirit, with practical living of the social virtues as the Christian seeks in God the grace to walk in love and light and wisdom. Practice of these principles will result in a life of joy: "speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord."

Wash green vegetables in plenty of salt water. This will remove any insects, slugs, etc. Do not, however, let the vegetables stand in the salt water.

Crash Of Truck Is Pie For Kiddies

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 26—Berry-stained faces and noses that bore traces of custard were to be seen among the ranks of Ellsworth youngsters recently following the crash of a bakery truck into a sycamore tree on Route 71, near here.

Bread, pies, cakes were flung in all directions when the truck crashed.

Grant Souvenirs Valued At $5000

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 26—Heirlooms once, belonging to Ulysses S. Grant, figured in the disposal of property in the will of General Grant's nephew, the late Jesse Grant Cramer, who died here recently.

Cramer's widow was bequeathed a lock of the late president's hair, his gold watch, the coat he wore as a cadet at West Point and his military gauntlets, worn by Grant when he commanded the Union forces during the Civil War. The minimum value of the property disposed of by the will was set at $5,000.

Water Reservoirs As Relief Project

(International News Service)

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 26—Residents of Jennerstown and Addison who have been dependent on old wells and springs for their water supplies, are soon to enjoy pure mountain waters.

Two large reservoirs which will store large supplies of water for distribution to those and adjoining communities are to be constructed with the approval of state relief officials.

3-Day Romance Leads After 18 Years To Altar

(International News Service)

MELBOURNE—A couple who met for three days in the war, and have been writing to each other for 18 years, are to be married in Melbourne.

In 1916, Robert Sommerfield, a German sailor who was serving a patrol ship in the North Sea, was given a short leave.

He went to Munich where he met Miss Sophie Kohn, a milliner, and spent three days courting her. Then he went back to the North Sea.

After armistice, he went to America. Eight years ago he migrated to Tasmania and later took out naturalization papers.

Throughout his wanderings he corresponded with Miss Kohn.

Now she has come out to Melbourne to marry him.

Penn State To Get Testing In Columbia Game

Penn State Is Only Major Team In Pennsylvania With Clean Record

MANY INTERESTING BATTLES CARDED

By WARREN (FATS) HELLER
All-American Halfback In 1932
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Swinging into their fifth weekend of games, Pennsylvania's gridiron representatives as yet have been unable to put forward a single team eligible for national recognition. Penn State is the only team in the state undefeated and untied. But their real tests lie ahead, while Pitt's unfortunate defeat at the hands of Minnesota last week practically puts them out of the running.

Minnesota is the top eleven in the country at the present time, and no team from the east has come forward to threaten the high rating of the strong Gopher combine. In big ten circles, they rate equally as high, and on the coast the situation is a muddled one. Alabama, however, is a potentional contender from the south.

Dukes At Detroit

Among the Pennsylvania teams Duquesne has a real job cut out for them as they open the weekend of play on Friday night against Detroit University at Detroit. I expect the night riders to be over-confident as a result of their last two easy victories, and as a result Detroit is very likely to unsaddle them. The Detroit team, moreover, still feels the sting of last year's defeat, and will be primed for the visitors.

At the same time, Geneva will be attempting to halt the advance of the West Virginia Wesleyan outfit at Beaver Falls. Badly shattered from their previous games, Geneva should be an easy victim for the West Virginians.

In another Friday night feature at Tarentum, St. Vincent will meet West Liberty in what should be a romping win for the Wild Cats from Latrobe.

Interesting Games

Saturday's card of games will present many interesting features, in spite of the fact that several teams are taking "breathers" before going on to more strenuous encounters.

Franklin Stadium at Philadelphia will be the scene of the meeting of Pennsylvania and Navy. The latter's "Goat" is going to do a lot of bucking, and Navy, coming along fast, will vanquish the Penn eleven.

In Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech meets the Purdue Boilermakers in what should be an interesting game. Both teams have been beaten by two touchdowns at Notre Dame. The outcome is a toss-up, with the "breaks" again figuring.

Pitt-Westminster

Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers are among the teams taking it easy this Saturday. The local eleven will journey to New Castle to meet Westminster, and they should chalk up an easy win. The Panthers are looking forward to their meeting with Notre Dame two weeks hence, and Sutherland will probably give his second and third teams plenty of action tomorrow.

Penn State, very impressive to date, will find its opposition difficult as they meet Lou Little's Columbia team in New York. It looks as though the Nittany Lions are going to have their first taste of defeat.

Grove City Favored

St. Thomas has been badly battered in its earlier games, particularly against Bucknell, and will fall victim to the thrusts of the Western Maryland Combine. W. & J. will win against Waynesburg on their home field Saturday.

I am looking for a Grove City victory over Allegheny College, and Thiel should bring back a win from Bethany.

GRID DISH FOR SATURDAY WILL BE CHOICE ONE

Illinois but unfortunately I remain impressed by that Zuppke's ability to win any game he sets out to win, especially with two weeks of preparation.

In the same way, I'll give Dartmouth a few points on Harvard, no more, no less. Harvard and Michigan, to my mind, are a couple of excellent short-price investments.

Alabama Favored.

Among the others mentioned were Alabama and Georgia, Duke and Tennessee, and Holy Cross and Colgate. I've got to go with Alabama, Duke and Holy Cross. In the case of the latter, I doubt whether Colgate came out of the Ohio State in sufficient condition to take on another tough one immediately. Georgia is supposed to be better than it seems. But Alabama is supposed to be better than it looks. Therefore, I propose to be broadminded. I'll take Alabama.

Duke and Tennessee represent the last meeting between Coaches Wallace Wade and Bob Neyland and, if you don't think this is important, you haven't seen these teams play. They are strictly coach-made teams. I'm taking Duke because if Wade ever has an edge—and he seems to have one this time—he seldom blows it.

Minnesota Favored.

Having mentioned a few undefeated teams that appear due for a fall, we can pass on to those who figure to go through. As for instance:

GETS BEER KEG AS SOUVENIR OF SHIP

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa.—A beer keg, grisly souvenir of the burning of the Morro Castle, is in the possession of Charles E. Seeton, Norristown. Seeton spent several days at the scene of the disaster and brought home with him the beer keg, found floating in the sea and bearing the name of the ill-fated ship.

An ordinance issued in 1293 which has just come to light in England, stipulated that no one should pay more than two cents for a hen or a gallon of beer, half a cent for a loaf of bread, 16 cents for a dressed lamb or $2.50 for a cow.

Jumped From Window Because Of Dream

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY.—It was a tough gang that was chasing William Wilson, 40—so tough, in fact, that he jumped from a second floor window of the general hospital here while dreaming the thugs were "out to get him."

Wilson was recovering from a major operation at the time of his "leap for life." Physicians said he would recover in spite of his fall, but were taking no more chances and moved him to the first floor of the building.

NO ACCIDENTS

Safety campaign of the police department passed through another 24 hours and no reports of accidents were made, it was announced today.

Big Change In Tuber Lineup For Saturday

Coaches Benedict And Ferrare Cause Shake-up In Ellwood High Eleven

RAY KAUFMAN IS LOST TO TEAM

Blue And White To Start Game At Monaca Saturday With Only Five Regulars

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Local fans will see quite a change Saturday afternoon when the Ellwood City high eleven takes the field against Coach Berkman's Monaca high team at Monaca. There will be six new faces and possibly more in the starting lineup.

During the past week there has been a considerable shakeup in the Ellwood high eleven. Head Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant, Faculty Manager Mike Ferrare, were completely disappointed with the Tubers' showing against Sharpsville last Saturday. They do not intend to have a repetition of what occurred.

Various experiments have been conducted all week and Coach Benedict seems to have hit upon a clicking combination. This combination will have six new faces. First of all, Ray Kaufman, who has starred at left guard, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Kaufman reached the age of 20 yesterday and according to the W. P. I. A. L. ruling will be ineligible for athletic competition. Battling for his position are Joe Pishioneri and Frisk, and what a battle it was. Both lads show real class. Frisk seems to be getting the nod for Saturday. Jeannette and Bettoni have been replaced by their understudies, Dodds and Hughes, at the ends. Coach Benedict is also toying with the idea of replacing Marcus at left tackle with Flannagan, who has been showing up splendidly during practice.

Coaches Benedict and Ferrare have been giving more attention than usual to their second team and reserves. There is a possibility that Coach Benedict may start the second team and keep them in the whole game win or lose. The second stringers have shown a great fighting spirit and tenacity which Coach Benedict does not intend to let go unrewarded.

The Tubers will receive more competition from Monaca on Saturday than they have in the past and even more than they anticipate. Leading teams in Beaver valley that have been bowling them oevr by big scores in past years have had a real time of it on their hands this year. Ambridge, Aliquippa and Beaver Falls each obtained a 20-0 verdict. Two weeks ago Monaca held Beaver to a scoreless battle, and last Saturday defeated Freedom 12-0 for their first victory of the season. When stacked up against Ellwood, Monaca has always been fighting mad and has caused no end of trouble. It was this team which ruined the championship aspirations of an Ellwood high team in 1927 when they took a 7-6 unexpected verdict over Ellwood in the final game of the season. Ellwood has won every game since, but Monaca is looked upon with respect here.

The second stringers of Ellwood high are in jubilant spirits and intend to take every advantage of the opportunity which is being offered them on Saturday.

The probable lineup is as follows:

Ellwood		Monaca
Dodds	L.E.	Thorne
Marcus or Flannagan	L.T.	Lowry
Frisk or Pishioneri	L.G.	Brobeck
Kraynak	C.	R. Bell
Steckman	R.G.	Buluski
Rocco	R.T.	Fisher
Hughes	R.E.	Robitz
Luxenberg	Q.B.	Martincheck
W. Young	L.H.	Lavrusky
Ottavanio	R.H.	Tubish
Mazzano	F.B.	Kermeit

John McKelvey Is Called By Death

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—John McKelvey, 71, passed away at 7:30 last evening at his home on Pittsburgh Circle, following a lingering illness.

The deceased is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Frances McFadden, Mrs. Leo Mason and Mrs. Don Watson; three sons, Dan, James and John, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Agatha Catholic church, with the Rev. Fr. R. D. A. Wilkey, officiating. Burial will be made in the St. Agatha cemetery.

Jean Jacques Rousseau was one of the greatest French writers of the eighteenth century.

Republicans Are Heard Thursday

Hazen And Braham Speak At Meeting In Lincoln Auditorium

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Meeting in the Lincoln auditorium Thursday night, a group of voters of Ellwood City, heard Republican speakers urge the election of the ticket in November. F. E. Moore, of Ellwood City, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Republican County Chairman, Roy W. Hazen, and Attorney W. Walter Braham, of New Castle.

Methods of handling the relief situation were scored as inefficient, a return to a revival of fundamentals in government urged, and bureaucracy in government criticized.

The inclement weather kept the attendance down somewhat, but a representative crowd was present.

Canfield Club Has Meeting Thursday

Club Members Have Enjoyable Event At Home Of Mrs. J. D. Jones Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Canfield club assembled at the home of Mrs. J. D. Jones on Fifth street last night for their regular meeting. Mrs. Wilhelmina Anderson was associate hostess on the occasion. Mrs. Ethel Cox of Cleveland, O., was a special guest.

After a short business meeting 500 and bingo were enjoyed. Mrs. Lottie Fye and Mrs. E. A. Garwig were the prize winners respectively. Mrs. Cox was presented with a guest favor. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

The club will meet again on the fourth Thursday of November at the home of Mrs. Suzzane Stevenson on Crescent avenue. Mrs. Minnie Frazer will be associate hostess.

W. M. Society At Daufen Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Women's Missionary society of the St. Mark's Lutheran church, of Lilyville, were entertained in a pleasing manner yesterday when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Edward Daufen of the Ellwood-Zelienople road. Mrs. John Nagel, Mrs. John Nevin, Mrs. Henry Druschel and Mrs. Charles Druschel were special guests.

The sixteen attending spent the day sewing and quilting and at noon they partook of a tempting tureen dinner served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Howard Wright was in charge of the business meeting and plans were made to send sheets to the Orphans' Home at Zelienople. They will also send cookies to the same organization for Thanksgiving.

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 15, at the home of Mrs. Fred Klages, of Lilyville.

Happy Hour Class Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wehman of near New Castle road was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when members of the Happy Hour class of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church gathered for their annual Hallowe'en party. Husbands and friends were special guests and there were forty in attendance.

They came variously attired, some witches, some ghosts, some clowns and some indefinable, and the clever decorations about the home formed an eerie setting. Mrs. Clyde Cunningham was awarded a prize for guessing the most of the mummers.

Charles Wilson and Rev. Thomas Berger directed an amusing group of games and contests. At an appropriate time the hostess assisted by Mrs. William Travis, Mrs. Wilbur Barnett and Miss Velma Kingston, served a tempting collation.

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Two cottage prayer meetings will be held tonight by the members of the Knox and North Sewickley Presbyterian churches. One will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haddock in Knox Plan and the other at Mr. and Mrs. Corbin's home in North Sewickley. These meetings will begin at 8 o'clock.

Legion Auxiliary Prepares To Give Play Next Week

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—If enthusiasm and co-operation for the benefit of a worthy cause could decide its success, then the Legion Auxiliary play, "The World's All Right," which is to be given in the Lincoln auditorium on November 1 and 2, in order to carry on their welfare work here, should reap a rich harvest.

The event is for such a noble purpose that prominent local people have readily given their wholehearted support. It will be a home talent production. It is a musical comedy which includes choruses, dancing, and singing.

The principal parts in the production are taken by Chester Dicks, Sam Turner, Miss Sue Cox, Paul Grannis and Mr. Stillwagon. Other important roles will be taken by Paul Cartwright, Miss Mary Blocher and Robert Taylor. There is a "business men's" group which threatens to steal the show. This will provide comedy and costumes, the type which has been unpremeditated here. The production will also feature some clever scenery.

Zelienople Plans For Celebration

ZELIENOPLE, Oct. 26—Plans are completed for the Hallowe'en celebration here—several hundred people are expected to take part. It is being held by the American Legion and the parade will start at 8:30. Prizes will be awarded at 11 o'clock.

Headquarters are in the Klinefelter building on Main street and more than 50 other prizes in the window there will be given for costumes in the parade. Several musical units will be in the parade, led by the local high school band of 60 pieces. A dance with a good orchestra, furnishing the music will be held in the Markel building on Main street following the parade.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Admitted Thursday: Mrs. Flora Majors of Park Gate; Teressa Miller of Koppel.

Discharged: Harold Fox of R. D. 2; Clara Tribuzio of Crescent avenue.

Engineers Society To Meet Tonight At Ellwood City

Ellwood City Country Club To Be Scene Of Big Event This Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Engineer's society of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley will be the guests of the local Mathews Conveyor Company at the Ellwood City Country Club.

The affair promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season. After a special technical session, a social meeting will be held. Two splendid speakers have been secured. This will be preceded by a dinner at which covers will be laid for 200.

Schaffner Class Has Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.— A fine Hallowe'en party was held by the Emma Schaffner class in the Emmanuel Reformed church last night. An excellent turnout participated in the event.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed with games and contests amidst appropriate decorations. At a later hour an appetizing luncheon was served by a committee.

The class will hold a regular meeting on the first Friday of November.

Mrs. Mary Hill Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Mary Hill entertained the R. Q. club Thursday afternoon at her home on Hazen avenue with 16 present.

Following a delicious tureen luncheon at noon, four tables of cards were in play. Mrs. Pearl Wehman and Mrs. Sadie McMurdo won the prizes at the close.

The club will meet in three weeks with Mrs. Mary Hudspath on First avenue.

McAdoo-De Onate Case Is Still In Unsettled State

Report On Coast Ellen McAdoo And Spanish Lover Had Eloped, Strongly Denied

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—A beautiful 19-year-old granddaughter of a former president of the United States and a handsome Spanish screen actor today found themselves facing a situation in which all the dramatic elements of a movie scenario were grouped.

Ellen Wilson McAdoo, daughter of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, and granddaughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson and Rafael Lopez De Onate were scheduled to appear in Riverside, Cal., today to claim a marriage license for which they applied three days ago.

Rumors that she had eloped with De Onate were emphatically denied today by Miss McAdoo. She refused, however, to discuss her plans for today.

"I have not eloped," Miss McAdoo declared at her mother's home, adding, "I am sorry but I cannot say anything more concerning our plans at this time."

William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator McAdoo, had expressed fears that the couple had eloped when he failed to locate Miss McAdoo.

Miss McAdoo explained she had lunched with De Onate and later had gone for a long motor ride with him.

Asserts Alimony Not Intended As Life-Long Gift

(International News Service)

DENVER—Alimony is not intended to be a life-long gift to women capable of earning their own living, in the opinion of District Judge Robert W. Steele of Denver.

Judge Steele delivered a verbal uppercut to the bugbear of discarded husbands in the case of Edward Flippo, a tramway conductor, who sought to be relieved of $53 monthly alimony on the contention that his former wife is able to earn her own living.

"Just because a woman was once a man's wife, it does not necessarily follow that the court will compel a man to take care of her for the rest of her life," Judge Steele declared.

"The court is constitutionally against divorces sitting by idly at home and waiting for that alimony check to put in its appearance. There should be some effort on the part of the woman to help herself."

Judge Steele declined to make a change in Flippo's alimony status, however, when proof was given that his former wife was in ill health and unable to support their 16-year-old son.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hammer and sons, Billy and Junior, of Beaver Falls, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen.

Miss Elizabeth McGahey has returned to her home in East Liverpool, after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Mary Gwin.

Paul Wigley has returned home after completing his work at Pulaski.

Mrs. Mary Tetlow and daughter, Mrs. Vida Morgan, of Mahoningtown, called on Mrs. J. M. Stephenson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stephenson and Mrs. H. W. Allen spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Fannie Sweet of Edenburg.

Misses Alice Allen, Grace Shannon, Irene McCready, Anna Bozlinski, Ostie McKinney, Mildred Lowry and Evelyn Tindall motored to Slippery Rock on Saturday to visit the college.

Penn State To Get Testing In Columbia Game

Penn State Is Only Major Team In Pennsylvania With Clean Record

MANY INTERESTING BATTLES CARDED

By WARREN (FATS) HELLER
All-American Halfback In 1932
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Swinging into their fifth weekend of games, Pennsylvania's gridiron representatives as yet have been unable to put forward a single team eligible for national recognition. Penn State is the only team in the state undefeated and untied. But their real tests lie ahead, while Pitt's unfortunate defeat at the hands of Minnesota last week practically puts them out of the running.

Minnesota is the top eleven in the country at the present time, and no team from the east has come forward to threaten the high rating of the strong Gopher combine. In big ten circles, they rate equally as high, and on the coast the situation is a muddled one. Alabama, however, is a potentional contender from the south.

Dukes At Detroit

Among the Pennsylvania teams Duquesne has a real job cut out for them as they open the weekend of play on Friday night against Detroit University at Detroit. I expect the night riders to be over-confident as a result of their last two easy victories, and as a result Detroit is very likely to unsaddle them. The Detroit team, moreover, still feels the sting of last year's defeat, and will be primed for the visitors.

At the same time, Geneva will be attempting to halt the advance of the West Virginia Wesleyan outfit at Beaver Falls. Badly shattered from their previous games, Geneva should be an easy victim for the West Virginians.

In another Friday night feature at Tarentum, St. Vincent will meet West Liberty in what should be a romping win for the Wild Cats from Latrobe.

Interesting Games

Saturday's card of games will present many interesting features, in spite of the fact that several teams are taking "breathers" before going on to more strenuous encounters.

Franklin Stadium at Philadelphia will be the scene of the meeting of Pennsylvania and Navy. The latter's "Goat" is going to do a lot of bucking, and Navy, coming along fast, will vanquish the Penn eleven.

In Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech meets the Purdue Boilermakers in what should be an interesting game. Both teams have been beaten by two touchdowns at Notre Dame. The outcome is a toss-up, with the "breaks" again figuring.

Pitt-Westminster

Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers are among the teams taking it easy this Saturday. The local eleven will journey to New Castle to meet Westminster, and they should chalk up an easy win. The Panthers are looking forward to their meeting with Notre Dame two weeks hence, and Sutherland will probably give his second and third teams plenty of action tomorrow.

Penn State, very impressive to date, will find its opposition difficult as they meet Lou Little's Columbia team in New York. It looks as though the Nittany Lions are going to have their first taste of defeat.

Grove City Favored

St. Thomas has been badly battered in its earlier games, particularly against Bucknell, and will fall victim to the thrusts of the Western Maryland Combine. W. & J. will win against Waynesburg on their home field Saturday.

I am looking for a Grove City victory over Allegheny College, and Thiel should bring back a win from Bethany.

EAST BROOK ROAD

The Live Wire class of Neshannock U. P. church met at the home of Charlotte and Rebecca Forbes last Thursday evening.

Mary Martha Double, student nurse at the Jameson Memorial hospital, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Double.

Ruth Woods spent the week-end with her friend, Doris McElwain, and attended the freshman return party held at the home of Opal Allison of the Harlansburg road.

GRID DISH FOR SATURDAY WILL BE CHOICE ONE

Illinois but unfortunately I remain impressed by that Zuppke's ability to win any game he sets out to win, especially with two weeks of preparation.

In the same way, I'll give Dartmouth a few points on Harvard, no more, no less. Harvard and Michigan, to my mind, are a couple of excellent short-price investments.

Alabama Favored.

Among the others mentioned were Alabama and Georgia, Duke and Tennessee, and Holy Cross and Colgate. I've got to go with Alabama, Duke and Holy Cross. In the case of the latter, I doubt whether Colgate came out of the Ohio State in sufficient condition to take on another tough one immediately. Georgia is supposed to be better than it seems. But Alabama is supposed to be better than it looks. Therefore, I propose to be broadminded. I'll take Alabama.

Duke and Tennessee represent the last meeting between Coaches Wallace Wade and Bob Neyland and, if you don't think this is important, you haven't seen these teams play. They are strictly coach-made teams. I'm taking Duke because if Wade ever has an edge—and he seems to have one this time—he seldom blows it.

Minnesota Favored.

Having mentioned a few undefeated teams that appear due for a fall, we can pass on to those who figure to go through. As for instance:

GETS BEER KEG AS SOUVENIR OF SHIP

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa.—A beer keg, grisly souvenir of the burning of the Morro Castle, is in the possession of Charles E. Seeton, Norristown. Seeton spent several days at the scene of the disaster and brought home with him the beer keg, found floating in the sea and bearing the name of the ill-fated ship.

An ordinance issued in 1293 which has just come to light in England, stipulated that no one should pay more than two cents for a hen or a gallon of beer, half a cent for a loaf of bread, 16 cents for a dressed lamb or $2.50 for a cow.

Jumped From Window Because Of Dream

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY.—It was a tough gang that was chasing William Wilson, 40—so tough, in fact, that he jumped from a second floor window of the general hospital here while dreaming the thugs were "out to get him."

Wilson was recovering from a major operation at the time of his "leap for life." Physicians said he would recover in spite of his fall, but were taking no more chances and moved him to the first floor of the building.

NO ACCIDENTS

Safety campaign of the police department passed through another 24 hours and no reports of accidents were made, it was announced today.

Big Change In Tuber Lineup For Saturday

Coaches Benedict And Ferrare Cause Shake-up In Ellwood High Eleven

RAY KAUFMAN IS LOST TO TEAM

Blue And White To Start Game At Monaca Saturday With Only Five Regulars

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Local fans will see quite a change Saturday afternoon when the Ellwood City high eleven takes the field against Coach Berkman's Monaca high team at Monaca. There will be six new faces and possibly more in the starting lineup.

During the past week there has been a considerable shakeup in the Ellwood high eleven. Head Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant, Faculty Manager Mike Ferrare, were completely disappointed with the Tubers' showing against Sharpsville last Saturday. They do not intend to have a repetition of what occurred.

Various experiments have been conducted all week and Coach Benedict seems to have hit upon a clicking combination. This combination will have six new faces. First of all, Ray Kaufman, who has starred at left guard, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Kaufman reached the age of 20 yesterday and according to the W. P. I. A. L. ruling will be ineligible for athletic competition. Battling for his position are Joe Pishioneri and Frisk, and what a battle it was. Both lads show real class. Frisk seems to be getting the nod for Saturday. Jeannette and Bettoni have been replaced by their understudies, Dodds and Hughes, at the ends. Coach Benedict is also toying with the idea of replacing Marcus at left tackle with Flannagan, who has been showing up splendidly during practice.

Bill Young was the only person in the backfield who was able to retain his position. Dave Luxenberg, Dario Ottavanio and Mazzano have replaced Alex Robuck at quarterback, Bognosky at right half and Scopelite at full. The only likely starters of last Saturday are Young at left half, Rocco at right tackle, Steckman at right guard and Kraynak at center.

Coaches Benedict and Ferrare have been giving more attention than usual to their second team and reserves. There is a possibility that Coach Benedict may start the second team and keep them in the whole game win or lose. The second stringers have shown a great fighting spirit and tenacity which Coach Benedict does not intend to let go unrewarded.

The Tubers will receive more competition from Monaca on Saturday than they have in the past and even more than they anticipate. Leading teams in Beaver valley that have been bowling them oevr by big scores in past years have had a real time of it on their hands this year. Ambridge, Aliquippa and Beaver Falls each obtained a 20-0 verdict. Two weeks ago Monaca held Beaver to a scoreless battle, and last Saturday defeated Freedom 12-0 for their first victory of the season. When stacked up against Ellwood, Monaca has always been fighting mad and has caused no end of trouble. It was this team which ruined the championship aspirations of an Ellwood high team in 1927 when they took a 7-6 unexpected verdict over Ellwood in the final game of the season. Ellwood has won every game since, but Monaca is looked upon with respect here.

The second stringers of Ellwood high are in jubilant spirits and intend to take every advantage of the opportunity which is being offered them on Saturday.

The probable lineup is as follows:

Ellwood		Monaca
Dodds	L.E.	Thorne
Marcus or Flannagan	L.T.	Lowry
Frisk or Pishioneri	L.G.	Brobeck
Kraynak	C.	R. Bell
Steckman	R.G.	Buluski
Rocco	R.T.	Fisher
Hughes	R.E.	Robitz
Luxenberg	Q.B.	Martincheck
W. Young	L.H.	Lavrusky
Ottavanio	R.H.	Tubish
Mazzano	F.B.	Kermeit

John McKelvey Is Called By Death

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—John McKelvey, 71, passed away at 7:30 last evening at his home on Pittsburgh Circle, following a lingering illness.

The deceased is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Frances McFadden, Mrs. Leo Mason and Mrs. Don Watson; three sons, Dan, James and John, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Agatha Catholic church, with the Rev. Fr. R. D. A. Wilkey, officiating. Burial will be made in the St. Agatha cemetery.

Jean Jacques Rousseau was one of the greatest French writers of the eighteenth century.

Republicans Are Heard Thursday

Hazen And Braham Speak At Meeting In Lincoln Auditorium

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Meeting in the Lincoln auditorium Thursday night, a group of voters of Ellwood City, heard Republican speakers urge the election of the ticket in November. F. E. Moore, of Ellwood City, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Republican County Chairman, Roy W. Hazen, and Attorney W. Walter Braham, of New Castle.

Methods of handling the relief situation were scored as inefficient, a return to a revival of fundamentals in government urged, and bureaucracy in government criticized.

The inclement weather kept the attendance down somewhat, but a representative crowd was present.

Canfield Club Has Meeting Thursday

Club Members Have Enjoyable Event At Home Of Mrs. J. D. Jones Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Canfield club assembled at the home of Mrs. J. D. Jones on Fifth street last night for their regular meeting. Mrs. Wilhelmina Anderson was associate hostess on the occasion. Mrs. Ethel Cox of Cleveland, O., was a special guest.

After a short business meeting 500 and bingo were enjoyed. Mrs. Lottie Fye and Mrs. E. A. Garwig were the prize winners respectively. Mrs. Cox was presented with a guest favor. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

The club will meet again on the fourth Thursday of November at the home of Mrs. Suzzane Stevenson on Crescent avenue. Mrs. Minnie Frazer will be associate hostess.

W. M. Society At Daufen Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Women's Missionary society of the St. Mark's Lutheran church, of Lilyville, were entertained in a pleasing manner yesterday when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Edward Daufen of the Ellwood-Zelienople road. Mrs. John Nagel, Mrs. John Nevin, Mrs. Henry Druschel and Mrs. Charles Druschel were special guests.

The sixteen attending spent the day sewing and quilting and at noon they partook of a tempting tureen dinner served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Howard Wright was in charge of the business meeting and plans were made to send sheets to the Orphans' Home at Zelienople. They will also send cookies to the same organization for Thanksgiving.

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 15, at the home of Mrs. Fred Klages, of Lilyville.

Happy Hour Class Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wehman of near New Castle road was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when members of the Happy Hour class of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church gathered for their annual Hallowe'en party. Husbands and friends were special guests and there were forty in attendance.

They came variously attired, some witches, some ghosts, some clowns and some indefinable, and the clever decorations about the home formed an eerie setting. Mrs. Clyde Cunningham was awarded a prize for guessing the most of the mummers.

Charles Wilson and Rev. Thomas Berger directed an amusing group of games and contests. At an appropriate time the hostess assisted by Mrs. William Travis, Mrs. Wilbur Barnett and Miss Velma Kingston, served a tempting collation.

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Two cottage prayer meetings will be held tonight by the members of the Knox and North Sewickley Presbyterian churches. One will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haddock in Knox Plan and the other at Mr. and Mrs. Corbin's home in North Sewickley. These meetings will begin at 8 o'clock.

Legion Auxiliary Prepares To Give Play Next Week

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—If enthusiasm and co-operation for the benefit of a worthy cause could decide its success, then the Legion Auxiliary play, "The World's All Right," which is to be given in the Lincoln auditorium on November 1 and 2, in order to carry on their welfare work here, should reap a rich harvest.

The event is for such a noble purpose that prominent local people have readily given their wholehearted support. It will be a home talent production. It is a musical comedy which includes choruses, dancing, and singing.

The principal parts in the production are taken by Chester Dicks, Sam Turner, Miss Sue Cox, Paul Grannis and Mr. Stillwagon. Other important roles will be taken by Paul Cartwright, Miss Mary Blocher and Robert Taylor. There is a "business men's" group which threatens to steal the show. This will provide comedy and costumes, the type which has been unpremeditated here. The production will also feature some clever scenery.

Zelienople Plans For Celebration

ZELIENOPLE, Oct. 26—Plans are completed for the Hallowe'en celebration here—several hundred people are expected to take part. It is being held by the American Legion and the parade will start at 8:30. Prizes will be awarded at 11 o'clock.

Headquarters are in the Klinefelter building on Main street and more than 50 other prizes in the window there will be given for costumes in the parade.. Several musical units will be in the parade, led by the local high school band of 60 pieces. A dance with a good orchestra, furnishing the music will be held in the Markel building on Main street following the parade.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Admitted Thursday: Mrs. Flora Majors of Park Gate; Teressa Miller of Koppel.

Discharged: Harold Fox of R. D. 2; Clara Tribuzio of Crescent avenue.

Engineers Society To Meet Tonight At Ellwood City

Ellwood City Country Club To Be Scene Of Big Event This Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Engineer's society of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley will be the guests of the local Mathews Conveyor Company at the Ellwood City Country Club.

The affair promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season. After a special technical session, a social meeting will be held. Two splendid speakers have been secured. This will be preceded by a dinner at which covers will be laid for 200.

Schaffner Class Has Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.— A fine Hallowe'en party was held by the Emma Schaffner class in the Emmanuel Reformed church last night. An excellent turnout participated in the event.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed with games and contests amidst appropriate decorations. At a later hour an appetizing luncheon was served by a committee.

The class will hold a regular meeting on the first Friday of November.

Mrs. Mary Hill Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Mary Hill entertained the R. Q. club Thursday afternoon at her home on Hazen avenue with 16 present.

Following a delicious tureen luncheon at noon, four tables of cards were in play. Mrs. Pearl Wehman and Mrs. Sadie McMurdo won the prizes at the close.

The club will meet in three weeks with Mrs. Mary Hudspath on First avenue.

McAdoo-De Onate Case Is Still In Unsettled State

Report On Coast Ellen McAdoo And Spanish Lover Had Eloped, Strongly Denied

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—A beautiful 19-year-old granddaughter of a former president of the United States and a handsome Spanish screen actor today found themselves facing a situation in which all the dramatic elements of a movie scenario were grouped.

Ellen Wilson McAdoo, daughter of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, and granddaughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson and Rafael Lopez De Onate were scheduled to appear in Riverside, Cal., today to claim a marriage license for which they applied three days ago.

Rumors that she had eloped with De Onate were emphatically denied today by Miss McAdoo. She refused, however, to discuss her plans for today.

"I have not eloped," Miss McAdoo declared at her mother's home, adding, "I am sorry but I cannot say anything more concerning our plans at this time."

William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator McAdoo, had expressed fears that the couple had eloped when he failed to locate Miss McAdoo.

Miss McAdoo explained she had lunched with De Onate and later had gone for a long motor ride with him.

Asserts Alimony Not Intended As Life-Long Gift

(International News Service)

DENVER—Alimony is not intended to be a life-long gift to women capable of earning their own living, in the opinion of District Judge Robert W. Steele of Denver.

Judge Steele delivered a verbal uppercut to the bugbear of discarded husbands in the case of Edward Flippo, a tramway conductor, who sought to be relieved of $53 monthly alimony on the contention that his former wife is able to earn her own living.

"Just because a woman was once a man's wife, it does not necessarily follow that the court will compel a man to take care of her for the rest of her life," Judge Steele declared.

"The court is constitutionally against divorces sitting by idly at home and waiting for that alimony check to put in its appearance. There should be some effort on the part of the woman to help herself.

Judge Steele declined to make a change in Flippo's alimony status, however, when proof was given that his former wife was in ill health and unable to support their 16-year-old son.

Mr. Wade of Maryland, spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. H. L. Wear.

Mrs. Clare Kennedy has returned home after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of East Palestine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buttermore and daughter, Elaine, have returned home after spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Buttermore of Oil City.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hammer and sons, Billy and Junior, of Beaver Falls, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen.

Miss Elizabeth McGahey has returned to her home in East Liverpool, after spending a few weeks with Mrs. Mary Gwin.

Paul Wigley has returned home after completing his work at Pulaski.

Mrs. Mary Tetlow and daughter, Mrs. Vida Morgan, of Mahoningtown, called on Mrs. J. M. Stephenson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stephenson and Mrs. H. W. Allen spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Fannie Sweet of Edenburg.

Misses Alice Allen, Grace Shannon, Irene McCready, Anna Bozlinski, Ostie McKinney, Mildred Lowry and Evelyn Tindall motored to Slippery Rock on Saturday to visit the college.

In 1835 an English social which received the grandiloquent name of the association of all Classes of all Nations was founded under the auspices of Robert Owen, and the words Socialism and Socialist became current during the discussions which arose in connection with it.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

* * *

(Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

NAME STAFF TO EDIT 'NE-CA-HI' DUE IN JANUARY

Ruth Stevenson Gets Chief Editorial Post; Thomas Handles Business

According to the usual custom, there is organized each semester a group of outstanding students who each day devote their talents and abilities to making the current edition of the annual the best ever published in the history of the school.

In this capacity, it is their duty to plan and edit the book of the graduating class for this semester. They take care of the individual pictures of each senior, group pictures of the various clubs and the literary features of the book. At the present time the staff consists of:

In addition to the literary staff, there is an art staff which designs the cover and the various title and theme pages of the book. The staff consists of Robert Miner, art editor, and Camilla Morganti, assistant editor.

The senior high column in The News is written by the following students on the news staff: Alma Broadbent, editor; Edythe Cowden and Bud McCamic, chief reporters, and Concetta Marrese, chief typist. The various members of the whole staff are called upon to contribute articles to the news.

VOLLEY BALL GAMES START

The girls' volley ball season opened several weeks ago. After a few trial practices, final eliminations were held, and 11 girls were chosen to represent their classes in the volley ball tournament. Four games are to be played each week for four consecutive weeks and the winning team will then be matched with an all-star team. The following captains were elected: Senior A, Jenny Ryglinski; senior B, Grace Anderson; junior A, Freida Bodendorfer; junior B, Rita Flynn; sophomore A, Gail Wornack, and sophomore B, Victoria Ginocchi.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES DINNER

The weekly meeting of the student council was held Wednesday, October 24. The council party committee reported progress in their plans for the dinner party to be held on November 9. Also probable plans for the school dance were reviewed. The students decided to have a council and representative picture in the coming annual. In connection with the squad organization the council discussed the probability of holding a recognition banquet. The main purpose of this banquet is to give the students an incentive for putting more enthusiasm into their work and also serve as a reward for their services. The meeting was then adjourned until next week.

DONEGAN HEADS JUNIOR B'S

The junior B's of the high school held an election this week for their class officers. The following pupils were elected: President, Eddie Donegan; vice president, Bob Young; secretary, Peggy England, and treasurer, David Rowland.

SENIOR B MEETING HELD

The senior B class held a meeting third period Wednesday, October 24. The meeting was in charge of James Dart, class president.

A short play was given by members of the class, and a piano solo played by James Fox. The secretary, Johnny McWilliams, read a report and after various affairs were attended to, the meeting was adjourned.

CLASS PICTURES SNAPPED

Pictures of all the classes, clubs and organizations of the high school are being taken this week and will continue into next week. Many of the classes are so large that it will be necessary to divide them into two or more groups. These pictures will be reproduced in the high school annual. They are being taken by a local photographer on special bleachers erected for that purpose.

ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD

Plans have been completed for the art exhibit which is to be held at the senior high school, beginning October 29 and continuing to November 2. At the exhibit, there will be 150 reproductions of famous paintings and it promises to be very interesting to all who attend. The proceeds of the tickets sold will be used to buy more pictures for the high school.

Appropriate to the art show, Mrs. Carrie Jeffery Roberts, this city, will discuss "Famous Paintings" at student chapels on Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

GIRL RESERVES HOLD DANCE

The Girl Reserves held a Hallowe'en dance last evening at the Y. W. C. A. gym. A local orchestra played from 8:30 to 11:30. During the intermission, a dancing school group presented an attractive floor show. The decorations were the customary Hallowe'en colors, orange and black. Layte Wheeler, Doris Marvin and Esther Pierce were in charge of the social affairs. Candy and pop furnished by the Girl Reserve cabinet were the chief refreshments. The great success of the first co-ed party of the current semester was due largely to the consistent efforts of the president, Betty Rice, in cooperation with the cabinet members and the faculty supervisors. The dance was attended by the Girl Reserves and their escorts.

CONVENTION ON, SCHOOL OUT

The students of Ne-Ca-Hi are sorrowfully enjoying a holiday this afternoon. As the students left the building this morning, various expressions of regret were overheard. The half-holiday is due to the fact that the midwestern convention is meeting in Beaver Falls this afternoon and the teachers are attending the convention. New Castle high school should feel highly honored, for many of its teachers, as well as its principal, hold positions of honor and importance.

Mr. Orth is treasurer of the general executive group. William Lehto is president of the commercial section; Miss Frances McClaren is president of the English section; Miss Bess Gailey is secretary of the art section; Miss Dorothy Edmunds is treasurer of the modern language section, and William Margraf is president of the physical science section. In the music department, Joseph Replogle will lead discusion on "The Significance of Sight Reading Contests."

Wedding In One Country, Guests Are In Another

(International News Service)

COPENHAGEN—A Swedish couple who had arranged to be married in the Swedish church at Copenhagen found at the last minute that the wedding could not take place in Denmark because notices required by the law had not been given.

The guests were assembled and the wedding breakfast was prepared when they learned of the hitch.

Telling their friends to wait the bride and bridegroom chartered an aeroplane which took them in 15 minutes to Swedish Malmo.

Meanwhile, a minister had been informed by telephone. He met the couple, performed the ceremony in a few minutes, and back they flew to their waiting friends in Copenhagen.

The bride was Miss Rottbcell, daughter of a former Swedish consul at Copenhagen, and she had lived most of her life there. Her husband Mr. Metzen comes from Malmo.

Golden Nail Polish New Paris Style

(International News Service)

PARIS—Although "all that glitters is not gold," maybe the shining fingernail of the Parisian beauty is worth a fortune.

For liquid gold dust is the latest manicuring craze in the "gay light city."

Yellow tints have taken the French capital by storm and bronze and light mother-of-pearl Chinese lacquers frequently speckled with gold are rapidly supplanting diamonds and rubies as finger decorations, according to the fashion-setters.

Hunter Falls Dead On Seeing Squirrel

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Sighting a squirrel in a tree near his home in Laurel mountain, Ira C. Poling, 65, farmer near here, dropped dead before his daughter could bring him a shotgun with which to kill the bushytail. His excitement caused a heart attack. Funeral services were held today. Besides his widow, he leaves six daughters and a son.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26— For those who desre to utilize their leisure in cultural and creative activities, Temple University has opened new courses this fall.

These courses include lectures on current events by world leaders, avocational activities and technical courses. Following each lecture, the students will discuss the topic.

The lectures on current subjects include such topics as international affairs, current news, money, men and politics; Pennsylvania state government, creative America, wages, profits, men under the NRA, and psychological approaches to present day problems.

61 Ayrshire Cows Hang Up A Record

(International News Service)

NARBERTH, Pa., Oct. 26—A herd of 61 Ayrshire cows on the Penshurst farm here has set a milk and butterfat record, figures covering August production reveal.

The average production figures show a total of 850 pounds of milk and 31.58 pounds of butter fat per cow, according to W. A. Kyle, of the National Ayrshire Breeders Association, Brandon, Vermont.

"Queen Snowdrop," a four-year-old, individually produced 1,505 pounds of milk and 81.11 pounds of butterfit.

Says Political Life Is A Farce

(International News Service)

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. Oct. 26—Modern machinery that turns out products of every kind with celerity and efficiency is a gigantic Frankenstein that threatens to "grind us out of existence" in the opinion of Dr. Charles E. Beury, president of Temple University.

In an address before an assemblage attending the annual harvest festival of the National Farm school here, Dr. Beury added:

"American political and economic life is a farce.

"We neither know how to govern nor how to be governed."

PLENTY OF ATTENTION

(International News Service)

College Students Studying Politics

(International News Service)

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Oct. 26 — Swarthmore College students have gone in for the study of politics in a big way.

Political science courses this year show an increase of almost 50 per cent over last year, according to Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president.

Corresponding drops of from 40 to almost 65 per cent in the enrollment for classes in English, romance languages and fine arts, indicate that the trend is in the direction of "hard practicalities."

PITT-WESTMINSTER GRID GAME HERE SATURDAY

Great Pitt Team Will Perform At Taggart Stadium

Indications Large Crowd Will See Contest—Westminster Coming En-Masse

Pitt 100-Piece Band To Accompany Eleven On Visit To This City

Pitt's powerful Panthers journey to New Castle Saturday where Westminster College will be met at Taggart Stadium at 2:30. The Panthers will carry a squad of 40 players for the Lawrence county contest, and will be accompanied by the 100 piece Pitt band.

The contest is carded as a home attraction for the Titans, and will give Lawrence, Mercer, Beaver and Butler county fans an opportunity to see the great Pitt team in action. Advance sale of tickets would indicate that from seven to ten thousand fans will be on hand for the contest.

To Start First Team

Coach Jock Sutherland has promised to start his first team, the same men who opposed Minnesota last Saturday with the exception of Karl Seiffert at end in place of the injured Verne Baxter. Westminster will start the same team which opposed Thiel last Saturday.

Pitt will wear light jerseys in the contest, and the Titans will be in royal blue outfits. The entire Titan squad of 32 players will be used by Coaches Bill and Tom Gilbane with the hope of seasoning the scrubs and of avoiding injuries to the first-team men. Four important small-college contests still remain on the Titan card, and there is a 50-50 chance to win in all four games.

Pitt Great Team

In arranging to bring Pitt to New Castle, Westminster authorities are confident that district fans will be eager to see the outstanding team in the East. The fact that the Panthers will outclass the Titans will not detract from the interest the Sutherland crew has created. Despite the setback at the hands of Minnesota, Pitt still looms as one of the best teams in the country, and many people in the New Castle district have not had an opportunity of seeing the Panthers this year.

The lineups:

Westminster		Pitt
Watt	L E	Rooker
Franklin	L T	Hoel
Young	L G	Hartwig (c)
Scarbrough	C	Shotwell
Burry	R G	Ormiston
Straw	R T	Olejniczak
Austen	R E	Seiffert
Arrowsmith	Q B	Munjas
Sweeney	L H	Nicksick
Laraway	R H	LaRue
Staples	F B	Weinstock

Referee: R. B. Goodwin: Umpire, J. M. Holmes Linesmen. Wm. C. Evans. Game starts at 2:30.

Illinois college is the oldest collegiate institution of Illinois, founded in 1829 at Jacksonville, Ill.

Pitt's Coach

Jock Sutherland

Dr. John Bain "Jock" Sutherland, Head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh will bring his 1934 Pitt Panthers to New Castle tomorrow afternoon for the first time in grid history here. Westminster College will be the opponents at Taggart Field. Dr. Sutherland is ranked as one of the greatest football coaches in the nation, along with Howard Jones, Stagg, Warner and others. Sutherland has been here as a speaker, but tomorrow he will come as director-in-chief of the Pitt team.

Plans For Pitt Game Completed

Westminster College officials announced this morning that final plans for handling the crowd for the Pitt-Westminster game tomorrow at Taggart stadium are complete.

Westminster students will enter the North gate and will have seats in Section Two. Teams, officials, the bands of the two institutions, police and ushers will use the South gate.

General admission fans will use the gates on Cunningham street. Officials and all participants will be admitted only by ticket at any gate. The game will start at 2:30.

West Va. Wesleyan At Geneva Tonight

Reeves Stadium To Witness Great Battle Under Floodlights

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 26.—Although the men who engaged in the W. & J. game last week absorbed a terrific beating, Coach Beede is depending upon them to carry the brunt of the West Virginia assault here on Friday night. Beede will oppose the most brilliant team to appear here so far this season and he earnestly hopes that his Covenanter eleven will be able to give the West Virginia Bobcat a battle every step of the way.

The return of Clyde Johnson, hard hitting Geneva fullback, to the line-up last week made a vast difference in the style of play which had been exhibited during the two previous contests. The offensive and defensive play of the line has been noteworthy in every encounter this year, but Beede has been stressing offensive drive during his workouts this week with the hope that besides holding the Bobcats to a low score, the team will be able to produce sufficient points to annex their initial win of the season.

The Wesleyan team will be out to revenge last year's 14-6 defeat and will exhibit three men who are already being ranked as All-American timber. Peterson and Barnum form a backfield combination which leaves little to be desired. Both are clever ball handlers and accurate passers. Charlie White is turning in consistently superb performances at end. These three men beside playing a steady brand of ball provide sufficient flash to keep the rest of the team inspired and the spectators on their feet.

IN TITAN LINE

AUSTEN

BURRY

Bunny Austen, Etna, Pa., a 165 pound end on the Westminster College grid team, has been the talk of the season. Austen is fast going down under punts, seems to be able to fathom plays as they are developing, and has on many occasions this year thrown ball carriers for losses. He also has specialized at recovering fumbles.

Harold Burry, New Castle guard, third year on team, former cross-country runner, fast aggressive guard.

NEW CASTLE PLAYS WARREN TONIGHT

Big Crowd Will See Schoolboys In Night Battle

New Castle High Underdogs In Game Tonight At Ohio City, Starts At 8 P. M.

"RED HURRICANE" IN GOOD SHAPE

WARREN, OHIO, is the mecca tonight for the foootball loving fans of Pa. Newc's domain where under the floodlights at 8 p. m. Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh will unloosen the "Red Hurricane" of New Castle high school against the "Presidents" of Harding high of Warren, O. The kickoff should find Harding high field packed to the doors. A rough estimate of the crowd tonight will be in the neighborhood of 7,000, possibly a little higher.

Renew Relations.

This game has been talked about for a year. Warren and New Castle. Football relations between the two cities are about to be renewed after a lapse of ever so many years, possibly 20 or better. The fact that Warren high has won five straight games, bowling over opponents with monotonous regularity. By sheer power and strength. New Castle high with a crackerjack team, but sporting one defeat at the hands of Johnstown high. What better setting would one want for the gridiron feast.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh gave the New Castle high team a final polishing up Thursday night under the lights at Taggart field. New Castle hasn't played a night game for three weeks and the boys had to get accustomed to the lights again. The New Castle team last night was pronounced fit and ready for what looks like the severest testing of the year.

Coach Pierre Hill gave his Warrenites a final "once over" last night under the lights at Harding high field and pronounced them ready for the invasion of the New Castle "Red Hurricane".

Veteran Backfield.

Warren will present a veteran backfield combination consisting of Cononico at quarter weighing 158, W. Brogden at left half weighing 160, Sanfrey at right half weighing 145, and Chickerneo at fullback weighing 185. The Warren backfield will average better than 160 pounds.

The Warren line will average close to 180 pounds. Pitted against this array of beef will be the fighting New Castle boys, who will look more like midgets alongside the Warren giants. New Castle's backfield probably averages about 150, and the line about 165.

Bridenbaugh has two sets of backs groomed for the game tonight, he can start either DeCaprio, Ostrosky and Fleming with Shellogg at fullback, or he can start Mumford, Donegan, Cox and Copple.

Ccach Bridenbaugh, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner and the New Castle high team will leave early for Warren, traveling by bus.

In event that the weatherman gives us some nice weather, New Castle will be well represented.

Will New Castle be able to withstand that powerful beef of the Warren high team? Can New Castle's "Red Hurricane" kick up enough of a breeze tonight to blow the Warrenites off the field? There will not be many hours now to wait until these questions can be answered. See you in Warren!

New Castle High Gridders To Leave For Warren At 5:15

New Castle High school football squad will entrain by bus for Warren, Ohio, at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner. A squad of about 35 will make the trip to Warren.

The New Castle party will include Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches Klee and Thomas. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, student managers and sports writer. The New Castle team will go direct to the field upon reaching Warren.

Ask Fans To Park In Fairgrounds At Warren, O., Tonight

Gates At Warren Field Will Be Opened At 6:30 O'clock, Is Announcement

New Castle fans who intend to go to Warren for the game tonight are asked to park their cars in the Fairgrounds instead of in back of the Warren High building.

By parking in the Fairgrounds the motorists will not have to drive around to the Fairgrounds lot from the school. The gates at the Warren field will open at 6:30 o'clock.

VERSATILE

BOB SCARBROUGH, McDonald, O., lad, is playing his fourth year for Westminster. Scarbrough has played every position on the team. He entered Westminster lineups first as a fullback, then was shifted to end, then to right halfback, then to tackle, then to quarter, and is now playing center. His 190 pounds makes Scarbrough one of the best Titan players in any position, and he has played consistently for four years because of the fact that he can fit into any job in line or backfield.

Shenango Plays Emlenton High Here Saturday

Coach Ed Raney Will Send Shenango Against Emlenton Saturday At 10:30 A. M.

Shenango High School football team will play Emlenton High Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m., at the Shenango High field. Coach Ed Raney will send his strongest team against Emlenton to try and grab a vistory.

All of the Shenango High regulars are in the best of condition for the game. McIltrot, McConahy and Horteg are rarin' to go and will make life miserable for the Emlenton team is the indication.

PAUL STREET WINS

Paul Street football team handed the Canary Midgets a 15 to 12 defeat in a football game played at Paul Street Field. The stars of the game were B. Kimmell, C. Jones, McWilliams, Brown, McKibben, Kelly and Klinefelter.

Many Undefeated Major Teams Will Face Severe Tests In Battles

MINNESOTA WILL PLAY AT IOWA

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—It looks innocent enough. In fact, except in one monumental instance—Vanderbilt versus Louisiana State—the defeated are playing the undefeated in a great many football games on college gridirons tomorrow afternoon, a soothing condition that might lull the unsuspecting into a sense of fancied security. But I'm not among the unsuspecting, and it won't lull me. I'm like General Phelan of the local boxing commission, who even suspects wrestlers.

Anyhow, it looks very much like under-dog day under the old goal posts tomorrow and, for lack of something better to do, a man attempting to call the turn might very well take out a pin and stab them, as they say at the track. On the other hand, it might be simpler to stab himself and get it over with.

Teams Face Test.

For instance, the undefeated stand a first rate chance of being bumped tomorrow in the following manner.

Washington by California, Duke by Tennessee, Illinois by Michigan, Alabama by Georgia, Dartmouth by Harvard, Army by Yale, Holy Cross by Colgate, Penn State by Columbia, Vanderbilt by Louisiana State (or vice versa), Iowa State by Nebraska, and Rice by Texas.

Likes Illinois.

As a matter of fact, I'm calling some of them just that way. I like Texas over Rice (the latter is just about due for a cropper). California over Washington, Columbia over Penn State, Yale over the Army (sometimes I dope them one way and hunch them another; this is my hunch), Louisiana State over Vanderbilt and Nebraska over Iowa State (I've got to stick with the Huskers at Lincoln). I'd likewise suggest a flier on Michigan over

Franklin High Tops Washington 12 To 0

Gillaspie Coached Team Wins Junior High Championship In Rain Thursday

Eddie Sovesky Scores Both Of Touchdowns, Washington Never Threatens

Junior high football trophy will rest for another year on the Ben Franklin high athletic shelf following the 12 to 0 defeat handed George Washington junior high gridders Thursday afternoon by the Ben Franklin junior high eleven in their annual game at Washington high field. Eddie Sovesky scored both of the Franklin touchdowns. The entire second half of the game was played in a downpour of rain and on a muddy field.

Sovesky Scores Early

Shortly after the start of the game, Franklin high gained the ball on a punt from Washington, and Sovesky flipped a fine pass to Nocera for a first down on the Washington 20 yard line. In a series of plays with Franklin high nearing the goal line, Chelella fumbled and Washington recovered and kicked out of danger. Franklin high put on another drive and again Sovesky tossed a pass to Nocera on the 25 yard line.

Franklin worked the ball to the five yard line and from this point Sovesky went around left end and crossed the goal line. The plunge by Sovesky for the extra point failed. Hawkey, of Franklin, kicked off to Washington and one of the Washington backs on the first play fumbled and it was recovered by a Franklin player on the Washington 30 yard line.

The end of the first period found Franklin leading 6 to 0.

Fraser Prevents Score

Franklin high was knocking at the door of the goal line at the start of the second period and worked the ball to the 18 yard line. A Franklin pass was grounded and on the next attempt to score on a pass, young Fraser, of the Washington high team, who played a stellar game at right end, leaped into the air and speared the ball just as it descended on the goal line. Washington kicked out of danger.

Franklin took the ball on the Washington 20 yard line on the kick by Updegraph. Two passes by the Franklin team failed to work. Washington took the ball on downs on their own 21 yard line. The half ended 6 to 0 in favor of Franklin.

Franklin high kicked off at the start of the third period and the Washingtons advanced the ball to the Franklin 35 yard line before losing it by punting over the goal line.

Sovesky Big Star

With Sovesky, Chelella and Mortimer carrying the ball on a series of plays Franklin clicked off three first downs in a row and carried the ball to the Washington 20 yard line. Franklin high drew a penalty and then Sovesky carried the ball to the Washington 12 yard line. Franklin lost the ball on downs on the Washington five yard line. Updegraph kicked out of danger as the third period ended.

Franklin high started a march down the field and with Sovesky doing most of the ground gaining. Finally the five yard line was reached and Sovesky plunged the ball over the goal line. The extra point attempt by plunging failed.

Play In Rain

The remainder of the game played in a sea of mud and water was about even with neither team

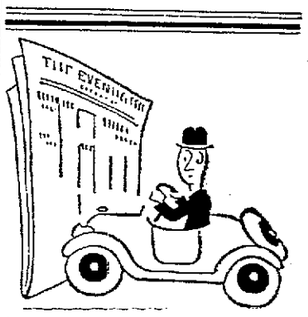
Union High At Zelienople For Football Game

Union High School football team will go to Zelienople shortly after noon today for a gridiron battle with the strong Zelienople High gridders. Union hopes for a victory today over the Butler countians.

Head Coach Davey Boyd has drilled the Unionites hard all week in preparation for the game. There will be several changes in the Union lineup.



Look at that, will you? 7 men in line at the underwear case.

Last Saturday it seemed that every other man in Lawrence County counted on us for underwear.

The underwear case looked like a bargain counter . . . and there you have it . . . these shirts and shorts are bargains even tho' they are at regular prices.

Yes . . . and we haven't forgotten that some men like their drawers long enough to slip into their stockings and that others don't get red in the face at the mention of red flannels.

We have the underwear to fit even a body by Fisher . . . at prices that you have in mind and in purse.

Market Today Under Pressure

Prices Work Lower As Pressure Continues On Rails And Utilities

BUILDING SHARES APPEAR STRONGER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The stock market worked lower again today as pressure continued on the rails and utilities.

With opening losses running to more than a point, the list showed signs of firming before the end of the first hour, but no great rallying power was in evidence.

In the rails, fractional losses were registered in Atchison, New York General, Lackawanna. Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

Consolidated Gas opened fractionally lower and then firmed slightly, but this failed to stimulate other utility shares.

Building shares were again the strongest stocks. Johns Manville and American Radiator worked fractionally higher in the face of the general heaviness.

United States Steel was weak and down about half a point, adversely influencing the other steel and industrial shares including Bethlehem and American Can.

Chrysler and General Motors were sluggish and fractionally lower in the motor groups. Oils, chemicals, and specialties continued to mark time.

Commodity markets were easy with grain down fractionally and cotton off about 20 cents a bale.

Zoo Boasts Cur Dog Mothering Lion Cub

(International News Service)

TULSA, Okla.—A lion cub, slightly over three weeks old, has an ordinary cur dog for a step-mother, and according to zoo attendants the pair are "getting along nicely."

After killing two cubs the third was taken away from its mother and for a time was fed on cow's milk. When the cub failed to gain zoo officials broadcast an appeal for a step-mother.

Since the strange adoption the young lion has grown prodigiously, and neither has objected to the unique relationship.

'City Of Science' New Red Project

(International News Service)

MOSCOW.—The Moscow Soviet is constructing a "City of Science" on the banks of the Moscow river, grouping in one locality half a dozen of its most important medical and experimental institutions.

When the project is completed in five years, there will be accommodations for 12,000 persons, 600 of them patients—a museum and a 600,000 volume library. To meet laboratories requirements for experimental purposes, 9,000 dogs, 2,000 cats and rabbits, rats and porpoises are being assembled.

Market Today Under Pressure

Prices Work Lower As Pressure Continues On Rails And Utilities

BUILDING SHARES APPEAR STRONGER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The stock market worked lower again today as pressure continued on the rails and utilities.

With opening losses running to more than a point, the list showed signs of firming before the end of the first hour, but no great rallying power was in evidence.

In the rails, fractional losses were registered in Atchison, New York Ceneral, Lackawanna. Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

Consolidated Gas opened fractionally lower and then firmed slightly, but this failed to stimulate other utility shares.

Building shares were again the strongest stocks. Johns Manville and American Radiator worked fractionally higher in the face of the general heaviness.

United States Steel was weak and down about half a point, adversely influencing the other steel and industrial shares including Bethlehem and American Can.

Chrysler and General Motors were sluggish and fractionally lower in the motor groups. Oils, chemicals, and specialties continued to mark time.

Commodity markets were easy with grain down fractionally and cotton off about 20 cents a bale.

Lunacy Probe Is Extended

Governor Pinchot Backs Lunacy Commission Probe In Beaver County

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Backed by the executive power of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, state authorities today continued their probe into Beaver county lunacy commitments in a search for evidence of persons "railroaded" into insane asylums—and without the cooperation of Beaver county authorities.

Case records of every commitment to state institutions from Beaver county have been ordered scanned by the governor. The department of welfare is conducting the investigation, following Pinchot's charges that he believed George Issoski, Aliquippa, was "railroaded" into Torrance state hospital for the insane for alleged union activities among Jones & Loughlin Steel corporation employes.

No Action Taken.

That no action would be taken by Beaver county was made plain in a statement from A. B. Decastrique, Beaver county district attorney, who said:

"We can't believe what the governor says. If he wants to do anything, let him do it with his attorney general or his state policemen."

One other specific case was being considered—an Aliquippa man. He was to be examined either today or tomorrow by Dr. Earl Bond of Philadelphia, upon whose recommendation Issoski was released.

Terra Terra Birds Bark Like Dogs As Strangers Approach

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Three birds that bark like dogs when a stranger approaches were the newest additions to New York City's animal population today.

The birds arrived here from South America on the Munson liner Southern Cross and are known as "terra terra birds".

Responsibility For Bus Crash Fixed

(International News Service)

INDIANA, Pa., Oct. 26.—Responsibility in the crash of a Nuway line bus ten miles east of here Wednesday, killing two persons and injuring ten, was placed on the operators of the bus line by a coroner's jury, which recommended exoneration today of Clarence H. Kenneke, Huntingdon.

The jurors recommended the grand jury make a further investigation into the crash and attributed the accident to "unfit equipment".

TWO BOYS ARE BITTEN BY DOG

A dog, owned, it is asid, by Mrs. Kenneth White, Euclid avenue and North Mercer street bit William Ungar, Sampson street and Harry Shaffer, Harbor street at the White store yesterday according to report to the police. They are George Washington junior high school students.

CASE CONTINUED

Charles Davis, Syrian, Hamilton street, was arrested yesterday and tried in police court today on a charge of beating his wife with a rubber hose. There has been domestic trouble in the home for some time, according to the mayor. The case was continued for 10 days pending a settlement of their differences.

Yugoslavia Will Avenge Death Of Beloved Alexander

(International News Service)

BELGRADE, Oct. 26.—Formal notice that Yugoslavia intends to avenge the assassination of King Alexander was given by Premier Uzonovitch today in his first appearance before parliament since the crime at Marseilles.

Yugoslavia demands clarification of the killing, he said and insists also "upon establishment of responsibility for it, so that we will be in a position to apply the necessary sanctions."

Lunacy Probe Is Extended

Governor Pinchot Backs Lunacy Commission Probe In Beaver County

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Backed by the executive power of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, state authorities today continued their probe into Beaver county lunacy commitments in a search for evidence of persons "railroaded" into insane asylums—and without the cooperation of Beaver county authorities.

Case records of every commitment to state institutions from Beaver county have been ordered scanned by the governor. The department of welfare is conducting the investigation, following Pinchot's charges that he believed George Issoski, Aliquippa, was "railroaded" into Torrance state hospital for the insane for alleged union activities among Jones & Loughlin Steel corporation employes.

No Action Taken.

That no action would be taken by Beaver county was made plain in a statement from A. B. Decastrique, Beaver county district attorney, who said:

"We can't believe what the governor says. If he wants to do anything, let him do it with his attorney general or his state policemen."

One other specific case was being considered—an Aliquippa man. He was to be examined either today or tomorrow by Dr. Earl Bond of Philadelphia, upon whose recommendation Issoski was released.

Terra Terra Birds Bark Like Dogs As Strangers Approach

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Three birds that bark like dogs when a stranger approaches were the newest additions to New York City's animal population today.

The birds arrived here from South America on the Munson liner Southern Cross and are known as "terra terra birds".

Responsibility For Bus Crash Fixed

(International News Service)

INDIANA, Pa., Oct. 26.—Responsibility in the crash of a Nuway line bus ten miles east of here Wednesday, killing two persons and injuring ten, was placed on the operators of the bus line by a coroner's jury, which recommended exoneration today of Clarence H. Kenneke, Huntingdon.

The jurors recommended the grand jury make a further investigation into the crash and attributed the accident to "unfit equipment".

TWO BOYS ARE BITTEN BY DOG

A dog, owned, it is asid, by Mrs. Kenneth White, Euclid avenue and North Mercer street bit William Ungar, Sampson street and Harry Shaffer, Harbor street at the White store yesterday according to report to the police. They are George Washington junior high school students.

CASE CONTINUED

Charles Davis, Syrian, Hamilton street, was arrested yesterday and tried in police court today on a charge of beating his wife with a rubber hose. There has been domestic trouble in the home for some time, according to the mayor. The case was continued for 10 days pending a settlement of their differences.

Penn State To Get Testing In Columbia Game

Penn State Is Only Major Team In Pennsylvania With Clean Record

MANY INTERESTING BATTLES CARDED

By WARREN (FATS) HELLER
All-American Halfback In 1932
International News Service Sports Writer
(Copyright, 1934, By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Swinging into their fifth weekend of games, Pennsylvania's gridiron representatives as yet have been unable to put forward a single team eligible for national recognition. Penn State is the only team in the state undefeated and untied. But their real tests lie ahead, while Pitt's unfortunate defeat at the hands of Minnesota last week practically puts them out of the running.

Minnesota is the top eleven in the country at the present time, and no team from the east has come forward to threaten the high rating of the strong Gopher combine. In big ten circles, they rate equally as high, and on the coast the situation is a muddled one. Alabama, however, is a potentional contender from the south.

Dukes At Detroit

Among the Pennsylvania teams Duquesne has a real job cut out for them as they open the weekend of play on Friday night against Detroit University at Detroit. I expect the night riders to be over-confident as a result of their last two easy victories, and as a result Detroit is very likely to unsaddle them. The Detroit team, moreover, still feels the sting of last year's defeat, and will be primed for the visitors.

At the same time, Geneva will be attempting to halt the advance of the West Virginia Wesleyan outfit at Beaver Falls. Badly shattered from their previous games, Geneva should be an easy victim for the West Virginians.

In another Friday night feature at Tarentum, St. Vincent will meet West Liberty in what should be a romping win for the Wild Cats from Latrobe.

Interesting Games

Saturday's card of games will present many interesting features, in spite of the fact that several teams are taking "breathers" before going on to more strenuous encounters.

Franklin Stadium at Philadelphia will be the scene of the meeting of Pennsylvania and Navy. The latter's "Goat" is going to do a lot of bucking, and Navy, coming along fast, will vanquish the Penn eleven.

In Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech meets the Purdue Boilermakers in what should be an interesting game. Both teams have been beaten by two touchdowns at Notre Dame. The outcome is a toss-up, with the "breaks" again figuring.

Pitt-Westminster

Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers are among the teams taking it easy this Saturday. The local eleven will journey to New Castle to meet Westminster, and they should chalk up an easy win. The Panthers are looking forward to their meeting with Notre Dame two weeks hence, and Sutherland will probably give his second and third teams plenty of action tomorrow.

Penn State, very impressive to date, will find its opposition difficult as they meet Lou Little's Columbia team in New York. It looks as though the Nittany Lions are going to have their first taste of defeat.

Grove City Favored

St. Thomas has been badly battered in its earlier games, particularly against Bucknell, and will fall victim to the thrusts of the Western Maryland Combine. W. & J. will win against Waynesburg on their home field Saturday.

I am looking for a Grove City victory over Allegheny College, and Thiel should bring back a win from Bethany.

EAST BROOK ROAD

The Live Wire class of Neshannock U. P. church met at the home of Charlotte and Rebecca Forbes last Thursday evening.

Mary Martha Double, student nurse at the Jameson Memorial hospital, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Double.

Ruth Woods spent the week-end with her friend, Doris McElwain, and attended the freshman return party held at the home of Opal Allison of the Harlansburg road.

Try this: Make a biscuit dough, fit it into a deep pie tin. Peel and slice a large apple, and arrange the slices over the top of the dough. Sprinkle with brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg, dot with butter, and bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees for 30 minutes.

GRID DISH FOR SATURDAY WILL BE CHOICE ONE

Illinois but unfortunately I remain impressed by that Zuppke's ability to win any game he sets out to win, especially with two weeks of preparation.

In the same way, I'll give Dartmouth a few points on Harvard, no more, no less. Harvard and Michigan, to my mind, are a couple of excellent short-price investments.

Alabama Favored.

Among the others mentioned were Alabama and Georgia, Duke and Tennessee, and Holy Cross and Colgate. I've got to go with Alabama, Duke and Holy Cross. In the case of the latter, I doubt whether Colgate came out of the Ohio State in sufficient condition to take on another tough one immediately. Georgia is supposed to be better than it seems. But Alabama is supposed to be better than it looks. Therefore, I propose to be broadminded. I'll take Alabama.

Duke and Tennessee represent the last meeting between Coaches Wallace Wade and Bob Neyland and, if you don't think this is important, you haven't seen these teams play. They are strictly coach-made teams. I'm taking Duke because if Wade ever has an edge—and he seems to have one this time—he seldom blows it.

Minnesota Favored.

Having mentioned a few undefeated teams that appear due for a fall, we can pass on to those who figure to go through. As for instance:

Stanford against U. S. C., Minnesota against Iowa, Syracuse against Brown, Navy against Pennsylvania (but watch this one for an upset), Princeton against Cornell, Chicago against Missouri, Georgetown against New York university, Tulane against Georgia Tech (where the wreck song seems especially appropriate now).

GETS BEER KEG AS SOUVENIR OF SHIP

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa.—A beer keg, grisly souvenir of the burning of the Morro Castle, is in the possession of Charles E. Seeton, Norristown. Seeton spent several days at the scene of the disaster and brought home with him the beer keg, found floating in the sea and bearing the name of the ill-fated ship.

An ordinance issued in 1293 which has just come to light in England, stipulated that no one should pay more than two cents for a hen or a gallon of beer, half a cent for a loaf of bread, 16 cents for a dressed lamb or $2.50 for a cow.

Jumped From Window Because Of Dream

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY.—It was a tough gang that was chasing William Wilson, 40—so tough, in fact, that he jumped from a second floor window of the general hospital here while dreaming the thugs were "out to get him."

Wilson was recovering from a major operation at the time of his "leap for life." Physicians said he would recover in spite of his fall, but were taking no more chances and moved him to the first floor of the building.

NO ACCIDENTS

Safety campaign of the police department passed through another 24 hours and no reports of accidents were made, it was announced today.

Big Change In Tuber Lineup For Saturday

Coaches Benedict And Ferrare Cause Shake-up In Ellwood High Eleven

RAY KAUFMAN IS LOST TO TEAM

Blue And White To Start Game At Monaca Saturday With Only Five Regulars

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Local fans will see quite a change Saturday afternoon when the Ellwood City high eleven takes the field against Coach Berkman's Monaca high team at Monaca. There will be six new faces and possibly more in the starting lineup.

During the past week there has been a considerable shakeup in the Ellwood high eleven. Head Coach "Ganzy" Benedict and his assistant, Faculty Manager Mike Ferrare, were completely disappointed with the Tubers' showing against Sharpsville last Saturday. They do not intend to have a repetition of what occurred.

Various experiments have been conducted all week and Coach Benedict seems to have hit upon a clicking combination. This combination will have six new faces. First of all, Ray Kaufman, who has starred at left guard, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season. Kaufman reached the age of 20 yesterday and according to the W. P. I. A. L. ruling will be ineligible for athletic competition. Battling for his position are Joe Pishioneri and Frisk, and what a battle it was. Both lads show real class. Frisk seems to be getting the nod for Saturday. Jeannette and Betoni have been replaced by their understudies, Dodds and Hughes, at the ends. Coach Benedict is also toying with the idea of replacing Marcus at left tackle with Flannagan, who has been showing up splendidly during practice.

Bill Young was the only person in the backfield who was able to retain his position. Dave Luxenberg, Dario Ottavanio and Mazzano have replaced Alex Robuck at quarterback, Bognosky at right half and Scopelite at full. The only likely starters of last Saturday are Young at left half, Rocco at right tackle, Steckman at right guard and Kraynak at center.

Coaches Benedict and Ferrare have been giving more attention than usual to their second team and reserves. There is a possibility that Coach Benedict may start the second team and keep them in the whole game win or lose. The second stringers have shown a great fighting spirit and tenacity which Coach Benedict does not intend to let go unrewarded.

The Tubers will receive more competition from Monaca on Saturday than they have in the past and even more than they anticipate. Leading teams in Beaver valley that have been bowling them oevr by big scores in past years have had a real time of it on their hands this year. Ambridge, Aliquippa and Beaver Falls each obtained a 20-0 verdict. Two weeks ago Monaca held Beaver to a scoreless battle, and last Saturday defeated Freedom 12-0 for their first victory of the season. When stacked up against Ellwood, Monaca has always been fighting mad and has caused no end of trouble. It was this team which ruined the championship aspirations of an Ellwood high team in 1927 when they took a 7-6 unexpected verdict over Ellwood in the final game of the season. Ellwood has won every game since, but Monaca is looked upon with respect here.

The second stringers of Ellwood high are in jubilant spirits and intend to take every advantage of the opportunity which is being offered them on Saturday.

The probable lineup is as follows:

Ellwood		Monaca
Dodds	L.E.	Thorne
Marcus or Flannagan	L.T.	Lowry
Frisk or Pishioneri	L.G.	Brobeck
Kraynak	C.	R. Bell
Steckman	R.G.	Buluski
Rocco	R.T.	Fisher
Hughes	R.E.	Robitz
Luxenberg	Q.B.	Martincheck
W. Young	L.H.	Lavrusky
Ottavanio	R.H.	Tubish
Mazzano	F.B.	Kermeit

John McKelvey Is Called By Death

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—John McKelvey, 71, passed away at 7:30 last evening at his home on Pittsburgh Circle, following a lingering illness.

The deceased is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Frances McFadden, Mrs. Leo Mason and Mrs. Don Watson; three sons, Dan, James and John, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. Agatha Catholic church, with the Rev. Fr. R. D. A. Wilkey, officiating. Burial will be made in the St. Agatha cemetery.

Jean Jacques Rousseau was one of the greatest French writers of the eighteenth century.

Republicans Are Heard Thursday

Hazen And Braham Speak At Meeting In Lincoln Auditorium

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Meeting in the Lincoln auditorium Thursday night, a group of voters of Ellwood City, heard Republican speakers urge the election of the ticket in November. F. E. Moore, of Ellwood City, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced Republican County Chairman, Roy W. Hazen, and Attorney W. Walter Braham, of New Castle.

Methods of handling the relief situation were scored as inefficient, a return to a revival of fundamentals in government urged, and bureaucracy in government criticized.

The inclement weather kept the attendance down somewhat, but a representative crowd was present.

Canfield Club Has Meeting Thursday

Club Members Have Enjoyable Event At Home Of Mrs. J. D. Jones Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Canfield club assembled at the home of Mrs. J. D. Jones on Fifth street last night for their regular meeting. Mrs. Wilhelmina Anderson was associate hostess on the occasion. Mrs. Ethel Cox of Cleveland, O., was a special guest.

After a short business meeting 500 and bingo were enjoyed. Mrs. Lottie Fye and Mrs. E. A. Garwig were the prize winners respectively. Mrs. Cox was presented with a guest favor. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

The club will meet again on the fourth Thursday of November at the home of Mrs. Suzzane Stevenson on Crescent avenue. Mrs. Minnie Frazer will be associate hostess.

W. M. Society At Daufen Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Members of the Women's Missionary society of the St. Mark's Lutheran church, of Lillyville, were entertained in a pleasing manner yesterday when they gathered at the home of Mrs. Edward Daufen of the Ellwood-Zelienople road. Mrs. John Nagel, Mrs. John Nevin, Mrs. Henry Druschel and Mrs. Charles Druschel were special guests.

The sixteen attending spent the day sewing and quilting and at noon they partook of a tempting tureen dinner served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Howard Wright was in charge of the business meeting and plans were made to send sheets to the Orphans' Home at Zelienople. They will also send cookies to the same organization for Thanksgiving.

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 15, at the home of Mrs. Fred Klages, of Lillyville.

Happy Hour Class Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wehman of near New Castle road was the scene of a merry gathering last evening when members of the Happy Hour class of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church gathered for their annual Hallowe'en party. Husbands and friends were special guests and there were forty in attendance.

They came variously attired, some witches, some ghosts, some clowns and some indefinable, and the clever decorations about the home formed an eerie setting. Mrs. Clyde Cunningham was awarded a prize for guessing the most of the mummers.

Charles Wilson and Rev. Thomas Berger directed an amusing group of games and contests. At an appropriate time the hostess assisted by Mrs. William Travis, Mrs. Wilbur Barnett and Miss Velma Kingston, served a tempting collation.

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETING

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Two cottage prayer meetings will be held tonight by the members of the Knox and North Sewickley Presbyterian churches. One will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Haddock in Knox Plan and the other at Mr. and Mrs. Corbin's home in North Sewickley. These meetings will begin at 8 o'clock.

Legion Auxiliary Prepares To Give Play Next Week

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—If enthusiasm and co-operation for the benefit of a worthy cause could decide its success, then the Legion Auxiliary play, "The World's All Right," which is to be given in the Lincoln auditorium on November 1 and 2, in order to carry on their welfare work here, should reap a rich harvest.

The event is for such a noble purpose that prominent local people have readily given their wholehearted support. It will be a home talent production. It is a musical comedy which includes choruses, dancing, and singing.

The principal parts in the production are taken by Chester Dicks, Sam Turner, Miss Sue Cox, Paul Grannis and Mr. Stillwagon. Other important roles will be taken by Paul Cartwright, Miss Mary Blocher and Robert Taylor. There is a "business men's" group which threatens to steal the show. This will provide comedy and costumes, the type which has been unpremeditated here. The production will also feature some clever scenery.

Zelienople Plans For Celebration

ZELIENOPLE, Oct. 26—Plans are completed for the Hallowe'en celebration here—several hundred people are expected to take part. It is being held by the American Legion and the parade will start at 8:30. Prizes will be awarded at 11 o'clock.

Headquarters are in the Klinefelter building on Main street and more than 50 other prizes in the window there will be given for costumes in the parade. Several musical units will be in the parade, led by the local high school band of 60 pieces. A dance with a good orchestra, furnishing the music will be held in the Markel building on Main street following the parade.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Admitted Thursday: Mrs. Flora Majors of Park Gate; Teressa Miller of Koppel.

Discharged: Harold Fox of R. D. 2; Clara Tribuzio of Crescent avenue.

Engineers Society To Meet Tonight At Ellwood City

Ellwood City Country Club To Be Scene Of Big Event This Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Engineer's society of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley will be the guests of the local Mathews Conveyor Company at the Ellwood City Country Club.

The affair promises to be one of the most interesting events of the season. After a special technical session, a social meeting will be held. Two splendid speakers have been secured. This will be preceded by a dinner at which covers will be laid for 200.

Schaffner Class Has Hallowe'en Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.— A fine Hallowe'en party was held by the Emma Schaffner class in the Emmanuel Reformed church last night. An excellent turnout participated in the event.

The evening was thoroughly enjoyed with games and contests amidst appropriate decorations. At a later hour an appetizing luncheon was served by a committee.

The class will hold a regular meeting on the first Friday of November.

Mrs. Mary Hill Entertains Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Mary Hill entertained the R. Q. club Thursday afternoon at her home on Hazen avenue with 16 present.

Following a delicious tureen luncheon at noon, four tables of cards were in play. Mrs. Pearl Wehman and Mrs. Sadie McMurdo won the prizes at the close.

The club will meet in three weeks with Mrs. Mary Hudspath on First avenue.

McAdoo-De Onate Case Is Still In Unsettled State

Report On Coast Ellen McAdoo And Spanish Lover Had Eloped, Strongly Denied

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26.—A beautiful 19-year-old granddaughter of a former president of the United States and a handsome Spanish screen actor today found themselves facing a situation in which all the dramatic elements of a movie scenario were grouped.

Ellen Wilson McAdoo, daughter of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, and granddaughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson and Rafael Lopez De Onate were scheduled to appear in Riverside, Cal., today to claim a marriage license for which they applied three days ago.

Rumors that she had eloped with De Onate were emphatically denied today by Miss McAdoo. She refused, however, to discuss her plans for today.

"I have not eloped," Miss McAdoo declared at her mother's home, adding, "I am sorry but I cannot say anything more concerning our plans at this time."

William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator McAdoo, had expressed fears that the couple had eloped when he failed to locate Miss McAdoo.

Miss McAdoo explained she had lunched with De Onate and later had gone for a long motor ride with him.

Asserts Alimony Not Intended As Life-Long Gift

(International News Service)

DENVER—Alimony is not intended to be a life-long gift to women capable of earning their own living, in the opinion of District Judge Robert W. Steele of Denver.

Judge Steele delivered a verbal uppercut to the bugbear of discarded husbands in the case of Edward Flippo, a tramway conductor, who sought to be relieved of $53 monthly alimony on the contention that his former wife is able to earn her own living.

"Just because a woman was once a man's wife, it does not necessarily follow that the court will compel a man to take care of her for the rest of her life," Judge Steele declared.

"The court is constitutionally against divorces sitting by idly at home and waiting for that alimony check to put in its appearance. There should be some effort on the part of the woman to help herself.

Judge Steele declined to make a change in Flippo's alimony status, however, when proof was given that his former wife was in ill health and unable to support their 16-year-old son.

Market Today Under Pressure

Prices Work Lower As Pressure Continues On Rails And Utilities

BUILDING SHARES APPEAR STRONGER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The stock market worked lower again today as pressure continued on the rails and utilities.

With opening losses running to more than a point, the list showed signs of firming before the end of the first hour, but no great rallying power was in evidence.

In the rails, fractional losses were registered in Atchison, New York General, Lackawanna, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

Consolidated Gas opened fractionally lower and then firmed slightly, but this failed to stimulate other utility shares.

Building shares were again the strongest "tocks. Johns Manville and American Radiator worked fractionally higher in the face of the general heaviness.

United States Steel was weak and down about half a point, adversely influencing the other steel and industrial shares including Bethlehem and American Can.

Chrysler and General Motors were sluggish and fractionally lower in the motor groups. Oils, chemicals, and specialties continued to mark time.

Commodity markets were easy with grain down fractionally and cotton off about 20 cents a bale.

Zoo Boasts Cur Dog Mothering Lion Cub

(International News Service)

TULSA, Okla.—A lion cub, slightly over three weeks old, has an ordinary cur dog for a step-mother, and according to zoo attendants the pair are "getting along nicely."

After killing two cubs the third was taken away from its mother and for a time was fed on cow's milk. When the cub failed to gain zoo officials broadcast an appeal for a step-mother.

Since the strange adoption the young lion has grown prodigiously, and neither has objected to the unique relationship.

'City Of Science' New Red Project

(International News Service)

MOSCOW.—The Moscow Soviet is constructing a "City of Science" on the banks of the Moscow river, grouping in one locality half a dozen of its most important medical and experimental institutions.

When the project is completed in five years, there will be accommodations for 12,000 persons, 600 of them patients—a museum and a 600,000 volume library. To meet laboratories requirements for experimental purposes, 9,000 dogs, 2,000 cats and rabbits, rats and porpoises are being assembled.

Lunacy Probe Is Extended

Governor Pinchot Backs Lunacy Commission Probe In Beaver County

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Backed by the executive power of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, state authorities today continued their probe into Beaver county lunacy commitments in a search for evidence of persons "railroaded" into insane asylums—and without the cooperation of Beaver county authorities.

Case records of every commitment to state institutions from Beaver county have been ordered scanned by the governor. The department of welfare is conducting the investigation, following Pinchot's charges that he believed George Issoski, Aliquippa, was "railroaded" into Torrance state hospital for the insane for alleged union activities among Jones & Loughlin Steel corporation employes.

No Action Taken.

That no action would be taken by Beaver county was made plain in a statement from A. B. Decastrique, Beaver county district attorney, who said:

"We can't believe what the governor says. If he wants to do anything, let him do it with his attorney general or his state policemen."

One other specific case was being considered—an Aliquippa man. He was to be examined either today or tomorrow by Dr. Earl Bond of Philadelphia, upon whose recommendation Issoski was released.
